[Title omitted]

AMENDED BILL OF COMPLAINT—Filed April 10, 1935

To the Honorable the Judges of the said Court:

Plaintiff, Elinor Dorrance Hill, in this her amended bill of complaint against J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, William D. Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of said State, Frank J. Murray, Comptroller of said State, William H.

Albright, State Treasurer of said State, and David T. Wilentz, Attorney General of said State, complains and says:

1. Plaintiff, Elinor Dorrance Hill, wife of Nathaniel Hill, is a citizen of the United States, and a resident of the city of Newport, State of Rhode Island.

[fol. 5] 2. Defendant J. H. Thayer Martin is the only qualified Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey; and is a citizen of the United States, and a resident of Woodbridge, State of New Jersey, and District of New Jersey.

Defendant William D. Kelly is the duly qualified State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey and is a citizen of the United States, and a resident of Trenton, State of New Jersey, and District of New Jersey.

Defendant Frank J. Murray is the duly qualified Comptroller of the State of New Jersey; and is a citiezn of the United States, and a resident of Orange, State of New Jersey, and District of New Jersey.

Defendant William H. Albright is the duly qualified State Treasurer of the State of New Jersey and is a citizen of the United States, and a resident of Woodbury, State of New Jersey, and District of New Jersey.

Defendant David T. Wilentz is the duly qualified Attorney General of the State of New Jersey; and is a citizen of the United States, and a resident of Perth Amboy, State of New Jersey, and District of New Jersey.

3. All of the defendants are clothed, under the laws of the State of New Jersey, with duties in the assessment and collection of transfer inheritance taxes.

4. The matter in controversy in this proceeding exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum or value of $3000, arises under the Constitution of the United States, and is between citizens of different States.

5. Plaintiff is a daughter of John T. Dorrance, deceased, hereinafter in this bill called "decedent", who died at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, on September 21, 1930, and was buried in West Laurel Hill Cemetery, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

[fol. 6] 6. Said John T. Dorrance left a will in which he appointed as the executors thereof, Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance, and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, hereinafter in this bill called "executors". Said will was probated on October 2, 1930, in the office of the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey and letters testamentary were issued thereon to executors.

7. By his will decedent provided that all State and Federal inheritance taxes should be paid out of the principal of his estate, but that, subject to certain annual payments to his widow and children, the income should be accumulated for such period, not exceeding sixteen years, as would be necessary to repay to principal the amount of such State and Federal inheritance taxes; and that when such repayment has been made, or at the end of sixteen years, the principal of the Estate shall be divided into eight shares, the income of one of which shall be paid to plaintiff for life.

8. Under said provisions of decedent's will, plaintiff's annual income will be materially increased as soon as the principal of the estate is divided into shares. The injury to decedent's estate resulting from the matters hereinafter in this bill set forth, and particularly, the illegal collection by defendants of transfer inheritance tax upon the intangible personal property in decedent's estate, will deprive the plaintiff of income greatly exceeding $3000.

9. On April 23, 1933, because of the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, that decedent was at the time of his death a resident of Pennsylvania, executors filed with the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, a petition praying him to revoke his order of October 2, 1930, admitting decedent's will to probate and granting letters testamentary to executors. No action has as yet been taken on that petition.

[fol. 7] 10. On May 12, 1933, defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, filed in the Burlington County Orphans Court of Burlington County, New Jersey, a petition praying the court to remove executors and to appoint in their stead as executors and trustees under decedent's will, the State Treasurer of New Jersey. No action has as yet been taken on that petition.

11. Plaintiff is advised by counsel and therefore avers that because of the question raised by executors regarding the validity of their appointment and the effort of the defendant Martin to have an officer of the State of New Jersey appointed as executor of decedent's will, she has an independent right at this time to maintain this action to prevent the defendants from taking her property without due process of law.

12. Decedent was born at Bristol, Pennsylvania, on November 11, 1873, and, until he was 23 years of age lived in Pennsylvania except when in attendance at college and university. At that age he entered the employ of Joseph Campbell Preserve Company, of Camden, New Jersey, and resided in Camden.

13. Decedent was married on August 18, 1906. He and his wife lived in Camden, New Jersey, until the latter part of the year 1907, when they moved to Philadelphia, Pennasylvania. They resided in Philadelphia until 1911, when they established their home at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, in a property owned by and leased from Campbell Soup Company, and known as "Pomona Farms."

14. In 1911, decedent was an officer of Campbell Soup Company, of Camden, N. J., and in 1915, he became its president. At his death he was the owner of all of the shares of capital stock of that company.

[fol. 8] 15. Decedent was survived by his wife and by five children, born, respectively, in 1907, 1909, 1911, 1915 and 1919.

16. In April 1925, decedent purchased a residental property known as "Woodcrest", at Radnor, Delaware County, Pennsylvania, and took title thereto in the name of himself and his wife as tenants by the entireties. The property consisted of 119 acres, and the purchase price paid by decedent was $350,000. It was located in the finest residential section in the suburbs of Philadephia. To prepare the property for occupancy, decedent expended an amount exceeding the purchase price.

17. On November 14, 1925, decedent removed his wearing apparel, his personal effects, his library, and the wearing apparel and other personal effects of his wife and children from Cinnaminson, New Jersey, to "Woodcrest", Radnor, Pennsylvania, and there established his dwelling place and family home, without any present intention of changing it to any other place.

18. On November 14, 1925, decedent was physically present at his new dwelling place in Radnor, Pennsylvania, with the intention of making it his home and without any present intention of not residing there indefinitely.

19. Decedent was unwilling to pay the Pennsylvania four-mill tax upon his shares of capital stock of Campbell Soup Company, as he was required to do by the Pennsylvania Act of June 17, 1913, P. L. 507, its amendments and supplements. For this reason he desired to retain a "legal residence" in New Jersey, and in an effort to do so, notwithstanding the removal of his family home to Pennsylvania and the absence of any present intention not to reside [fol. 9] there indefinitely, he continued to lease from Campbell Soup Company, "Pomona Farms" at Cinnaminson, New Jersey; occasionally, with his wife, he spent a night there; he continued to vote and pay a small personal property tax at Cinnaminson; he retained his membership in the vestry of a church at Riverton, New Jersey; and he made many declarations, including a statement in his will, that he was a resident of the State of New Jersey. Subsequent to decedent's death, tax in an amount exceeding $1,000,000 was paid by decedent's estate to Delaware County, Pennsylvania, for the years 1925 to1930 inclusive, as required by said Act.

20. After changing his abode to "Woodcrest", decedent spent substantially all of his time there, except when he was at business during the day and when he was in New England on summer vacations or in Europe.

21. Decedent did not spend a night at Cinnaminson between November 14, 1925 and February 12, 1926. During the entire year 1926, decedent spent only 11 nights at Cinnamison. He spent January 10, 1927 and February 10, 1927, at Cinnaminson, and then during the seventeen-month period beginning February 11, 1927, and ending July 16, 1928, he did not spend a single night at Cinnaminson. Thereafter, except when his family and all of the "Woodcrest" household servants were in New England on summer vacation, decedent, prior to his fatal illness, spent only 8 nights at Cinnaminson. Continuously, from November 14, 1925 to the date of his fatal illness, decedent lived with his family at "Woodcrest".

22. At no time between November 14, 1925, and the date of his fatal illness in September, 1930, did decedent and [fol. 10] his family ever assemble at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, for any purpose, nor did decedent, at any time during that period reside with his family at Cinnaminson or any other place in New Jersey, or otherwise treat the Cinnaminson residence as his home and the home of his family.

23. During the period between November 14, 1925, and decedent's death, decedent's wife and family attended church at Radnor, his children attended school in Pennsylvania, a daughter was married at Radnor, and all social functions given by decedent and the members of his family, were at "Woodcrest," Radnor, Pennsylvania.

24. During said period, except when he was in Europe or his family was in New England for the summer, decedent spent his week-ends at "Woodcrest" with his family. Thanksgiving day, Christmas day, and all other holidays were celebrated by decedent and his family at "Woodcrest." Whenever decedent went to Europe he left from and returned to "Woodcrest"; and when decedent's family went to New England for the summer vacation, its luggage was shipped from and returned to Radnor. In the summers of 1926 and 1927, "Woodcrest" was kept open while decedent's family was in New England, and decedent lived at "Woodcrest."

25. On June 30, 1928, decedent purchased additional ground adjoining "Woodcrest," consisting of 8.22 acres, at a cost of $52,500; and on July 27, 1929, another 10 acres at a cost of $60,000.

26. In August 1926, decedent's mother and sister, both of whom were ill, moved into "Pomona Farms", Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and lived there until they died—decedent's sister in the summer of 1928, and his mother early in 1929.

[fol. 11] 27. Prior to 1925, the cost per annum of operating "Pomona Farms", as the decedent's home was between $20,000 and $30,000 per annum. After the decedent and his family moved to "Woodcrest", the cost of maintaining "Pomona Farms", even though decedent's mother and sister lived there while ill, became less each year. The expenditures for that purpose for 1927 were $10,344.29; for 1928, $8,373.89; for 1929, $6,459.90; and for the first nine months of 1930, $4,200.17. The cost of operating "Woodcrest" was more than $90,000 per annum for 1926 and 1927, and at the same rate per annum for the years 1928, 1929, and 1930, except in the summer when the household servants were taken to Bar Harbor.

28. Before the occupancy of "Woodcrest", 10 servants were employed at "Pomona Farms"; but after November 14, 1925, never more than 4. At "Woodcrest", the number of house servants was originally 13, but later 16; and in addition there were always 10 to 12 outside employees.

29. In 1930, decedent and his family had been spending their summer vacation at Bar Harbor, Maine. All of the family servants were taken to Bar Harbor, and the family home at Radnor was not occupied during the summer. Decedent left Bar Harbor on September 15, 1930 and went to Cinnaminson, intending to stay there until the servants had arrived at "Woodcrest" and prepared it for occupancy. He suffered a stroke at Cinnaminson and died five days later. At the date of his death he was domiciled in Pennsylvania.

30. At the date of his death, and for some years prior thereto, decedent owned intangible personal property of the value of more than $100,000,000.

[fol. 12] 31. On April 21, 1931, the Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, made an appraisement against the estate of decedent as a resident of said county, fixing the value of decedent's taxable personal property, including all of his intangible personal property, at $199,990,000, upon which the total transfer inheritance tax due to the Commonwealth was assessed at $31,465,200. Said appraisement was made under authority of the Pennsylvania Acts of June 20, 1919, P. L. 521, May 7, 1927, P. L. 859, and May 16, 1929, P. L. 1782. On May 2, 1931, executors through their counsel notified defendant Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, State of New Jersey, of the Pennsylvania assessment, and suggested that the State of New Jersey should intervene in the proceedings in Pennsylvania, and be represented therein.

32. On May 18, 1931, executors appealed from the assessment made by the Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, to the Orphans Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, and perfected their appeal by filing their bond in the amount fixed by the Court, conditioned for the payment of any tax which might be found due and payable.

33. On October 19, 1931, the Orphans Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, proceeded to take testimony on the appeal from the assessment made by the Register of Wills of that County, as aforesaid. Among the witnesses who testified, was defendant Kelly. On February 15, 1932, the Orphans Court sustained the appeal and set aside the assessment.

34. From the decision of the Orphans Court of Delaware County, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania took an appeal to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; and the latter court on September 26, 1932, holding that decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania on the date of his death, re-[fol. 13] versed the Orphans Court of Delaware County and reinstated, in a modified amount, the assessment made by the Register of Wills.

35. Executors filed a petition in the Supreme Court of the United States for a writ of certiorari to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, which was denied on December 5, 1932, because a federal question was not properly presented to, and was not passed upon by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. Thereafter executors applied to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania for a reargument upon which they filed a brief presenting the federal question, and after that court's refusal to reconsider its decision, filed a second petition in the Supreme Court of the United States for a writ of certiorari which was refused on March 13, 1933.

36. While executors' petition to the United States Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari was pending, the State of New Jerssy asked leave of that court to intervene, and executors filed their formal consent to such intervention; but leave was denied. However, leave was granted to the State of New Jersey to file a brief as amicus curiæ; and on November 23, 1932, the Attorney General of New Jersey filed a brief pursuant to the leave granted.

37. On March 27, 1933, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania entered judgment in the aforesaid case in favor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and against executors for transfer inheritance tax in the amount of $14,394,698.88, subject to an additional assessment and imposition of tax if and when the final determination of the amount of the Federal estate tax upon decedent's estate should disclose that 80 per centum thereof exceeds $14,394,698.88. The judgment included a tax upon the transfer of all of decedent's intangible personal property.

[fol. 14] On March 29, 1933, a like judgment was entered against executors in the Orphans Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, which judgment was final and conclusive upon executors.

38. Because of said judgment, executors were compelled to pay to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania transfer inheritance tax in the amount of $14,394,698.88, with interest amounting to $104,278.03. They made payment on March 31, 1933. On the same date they gave their bond to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the amount of $4,000,000, conditioned upon the payment of any additional tax which might become due under the said judgment.

39. On October 17, 1931, the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, purporting to act under authority conferred upon him by the New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, its amendments and supplements, made an assessment of transfer inheritance tax against decedent's estate in the sum of $12,247,333.52, with an additional assessment in the sum of $4,521,143.90 on account of certain contingent remainders. Said assessment included tax upon the transfer of all decedent's intangible personal property.

40. Pending the decision of the Orphans Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, the defendant State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey on December 12, 1931, opened the assessments made by him on October 17, 1931, as aforesaid, for the purpose of permitting executors to submit to him additional information regarding decedent's domicile.

41. On October 10, 1932, after the entire record in the Pennsylvania case, including the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania was offered in evidence before him, without objection on the part of the defendants [fol. 15] or any of them, defendant, the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, made an assessment of transfer inheritance tax against the decedent's estate in the amount of $12,247,333.52, with interest at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum from September 21, 1931. The Pennsylvania judgment established that decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania at the time of his death. Said assessment included tax upon the transfer of certain of decedent's tangible personal property and upon all of decedent's intangible personal property, and included a specific assessment against plaintiff's life interest in decedent's estate in the amount of $1,566,925.01.

42. On December 9, 1932, executors appealed from the New Jersey assessment of transfer inheritance tax to the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey; and after hearing the appeal the Ordinary entered a decree in the New Jersey Prerogative Court on May 11, 1934, sustaining the Tax Commissioner's assessment of October 10, 1932. In its decree the said court refused to give full faith and credit to the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and, upon the same evidence, stated conclusions at variance with those of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

43. From the decree of the Prerogative Court, executors obtained a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey, which on February 11, 1935, sustained the decree of the Prerogative Court. The action of the Supreme Court is not final, being subject to judicial review by the Court of Errors and Appeals. And the tax which defendants demand cannot be collected until after the institution of an action of debt in the name of the State of New Jersey, or a statutory proceeding in the Prerogative Court of New Jersey.

[fol. 16] 44. When the defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner, made his assessment of $12,247,333.52 against executors, and when the assessment had been sustained by the Prerogative Court, the administrative procedure provided by the New Jersey Inheritance Tax Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, was at an end; but under the Constitution and laws of New Jersey, the Supreme Court of New Jersey on certiorari is authorized to review the facts as well as the law, to take additional testimony and to affirm, reverse or modify the assessment made by the State Tax Commissioner, thus rendering the action of that court administrative and not judicial.

45. Defendants threaten to collect from executors the transfer inheritance tax assessed against decedent's estate by the defendant State Tax Commissioner. The assessment includes a tax on the intangible personal property of decedent's estate, and is unconstitutional for the reasons set forth in this Bill of Complaint.

46. By the New Jersey Act of July 11, 1934, ch, 249, the State Tax Commissioner was authorized "to adjust and settle transfer inheritance taxes due the State, where the matter is now in litigation and the question of the domicile of decedent is at issue and has been adjudged against the estate of decedent both in this State and in another State, by the acceptance of the principal sum due and the remission of all interest due on such principal sum."

47. On February 13, 1935, executors by their counsel notified defendant Martin through his counsel, that executors intend to take an appeal to the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals from the action of the Supreme Court of New Jersey. On February 15, 1935, defendant Martin [fol. 17] addressed to executors a letter, a copy of which marked "Exhibit A" is attached hereto and made a part hereof, notifying them of his intention to refuse any relief in interest charges to decedent's estate, if executors prosecuted any further, in the courts of New Jersey, litigation contesting the validity of the tax defendants threaten to collect. Thus, an appeal by executors, from the judgment of the Supreme Court of New Jersey to the Court of Errors and Appeals, will cost decedent's estate upwards of $4,000,000, if the assessment against decedent's estate should be sustained. Under the statutes of New Jersey, executors may take their appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals at any time prior to February 11, 1936. Executors will take such appeal prior to that date, unless in the meantime this action renders such appeal unnecessary.

48. Because of defendants' threat to collect from decedent's estate, a transfer inheritance tax, as aforesaid, executors are compelled to maintain a large cash reserve at a low rate of interest, and have been and are being prevented from selling, pledging, transferring, or otherwise utilizing personal property of decedent's estate of the appraised value of more than $81,000,000, as appears more fully by a statement of the following facts:

On July 1, 1933, New Jersey State road bonds belonging to decedent's estate in the amount of $1,665,000, matured. Defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, and defendant Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey, refused to issue waivers to executors releasing the maturing bonds, unless and until executors placed in escrow other New Jersey bonds of an equal par value, conditioned upon the payment of inheritance tax by executors, if such tax be found due and owing. Thereupon executors placed in escrow other New [fol. 18] Jersey bonds of the par value of $1,665,000, appraised at $1,738,360.

On June 26, 1934, in order to avoid, for the time being, the posting of a bond, in the amount of upwards of $24,000,000, executors placed in escrow, conditioned upon the payment of inheritance tax by executors, if such tax be found due and owing, all of the preferred stock of Campbell Soup Company, of the appraised value of $12,360,000.

Executors hold, in addition, personal property belonging to decedent's estate of the appraised value of more than $67,000,000, which cannot be sold, pledged, transferred or otherwise utilized unless and until waivers have been issued by the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey and State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of New Jersey. Said officers have refused to issue such waivers.

49. Notwithstanding the deposit of collateral, as aforesaid, executors are confronted by a possible demand by the defendants, that executors give bond conditioned upon the payment of the transfer inheritance tax claimed by defendants, in an amount exceeding $24,000,000, as required by the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228 as amended. It is extremely doubtful whether a bond in this amount could be obtained, but if it could be obtained, executors would be obliged to pay a premium thereon in large amount, which would not be recoverable by executors from defendants or from the State of New Jersey in any court by any process.

50. The threat of defendants to collect from decedent's estate, the aforesaid tax of more than $12,000,000, with interest and penalties, renders impossible the proper administration and distribution of decedent's estate.

51. Further prosecution of the litigation between executors and the defendant Martin in the courts of New Jersey [fol. 19] will also require decedent's estate to pay attorney's fees and other expenses of litigation which will not be recoverable by executors from the defendants or from the State of New Jersey, should this proceeding be postponed until the determination by the highest court of New Jersey, of the issues involved in said litigation.

52. The New Jersey Inheritance Tax Act of 1909, purports to impose upon all of the property of decedent's estate a lien for the payment of the tax which defendants threaten to collect, thus rendering it impossible for executors to transfer any of said property free and clear of a claimed encumbrance, unless executors post a bond at irreparable damage to decedent's estate, as heretofore set forth. Said claimed lien constitutes a cloud upon the title to all of the property belonging to decedent's estate.

53. Were the executors to pay the tax which defendants threaten to collect from decedent's estate, it would be the duty of the defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner, forthwith to pay the same into the State Treasury, and the duty of defendant Albright, State Treasurer of the State of New Jersey, thereupon to apply $10,000,000 of said tax to the redemption of bonds issued under authority of the New Jersey Act of September 19, 1934, ch. 255, and the subsequent sanction of the electors of the State of New Jersey.

54. The State of New Jersey has not consented to be sued in the courts of the United States for the recovery of inheritance tax erroneously paid by executors or illegally collected by defendants.

55. Were executors to pay the tax which defendants threaten to collect from decedent's estate, even if executors could obtain a judgment against defendants individually for illegally collecting and receiving said tax, defend- [fol. 20] ants would be financially unable to respond to such judgment; and defendants' official bonds do not enure to the benefit of executors and in addition would be grossly inadequate to assure the payment of the amount of the tax claimed, even if executors could recover upon such bonds.

56. Were executors to pay the tax which the defendants threaten to collect, their only recourse thereafter would be an application for refund under Section 15 of the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, which permits (but does not compel) the Comptroller of New Jersey to draw his warrant on the State Treasurer in favor of persons who have "erroneously" paid transfer inheritance tax to the State Tax Commissioner. However, there is no provision made for the payment of interest for the time that the money has been in the State Treasury, there is no appeal from the refusal of the Comptroller to grant a refund, and a warrant would not result in the immediate payment of the refund for the reason that the available balances in the State Treasury would not enable a refund in the amount of the tax which defendants threaten to collect, to be made until after the lapse of a substantial period of time, if at all.

57. Inheritance taxes can be collected upon the transfer of intangible personal property from a decedent only by the State in which the decedent was domiciled at the date of his death; and any collection of such taxes by any other State is a taking of property without due process of law contrary to the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

58. If the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, authorizes defendants to collect transfer inheritance tax upon the transfer of intangible personal property of a [fol. 21] decedent, who prior to his death had established his dwelling place and family home in another state, without any present intention of not residing there indefinitely, it is unconstitutional in that it deprives the plaintiff as a legatee under decedent's will of her property without due process of law and denies to her the equal protection of the laws in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

59. If said statute authorizes defendants to collect transfer inheritance tax upon the transfer of intangible personal property of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, under the circumstances heretofore in this Bill of Complaint set forth, it is unconstitutional in that it deprives the plaintiff as a legatee under decedent's will of her property without due process of law, and denies to her the equal protection of the laws in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

60. If said statute be construed as not applying to property of a decedent, who prior to his death had established his dwelling place and family home in another State, without any present intention of not residing there indefinitely, then the threatened collection by the defendants of said inheritance tax unconstitutionally deprives the plaintiff as a legatee under decedent's will, of her property without due process of law and denies to her the equal protection of the laws in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

61. Plaintiff is entitled to raise in this Court the question whether the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, as interpreted by the defendants, violates the Constitution of the United States.

[fol. 22] 62. Plaintiff has a right to have this Court determine the facts necessary to a consideration of the constitutional questions raised by this bill of complaint.

63. The threatened collection by defendants of transfer inheritance tax upon the intangible personal property of decedent is repugnant to the provisions of Article IV, Section 1 of the Constitution of the United States in that defendants fail to give full faith and credit as required by said Constitution to the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania adjudging decedent to have been domiciled in Pennsylvania on the date of his death.

64. For the reasons heretofore in this bill of complaint set forth, plaintiff is threatened with irreparable injury unless this court grants equitable relief as prayed.

65. For the reasons heretofore in this bill of complaint set forth, plaintiff is without an adequate remedy at law.

Wherefore, plaintiff is in need of equitable relief and prays:

A. That an injunction issue, temporary until hearing and perpetual thereafter, enjoying and restraining the defendants, J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, William D. Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey, Frank J. Murray, Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, William H. Albright, State Treasurer of the State of New Jersey, and David T. Wilentz, Attorney General of the State of New Jersey, and their and each of their deputies, officers, agents, servants and employees, acting under and by virtue of their authority, from in any way collecting [fols. 23-27] or attempting to collect inheritance tax from the executors of John T. Dorrance on the transfer of intangible personal property in the estate of said decedent, now being undertaken, from refusing to issue tax waivers to said executors covering the intangible personal property of said decedent's estate, and from refusing to release from escrow the personal property belonging to said decedent's estate now held in escrow subject to the control of the defendants or any of them.

B. That such other and further relief be granted, as to your Honorable Court shall seem meet.

And the plaintiff will ever pray, etc.

[fol. 28] IN UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

INJUNCTION AFFIDAVITS—Filed April 1, 1935

CHARLOTTE DORRANCE WRIGHT

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA,
County of Philadelphia, ss.:

Charlotte Dorrance Wright being duly sworn according to law deposes and says that she is a daughter of John T. Dorrance, deceased, who died on September 21, 1930, and a legatee under his Will and that the following is a true statement of the facts relating to the removal of the said John T. Dorrance and his family from "Pomona Farms," Cinnaminson, New Jersey, to "Woodcrest," Radnor, Pennsylvania, and the use of "Woodcrest" and "Pomona Farms," respectively, thereafter until the death of said John T. Dorrance:

Beginning in 1911, my father and his family lived at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, in a residence owned by and leased from Campbell Soup Company. The place was known as "Pomona Farms."

In April, 1925, my father purchased a residential property known as "Woodcrest," at Radnor, Delaware County, Pennsylvania, and took title thereto in the name of himself and my mother as tenants by the entireties. The property consisted of 119 acres, and the purchase price paid by my father was $350,000. "Woodcrest" is located in the finest residential section in the suburbs of Philadelphia. To prepare the property for occupancy, my father expended an amount exceeding the purchase price.

On November 14, 1925, my father removed his wearing apparel, his personal effects, all of the books he had at Cinnaminson,—his most cherished possessions,—and the wearing apparel and other personal effects of my mother [fol. 29] and the rest of our family from Cinnaminson, New Jersey, to "Woodcrest," Radnor, Pennsylvania, and there established his dwelling place and family home, without any present intention of changing it to any other place.

I never heard my father, at any time, express either a desire or an intention to remove his family from Radnor back to Cinnaminson.

I never heard my father make any statement indicating an intention that our family should occupy "Woodcrest", only temporarily. "Woodcrest" was prepared, before November 14, 1925, for permanent occupancy as our family home.

After changing his abode to "Woodcrest", my father spent substantially all of his time there, except when he was at business during the day and when he was in New England on summer vacations or in Europe.

Continuously, from November 14, 1925 to the date of his fatal illness, my father lived with his family at "Woodcrest".

At no time between November 14, 1925, and the date of his fatal illness in September, 1930, did my father and his family ever assemble at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, for any purpose, nor did he, at any time during that period, reside with his family at Cinnaminson or any other place in New Jersey, or otherwise treat the Cinnaminson residence as his home and the home of his family.

During the period between November 14, 1925 and my father's death, my mother, my sisters, my brother and I attended church at Radnor, my sisters, my brother and I attended school in Pennsylvania, my oldest sister was married at Radnor, and all social functions given by my father or any member of the family, were at "Woodcrest", Radnor, Pennsylvania.

During that period, except when he was in Europe or his family was in New England for the summer, my father [fol. 30] spent his week-ends at "Woodcrest" with his family. One of his greatest delights was to walk about the place and inspect the grounds. As a family we celebrated Thanksgiving day, Christmas day, and all other holidays at "Woodcrest". Whenever my father went to Europe he left from and returned to "Woodcrest"; and when our family went to New England for the summer vacation, its luggage was shipped from and returned to Radnor. In the summers of 1926 and 1927, "Woodcrest" was kept open while our family was in New England, and my father lived at "Woodcrest".

On June 30, 1928, my father purchased additional ground adjoining "Woodcrest", consisting of 8.22 acres, at a cost of $52,500; and on July 27, 1929, another 10 acres at a cost of $60,000.

In August, 1926, my father's mother and sister, both of whom were ill, moved into "Pomona Farms", Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and lived there until they died,—my aunt in the summer of 1928, and my grandmother early in 1929.

Prior to 1925, according to my father's records, the cost per annum of operating "Pomona Farms", as our family home, was between $20,000 and $30,000 per annum. After our family moved to "Woodcrest", the cost of maintaining "Pomona Farms", even though my grandmother and aunt lived there while ill, became less each year. The expenditures for that purpose for 1927 were $10,344.29; for 1928, $8,373.89; for 1929, $6,459.90; and for the first nine months of 1930, $4,200.17. The cost of operating "Woodcrest" was more than $90,000 per annum for 1926 and 1927, and at the same rate per annum for the years 1928, 1929, and 1930, except in the summer when the household servants were taken to Bar Harbor.

Before the occupancy of "Woodcrest" 10 servants were employed at "Pomona Farms"; but after November 14, [fol. 31] 1925, never more than 4. At "Woodcrest", the number of house servants was originally 13, but later 16; and in addition there were always 10 to 12 outside employees.

In 1930, our family had been spending the summer vacation at Bar Harbor, Maine. All of the family servants were taken to Bar Harbor, and the family home at Radnor was not occupied during the summer. My father left Bar Harbor on September 15, 1930 and went to Cinnaminson, intending to stay there until the servants had arrived at "Woodcrest" and prepared it for occupancy. He suffered a stroke at Cinnaminson and died five days later.

My father desired his children to go to Cinnaminson periodically and spend a night there. Mother explained to me that it was necessary for the children to do that because father wished to retain his legal residence in New Jersey and would become involved in a serious tax question under the laws of Pennsylvania unless he retained his legal residence in New Jersey.

Whenever any of us went to Cinnaminson it was necessary to take with us clothing and other effects in a bag as we had no wearing apparel of any kind there.

Our entire family customarily referred to "Woodcrest" as "home". We spoke of the place at Cinnaminson as "the farm".

At the date of my father's death, his only home and the only home of his family was at "Woodcrest", Radnor, Pennsylvania.

Charlotte Dorrance Wright.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this first day of April, 1935.

[fol. 32] GEORGE MORRIS DORRANCE, M. D.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA,
County of Philadelphia, ss.:

George Morris Dorrance, M. D., being duly sworn according to law deposes and says that he is one of the executors under the will of John T. Dorrance, deceased, hereinafter called "decedent"; and that the matters hereinafter in this affidavit set forth are true and correct:

Decedent died at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, on September 21, 1930, and was buried in West Laurel Hill Cemetery, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Decedent's executors are Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company. Hereinafter in this affidavit they are called "executors".

Decedent was born at Bristol, Pennsylvania, on November 11, 1873, and, until he was 23 years of age lived in Pennsylvania except when in attendance at college and university. At that age he entered the employ of Joseph Campbell Preserve Company, of Camden, New Jersey, and resided in Camden.

Decedent was married on August 18, 1906. He and his wife lived in Camden, New Jersey, until the latter part of the year 1907, when they moved to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. They resided in Philadelphia until 1911, when they established their home at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, in a property owned by and leased from Campbell Soup Company, and known as "Pomona Farms".

Decedent was survived by his wife and by five children, born, respectively, in 1907, 1909, 1911, 1915 and 1919.

In 1911, decedent was an officer of Campbell Soup Company, of Camden, New Jersey, and in 1915, he became its [fol. 33] president. At his death he was the owner of all of the shares of capital stock of that company.

On November 14, 1925, decedent moved his wearing apparel, his personal effect, his library, and the wearing apparel and personal effects of his family to a residence known as "Woodcrest", at Radnor, Delaware County, Pennsylvania.

Decedent was unwilling to pay, and did not pay, the Pennsylvania four-mill tax upon his shares of capital stock of Campbell Soup Company, as he was required to do by the Pennsylvania Act of June 17, 1913, P. L. 507, its amendments and supplements. For this reason he desired to retain a "legal residence" in New Jersey, and in an effort to do so, notwithstanding the removal of his family home to Pennsylvania and the absence of any present intention not to reside there indefinitely, he continued to lease from Campbell Soup Company, "Pomona Farms" at Cinnaminson, New Jersey; occasionally, with his wife, he spent a night there; he continued to vote and pay a small personal property tax at Cinnaminson; he retained his membership in the vestry of a church at Riverton, New Jersey; and he made many declarations, including a statement in his will, that he was a resident of the State of New Jersey. Subsequent to decedent's death, tax in an amount exceeding $1,000,000 was paid by decedent's estate to Delaware County, Pennsylvania, for the years 1925 to 1930 inclusive, as required by said Act.

At the date of his death, and for some years prior thereto, decedent owned intangible personal property of the value of more than $100,000,000.

By his will, decedent required his executors to probate his will in New Jersey or forfeit their rights to serve as executors. Accordingly, the will was probated, October 2, 1930, in the office of the Surrogate of Burlington County, [fol. 34] New Jersey, and letters testamentary thereon were issued to executors.

On April 21, 1931, the Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, made an appraisement against the the estate of decedent as a resident of said county, fixing the value of decedent's taxable personal property, including all of his intangible personal property, at $199,990,000, upon which the total transfer inheritance tax due to the Commonwealth was assessed at $31,465,200. Said appraisement was made under authority of the Pennsylvania Acts of June 20, 1919, P. L. 521, May 7, 1927, P. L. 859, and May 16, 1929, P. L. 1782.

On May 18, 1931, executors appealed from the assessment made by the Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, to the Orphans Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, and perfected their appeal by filing their bond in the amount fixed by the Court, conditioned for the payment of any tax which might be found due and payable.

On October 19, 1931, the Orphans Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, proceeded to take testimony on the appeal from the assessment made by the Register of Wills of that County, as aforesaid. Among the witnesses who testified, was William D. Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of New Jersey. On February 15, 1932, the Orphans Court sustained the appeal and set aside the assessment.

From the decision of the Orphans Court of Delaware County, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania took an appeal to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; and the latter court on September 26, 1932, holding that decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania on the date of his death, reversed the Orphans Court of Delaware County and reinstated, in a modified amount, the assessment made by the Register of Wills.

Executors filed a petition in the Supreme Court of the United States for a writ of certiorari to the Supreme Court [fol. 35] of Pennsylvania, which was denied on December 5, 1932, because a federal question was not properly presented to, and was not passed upon by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. Thereafter executors applied to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania for a reargument upon which they filed a brief presenting the federal question, and after that court's refusal to reconsider its decision, filed a second petition in the Supreme Court of the United States for a writ of certiorari which was refused on March 13, 1933.

While executors' petition to the United States Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari was pending, the State of New Jersey asked leave of that court to intervene, and executors filed their formal consent to such intervention; but leave was denied. However, leave was granted to the State of New Jersey to file a brief as amicus curiæ; and on November 23, 1932, the Attorney General of New Jersey filed a brief pursuant to the leave granted.

On March 27, 1933, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania entered judgment against executors of decedent, for transfer inheritance tax in the amount of $14,394,698.88, subject to an additional assessment and imposition of tax if and when the final determination of the Federal estate tax should disclose that 80 per centum thereof exceeds $14,394,698.88. The judgment included a tax upon the transfer of all of decedent's intangible personal property.

On March 29, 1933, a like judgment was entered against executors in the Orphans Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, which judgment was final and conclusive upon executors.

Because of said judgment, executors were compelled to pay to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania transfer inheritance tax in the amount of $14,394,698.88, with interest amounting to $104,278.03. They made payment on March [fol. 36] 31, 1933. On the same date they gave their bond to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the amount of $4,000,000, conditioned upon the payment of any additional tax which might become due under the said judgment.

On October 17, 1931, the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, purporting to act under authority conferred upon him by the New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, its amendments and supplements, made an assessment of transfer inheritance tax against decedent's estate in the sum of $12,247,333.52, with an additional assessment in the sum of $4,521,143.90 on account of certain contingent remainders. Said assessment included tax upon the transfer of all of decedent's intangible personal property.

Pending the decision of the Orphans Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, the defendant State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey on December 12, 1931, opened the assessments made by him on October 17, 1931, as aforesaid, for the purpose of permitting executors to submit to him additional information regarding decedent's domicile.

On October 10, 1932, after the entire record in the Pennsylvania case, including the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, was offered in evidence before him, without objection on the part of the defendants or any of them, defendant, the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, made an assessment of transfer inheritance tax against the decedent's estate in the amount of $12,247,333.52, with interest at the rate of 10% per annum from September 21, 1931. The Pennsylvania judgment established that decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania at the time of his death. Said assessment included tax upon the transfer of all of decedent's intangible personal property.

On December 9, 1932, executors appealed from the New Jersey assessment of transfer inheritance tax to the Ordi- [fol. 37] nary of the State of New Jersey; and after hearing the appeal the Ordinary entered a decree in the New Jersey Prerogative Court on May 11, 1934, sustaining the Tax Commissioner's assessment of October 10, 1932. In its decree the said court refused to give full faith and credit to the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and, upon the same evidence, stated conclusions at variance with those of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

From the decree of the Prerogative Court, executors obtained a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey, which on February 11, 1935, sustained the decree of the Prerogative Court.

When the defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner, made his assessment of $12,247,333.52 against executors, and when the assessment had been sustained by the Prerogative Court, the administrative procedure provided by the New Jersey Inheritance Tax Act of April 20, 1909, ch 228, was at an end.

Defendants threaten to collect from executors the transfer inheritance tax assessed against decedent's estate by the defendant State Tax Commissioner.

By the New Jersey Act of July 11, 1934, ch. 249, the State Tax Commissioner was authorized "to adjust and settle transfer inheritance taxes due the State, where the matter is now in litigation and the question of the domicile of decedent is at issue and has been adjudged against the estate of decedent both in this State and in another State, by the acceptance of the principal sum due and the remission of all interest due on such principal sum."

On February 15, 1935, defendant Martin addressed to executors, through their proctor, the following letter:

[fol. 38] "State of New Jersey

"State Tax Department

"Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau

Trenton February 15, 1935.

"Address all communications c/o Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau.

"William D. Lippincott, Esquire, Proctor for the Executors of the Estate of John T. Dorrance, Deceased, 35 North Fourth Street, Camden, N. J.

"Dear Sir:

"As you know the New Jersey Prerogative Court by a final decree dated May 11. 1934, affirmed a transfer inheritance tax assessment on the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, made by the State Tax Commissioner, dated October 10, 1932, amounting to $12,247,333.52, subject to certain modifications. You know also that on February 8, 1935 the New Jersey Supreme Court sustained the decree of the Prerogative Court. The following statement shows the amount of the claim due and payable as of February 15, 1935:

"Amount of tax assessment as modified by decree	$12,183,459.96
"Interest thereon from Sept. 21, 1931 to Feb. 15, 1935	4,145,713.70
"Total amount of tax with interest presently due and payable	$16,329,173.66

"You are undoubtedly also aware of the fact that by the provisions of Chapter 249, Laws of New Jersey 1934, which became effective the 11th day of July 1934, the State Tax Commissioner was authorized to adjust and settle transfer inheritance taxes due this State in certain cases by the acceptance of the principal sum due and the remission of all interest due on such principal sum. You are also un- [fol. 39] doubtedly aware of the fact that this legislation was intended to permit a settlement of the taxes assessed in this estate.

"To date you have made no overtures of settlement to me, but instead have indicated your intention to prosecute the litigation to a finality. In view of this attitude on your part, I deem it only proper to advise you that any further prosecution of the litigation by you will cause me to refuse any relief in interest charges should the litigation finally result in an affirmance of the assessment.

"Very respectfully, (Sgd.) J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner."

Thus, an appeal by plaintiffs, from the judgment of the Supreme Court of New Jersey to the Court of Errors and Appeals, will cost decedent's estate upwards of $4,000,000, if the assessment against decedent's estate should be sustained.

On April 25, 1933, after the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania had held that decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania, executors filed before the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, a petition praying him to revoke his order of October 2, 1930, admitting the will of John T. Dorrance to probate, and granting letters testamentary to executors. No action has as yet been taken on that petition.

On May 12, 1933, defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, filed in the Burlington County Orphans Court, of Burlington County, New Jersey, a petition praying the court to remove executors and to appoint in their stead the State Treasurer of New Jersey as executor and trustee under decedent's will. No action has as yet been taken on that petition.

[fol. 40] Because of defendants' threat to collect from decedent's estate, a transfer inheritance tax, as aforesaid, executors are compelled to maintain a large cash reserve at a low rate of interest, and have been and are being prevented from selling, pledging, transferring, or otherwise utilizing personal property of decedent's estate of the appraised value of more than $81,000,000.

On July 1, 1933, New Jersey State road bonds belonging to decedent's estate in the amount of $1,665,000, matured. Defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, and defendant Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey, refused to issue waivers to executors releasing the maturing bonds, unless and until executors placed in escrow other New Jersey bonds of an equal par value, conditioned upon the payment of inheritance tax by executors, if such tax be found due and owing. Thereupon executors placed in escrow other New Jersey bonds of the par value of $1,665,000, appraised at $1,738,360.

On June 26, 1934, in order to avoid, for the time being, the posting of a bond in the amount of upwards of $24,000,000, executors placed in escrow, conditioned upon the payment of inheritance tax by them if such tax be found due and owing, all of the preferred stock of Campbell Soup Company, of the appraised value of $12,360,000.

Executors hold, in addition, personal property belonging to decedent's estate of the appraised value of more than $67,000,000, which cannot be sold, pledged, transferred or otherwise utilized unless and until waivers have been issued by the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey and the State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey. Said officers have refused to issue such waivers.

Notwithstanding the deposit of collateral, as aforesaid, executors are confronted by a possible demand by the de[fol. 41] fendants, that executors give bond conditioned upon the payment of the transfer inheritance tax claimed by defendants, in an amount exceeding $24,000,000, as required by the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, as amended. It is extremely doubtful whether a bond in this amount could be obtained, but if it could be obtained, executors would be obliged to pay a premium thereon in a large amount, which they would not be able to recover from defendants or from the State of New Jersey in any court by any process.

The threat of defendants to collect from decedent's estate, the aforesaid tax of more than $12,000,000 with interest and penalties, renders impossible the proper administration and distribution of decedent's estate.

Further prosecution of the litigation between executors and the defendant Martin in the courts of New Jersey, will also require decedent's estate to pay attorneys' fees and other expenses of litigation which will not be recoverable by executors from the defendants or from the State of New Jersey, should this proceeding be postponed until the determination by the highest court of New Jersey, of the issues involved in said litigation.

The New Jersey Inheritance Tax Act of 1909 purports to impose upon all of the property of decedent's estate a lien for the payment of the tax which defendants threaten to collect, thus rendering it impossible for executors to transfer any of said property free and clear of a claimed encumbrance, unless the executors post a bond at irreparable damage to decedent's estate, as heretofore set forth. Said claimed lien constitutes a cloud upon the title to all of the property belonging to decedent's estate.

Were executors to pay the tax which defendants threaten to collect from decedent's estate, it would be the duty of the defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner, forthwith to pay the same into the State Treasury, and the duty of [fol. 42] defendant Albright, State Treasurer of the State of New Jersey, thereupon to apply $10,000,000 of said tax to the redemption of bonds issued under authority of the New Jersey Act of September 19, 1934, ch, 255, and the subsequent sanction of the electors of the State of New Jersey.

The State of New Jersey has not consented to be sued in the courts of the United States for the recovery of inheritance tax erroneously paid by executors or illegally collected by defendants.

Were executors to pay the tax which defendants threaten to collect from decedent's estate, even if executors could obtain a judgment against defendants individually for illegally collecting and receiving said tax, defendants would be financially unable to respond to such judgment; and defendants' official bonds do not enure to the benefit of executors and in addition would be grossly inadequate to assure the payment of the amount of the tax claimed, even if executors could recover upon such bonds.

Were executors to pay the tax which the defendants threaten to collect, their only recourse thereafter would be an application for refund under Section 15 of the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, which permits (but does not compel) the Comptroller of New Jersey to draw his warrant on the State Treasurer in favor of executors who have "erroneously" paid transfer inheritance tax to the State Tax Commissioner. However, there is no provision made for the payment of interest for the time that the money has been in the State Treasury, there is no appeal from the refusal of the Comptroller to grant a refund, and a warrant would not result in the immediate payment of the refund for the reason that the available balances in the State Treasury would not enable a refund in the amount of the tax which defendants threaten to collect, to be made until after the lapse of a substantial period of time, if at all. [fol. 43] By his will decedent provided that all State and Federal inheritance taxes should be paid out of the principal of his estate, but that, subject to certain annual payments to his widow and children, the income should be accumulated for such period, not exceeding sixteen years, as would be necessary to repay to principal the amount of such State and Federal inheritance taxes; and that when such repayment has been made or, at the end of sixteen years, the principal of the Estate shall be divided into eight shares, the income of one of which shall be paid to Elinor Dorrance Hill for life.

Under said provisions of decedent's will, Elinor Dorrance Hill's annual income will be materially increased as soon as the principal of the estate is divided into shares. The injury to decedent's estate resulting from the matters in this affidavit set forth, and particularly, the illegal collection by defendants of transfer inheritance tax upon the intangible personal property in decedent's estate, will deprive Elinor Dorrance Hill of income greatly exceeding $3,000.

The specific assessment of inheritance tax made by defendants against Elinor Dorrance Hill's life interest is in the amount of $1,566,925.01.

Immediate and irreparable injury will result to the decedent's estate unless defendants are restrained from collecting or attempting to collect the tax which they threaten to collect under the claimed authority of the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch, 228, its amendments and supplements. Were defendants to demand the posting of a bond in an amount exceeding $24,000,000 conditioned for the payment of the tax they threaten to collect, the damage to the estate would be immediate and irreparable, for the reasons already set forth in this affidavit. And were they to institute proceedings for the collection of the tax, the damage to the estate would likewise be immediate and irrepa[fol. 44] rable in that such proceedings would involve the estate in the expenditure of attorneys' fees, premiums on bonds and other expenses which could not be postponed and which would not be recoverable either from the defendants or from the State of New Jersey by any process.

I am advised that for the reasons set forth in the bill of complaint the assessment already made by the defendants is unconstitutional under the Constitution of the United States either because the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228 is unconstitutional if defendants have construed it properly, or because if they have not, they are proceeding to collect a tax from executors for the collection of which they have no lawful authority.

SUPPLEMENTAL AFFIDAVIT OF GEORGE MORRIS DORRANCE, M. D. —Filed April 10, 1935

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA,
County of Philadelphia, ss.:

George Morris Dorrance, M. D., being duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is one of the executors of the Will of John T. Dorrance, deceased, that he has already made an injunction affidavit for use in the above case; and that the matters hereinafter in this supplemental affidavit set forth are true and correct:

On February 13, 1935, the executors of Dr. John T. Dorrance by Honorable William D. Lippincott, their counsel, notified Honorable Duane E. Minard, attorney for J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, the respondent in the case of Ethel M. Dorrance, et al., prosecutors, v. J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, respondent on certiorari before the Supreme Court of New Jersey, that the executors of the Will of Dr. John T. Dorrance, deceased, expect to take an appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals in said case.

The executors of Dr. John T. Dorrance will take an appeal to the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals from the decision of the Supreme Court of New Jersey in said case, unless prior to the expiration of their time for taking such appeal this action in the United States District Court renders such an appeal unnecessary.

I am advised and therefore aver that the decision in the aforesaid case rendered by the Supreme Court of New Jersey is not final but is subject to judicial review by the Court of Errors and Appeals; that the tax which the defendants in the present action demand cannot be collected until after the institution of an action of debt in the name [fols. 46-48] of the State of New Jersey or a statutory proceeding in the Prerogative Court of New Jersey; that the action of the Supreme Court of New Jersey in said case was of an administrative character and not judicial; and that the period during which the executors of Dr. John T. Dorrance may take an appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals will not expire until February 11, 1936.

The judgment entered in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania on March 27, 1933, was a judgment in favor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as plaintiff and against the executors of Dr. John T. Dorrance as defendants.

MOTION FOR TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER AND APPLICATION FOR HEARING FOR INTERLOCUTORY INJUNCTION—Filed April 1, 1935.

To the Honorable J. Warren Davis, Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit:

Comes now the plaintiff and moves the Court for an order granting a temporary restraining order returnable within ten days from the date thereof, and upon the Bill of Complaint herein and upon the annexed affidavits of Charlotte Dorrance Wright and George Morris Dorrance, M. D., verified on the first day of April, 1935, for a writ of injunction enjoining and restraining, pending the final judgment in this action and until the further order of this court, the defendants and each of them and their and each [fol. 50] of their deputies, officers, agents, servants and employes, and any and every person acting under and by virtue of their authority from in any way collecting or attempting to collect from the executors or from the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, transfer inheritance taxes upon the intangible personal property belonging to the said estate now being undertaken under the alleged authority of the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, its amendments and supplements, and from prosecuting or bringing any action at law or in equity against said executors or estate or taking any other step for the collection of said taxes; and plaintiff prays your Honor to call to your Honor's assistance to hear and determine this application, two other judges in accordance with the provisions of Section 266 of the Judicial Code, and to expedite the hearing of this application and set the same down for a hearing at the earliest practical date; and for such other and further relief as to the court may seem just and proper in the premises.

Dated at Jersey City, New Jersey, March 30, 1935.

RESTRAINING ORDER—Filed April 2, 1935

This case came on to be heard upon the motion of Elinor Dorrance Hill, the plaintiff, for an interlocutory injunction against J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, William D. Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey, Frank J. Murray, Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, William H. Albright, State Treasurer of the State of New Jersey and David T. Wilentz, Attorney General of the State of New Jersey, the defendants, on the verified bill of complaint and on the affidavits of Charlotte Dorrance Wright and George Morris Dorrance, M. D., verified the first day of April, 1935, and it appearing to this court that said bill of complaint seeks an interlocutory injunction restraining the enforcement of the New Jersey Act of April [fol. 52] 20, 1909, ch. 228, as amended, by restraining the acts of J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner, William D. Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, Frank J. Murray, Comptroller, William H. Albright, State Treasurer, and David T. Wilentz, Attorney General, in the enforcement of such statute upon the grounds of the unconstitutionality thereof, and on the unconstitutionality of any assessment and collection of inheritance taxes upon the intangible personal property of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, pursuant to such statute, as provided by Section 266 of The Judicial Code, it is Ordered, Ajudged, and Decreed as follows:

1. The Honorable J. Warren Davis, Circuit Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Third Circuit, hereby calls to his assistance to hear and determine the application for an interlocutory injunction in this case, the Honorable Victor B. Woolley and the Honorable John Boyd Avis.

2. It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed that said defendants appear to show cause, if any they have, on April 12, 1935, at 10 o'clock A. M., or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, in Room ——, Post Office Building, Trenton, New Jersey, why an interlocutory injunction should not issue as prayed for in said Bill of Complaint, enjoining said defendants and each of them, and their and each of their deputies, officers, agents, servants and employees, and any and every person acting under and by virtue of their authority, from in any way collecting or attempting to collect inheritance tax from the executors of John T. Dorrance, deceased, or from the estate of said decedent, on the transfer of intangible personal property in the estate of said decedent, now being undertaken under the alleged authority of the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, as amended, and from prosecuting or bring-[fol. 53] ing any action at law or in equity against the said executors in the said estate for the collection of said taxes, or taking any other step looking towards said collection.

3. It appearing that immediate and irreparable damage will be caused by reason of the threat of the collection of the aforesaid inheritance tax by the defendants, in that such threat is seriously interfering with the proper administration of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, and is preventing distribution of the estate, and is forcing the executors of said estate to maintain large cash reserves at a low rate of interest to cover the tax claimed by defendants, the cost of litigation, including the cost of bonds and of attorneys' fees, and in that the threatened tax constitutes a lien and therefore a cloud on the title of the executors to property of the estate of the value of more than $80,000,000, and interferes with the sale, transfer, pledge or other use thereof, and in that the defendants are in a position to demand that said executors file a bond in the amount of upwards of $24,000,000, conditioned upon the payment of said tax, to the immediate and irreparable injury of the estate, and to institute an action for the collection of said tax, unless a temporary restraining order is issued, ex parte and without notice, against said defendants, until the hearing of said application for an interlocutory injunction, it is further Ordered, Adjudged and Decreed, that said J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner, William D. Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, Frank J. Murray, Comptroller, William H. Albright, State Treasurer, and David T. Wilentz, Attorney General, of the State of New Jersey, be enjoined from in any way collecting or attempting to collect inheritance taxes from the executors or otherwise from the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, upon the intangible personal property of [fols. 54-56] said decedent's estate, now being undertaken under the alleged authority of the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, as amended, and from prosecuting or bringing any action at law or in equity against the said executors or against the said estate for the collection of said taxes, until said hearing on said application for an interlocutory injunction. Bond sur restraining order in $1000 to be filed.

Dated this 2d day of April, 1935, at 2:20 o'clock P. M.

ANSWER—Filed April 12, 1935

The joint and several answer of the defendants, J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey; William D. Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey; Frank J. Murray, Comptroller of the State of New Jersey; William H. Albright, State Treasurer of the State of New Jersey; and David T. Wilentz, Attorney General of the State of New Jersey.

These defendants, for answer to the bill of complaint, say:

1. They have no knowledge of information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 1.

[fol. 59] 2. Paragraph 2 is admitted.

3. Paragraph 3 is denied; except that they say that defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, is the chief officer of the State Tax Department of the State of New Jersey; said department was established by Chapter 336, page 823, New Jersey Laws of 1931, wherein and whereby the chief officer of said Department, was denominated the "State Tax Commissioner"; all transfer inheritance taxes imposed by the statutes of the State of New Jersey are to be paid to said defendant as the State Tax Commissioner and deposited with the Treasurer of the State of New Jersey when and as collected, for the use of said state.

Under said statutes it is the duty of said defendant, as State Tax Commissioner, to fix the amount of the taxes to be imposed at the rates specified in said statutes, upon the clear market value of the property; and to assess and fix the cash value of the estates of decedents and to levy the tax to which the same is liable and to give notice thereof, by mail, to all parties interested therein.

It is also the duty of the State Tax Commissioner, on satisfactory proof rendered to said Commissioner, to certify to the Comptroller of the Treasury the amount of any tax that shall have been paid erroneously to said Commissioner, provided that application for repayment thereof be made within two years from the date of such payment.

It is also the duty of the State Tax Commissioner when it shall appear to him that any tax which has accrued under the Transfer Inheritance Tax Act has not been paid according to law, to report such fact, in writing, to the register of the Prerogative Court, for further action by said register and by the Ordinary, of said court, as specified in said act. [fol. 60] It is also the duty of the State Tax Commissioner, whenever he shall have reason to believe that any tax is due and unpaid under said act, after the neglect and refusal of the persons or corporations interested in the property and liable to said tax to pay the same, to notify the Attorney General of the State of New Jersey, in writing, of such failure to pay such tax, for further action by the Attorney General, as specified in said act, and to perform various other duties, as set forth in detail in said act.

Defendant, William D. Kelly, is the state supervisor of the Inheritance Tax Bureau of the State Tax Department; this is not a statutory office, and the statutes of the State of New Jersey do not confer upon him any powers or duties respecting the assessment or collection of transfer inheritance taxes. He is an employee of the State Tax Department and performs such duties therein as may be, from time to time, assigned to him by the State Tax Commissioner.

Defendants, Frank J. Murray and William H. Albright, are not charged with any powers or duties respecting the assessment or collection of transfer inheritance taxes.

Defendant, David T. Wilentz, is the Attorney General of the State of New Jersey; under the statutes of said state relating to transfer inheritance taxes, it is the duty of said defendant, when notified, in writing, by the State Tax Commissioner, of any failure to pay such tax, to prosecute the proceedings before the Ordinary for the collection thereof as prescribed in Section 21 of said Act.

4. They admit that the matter in controversy exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum or value of $3,000; they deny that the matter in controversy arises under the Constitution of the United States.

5. Paragraph 5 is admitted.

[fol. 61] 6. Paragraph 6 is admitted; except that defendants, further answering said paragraph, say:

(a) They pray reference to the original or to a certified copy of said will for certainty as to the terms thereof and as to the powers and duties of the executors therein named.

(b) They pray reference to the original or to a certified copy of the petition for probate of said will and the other proceedings relating to the probate thereof for certainty as to the authority of the Executors to act as the Executors thereof.

(c) Said will was admitted to probate by the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, and letters testamentary thereon were issued to the Executors, in accordance with the provisions of the statutes and other laws of the State of New Jersey that application for the probate of the will of any person who was resident in this state at his decease, and for letters testamentary thereon, should be made to the Surrogate of the county in which the testator resided at the time of his death; the Executors thereupon assumed the burden of the duties of executors and trustees of said will and ever since the letters testamentary thereon were issued to the Executors and continuously to the present time, they have been and they now are acting as such executors, pursuant to said statutes and other laws.

Further answering said paragraph they admit that on October 2, 1930 said will was probated in the office of the Surrogate of Burlington County and that letters testamentary thereon were issued to the Executors, and they say that there is annexed hereto and made part hereof a copy of the proceedings before said Surrogate on the probate of said will, including the petition for probate and the affidavit of the executors thereto annexed; the qualifications of the executors, the order for probate and the letters testamentary.

[fol. 62] 7. Paragraph 7 is admitted; except that defendants further answering said paragraph, say that they pray reference to the original, or to a certified copy, of said will for certainty as to the terms thereof in the respects alleged in paragraph 7.

8. Paragraph 8 is denied.

9. Paragraph 9 is admitted.

10. Paragraph 10 is admitted.

11. Paragraph 11 is denied.

12. Paragraph 12 is admitted.

13. Paragraph 13 is denied; except that defendants admit that decedent was married on August 18, 1906, and that he lived with his wife in Camden, New Jersey, until the latter part of the year 1907; they say that he and his wife then temporarily resided with his brother, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, during certain parts of the year, and from June 1st to October 1st of each year, from the year 1907 to 1911, inclusive, decedent and his wife lived in the City of Atlantic City, New Jersey, and in 1911 they established their permanent home at Cinnaminson, Burlington County, New Jersey, on property known as "Pomona Farms" owned by and leased from Campbell Soup Company, of which decedent, during most of that time, was president and owner of the entire capital stock; that in the year 1896, decedent became domiciled in the State of New Jersey and continued so domiciled in said state until the time of his death; from 1896 until 1911 his domicile was in the County of Camden, and from 1911 until his death his domicile was in the County of Burlington, in said state.

14. Paragraph 14 is admitted.

[fol. 63] 15. Paragraph 15 is admitted.

16. They have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 16.

17. Paragraph 17 is denied.

18. They admit that on November 14, 1925, decedent was physically present at Radnor, Pennsylvania; they deny that on that date, or at any time thereafter, decedent was present at his new dwelling place at Radnor, Pennsylvania, with the intention of making the same his home, and without any present intention of not residing there indefinitely.

19. They deny paragraph 19; except that they admit that the decedent continued to lease from Campbell Soup Company, "Pomona Farms" at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and that he continued to vote and pay personal property taxes at Cinnaminson; that he retained his membership in the vestry of a church at Riverton, New Jersey; that he made many declarations, including statements in his will, that he was a resident of the State of New Jersey; and that subsequent to decedent's death the Executors paid personal property taxes in an amount unknown to defendants, to Delaware County, Pennsylvania, for the years 1925 to 1930, inclusive; said statements in his will are as follows:

"I, John T. Dorrance, of the Township of Cinnaminson, in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, being of sound and disposing mind, memory and understanding, do make and publish this, my last will and testament, hereby revoking any and all will or wills heretofore by me at any time made."

"Seventh: I give and bequeath unto my wife, Ethel M. Dorrance, all my clothing, and all of my furniture and furnishings and household goods and household effect of every [fol. 64] kind and description whatsoever, including silverware, china and glassware, rugs and pictures which I shall own at the time of my decease, excepting my grandfather's clock above bequeathed and excepting all tapestries; all of the furnishings and furniture and household goods and household effect of every kind and description, now used by my wife and myself in the house where I now reside in Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, and elsewhere, excepting my grandfather's clock above bequeathed and excepting all tapestries, being the property of my said wife, Ethel M. Dorrance.

"Thirty-third: I hereby order and direct that if my said wife, Ethel M. Dorrance, or my said brother, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., or my said brother, Arthur C. Dorrance, or said Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of this, my last will and testament, or any of them shall fail or refuse to make application to the Surrogate of the County of Burlington, or to the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey, for the probate of my last will and testament within thirty days after the date of my decease, then such one or more of my said Executors so failing or refusing to make application to the said Surrogate or to the said Ordinary for the probate of my said last will and testament within thirty days after the date of my decease, shall cease to be such Executor or Executors and Trustee or Trustees, and the appointment in my said last will and testament of such one or more of my said Executors primarily nominated and appointed in and by this, my last will and testament, who shall fail or refuse to make application to the said Surrogate or to the said Ordinary for the probate of my said last will and testament within thirty days after the date of my decease, shall cease and determine and be void and of no effect and as to such of my Executors primarily named in this, my last will and testament, as such Executors, as shall so fail or refuse to make application for the probate of this, my last will and testament, to the said Surrogate or to the said Ordinary within thirty days after my death, I revoke the appointment herein made as [fol. 65] Executor or Executors and also as Trustee or Trustees."

20. Paragraph 20 is denied.

21. They have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 21; except that they deny that continuously from November 14, 1925, to the date of his fatal illness, decedent lived with his family at Woodcrest.

22. Paragraph 22 is denied.

23. They have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 23.

24. Paragraph 24 is denied.

25. Paragraph 25 is admitted.

26. Paragraph 26 is denied; except that defendants admit that in or about August, 1926, decedent's mother and sister came to live with decedent at his home in "Pomona Farms," Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and lived there until they died—decedent's sister, in the summer of 1928, and his mother, early in 1929.

27. They have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 27.

28. They have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 28.

29. Paragraph 29 is denied; except that defendants admit that in 1930 decedent and his family spent their summer vacation at Bar Harbor, Maine; that decedent left Bar Harbor on September 15, 1930, and went to Cinnaminson, where he suffered a stroke a few days after arrival and died there five days later.

30. They admit that at the time of his death the decedent owned intangible personal property of the value of more [fol. 66] than $100,000,000.00; they have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to whether he owned intangible personal property of said value for some years prior to the date of his death.

31. Paragraph 31 is denied.

32. Paragraph 32 is admitted; except that they say that the appeal mentioned therein was not from any assessment against the estate of decedent but from an alleged appraisement thereof.

33. Paragraph 33 is admitted; except that they say that the appeal mentioned therein was not from any assessment against the estate of decedent but from an alleged appraisement thereof; and except that they say that the defendant, William D. Kelly, at the request of the attorneys for the Executors, attended as a witness at the Orphans' Court of

Delaware County, Pennsylvania, and identified an exemplified copy of the bill for the assessment of the New Jersey inheritance taxes upon the estate of the decedent, which was presented to said defendant by said attorneys for the purpose of identification by him and was offered by said attorneys as Exhibit "C."

34. Paragraph 34 is admitted; except the defendants say that the judgment of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court was as follows:

"The decree of the court below is reversed and the appraisement, subject to modifications indicated by the Commonwealth stipulation as to the value of the estate, is reinstated; the cost to be paid by appellees."

35. Paragraph 35 is admitted; except that defendants, further answering said paragraph, say that the reasons for the refusal of the Supreme Court of Pennsylavnia for a reargument are set forth in the opinion of that court as follows:

"A general reargument of this case was not granted. [fol. 67] Reargument was allowed under Rule 84, solely to permit the appellee-executors formally to bring to the attention of this Court the fact that they had filed an amended petition in the court of first instance suggesting a question or questions under the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. On the appeal to this Court, no reference to the matter was made in the arguments though provision therefor is expressly made in Rule 47. The executors now urge that we pass on those questions, suggested in the court in the first instance, and reconsider the appeal on a theory not presented when the case was argued here. 'The Commonwealth objects to such reconsideration, contending that 'They (the executors) deliberately elected to argue the case as one arising under the law of Pennsylvania.'

At the time that this Court decided the question of fact—in its judgment, a matter for decision according to the law of Pennsylvania—it was held, for the reasons stated in the opinion filed, that John T. Dorrance was domiciled in Pennsylvania. As no federal question was involved, or presented by the records or briefs or in the oral argument, for consideration in the decision of the basic matter of fact, none was considered or decided and none remains for decision.

No reason appears for modifying the decision originally made.

Justices Schaffer and Drew dissent from this order."

36. Paragraph 36 is admitted; except that the defendants further answering said paragraph, say that said petitions and brief were filed at the request, and with the knowledge, consent and approval of the Executors.

37. Paragraph 37 is admitted; except that the defendants, further answering said paragraph, say that none of the defendants, nor the State of New Jersey, nor any officer of said state, was a party to the suit in which said judgments were entered and neither of said judgments was ever [fol. 68] sued upon or established in any court of New Jersey or of the United States; and neither of said judgments is binding upon these defendants or upon the State of New Jersey.

38. They admit that the Executors paid to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania transfer inheritance tax in the amount of $14,394,698.88, with interest, and that said payment was made on March 31, 1933; they deny that the Executors were compelled to pay the same, because of said judgment or otherwise; they have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to whether on March 31, 1933, the Executors gave bond to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the amount of $4,000,000, conditioned upon the payment of any additional tax which might become due under said judgment; they say if any such bond was given, it was given voluntarily by the Executors and not by the compulsion of said judgment.

39. Paragraph 39 is admitted; except that defendants, further answering said paragraph, say that the said assessments were made by the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, as State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, upon proofs and documents submitted on behalf of the Executors, including an inheritance tax return and an amended inheritance tax return signed and sworn to by one of the Executors, namely Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, on behalf of all of the Executors wherein and whereby the Executors alleged and swore that the said decedent was "late of Burlington County"—referring to Burlington County, New Jersey.

40. Paragraph 40 is admitted; except that defendants, further answering said paragraph, say that the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, as State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, opened the said assessments on the petition of the Executors requesting him to do so.

[fol. 69] 41. Paragraph 41 is admitted; except that they deny that the Pennsylvania judgment therein mentioned established as against the defendants or against the State of New Jersey that the decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania at the time of his death.

42. They admit that on December 9, 1932 the Executors appealed from the New Jersey assessment of transfer inheritance tax to the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey; and that after hearing the appeal the Ordinary entered a decree in the New Jersey Prerogative Court on May 11, 1934, sustaining the Tax Commissioner's assessment of October 10, 1932, except in certain respects immaterial to the present issues; and therein and thereby said court ordered, adjudged and decreed that the assessment of transfer inheritance taxes, as made by the said Tax Commissioner on October 10, 1932, amounting to $12,247,333.52 upon the transfer of the property of the decedent, as that of a resident decedent, be affirmed; said decree was based upon conclusions and supplemental conclusions of the said Ordinary; copies of said decree, conclusions and supplemental conclusions are annexed hereto and made part hereof.

They deny that in said decree said court refused to give full faith and credit to the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; and they deny that said court upon the same evidence stated conclusions at variance with those of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

43. Paragraph 43 is admitted; further answering said paragraph they say that copies of the decision of the Supreme Court and of the judgment of said court, are hereto annexed and made part hereof.

44. Paragraph 44 is denied; further answering said paragraph the defendants say that the administrative procedure provided by the New Jersey statutes therein mentioned [fol. 70] was at an end at the time the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey completed his assessment of the transfer inheritance tax against the estate of the decedent on October 10, 1932.

45. Paragraph 45 is denied; except that they admit that said assessment includes a tax on the intangible personal property of decedent's estate.

46. Paragraph 46 is admitted.

47. Paragraph 47 is denied.

48. They deny that because of the threat of the defendants to collect from the estate of decedent a transfer inheritance tax, the Executors are compelled to maintain a large cash reserve at a low rate of interest; they deny that by reason thereof the Executors have been and are being prevented from selling, pledging, transfering, or otherwise utilizing personal property of decedent's estate of the appraised value of more than $81,000,000.

They admit the allegations of said paragraph relating to the maturity of New Jersey State Road Bonds and the substitution therefor of other New Jersey bonds. Said substitution of bonds was made pursuant to an agreement dated November 10, 1933 between the Executors and the defendant State Tax Commissioner, a copy of which is annexed hereto and made part hereof.

They admit that on June 26, 1934, the Executors placed in escrow all the preferred stock of Campbell Soup Company of the appraised value of $12,360,000, conditioned upon the payment of inheritance tax by the Executors, if such tax be found due and owing; and further answering said allegations they say that said stock was placed in escrow in accordance with and pursuant to an agreement, of which copy is annexed and made part hereof; which said deposit of stock was made (in lieu of giving bond) pursuant to the direction of the New Jersey Supreme Court [fol. 71] as a condition precedent to the issuance of a writ of certiorari.

They admit that the Executors held, in addition, personal property belonging to the estate of decedent of the appraised value of more than $67,000,000; they admit that the same cannot be sold, pledged, transferred, or otherwise utilized, unless and until waivers have been issued by the State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey; further answering said allegations they say that if and when the Executors desire to sell, pledge, transfer, or otherwise utilize said personal property they may do so by giving bonds or other security for the payment of the judgment for taxes or by substituting other satisfactory securities; and the only securities which the Executors have given for these taxes or that has been required, pending the litigation, is the deposit of said bonds and stock in escrow under the terms of said agreements; and further answering said allegations they say that the Executors have not requested the State Tax Commissioner to issue waivers on said personal property or any part thereof.

Further answering said paragraph defendants say that said personal property belongs to a trust set up by the decedent's will which trust is now being administered by the Executors as trustees, and is to continue for a period of not exceeding 16 years; that said Executors have no power or authority to sell, pledge, transfer or otherwise utilize said personal property, except at the terms and in the manner prescribed in said will.

49. Paragraph 49 is denied.

50. Paragraph 50 is denied.

51. They have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 51; and further answering said paragraph they say that provision [fol. 72] is made by the statutes of New Jersey for the deduction of expenses of administration, including attorney's fees.

52. Paragraph 52 is denied.

53. Paragraph 53 is denied; except that they say that said Chapter 255, New Jersey Laws of 1934, insofar as relates to the redemption of the bonds issued under its authority, provides as follows:

"14. To provide funds to meet the interest and principal payment requirements for any bonds issued under this act and so long as any bonds issued hereunder shall be outstanding and unpaid there is hereby appropriated and the Treasurer shall in each year set aside for such purpose, sufficient sums to meet the principal and interest requirements for the next ensuing calendar year from the tax collected under and by virtue of the provisions of an act entitled 'An act imposing taxes upon the sale or delivery of alcoholic beverages and providing for the collection thereof,' approved December fourth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, constituting chapter four hundred thirty-four of the laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three and the several acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto, and under and by virtue of any revision thereof or act substitutionary thereof after deducting only the expenses of administering said act or acts.

15. In the event of the receipt by the State of moneys from one of the following sources: (1) the moneys received by the State under the final judgment or decree, whether in the original cause or appeal, of any court of competent jurisdiction in any cause now pending for the collection of transfer inheritance taxes due the State from the estate of a decedent adjudged in said cause to have been a resident of this State, which decedent has already been adjusted by the courts of another State to have been a resident of such other State (2) the moneys received in any such cause in the event of the settlement of such litigation by the State [fol. 73] Tax Commissioner by the acceptance of the principal sum due and the remission of all interest due on all such principal sum in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled 'An act authorizing the State Tax Commissioner to adjust and settle transfer inheritance taxes due the State, where the matter is now in litigation and the question of the domicile of decedent is at issue,' approved July eleventh, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four, constituting chapter two hundred and forty-nine of the laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four, (3) or an agreed amount to be determined by the Legislature, the Treasurer may apply all or any part of such moneys to the redemption and payment of any bonds (together with interest thereon to date of redemption) theretofore issued and then outstanding under this act.

16. (a) If in any year or at any time funds as hereinabove appropriated necessary to meet interest and principal payments upon outstanding bonds issued under this act be insufficient or are not available, then and in that case there shall be assessed, levied and collected annually in each of the municipalities of the counties of this State a tax on real and personal property upon which municipal taxes are or shall be assessed, levied and collected, sufficient to meet the interest on all outstanding bonds issued herein-under and on such bonds as it is proposed to issue under this act in the calendar year in which such tax is to be raised and for the payment of bonds falling due in the year following the year for which the tax is levied.

(b) The tax thus imposed shall be assessed, levied and collected in the same manner and at the same time as other taxes upon real and personal property are assessed, levied and collected. The governing body of each municipality shall cause to be paid to the county treasurer of the county in which such municipality is located on or before the fifteenth day of December in each year the amount of tax herein directed to be assessed and levied, and the county treasurer shall pay the amount of said tax to the State Treasurer on or before the twentieth day of December in each year."

[fol. 74] 54. Paragraph 54 is admitted; except that they say that the State of New Jersey, by its statutes and other laws, has provided full, complete and adequate remedy to the Executors for the recovery of inheritance tax erroneously paid by them, or illegally collected by defendants. The pertinent parts of said statutes, are as follows:

(Transfer Inheritance Tax Act)

"15. When any amount of said tax shall have been paid erroneously to the State Tax Commissioner, it shall be lawful for the Comptroller of the Treasury on satisfactory proof rendered to State Tax Commissioner of such erroneous payments, and duly certified by him to the Comptroller, to draw his warrant on the State Treasurer, in favor of the executor, administrator, person or persons who have paid any such tax in error, or who may be lawfully entitled to receive the same, for the amount of such tax so paid in error; provided, that all such applications for the repayment of such tax shall be made within two years from the date of such payment." (Ch. 303, N. J. P. L. 1931, pp. 749, 762).

"24. * * * All amounts becoming due under the provisions of this act shall be paid from the same fund provided in the annual appropriation bill for the payment of refunds to estates pursuant to section fifteen, chapter two hundred and twenty-eight, laws of one thousand nine hundred and nine, as amended, and refunds to counties pursuant to chapter two hundred and fifty-eight, laws of one thousand nine hundred and nine. * * *" (Ch. 140, N. J. P. L. 1932, pp. 252-3.)

(Appropriation Act)

"D 17. State Tax Department

Inheritance Tax Division

'Upon approval of the State Tax Commissioner, the Comptroller of the Treasury is hereby authorized and it [fol. 75] shall be his duty to withdraw from the State fund such amounts as shall be required to carry out the provisions of chapter 238, Laws of 1909, and to refund and pay such claims as may be necessary and the State Treasurer shall pay same upon the warrants of said Comptroller, and there is hereby appropriated the amount necessary therefor.'" (Ch. 232, N. J. P. L. 1934, pp. 535, 578, 580.)

The Annual Appropriation Laws of the State of New Jersey, for many years past, have contained the same provision as last above quoted from the Appropriation Act of 1934, and it has been the established practice of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey to include the same provision in each Annual Appropriation Act. All refunds for erroneous or illegal payments of transfer inheritance taxes are paid out of moneys so appropriated; it has been the established practice of the State Tax Commissioner, and his predecessor in office, in the administration of the Transfer Inheritance Tax Laws of New Jersey, to cause to be made refunds, in accordance with the provisions of the statutes, of the amount of any tax found to have been illegally or erroneously paid; it is the established law of the state that the courts of New Jersey will, in circumstances like the present case, compel a refund of taxes erroneously or illegally paid.

55. Paragraph 55 is denied; further answering said paragraph defendants say that the State of New Jersey has provided full, complete and adequate remedy to the Executors for the recovery of inheritance tax erroneously paid by Executors, or illegally collected by defendants, as set forth in paragraph 54; that said suit is not brought against the defendants individually, but in their representative capacities as officers of the State of New Jersey; the financial resources of said state are ample to pay any refunds of taxes erroneously or illegally paid by the Executors; for the year 1934, the total ratables of real and personal [fol. 76] property in said state (exclusive of property taxed by license, gross receipts, or excise taxes in lieu of all other taxes), was in excess of five billion nine hundred million dollars.

56. Paragraph 56 is denied; further answering said paragraph defendants say that the State of New Jersey has provided full, complete and adequate remedy to the plaintiffs for the recovery of inheritance tax erroneously paid by plaintiffs, or illegally collected by defendants, as set forth in paragraphs 54 and 55.

57. Paragraph 57 is admitted.

58. Paragraph 58 is denied.

59. Paragraph 59 is denied.

60. Paragraph 60 is denied.

61. Paragraph 61 is denied.

62. Paragraph 62 is denied.

63. Paragraph 63 is denied; further answering said paragraph the defendants say that none of the defendants, nor the State of New Jersey, nor any officer of said state, was a party to the suit in which said judgments were entered, and neither of said judgments was ever sued upon or established in any court of New Jersey or of the United States; and neither of said judgments is binding upon these defendants or upon the State of New Jersey.

64. Paragraph 64 is denied; further answering said paragraph the defendants say that plaintiff is not threatened with irreparable injury, because the tax may be paid and recovered back in any amount found to have been illegally or erroneously paid, as set forth in paragraphs 54 and 55; and because the Executors may, at any time within one year from the entry of the judgment in the New Jersey Supreme Court, review the same as a matter or right under [fol. 77] the laws and practice of the State of New Jersey, and a stay may be obtained under conditions approved by the court; and from any judgment of the Court of Errors and Appeals, if the same may be adverse to the Executors, they may apply for a review thereof by the Supreme Court of the United States, in accordance with the statutes and the practice of that court.

65. Paragraph 65 is denied; further answering said paragraph defendants say that for the reasons stated in paragraph 64 of this answer, plaintiff is not without adequate remedy at law.

Further answering, in lieu of pleas in bar, they say:

First Plea

66. On October 1, 1930 Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance, and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, as Executors under the will of John T. Dorrance, presented their duly verified petition to the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, praying for the probate of said will and setting forth therein, under oath, that said John T. Dorrance departed this life at his residence in Cinnaminson Township, in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, leaving him surviving as his heirs at law and next of kin, certain persons, including his widow and four children, whose post office addresses were Riverton, New Jersey, and plaintiff, a daughter, whose post office address was New York City; pursuant to said petition, said will was admitted to probate, and letters testamentary thereon were issued to the Excecutors by the order of said Surrogate dated October 2, 1930, which order is still in full force and effect.

Said order admitting will to probate and granting letters testamentary thereon to the Executors was an order of a [fol. 78] court of competent jurisdiction under the laws of this State, having jurisdiction over the property of said estate and of the Executors and other parties interested therein, including the plaintiff; said court judicially determined that said decedent, at the time of his death, was domiciled in the county of Burlington and State of New Jersey; said order has not been appealed and is conclusive and final as between the parties to this suit, and cannot be collaterally attacked.

Plaintiff was a party to, and beneficiary under, said proceedings, and was in privity with said Executors therein.

Wherefore, by reason of the premises, the issue of law and of fact as to the domicile of said decedent was adjudged and decreed against the plaintiff.

Second Plea

67. In certain proceedings before the New Jersey Prerogative Court, to-wit, an appeal by said Executors to said court from the assessment of transfer inheritance tax made by the defendant Martin, as State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, upon said estate, entitled "In the matter of the Appeal of Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the Last Will and Testament of John T. Dorrance, deceased, from the Assessment of the Transfer Inheritance Taxes against the Estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased", in which appeal the Executors were the appellants and the said defendant Martin, in his official capacity as State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, was respondent (the real party in interest being said State of New Jersey) the same cause of action was alleged by the Executors on said appeal and the same grounds for reversal of said assessment were there [fol. 79] urged by the Executors as the plaintiff now alleges in this suit.

Annexed hereto and made part hereof are copies of said petition of appeal and of the answer of said defendant thereto.

The same rights, facts and matters were put in issue by said petition and answer and were adjudicated upon said appeal, or were necessarily involved therein, as are now claimed and alleged by the plaintiff in this suit.

Said New Jersey Prerogative Court was a court of competent jurisdiction to hear and determine the alleged cause of action set forth in said appeal, and to hear and determine the rights, facts and matters that were in issue, or necessarily involved, in said appeal.

The conclusions of said court on the merits were filed on February 7, 1934; supplemental conclusions were filed on May 10, 1934; annexed hereto and made part hereof are copies of said conclusions and said supplemental conclusions; the final decree of said court was entered on May 11, 1934, wherein and whereby it was ordered, adjudged and decreed as follows:

"It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed that respondent in determining the clear market value of the property of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, allow further deductions, (including additional counsel fees and executors' commissions), in the amount of $533,784.81, as allowed by the Orphans Court of Burlington County, New Jersey, and

It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed that the assessment of transfer inheritance taxes as made by respondent on October 10, 1932, amounting to $12,247,333.52 upon [fol. 80] the transfer of the property of said John T. Dorrance, deceased, as that of a resident decedent, subject to the above modifications, be and the same in all other respects is hereby affirmed."

A copy of said decree is annexed hereto and made part hereof.

Plaintiff was in privity with said Executors in said proceeding.

In and by said final decree of said New Jersey Prerogative Court the issues of law and of fact raised by said appeal and now sought to be raised by the plaintiff in this suit, were adjudged and decreed against the plaintiff and in favor of the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, and in favor of the State of New Jersey, the real party in interest therein, and the real party in interest in this suit.

Third Plea

68. In certain proceedings before the New Jersey Supreme Court, to-wit, a writ of certiorari allowed by said court, on application of said Executors to review the decree of the New Jersey Prerogative Court affirming (with modifications) the assessment of transfer inheritance tax, made by the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, as State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, upon the estate of John T. Dorrance (the said proceedings being entitled, "Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the Last Will and Testament of John T. Dorrance, Deceased, Prosecutors, vs. J. H.

Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, Respondent"), in which writ said Executors were the prosecutors and the said defendant Martin, in his [fol. 81] official capacity as State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, was respondent (the real respondent party in interest being said State of New Jersey) the same cause of action was alleged by the Executors on said writ and the same grounds for reversal of said assessment and decree were urged there by the Executors as plaintiff now alleges in this suit; annexed hereto and made part hereof is a copy of the Reasons filed by the Executors as prosecutors of said writ of certiorari.

The same rights, facts and matters were put in issue by the Reasons and other proceedings on said writ of certiorari, and were adjudicated upon said writ, or were necessarily involved therein, as are now claimed and alleged by the plaintiff in this suit.

Said New Jersey Supreme Court was a court of competent jursdiction, to hear and determine the alleged cause of action as set forth in said writ and to hear and determine the rights, facts and matters that were in issue, or necessarily involved, in said writ; the decision of said court was filed on the merits of said alleged cause of action on February 8, 1935; annexed hereto and made part hereof is a copy of said decision; the final judgment of said court was entered February 11, 1935, affirming the said decree of the Prerogative Court sustaining said assessment (as modified), and dismissing said writ; annexed hereto and made part hereof is a copy of said final judgment.

Plaintiff was in privity with said Executors in said proceedings.

In and by said final judgment of said New Jersey Supreme Court, the issues of law and of fact raised by said [fol. 82] writ, and now sought to be raised by the plaintiff in this suit, were adjudged against the plaintiff and in favor of the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, and in favor of the State of New Jersey, the real party in interest therein, and the real party, defendant in this suit.

Fourth Plea.

69. On October 1, 1930, said Executors, as executors under the will of John T. Dorrance, presented their duly verified petition to the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, praying for the probate of said will and setting forth therein, under oath, that said John T. Dorrance departed this life at his residence in Cinnaminson Township, in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, leaving him surviving as his heirs at law and next of kin, certain persons, including his widow and four children, whose post office addresses were Riverton, New Jersey, and the plaintiff, a daughter; pursuant to said petition, said will was admitted to probate, and letters testamentary thereon were issued to the Executors, by the order of said Surrogate, dated October 2, 1930, which order is still in full force and effect.

Upon the issuance of said letters testamentar, said Executors filed with the said Surrogate of Burlington County a sworn statement and deposition that they would exhibit into the Surrogate's Office of the County of Burlington, at or before the expiration of three calendar months, a true and perfect inventory of all and singular the goods and chattels, rights and credits of said deceased, that have or shall come to their knowledge or possession, or to the possession of any other person for their use; that they shall comply with the provisions of all federal and state laws concerning inheritance taxes; that they shall well and truly perform their duties as such executors by first paying the [fol. 83] debts of the deceased and then the legacies therein specified, so far as the assets of the estate could thereunto extend and render a true and just account, within twelve calendar months or when thereunto lawfully required.

Thereafter, said Executors filed with the Surrogate of Burlington County an inventory and appraisal of said estate on or about April 17, 1931; on or about October 15, 1931, said Executors filed their petition for first accounting of said estate in the Burlington County Orphans' Court, a court of competent jurisdiction under the laws of the State of New Jersey, and said accounting was allowed by order of said court on November 5, 1931; on or about November 5, 1932, said Executors filed their second intermediate accounting of said estate in said Burlington County Orphans' Court, which was allowed by order thereof entered November 25, 1932.

All proceedings for the administration of the estate up to the present time have been had by the Executors before said court of Burlington County and the Executors, under the orders of said court, have partially administered and distributed the said estate and have paid certain legacies given by the will, and have obtained and filed in said court, refunding bonds and releases for such payments, and have made certain payments on account of the trusts set up by said will, including payments of 10,000.00 per month to plaintiff, continuously since the probate of said will, and said Executors have received large sums of money as allowances for executors' commissions and counsel fees.

The estate of said decedent is still in the course of administration by said Orphans' Court of Burlington County; said will has never been offered for probate, and no letters of administration or testamentary have ever been granted in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or in any other jurisdiction, except said County of Burlington.

[fol. 84] Plaintiff was a party to said proceedings and was beneficiary thereof to the extent of many thousands of dollars.

On April 6, 1931, a return, and on August 17, 1931, an amended and corrected return, were filed by and in behalf of the Executors as required by the statutes of the State of New Jersey and the Regulations of the Tax Department of said state, stating under oath that said John T. Dorrance was late of Burlington County, State of New Jersey; said estate, as shown in said amended and corrected return, consisted entirely of personal property, made up of bank deposits, bonds, stocks, accounts and notes receivable and miscellaneous items amounting to the total sum of One hundred fifteen, million, one hundred twenty-one thousand five hundred eighteen dollars and ninety-two cents; from which deductions were claimed, amounting to Three million, two hundred seventy-nine thousand four hundred sixty-four dollars and thirty-four cents; the bonds, certificates of stock and other evidence of title to said personal property were then, and still are, located in the State of New Jersey.

Said estate was duly appraised on October 16, 1931, in the net sum of One Hundred twelve million, fifty-five thousand, four hundred dollars and eighty-six cents.

Prior to the making of any assessment of taxes, the Executors appeared before the Comptroller of the State of New Jersey and the State Tax Commissioner, respectively, and claimed that the said John T. Dorrance, at the time of his death, was domiciled in the Township of Cinnaminson, county of Burlington and State of New Jersey; and in support of such claim submitted certified copies of the will and the proceedings for probate, and numerous statements, letters and other documents and records; after consideration of such proofs and documents, the comptroller, on May 13, [fol. 85] 1931, found as follows:

"After a careful consideration of all available data, including oral statements submitted by you (referring to the proctor for the plaintiffs) during your recent appearance, the Department has concluded that the legal domicile of the decedent at the date of his death and for many years prior thereto was Cinnaminson, Burlington County, New Jersey."

and thereafter, on October 17, 1931, the State Tax Commissioner served upon said Executors the assessment for inheritance taxes.

On or about December 12, 1931, said Executors filed with defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, as State Tax Commissioner, their petition reciting the proceedings in Pennsylvania for the assessment and collection under the laws of that state, of transfer inheritance taxes upon the estate of said John T. Dorrance, then being administered by said Executors under the jurisdiction of the Orphans' Court of Burlington County, New Jersey; that said Executors had submitted to said defendant and his predecessor certain evidence as to the domicile of said John T. Dorrance at the time of his decease; and that said Executors had since the filing of said assessments, obtained a large amount of information, facts and evidence relating to and bearing upon the domicile of said John T. Dorrance at the time of his decease, which was not in their possession at the time of the filing of said assessments, which they desired to submit and present before the final determination of said assessments, and praying that said assessments of October 17, 1931, be opened and set aside and cancelled and for nothing holden and that the proceedings thereon be opened and permission granted to said Executors to submit and present to said defendant further and additional information, facts and evi-

[fol. 86] dence relating to and bearing upon the domicile of said John T. Dorrance at the time of his decease, and other information, facts and testimony relating to and bearing upon the estate of said John T. Dorrance, deceased.

Pursuant to said petition said defendant, on December 12, 1931, ordered that said assessment of October 17, 1931, be opened for the purposes set forth in said petition and in accordance with the prayer thereof.

In making said order said defendant relied upon the representations and good faith of said Executors and upon the truth and sincerity of the purposes stated in their petition for such opening and cancelling of said assessments and believed that he could safely grant said petition without injury or prejudice to himself or the State of New Jersey. It was not until said Executors, after the date thereof, submitted to said defendant, as proof of their claim of decedent's domicile in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, then for the first time made by them, a copy of the decision and decree of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania made September 26, 1932, that said defendant discovered that the real intent and purpose of said Executors, in petitioning for the opening and cancellation of said assessments, was to postpone the effective date of the levy of taxes thereunder and the collection of said taxes thereunder until after the decision and decree of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania to enable said Executors to plead said decree as a bar under the Constitution of the United States to any assessments made by the State of New Jersey under its inheritance tax laws.

Thereupon, on October 10, 1932, said defendant, State Tax Commissioner, reinstated said assessment and served same upon said Executors.

[fol. 87] By withholding and concealing, or remaining silent upon said true intent and purpose of said petition to open and cancel said assessments, said Executors fraudulently and designedly misled and deceived said defendant into making said order of December 12, 1931, and fraudulently and designedly induced him to change his position and open and cancel said assessments to the prejudice of the State of New Jersey, and to the profit and advantage of plaintiff.

Plaintiff was in privity with said Executors in all of said proceedings.

Wherefore, by reason of the premises, plaintiff is estopped from asserting or maintaining that said John T. Dorrance, at the time of his death, was domiciled in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and she is estopped from asserting or maintaining that by reason of the said decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania said John T. Dorrance was, at the time of his death, domiciled in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and she is estopped from asserting or maintaining that the said assessments are erroneous, illegal and void for the reasons alleged in the bill of complaint.

Fifth Plea

70. The Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, was without jurisdiction to make an appraisement as alleged in the bill of complaint, under the laws of Pennsylvania, for transfer inheritance taxes on the estate of said John T. Dorrance, and the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania and the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, were without jurisdiction to hear or determine any proceedings relating thereto under the laws of Pennsylvania.

In the contest of said appraisement and in the conduct of the appeal therefrom and from the decree of the Orphans' [fol. 88] Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, it was the duty of said Executors, and necessary to the adequate protection of the rights of said Executors and of the parties interested in said estate, including plaintiff, for the purpose of obtaining, if necessary, the review of the decree of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania by the Supreme Court of the United States, that said Executors should properly present to said courts of the State of Pennsylvania the claim that the assessment of the transfer inheritance taxes upon said estate violated the rights of said Executors and the plaintiff under the Constitution of the United States; said Executors failed and neglected to properly present to said courts of the State of Pennsylvania the said claim; and solely by reason of said failure and neglect, said Executors were denied a review of the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in and by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Plaintiff was in privity with said Executors in said proceedings.

Wherefore, by reason of the premises, the plaintiff is in laches and is barred and estopped from alleging or maintaining in this suit that the domicile of the said decedent, at the time of his death, was in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and from alleging or maintaining in this suit that the said decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania is binding upon said Executors or the plaintiff, or upon the defendants, or upon this court.

Sixth Plea

71. The conclusions of the New Jersey Prerogative Court adjuding that John T. Dorrance at the time of his death was domiciled in the State of New Jersey, were filed on February 7, 1934; and his supplemental conclusions relating solely [fol. 89] to certain claimed deductions, were filed on May 10, 1934, and the decree of said court on said conclusions and supplemental conclusions was filed on May 11, 1934.

Plaintiff did not, on the filing of said conclusions, nor on the entry of said final decree, or promptly thereafter apply for injunction to this court; but voluntarily acquiesced in the action of said Executors who applied to and obtained from the New Jersey Supreme Court a writ of certiorari to review said final decree.

Plaintiff was in privity with said Executors in said proceedings.

Wherefore, by reason of the premises the plaintiff is in laches and is now barred from further prosecution of this suit.

Further Answering, by way of defense in point of law arising upon the face of the bill of complaint, defendants say:

72. The bill of complaint does not allege a cause of action against the defendants, or against any or either of them.

73. Plaintiff has an adequate remedy at law under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

74. An injunction, if granted in accordance with the prayer of the bill of complaint, would violate section 265 of the Federal Judicial Code (Sec. 379, Title 28, U. S. Code), in that the same would stay proceedings in the state courts, to-wit, proceedings to collect the taxes due and owing from the plaintiffs to the State of New Jersey; as adjudged and decreed by the final decree of the New Jersey Prerogative Court entered May 11, 1934, in the sum of $12,247,333.52, which said final decree was affirmed by the New [fol. 90] Jersey Supreme Court by final judgment entered February 11, 1935.

75. An interlocutory injunction, if granted in accordance with the prayer of the bill of complaint, by this court as constituted by the order of the court entered herein April 2, 1935, is not authorized by Section 266 of the Federal Judicial Code (Section 380, Title 28, U. S. Code) because this suit is not brought to suspend or restrain the enforcement, operation or execution of any statute of the State of New Jersey by restraining the action of any officer of such state in the enforcement or execution of such statute, or in the enforcement or execution of an order made by an administrative board or commission acting under and pursuant to the statutes of said state.

76. This court has no jurisdiction of the bill of complaint because the suit is brought by a citizen of another state, to wit, the State of Rhode Island, as plaintiff, against the State of New Jersey, in violation of the Eleventh Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

77. The order of the Surrogate of Burlington County admitting the will of the decedent to probate and granting letters testamentary thereon to said Executors was an order of a court of competent jurisdiction under the laws of this State, having jurisdiction over the property of said estate and of the plaintiff and other parties interested therein; said court judicially determined that said decedent, at the time of his death, was domiciled in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey; said order has not been appealed and is conclusive and final as between the parties to this suit.

Plaintiff was a party to, and beneficiary of said proceedings and was in privity with said Executors therein.

[fol. 91] 78. In the proceedings before the New Jersey Prerogative Court (mentioned in paragraphs 42, 43 and 44 of the bill of complaint), to wit, an appeal by said Executors to said court from the assessment of transfer inheritance tax made by the defendant, Martin, as Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, upon the estate of John T. Dorrance, in which appeal said Executors were the appellants and the said defendant, Martin, in his official capacity as State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, was respondent (the real respondent party in interest being said State of New Jersey) the same cause of action was alleged by said Executors on said appeal and the same rights, facts and matters were in issue and were adjudicated upon said appeal, or were necessarily involved therein, as are now claimed and alleged by the plaintiff in this suit.

The said cause of action was between the same parties in interest, or those in privity with them, as are the parties in interest, or those in privity with them, in this suit.

Said New Jersey Prerogative Court was a court of competent jurisdiction to hear and determine the alleged cause of action set forth in said appeal, and to hear and determine the rights, facts and matters that were in issue, or necessarily involved, in said appeal.

Plaintiff was in privity with said Executors in said proceedings.

In and by said final decree of said New Jersey Prerogative Court the issues of law and of fact raised by said appeal and now sought to be raised by the plaintiff in this suit were adjudged and decreed against the plaintiff and in favor of the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, and in favor of the State of New Jersey, the real party in interest therein and the real party in interest in this suit.

[fol. 92] 79. In the proceedings before the Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey (mentioned in paragraph 43 of the bill of complaint), to wit, a writ of certiorari allowed by said court, on application of said Executors to review the decree of the New Jersey Prerogative Court, affirming (with modifications) the assessment of transfer inheritance tax made by the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, as State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, upon the estate of John T. Dorrance, in which writ said Executors were the prosecutors and the said defendant Martin, in his official capacity as State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, was respondent (the real respondent party in interest being said State of New Jersey) the same cause of action was alleged by said Executors on said writ and the same rights, facts and matters were put in issue and were adjudicated, upon said writ, or were necessarily involved therein, as are now claimed and alleged by the plaintiff in this suit.

The said cause of action was between the same parties in interest, or those in privity with them, as are the parties in interest, or those in privity with them, in this suit.

Said New Jersey Supreme Court was a court of competent jurisdiction, to hear and determine the alleged cause of action, as set forth in said writ, and to hear and determine the rights, facts and matters that were in issue or necessarily involved in said writ.

Plaintiff was in privity with said Executors in said proceedings.

In and by the final judgment of said New Jersey Supreme Court, entered February 11, 1935 (mentioned in paragraph 43 of the bill of complaint) the issues of law and of fact raised by said writ and now sought to be raised by the plaintiff in this suit, were adjudged against the plaintiff and in favor of the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, and in favor of the State of New Jersey, the real party in interest [fol. 93] therein, and the real party defendant in this suit.

80. By virtue of the proceedings for the probate of the will of the decedent and the granting of letters testamentary thereon, and by virtue of the opening of the assessments of transfer inheritance tax on December 12, 1931, at the request of said Executors as alleged in the bill of complaint, the plaintiff is estopped from asserting or maintaining that the decedent, at the time of his death, was domiciled in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and from asserting or maintaining that by reason of the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania (as alleged in the bill of complaint) the said decedent at the time of his death was domiciled in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and from asserting or maintaining that the said assessments as made by the defendant Martin, as State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, are erroneous, illegal and void, for the reasons alleged in the bill of complaint.

Plaintiff was a party to, and beneficiary under, said proceedings, and was in privity with said Executors therein.

81. The Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, was without jurisdiction to make an appraisement as alleged in the bill of complaint, under the laws of Pennsylvania, for transfer inheritance taxes on the estate of the decedent, and the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, New Jersey, and the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, were without jurisdiction to hear and determine any proceedings relating thereto under the laws of Pennsylvania.

In the contest of said appraisement and in the conduct of the appeal therefrom and from the decree of the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, as alleged in the bill of complaint, it was the duty of said Executors and [fols. 94-105] necessary to the adequate protection of the rights of the plaintiff and of other parties interested in said estate for the purpose of obtaining, if necessary, the review of the decree of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania by the Supreme Court of the United States; that said Executors should properly present to said courts of the State of Pennsylvania the claim that the assessment of the transfer inheritance taxes upon said estate violated the rights of the plaintiff under the Constitution of the United States; said Executors failed and neglected to properly present to said courts of the State of Pennsylvania the said claim, and solely by reason of said failure and neglect, said Executors were denied a review of the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in and by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Plaintiff was in privity with said Executors in said proceeding.

82. On the filing of the conclusions of the New Jersey Prerogative Court, and on the entry of the final decree therein, as alleged in the bill of complaint, the plaintiff did not promptly thereafter apply to this court for an injunction, but acquiesced in the action of said Executors who voluntarily applied to and obtained from the Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey a writ of certiorari to review said final decree.

Plaintiff was in privity with said Executors in said proceedings.

Wherefore, defendants jointly and severally pray that the complaint be dismissed with costs.

David T. Wilentz, Attorney General of New Jersey, Solicitor for Defendants. Duane E. Minard, George S. Hobart, Counsel.

Petition of Appeal by Plaintiffs to Prerogative Court

On Appeal

Amended Petition of Appeal

In the matter of the appeal of Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the last will and testament of John T. Dorrance, deceased, from the assessment of the transfer inheritance taxes against the estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased

To His Honor, Luther A. Campbell, Ordinary of the State of New Jersey:

The amended petition of Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the last will and testament of John T. Dorrance, deceased, respectfully shows that:

1. John T. Dorrance died on September 21st, 1930, leaving a last will in which he appointed your Petitioners as his executors and in which he directed them, on penalty of forfeiting their appointment, to make application within thirty days of his death for the probate of his said will either before the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, or the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey.

2. On October 2, 1930, your petitioners, pursuant to said directions, probated the said will before the Surrogate of [fol. 107] Burlington County, New Jersey, and on the same day were granted letters testamentary thereon.

3. On April 6, 1931, and on August 17, 1931, your petitioners, being then advised that the said John T. Dorrance was at his death domiciled in the State of New Jersey, filed with the Department of the Comptroller of the Treasury, Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau of the State of New Jersey, inheritance tax returns for the said estate of John T. Dorrance as if the estate of a resident decedent.

4. On April 21, 1931, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by its agent, the Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, claiming that John T. Dorrance at his death was domiciled in Radnor Township, Delaware County, Pennsylvania, and assuming to act by virtue of the provisions of the Act of Assembly of Pennsylvania, approved June 20, 1919, (P. L. 521) its amendments and supplements, made an assessment of transfer inheritance taxes against the said estate of John T. Dorrance in the sum of $31,465,200.00, which said assessment was based on the value of all of the assets of the said estate of John T. Dorrance at his death, consisting principally of intangible personal property.

5. On October 17, 1931, the State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, claiming that John T. Dorrance at his death was domiciled in Burlington County, New Jersey, and assuming to act under the provisions of the Transfer Inheritance Tax Act of New Jersey of April 20, 1909, its amendments and supplements, made an assessment against the said estate of John T. Dorrance in the sum of $12,247,333.52, with an additional assessment in the sum of $4,521,143.90 on account of certain contingent remainders, both of which assessments were based on the value of substantially [fol. 108] all of the assets of the said John T. Dorrance at his death, including all the aforesaid intangible personal property.

6. On December 12, 1931, the said State Tax Commissioner opened the two assessments so made and filed by him as aforesaid and gave permission to your Petitioners to submit to the Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau, State of New Jersey, additional information relating to the domicile of the said John T. Dorrance, which additional information your Petitioners subsequently submitted to the said Bureau.

7. On February 15, 1932, the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, on the appeal of your Petitioners, duly entered its decree adjudging that the said John T. Dorrance at his death was domiciled in New Jersey and setting aside the aforesaid assessment of Pennsylvania transfer inheritance tax. From that decree the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania appealed to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; and that court on September 26, 1932, duly entered its decree reversing the said decree of the Orphans' Court, and adjudging that said John T. Dorrance at his death was domiciled in Pennsylvania, and reinstating the said assessment of Pennsylvania transfer inheritance tax subject to correction of the assessed value of the assets on which it was based. On December 20, 1932, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania duly entered its further decree directing the Orphans' Court to enter a decree assessing and imposing the said Pennsylvania transfer inheritance tax in the sum of $17,437,655.26, based on the value of all the assets of said John T. Dorrance at his death, including all the aforesaid intangible personal property; and on December 22, 1932, the Orphans' Court duly entered its decree as so directed. On January 10, 1933, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, on reargument of said cause before it, duly entered its further decree refusing to modify its said previ- [fol. 109] ous decrees. On March 13, 1933, the Supreme Court of the United States denied your petitioners' petition for a writ of certiorari to review the said decrees of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

8. Your petitioners are advised that the place of domicile of said John T. Dorrance at his death is a question of law for judicial determination, and that this question has been determined by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, as aforesaid; and your petitioners, being so advised, believe, and therefore aver, that said John T. Dorrance at his death was domiciled in Pennsylvania and not in New Jersey.

9. On October 10, 1932, the State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, again claiming that John T. Dorrance at his death was domiciled in Burlington County, State of New Jersey, and assuming to act under the provisions of the Transfer Inheritance Tax Act of New Jersey, of April 20, 1909, its amendments and supplements, made new assessments against the said estate of John T. Dorrance in the same sums as theretofore, to wit, $12,247,333.52 and $4,521,143.90, both of which assessments were again based on the value of substantially all of the assets of the said John T. Dorrance at his death, including all the aforesaid intangible personal property.

Neither of said assessments have been accepted or agreed to by your petitioners.

10. The said State Tax Commissioner in determining the clear market value of the property of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, allowed as deductions Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000) for fees of attorneys of the Executors of the Estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased. Because of extended necessary litigation relating to the Estate of said John T. Dorrance, deceased, the total amount of fees paid and to be paid to the attorneys of the [fol. 110] executors of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, for their services in connection with said necessary litigation and the settlement of the said estate will exceed the sum of Four Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($450,000), which is a proper deduction in determining the clear market value of the said estate.

11. The said State Tax Commissioner in determining the clear market value of the said property of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, allowed as deductions commissions of your petitioners as executors in the amount of One Million One Hundred Sixty-six Thousand Two Hundred and Fifteen Dollars and Nineteen Cents ($1,166,215.19). Prior to the making and filing of the said assessment by the said State Tax Commissioner as aforesaid, there had been allowed and paid to your petitioners, executors as aforesaid, as commissions on the corpus of the said estate the sum of Nine Hundred Thousand Dollars ($900,000), and since the making and filing of the said assessment there has been allowed and paid to your petitioners, executors as aforesaid, as commissions upon the corpus of the Estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, the additional sum of Six Hundred Thousand Dollars ($600,000), and the total amount allowed and paid to your petitioners, executors as aforesaid, as commissions upon the corpus of said estate is the sum of One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,500,000), which is a proper deduction in determining the clear market value of the said estate.

12. The Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes of the County of Delaware in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania made assessments against the estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, for the sum of Four Hundred Thousand Dollars ($400,000) for each of the years 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929 and 1930 for the personal property taxes of [fol. 111] the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, in Pennsylvania for said years, besides interest on said amounts of personal property taxes from the respective dates when the same were payable.

Said personal property taxes for the years 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1929 so assessed as aforesaid, and such proportion of said personal property tax for the year 1930 so assessed as aforesaid as the elapsed portion of the year 1930 up to the date of the death of the said John T. Dorrance on September 21st, 1930, bears to the full calendar year 1930, if said taxes shall be finally determined to be valid claims against the estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, are debts of the decedent owing at the time of his decease, and are therefore proper deductions in determining said clear market value of said property of the estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased.

13. Your petitioners are advised and believe, and therefore aver, that the said two assessments of transfer inheritance taxes made and filed by the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey on October 10, 1932, are erroneous, illegal and void, insofar as they are based on the value of intangible personal property belonging to said John T. Dorrance, on the following grounds:

(a) Said assessments are not authorized by the said Transfer Inheritance Tax Act of New Jersey of April 20, 1909, its amendments and supplements, in that said John T. Dorrance at his death was not domiciled in New Jersey.

(b) Said Transfer Inheritance Tax Act of New Jersey of April 20, 1909, its amendments and supplements, if authorizing said assessments, (which your petitioners deny) deprive your petitioners of their property without due process of law in contravention of the XIV Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, in that the said John T. Dorrance at his death was not domiciled in New Jersey.

[fol. 112] (c) Said assessments deprive your Petitioners of their property without due process of law in contravention of the XIV Amendment to the Constitution of the United States in that the said John T. Dorrance at his death was not domiciled in the State of New Jersey.

(d) Said assessments are repugnant to the provision of Section 1, Article IV of the Constitution of the United States in that they fail to give full faith and credit to the aforesaid decree of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, entered September 26th, 1932, supplemented by said order of the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, dated December 20th, 1932, and affirmed by its said order of January 10th, 1933, Docket No. 41 January Term 1932, Estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, Appeal to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, adjudging that said John T. Dorrance at his death was domiciled in Pennsylvania and not in New Jersey, a copy of which decree, orders and docket entries relative thereto, duly exemplified in accordance with the Act of Congress, is hereto attached as a part of this petition.

14. Your petitioners are further advised and believe and therefore aver that even if the said John T. Dorrance shall be finally determined to have been domiciled in New Jersey at the time of his decease, said assessments so made by said State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey are erroneous, for the following additional reasons:

(a) Because the said State Tax Commissioner in determining the clear market value of the property of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, did not take into consideration and allow as deductions, as required by the said Transfer Inheritance Tax Law of the State of New Jersey, assessments against the estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, by the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes of the County of Delaware, in the Com- [fol. 113] monwealth of Pennsylvania, for the sum of Four Hundred Thousand Dollars ($400,000) for each of the years 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929 and 1930 for the personal property taxes of the said John T. Dorrance. deceased, in Pennsylvania for said years, besides interest on said amounts of personal property taxes from the respective dates when the same were payable, and which said personal property taxes for the years 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1929 so assessed as aforesaid, and such proportion of said personal property tax for the year 1930 so assessed as aforesaid as the elapsed portion of the year 1930 up to the date of the death of the said John T. Dorrance on September 21st, 1930 bears to the full calendar year 1930, if said taxes shall be finally determined to be valid claims against the estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, are debts of the decedent owing at the time of his decease and are, therefore, proper deductions in determining said clear market value of the said property of the estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased.

(b) Because the said State Tax Commissioner in determining the clear market value of the property of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, did not take into consideration and allow as deductions as required by the said Transfer Inheritance Tax Law of the State of New Jersey, fees of the attorneys of the Executors of the said estate in excess of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000), which fees paid and to be paid to said attorneys, because of extended necessary litigation relating to the estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, will greatly exceed the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000), and will amount at least to the sum of Four Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($450,000), and are proper deductions in determining the said clear market value of said property instead of the said sum of Two Hundred and [fol. 114] Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000) attorneys' fees allowed as a deduction by said State Tax Commissioner.

(c) Because the said State Tax Commissioner in determining the clear market value of the said property of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, did not take into consideration and allow as deductions, as required by the said Transfer Inheritance Tax Law of the State of New Jersey, fees and commissions of your petitioners as executors, allowed by the Orphans' Court of Burlington County, New Jersey, upon the settlement of the First and Second Accounts of your petitioners as executors as aforesaid before said Court, amounting to a total of One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,500,000) which have been paid to your petitioners as executors as aforesaid, and are proper deductions in determining the said clear market value of said property.

(d) Because the said State Tax Commissioner in determining the said clear market value of the said property of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, did not take into consideration and allow as deductions, as required by the Transfer Inheritance Tax Law of the State of New Jersey, the amount of the transfer inheritance taxes assessed against the estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, as aforesaid, amounting to $17,437,655.26, payable to the said Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which said assessment was based on the value of all of the assets of the said John T. Dorrance at his death, including all of the intangible personal property included by the said State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey in his said assessment.

15. Your petitioners have never agreed to or accepted the said additional assessment made and filed by the State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey on October 10th, 1932, as aforesaid, amounting to the sum of $4,521,143.90, and the same is not now due or payable.

[fol. 115] 16. Your petitioners are dissatisfied with the said two assessments of said transfer inheritance taxes so made and filed by said State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey as aforesaid.

Your petitioners therefore appeal from the said assessment of the transfer inheritance tax made and filed by the said State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey on October 10th, 1932, upon the estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, amounting to the sum of $12,247,333.52, and from the whole thereof, and from the said additional assessment made and filed by the said State Tax Commissioner on October 10th, 1932, upon the estates in expectancy which are contingent and defeasible under the provisions of the last will and testament of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, amounting to the sum of $4,521,143.90, and from the whole thereof, and pray that this Honorable Court will review the said assessments so made and filed by the said State Tax Commissioner on October 10th, 1932, as aforesaid, and that the said assessments be reversed, set aside and for nothing holden.

Dated, March 13, 1933.

On Appeal

In the Matter of the Appeal of Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the last will and testament of John T. Dorrance, deceased, from the assessment of the transfer inheritance taxes against the estate of the said John T. Dorrance, Deceased.

Answer to Petition of Appeal

Respondent, J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, answering the amended petition of appeal herein, says:

1. Paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 are admitted.

2. Respondent is without knowledge sufficient to enable him to admit the averments contained in paragraph 4, but is informed that they are untrue.

3. Paragraphs 5 and 6 are admitted.

4. Respondent is without knowledge sufficient to enable him to admit the averments contained in paragraph 7, but is informed that they are true.

5. Paragraph 8 is denied.

6. Paragraph 9 is admitted.

7. Paragraph 10 is denied, except that respondent admits that in determining the clear market value of the [fol. 118] property of said decedent he allowed a deduction of $250,000 for fees of attorneys.

8. Paragraph 11 is denied, except that respondent admits that in determining the correct market value of the property of said decedent he allowed as deductions, commissions for the petitioners as executors in the sum of $1,166,215.19.

9. Paragraph 12 is denied, except that respondent has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the averment that the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes of the County of Delaware in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania made an assessment against the estate of said decedent for the sum of $400,000 in each of the years 1926 to 1930, inclusive, for the personal property taxes of said decedent in Pennsylvania for said years, besides interest, as therein alleged.

10. Paragraphs 13, 14, 15 and 16 are denied.

Respondent, for his answer in lieu of plea, says:

11. Said decedent, John T. Dorrance, died September 21, 1930, at a house in the Township of Cinnaminson, County of Burlington, and State of New Jersey, recited and described in his last will and testament as his residence. Said will appointed the petitioners as executors thereof, and ordered and directed that said will be probated before the Surrogate of the County of Burlington, or the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey, within thirty days after the date of his decease, on pain of forfeiture of executorship to any one or more of said executors failing or refusing to do so.

12. Petitioners presented their duly verified petition, as executors under said will, to the Surrogate of Burlington

County, New Jersey, on October 1, 1930, praying for the probate of said will, setting forth therein, under oath, that [fol. 119] said John T. Dorrance departed this life at his residence in Cinnaminson Township, in the County of Burlington, and State of New Jersey, leaving him surviving, as his heirs at law and next of kin, certain persons, including his widow and four children whose post office addresses were Riverton, New Jersey, and pursuant to said petition, said will was admitted to probate, and letters testamentary thereon were issued to petitioners, by order of said Surrogate made and entered on October 2, 1930, which order is still in full force and effect.

13. Thereafter petitioners filed an inventory and appraisal of said estate on or about April 17, 1931, and certain accountings were adjudicated and allowed November 5, 1931, and certain refunding bonds and releases, and other documents have been filed necessary for the administration of said estate, and they have had all necessary proceedings therein, before the Orphans' Court of Burlington County, and have, under orders of said court, partially administered and distributed said estate, and received large sums of money as allowances for executors' commissions and counsel fees. Said estate is still being administered under the jurisdiction of the Orphans' Court of Burlington County. Said will has never been offered for probate, or probated, and no letters of administration on said estate have ever been granted, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or in any other jurisdiction except in said County of Burlington, and the estate and property of decedent, title to which was passed by said will, is located in the State of New Jersey, within the jurisdiction of said court, and is subject to distribution, and inheritance taxes, under the laws of New Jersey.

14. The order of the Surrogate of Burlington County admitting said will to probate and granting to petitioners letters testamentary thereon for the administration of [fol. 120] said estate was an order of the Surrogate's Court, a court of competent jurisdiction under the laws of this state, having jurisdiction over the property of said estate in a proceeding in rem, wherein said Surrogate's Court judicially decided that decedent, John T. Dorrance, at the time of his death, was domiciled in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey. Said order cannot be collaterally attacked in this proceeding, and is conclusive and final until reversed on appeal, according to law.

15. Respondent is advised, and therefore avers, that the Surrogate's Court of Burlington County had jurisdiction to determine the domicile of the decedent, John T. Dorrance, and that the decision by said court, necessary for admitting said will to probate in said county and for the issuance of letters testamentary thereon, that decedent John T. Dorrance was, at the time of his death domiciled in Burlington County, New Jersey, is binding upon petitioners and respondent, and upon this court, in this proceeding.

16. On April 6, 1931, a return, and on August 17, 1931, an amended and corrected return, were filed, according to law and the regulations of respondent's tax department, by Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, one of the petitioners herein, stating, under oath, that said John T. Dorrance was late of Burlington County, State of New Jersey. Said estate, as shown in said amended and corrected return, consisted entirely of personal property as follows:

[fol. 121] Deposits	$ 4,032,719.69
Stocks	89,191,106.03
Bonds	21,389,796.85
Accounts receivable	69,047.97
Notes receivable—no value—Life insurance	160,000.00
Miscellaneous	8,235.16
Accrued interest receivable on bank balances	13,456.98
Dividends receivable on stock payment to holders of record prior to date of death of decedent	41,976.80
Accrued interest receivable on bonds	218,124.50
Dividends on life insurance policies	1,054.94
	$115,121,518.92

from which deductions were claimed amounting to $3,279,464.34. Substantially all of said property was then and still is located in the State of New Jersey. None of it was or is located in Pennsylvania.

17. Said estate was duly appraised according to law, on October 16, 1931, as follows:

Value of personal property	$115,121,518.92
Value of real property
Total estate	$115,121,518.92
Debts, expenses, etc.	3,066,118.06
Net amount of estate for distribution	$112,055,400.86

18. Prior to the making of the assessment of the taxes described in paragraph 5 of said amended petition, peti- [fol. 122] tioners appeared by their proctor at a hearing before respondent's predecessor, and claimed that said John T. Dorrance, at the time of his death, was domiciled in the Township of Cinnaminson, County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, and in support of such claim, submitted as proof thereof, certified copies of said will and the proceedings and order for the probate thereof, and numerous statements, letters and other documents and records; all of which, together with the findings of fact thereon, are contained in the transcript of the record filed by petitioners herein.

19. After said hearing, and the consideration of the evidence, submitted on behalf of petitioners, respondent's predecessor, made a finding of fact thereon that the legal domicile of John T. Dorrance, at the time of his death, and for many years prior thereto, was Cinnaminson, Burlington County, New Jersey, which finding of fact was submitted in writing to petitioners on May 13, 1931. Thereafter, on October 17, 1931, respondent made, and served upon petitioners, the assessments of transfer inheritance taxes described in paragraph 5 of the amended petition. No appeal from said assessments was ever taken by petitioners.

20. Respondent is advised, and therefore avers, that petitioners are estopped from asserting or maintaining in this proceeding, as they do in paragraph 8 of said amended petition that said John T. Dorrance was, at the time of his decease, domiciled in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

21. On or about December 12, 1931, petitioners filed with respondent their petition reciting the proceedings in Pennsylvania for the assessment and collection under the laws of that state, of transfer inheritance taxes upon the estate of said John T. Dorrance, then being administered by petitioners under the jurisdiction of the Orphans' Court of [fol. 123] Burlington County, New Jersey; that petitioners had submitted to respondent certain evidence as to the domicil of said John T. Dorrance at the time of his decease; and that petitioners had, since the filing of said assessments, obtained a large amount of information, facts and evidence relating to and bearing upon the domicil of said John T. Dorrance at the time of his decease, which was not in their possession at the time of the filing of said assessments, which they desired to submit and present before the final determination of said assessments, and praying that said assessments of October 17, 1931, be opened and set aside and cancelled and for nothing holden and that the proceedings thereon be opened and permission granted to petitioners to submit and present to respondent further and additional information, facts and evidence relating to and bearing upon the domicil of said John T. Dorrance at the time of his decease, and other information, facts and testimony relating to and bearing upon the estate of said John T. Dorrance, deceased.

22. Respondent, accordingly, on December 12, 1931, ordered that said assessments of October 17, 1931, be opened, set aside and cancelled and for nothing holden and that the proceedings thereon be opened for the purposes set forth in said petition and in accordance with the prayer thereof.

23. In making said order respondent relied upon the representations and good faith of petitioners and upon the truth and sincerity of the purposes stated in their petition for such opening and cancelling of said assessments and believed that he could safely grant said petition without injury or prejudice to himself or the State of New Jersey. It was not until petitioners, shortly after the date thereof, submitted to respondent, as proof of their claim of decedent's domicile in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, then [fol. 124] for the first time made by them, a copy of the decision and decree of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania made September 26, 1932, described in paragraph 7 of said amended petition, that respondent discovered that the real intent and purpose of petitioners, in petitioning for the opening and cancellation of said assessments, was to postpone the effective date of the levy of taxes thereunder and the collection of said taxes thereunder until after the decision and decree of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania to enable petitioners to plead said decree as a bar under the Constitution of the United States to any assessment made by the State of New Jersey under its inheritance tax laws, as alleged in paragraphs 8 and 13, of said amended petition.

24. Thereupon on October 10, 1932, respondent reinstated said assessments and served the same upon petitioners, and said assessments form the basis of this appeal.

26. Respondent is advised, and therefore avers, that petitioners are estopped from asserting and maintaining, in this proceeding, that the determination of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, that the domicile of said John T. Dorrance was, at the time of his death, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, as alleged in paragraph 8 of said amended petition, and that the assessments made and levied by respondent on October 10, 1932, described in para- [fol. 125] graph 9 of said amended petition, are erroneous, illegal and void for the reasons alleged in paragraph 13 of said amended petition, or that said assessments are erroneous for the reasons alleged in paragraph 14 (a) and (d) of said amended petition.

27. Neither respondent nor the State of New Jersey, or any department or agency thereof, was a party to the proceedings in the Courts of Pennsylvania, mentioned in paragraphs 4, 7 and 8 of said amended petition, and respondent is advised, and therefore avers, that neither he nor the State of New Jersey, or this court, is bound by the decisions or decrees of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania rendered therein.

28. Respondent is advised, and therfore avers, that said Registrar of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, was without jurisdiction to make an assessment, under the laws of Pennsylvania, for transfer inheritance taxes on the estate of said John T. Dorrance, as alleged in paragraph 4 of the amended petition, and the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, and the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, were without jurisdiction to conduct any proceedings respecting the assessment or collection of transfer inheritance taxes under the laws of Pennsylvania, upon the property of said decedent, John T. Dorrance, which was then under jurisdiction and control, and which had passed under said will probated in, and was then being administered by the courts of New Jersey, under the laws thereof, or to make any judgments or decrees respecting the same, as alleged in paragraphs 7, 8, 13 (d), and 14 (e) of said amended petition, and said Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes of the County of Delaware in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania had no jurisdiction or authority to assess the estate of said John T. Dorrance in the sum of $400,000 or any other sum, for each of the years 1926 to 1930, [fol. 126] inclusive, for personal property taxes in Pennsylvania, with interest thereon, as alleged in paragraphs 12 and 14 (a) of said amended petition.

29. Respondent is advised, and therefore avers, that in the conduct of the appeal from the decree of the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, described in paragraph 7 of the amended petition, before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, it was the duty of petitioners, and necessary and vital to the adequate protection of the rights of petitioners and said estate, and to obtain a proper decision thereon, and also to obtain, if necessary, a review of the decree of said Pennsylvania Supreme Court in the Supreme Court of the United States, that they should properly present to said Supreme Court the question and contention that the assessment, under the laws of Pennsylvania, of transfer inheritance taxes upon the estate of said John T. Dorrance violated petitioners' rights under the Constitution of the United States. Petitioners failed and neglected to property present to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania said federal question and contention, and on account of such failure and neglect, petitioners were denied a review of the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, mentioned in paragraphs 7 and 8 of said amended petition, in the Supreme Court of the United States.

30. Respondent is advised and therefore avers, that petitioners are hereby in laches and are barred and estopped from alleging or maintaining on this appeal that the domicil of decedent, John T. Dorrance, was at the time of his death in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and that said determination of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania is binding upon respondent or this court.

31. Respondent is advised, and therefore avers, that the question of the domicil of said John T. Dorrance at the time of his death is a question within the jurisdiction of [fol. 127] the courts of each state according to the laws of the forum, and that the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, described in paragraph 7 of said amended petition, is not res judicata of the domicil of decedent and has no binding effect upon respondent or this court, and that the adjudication of domicil of said John T. Dorrance in Burlington County, New Jersey, at the time of his death, by the order of the Surrogate's Court of said County for the probate of said will and the issuance of letters testamentary thereon, and the subsequent proceedings in the Orphans' Court of said county for the administration of said estate, is a judgment, in a proceeding in rem, of a court of competent jurisdiction having jurisdiction of the property of said estate, which cannot be collaterally attacked and remains in full force and effect at the present time, and is binding upon petitioners, respondent and this court, and that the transfer inheritance taxes levied by respondent upon the property of said estate which passed under said will, and by virtue of said order of the Surrogate's Court and the administration of said estate by said Orphans' Court of Burlington County, are not erroneous, illegal and void in any respect, and do not violate the XIV Amendment or Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the United States, as alleged in paragraph 13 of said petition.

Wherefore respondent prays that said amended petition be dismissed and said transfer inheritance taxes be in all respects affirmed.

William A. Stevens, Attorney General, Proctor for Respondents. Duane E. Minard, William A. Moore, Counsel.

No. 4148

In re Estate of JOHN T. DORRANCE, Deceased,

Between,

ETHEL M. DORRANCE, et al., Executors, &c., Appellants,

and

J. H. THAYER-MARTIN, Tax Commissioner, Respondent

Conclusions. Filed Feb. 7, 1934. (115 N. J. E. 268)

Transfer Inheritance Tax Appeal on Final Hearing

Mr. William D. Lippincott, and Mr. John Milton, with whom were Mr. Nathan Miller and Mr. Harold Otis, of the New York Bar, for Appellants.

Mr. William A. Stevens, Attorney General.

Mr. Duane E. Minard, Assistant Attorney General, and Mr. William A. Moore, Assistant Attorney General, for Respondent.

BUCHANAN, V.-O.

John T. Dorrance died at Cinnaminson, N. J., September 21, 1930. His executors petitioned for and obtained decree for probate of his will as a resident of Cinnaminson, in Burlington County, N. J.; and subsequently made report of the assets of the estate, as of a resident decedent, [fol. 129] to the State Tax Commissioner. The latter made an assessment of transfer inheritance tax amounting to nearly $17,000,000.00, against the estate, October 17, 1931. He subsequently, on December 12, 1931, opened the assessment and gave the executors permission to submit further evidence on the question of decedent's domicile; this having been submitted, the Commissioner made a reassessment on October 10, 1932, in the same amounts as before. From this assessment the executors appeal to this Court.

The main contention of appellants: (several other subordinate grounds of appeal, of minor importance, are specified in the petition),—is that the assessment is erroneous, illegal and invalid because the Commissioner found that decedent was domiciled in New Jersey at the time of his death, and included the value of decedent's intangible personal property in computing the tax; whereas (they contend) decedent was not domiciled in New Jersey, and hence no tax can legally be assessed in New Jersey in respect of the testamentary transfer of such intangible personality.

Concededly the conclusion is true, if the premise be true. Tax on the testamentary (or intestate) transfer of a decedent's intangible personalty may be legally assessed and levied only by the State in which the decedent was domiciled at the time of his death; this is conclusively settled by the decisions of the United States Supreme Court in First National Bank of Boston v. Maine, 284 U. S. 312, and Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. v. Minnesota, 280 U. S. 204; and this determination is controlling upon the Courts of this State in this litigation.

The essential issue is therefore whether or not Dr. Dorrance, at the time of his death, was domiciled in New Jersey. If he was, then the tax in question is correct, (at least substantially); if he was not, then no tax can be levied by New Jersey, except as to the few thousand dollars of tangi-[fol. 130] ble personal property located here,—for almost the whole of the estate (of some $115,000,000.00) consisted of stocks, bonds, and other intangible personalty. There are, however, a few subordinate or preliminary issues.

For some years prior to his death Dr. Dorrance had occupied two residence houses, one in New Jersey and the other in Pennsylvania. During the time the present proceedings were pending, similar tax proceedings were instituted against the estate in Pennsylvania, on the claim by that State that Dr. Dorrance was domiciled in Pennsylvania; this claim was sustained, and a tax assessed by the Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania. On appeal to the Orphans' Court of that County, that Court adjudged Dr. Dorrance as domiciled in New Jersey and set the tax aside; but later the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania reversed the decree of the Orphans' Court, and directed the assessment of a tax of some $17,000,000.00. The Supreme Court of the United States denied the application of the executors for review of that decree; and the executors were compelled to pay that tax to the Pennsylvania authorities.

The appellants contend that the determination by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court is controlling upon the authorities in New Jersey, upon the question of Dr. Dorrance's domicile. This is denied by respondent.

Respondent contends that the appellants are estopped or precluded, for several reasons, from claiming that Dr. Dorrance was not domiciled in New Jersey. It may well be that this contention is sound. Certainly at first impression there would seem to be considerable weight to the argument that the executors, after having claimed by their sworn petition to the Burlington County Surrogate, that Dr. Dorrance was domiciled (resident) in New Jersey; after the adjudication by the Surrogate that he was so domiciled, and [fol. 131] the consequent decree probating the will in Burlington County and issuing letters testamentary to these executors (on which letters depends their authority to act in these very proceedings and in the administration of the estate); after they have acted for some two years in administrating the estate on the strength of that probate in Burlington County, so procured by them, and have obtained and received from the Burlington County Orphans' Court, allowances of $1,500,000.00 for their services as such executors; after they have, by their original sworn petition to the Tax Commissioner in these proceeding in rem; that (2) the res in that proceeding was domiciled in this State; and after the decedent himself, (the very person whose property is concerned), has asserted in the strongest terms, in the very will which conferred authority on these executors to act as such, that he was domiciled in New Jersey;—that the executors should not now be heard or permitted to claim that decedent was not domiciled in New Jersey.

In view of the publicity which has been accorded the litigation over this estate both in the Courts of Pennsylvania and of New Jersey, and the public interest therein, this Court has deemed it advisable to consider the main issue involved,—to wit, the issues as to the actual domicile of the decedent.

As has already been said, the appellants contend that this Court is precluded from considering that issue; that the decision of the Pennsylvania Court is conclusive and controlling upon this Court. With that contention this Court is unable to concur.

That contention, more fully expressed, is that (1) the Pennsylvania decision or decree was a final decree in a proceeding in rem; that (2) the res in that proceeding was the assessment and levy of transfer tax in respect of the intangible personal property of the decedent; (3) that the [fol. 132] right of Pennsylvania to assess and levy such tax in a decedent's estate was, and must necessarily be, predicated upon the fact that the decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania; (4) that under the law of Pennsylvania the determination of the Pennsylvania Court in a proceeding of this kind is final and conclusive against all the world; (5) that by virtue of Art. IV, Section 1, of the Constitution of the United States and of the statue enacted to carry that provision into effect,—(the Act of May 26, 1790; U. S. Rev. Stat. Section 903),—that adjudication by the Pennsylvania Court must be accorded the same effect by the New Jersey Courts, and hence must, in this appeal, be regarded as final and conclusive against the State of New Jersey (notwithstanding New Jersey was not a party to the Pennsylvania proceedings) and as a conclusive adjudication against the claim by New Jersey of the right to levy transfer inheritance tax in respect to the intangible personalty of the Dorrance Estate.

The correctness of the first three propositions is not questioned; the correctness of the fourth may be assumed (but not decided); it is the fifth proposition which is incorrect, and which vitiates the conclusion of the argument.

The constitutional provision invoked by the appellants is commonly known as the full faith and credit clause. It is true that under it, and the statute, the Courts of this State are bound to give to the judicial proceedings in Pennsylvania the same faith and credit as they have by law and usage in the Courts of Pennsylvania. But this is true only if the proceedings in the Pennsylvania Court were within the jurisdiction of that Court. It is always open to the Courts of the sister state to inquire into the jurisdiction of the Court which pronounced the judgment in question. When it is demanded of the Courts of one State that full faith and credit be accorded to the judgment of the Court of a sister State, "an inquiry into the jurisdiction (of the latter Court) is always permitted, and if it be shown that [fol. 133] the proceedings relied upon were without the jurisdiction of the Court, they need not be respected." Tilt

v. Kelsey, 207 U. S. 43, at 59; Thompson v. Whitman, 18 Wall. 457; Thormann v. Frame, 176 U. S. 350; Burbank v. Ernst, 232 U. S. 162.

Concededly the Courts of Pennsylvania had no jurisdiction to assess and levy the tax in question unless the decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania. It is therefore open to this Court, in the exercise of its right to inquire into the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Court, to inquire into, ascertain and determine whether or not the decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania. If it be determined that he was not domiciled in Pennsylvania, then the determination of the Pennsylvania Court that the transfer inheritance tax assessable in respect of his intangible personalty is due to the State of Pennsylvania, is in no wise binding upon this Court and can in no wise interfere with the right of this Court to inquire and determine if the decedent was domiciled in this State, and to affirm and establish (if it finds that decedent was domiciled in this State) the right of this State to levy the tax in question and the validity of the tax so levied and now under appeal.

As a practical matter the two questions, although technically separate and distinct, present for determination in the instant case a single issue,—for it is not only conceded by counsel but apparent from the evidence, that Dr. Dorrance was domiciled either in New Jersey or Pennsylvania; that he was domiciled in New Jersey at and prior to 1925; that if he did not later become domiciled in Pennsylvania, then he remained and was domiciled as his death in New Jersey, but if he did become domiciled in Pennsylvania, then he remained so domiciled at his death. In short, the single question is,—was he or was he not domiciled in Pennsylvania.

[fol. 134] The evidence shows that Dr. Dorrance after finishing his education went to work at Camden, New Jersey, in 1907, and lived in the same place; that he continued to reside in Camden after his marriage in 1906; that he and his wife finally found the kind of a home they wanted at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and established themselves in it as their home in 1911. The evidence need not be recited in detail, but it clearly establishes that at that time that house became in fact the residence and home of Dr. Dorrance and his family; that Dr. Dorrance intended it as his fixed and permanent residence and home; that he intended it to remain such indefinitely; that he had no intention at that time that it should not always remain his home. In short, the evidence establishes beyond any doubt that in 1911 Dr. Dorrance became and was domiciled at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and that that place continued to be both his actual residence or home and his legal domicile, at least until 1925. Nor is this controverted by the appellants.

The evidence further shows that in 1925 he purchased a house and grounds at Radnor, Pennsylvania, and made extensive improvements, with the intent and purpose that this place should be a residence for himself and his family; and that in the latter part of 1925 he and his family moved into the Radnor house and actually occupied it as a residence; that from that time to the time of his death Dr. Dorrance actually occupied the Radnor house as a residence most of the time (excluding trips abroad and periods of summer vacation) and the instances of his occupation of the Cinnaminson residence were not particularly frequent and were of comparatively short duration,—and the instances of occupation of the Cinnaminson residence by his wife and children were even less frequent and of even shorter duration than his own.

If the question of the domicile of Dr. Dorrance at the time of his death depended only upon the fact as to what [fol. 135] residence he chiefly occupied as a home during the five years preceding his death, it would probably be conceded by the respondent that his domicile was in Pennsylvania. That fact however, is neither the determining factor, nor a controlling factor, in this case, under the law of domicile.

There are certain fundamental principles of the law of domicile, so thoroughly established everywhere as to be frequently called "axiomatic". Among them are the following:

1. When a man has acquired a domicile in a particular place, that place remains his domicile until he acquires another domicile.

2. To effectuate such a change of domicile it is requisite that he shall in fact remove from the old domicile to the new, with the intention of abandoning the old domicile and of remaining permanently or indefinitely in the new.

3. The burden of proof to establish that a change of domicile has occurred rests upon the party so asserting.

4. A man has the right to choose his own domicile, and his motive in such choice is immaterial.

5. A man may have more than one residence, (such as a summer residence and a winter residence), but he cannot have more than one domicile at any given time.

6. If a man has more than one residence during a given period, he has the right to select which one of them shall be his domicile.

It seems scarcely necessary to cite authorities for these propositions. It is not understood that any of them are controverted by appellants. Reference may be made to such cases as Cadwalader v. Howell, 18 N. J. L. 138, (the unanimous opinion of the Supreme Court and the leading case in New Jersey); Guggenheim v. Long Branch, 80 N. J. L. 246, 76 Atl. 338; affirmed, 83 N. J. L. 628, 84 Atl. 21; Mitchell v. [fol. 136] United States, 88 U. S. 350; and the authorities cited in these cases; also such authoritative text writers as Phillimore, Domicile; Dicey, Domicile; Wharton, Conflict of Laws; Story, Conflict of Laws; Kent's Comm.

We have, in the present case, this situation: that Dr. Dorrance had a residence at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, which he occupied for many years and where he unquestionably was domiciled at and prior to 1925; the assertion (in the Pennsylvania proceeding and in this appeal) that he changed his domicile to Radnor, Pennsylvania, in 1925; the necessity that the truth of that assertion be proven by the weight of evidence; and the necessity of proving not merely that he then changed his residence in fact, but that he did so with the intention of abandoning his domicile in Cinnaminson and with the intention that the house at Radnor should thereafter be his permanent home.

The appellants, (and the Pennsylvania Court) rely on the facts that Dr. Dorrance purchased the Radnor house and improved it with the intention of using it as a residence or home for himself and his family; that it was far larger, more expensive and pretentious than the old home at Cinnaminson; that he thereafter,—except for European trips and summer vacations,—occupied it by far the greatest part of the time (and his family even more so); that his subsequent occasions of occupancy of the Cinnaminson residence were comparatively few and of short duration, (the occupancy by his family even fewer and shorter); that from and after November, 1925, the Radnor house was in fact the real residential home of himself and his family.

All this must be conceded; it is fully established by the evidence. All this, however, goes only to the fact of residence; it is equally necessary to prove intent—to prove that in moving into and occupying the Radnor residence as a residential home, he did so with the intention of occupying [fol. 137] it as a permanent home and abandoning the Cinnaminson residence as a home.

The appellants, (and the Pennsylvania Court), assert that that intention is proven—that it is a necessary inference from the facts stated; but their argument goes but little beyond that mere assertion. Their argument is cencentrated on the effort to show that from and after 1925 the house at Radnor was in fact the real and actual home of the Dorrances and the house at Cinnaminson was a mere country house occasionally and briefly visited. Their contention is that the establishment and occupancy of the Radnor house as an actual home proves that there was an intention that it should be his permanent home and that there was no intention of returning to the Cinnaminson house as his home.

This is an obvious non sequitur, and it disregards a great mass of evidence relevant and material on the question of intent,—evidence which, in the judgment of this Court, clearly establishes an intent quite the contrary,—an intent not to abandon the Cinnaminson home,—an intent that the Radnor house was to be a home only temporarily and that the Cinnaminson house was to be returned to as a home.

It is true, as the appellants urge (and the Pennsylvania Court stresses), that the intention required for the acquisition of a domicile of choice is an intention to make a home in fact, and not an intention to acquire a domicile. Am. Law Inst., Restatement, Conflict of Laws, Section 21. If Dr. Dorrance had intended to make his residence in Radnor his actual home for all practical purposes for the rest of his life and intended to live no more in Cinnaminson, he could not retain his legal domicile in Cinnaminson; in such case his intent or wish to retain a technical legal domicile in New Jersey while actually making, and intending to make, his permanent home in Pennsylvania, would be un- [fol. 138] availing. Dickinson v. Brookline, 181 Mass. 195. "A person's wish to retain a domicile in one country will not enable him to retain it if in fact he resides with animus manendi in another." Dicey, Conflict of Laws, p. 106.

No matter how much he may wish or strive to avoid that legal consequence, a man's domicile will follow him to his new home, if he establishes himself in a new home and intends that new home to be his permanent home. But that legal result will not follow, no matter how completely he establishes himself in a new home if he does not intend the new home to be his permanent home,—if he intends that it shall not be his permanent home.

The law is thoroughly well settled and unquestioned everywhere that a man's domicile once acquired, remains until a new domicile is acquired, and that a new domicile is not acquired by moving to another residence unless he has the intention to make his home permanently in the new residence. Cadwalader v. Howell, supra; Watkinson v. Watkinson, 68 N. J. Eq. 632, 60 Atl. 931; Givernand v. Variel, 86 N. J. Eq. 80, Atl; affirmed unanimously, sub-nom. Plahn v. Variel, 86 N. J. Eq. 654, 103 Atl. 1054; Williamson v. Ostenton, 232 U. S. 619, where the United States Supreme Court says,—

"The essential fact that raises a change of abode to a change of domicile is the absence of any intention to live elsewhere (Story, Conflict of Laws, Section 43); or as Mr. Dicey puts it in his admirable book, 'the absence of any present intention of not residing permanently or indefinitely in the new abode (Conflict of Laws, 2nd ed., 111).' "

Citations of authority to the same effect could be multiplied indefinitely, including decisions in most of the states of the union,—but to no useful purpose. One more may be mentioned because of its particularly pertinent interest,—[fol. 139] In re Frick's Estate, 116 N. Y. Misc. 488, 190 N. Y. Supp. 262, in which the circumstances were as nearly identical with those in the Dorrance case as is possible in any two cases. Henry C. Frick, a millionaire originally domiciled in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, maintained a home in New York City in which he spent most of his time during the last five years of his life. The New York tax authorities sought to assess transfer inheritance tax on his estate but the New York Court held in favor of Pennsylvania that Mr. Frick had never abandoned his domicile in Pennsylvania; and had not acquired a legal domicile in New York. In the Dorrance case the Pennsylvania Court had the same question and the same situation. It is impossible for this Court to concur in its contrary determination, nor to conclude otherwise than that the Pennsylvania adjudication is erroneous and that the opinion of the Pennsylvania Orphans' Court and of the dissenting judges of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court was correct.

The evidence in the present case is overwhelming that although Dr. Dorrance moved to Radnor and made his home there for the greatest part of the time during the succeeding five years terminated by his death, he never had the intention of abandoning his home at Cinnaminson; he never had the intention of making the Radnor residence his permanent home; he always had the intention of returning to his home at Cinnaminson.

The situation was essentially the same as that of a man who goes to a foreign country as ambassador, or minister or consul, or as foreign representative for one of the large business corporations. He establishes himself and his family in a home in that foreign country; that is his actual home during the period of his stay, but it is not his permanent home. He may not return to his old home even once during the entire period of his foreign stay, which may be [fol. 140] for years; and his stay may be for a definite or indefinite number of years; but if he does not intend to make his home there permanently,—if he intends to return to his old home at the conclusion of his job or his period of assignment, he does not lose his old domicile. So also with a man who, when his son or daughter goes to college, moves from his old home to a house in another State to be near his child, intending to stay in the new home while his child is being educated, (a period which could not be definitely limited in advance) but intending to move back to the old home thereafter; he would not lose his old domicile and acquire a new one.

Such was the case with Dr. Dorrance. His life had been spent in New Jersey; his business had been there for years and still there; all of his own interests were there; it was there that he had his home and there he wanted to remain. So far as he individually was concerned, he did not want to reside in Radnor or anywhere else than his home in Cinnaminson. His children however were growing up. He had four daughters, the eldest was eighteen. For the purpose of completing their education and giving them social advantages deemed necessary or advisable for their benefit in approaching maturity, he yielded to his wife's arguments and solicitations and established the new residence and home in Radnor. But it is entirely clear from the proofs that he did this with no intention of abandoning the home at Cinnaminson; with no intention that the Radnor house should be his permanent home, with every intention that the Radnor house was not to be his permanent home but only a temporary home for so long only as should be requisite or advisable to complete their education and give them the proper social preparation for their start in life, and with the intent that as soon, at least, as that had been done,—if not indeed earlier,—he would return to his home in Cinnaminson.

[fol. 141] That this was his intent was manifested in almost innumerable ways. It is difficult, if not impossible, to conceive of a case in which the items of evidence in this behalf could be more numerous. It appears from his conversations and his correspondence with his wife, his relatives, his lawyers, his friends, his business associates, his servants, and many others with whom he came in contact. His business remained at Camden, near the Cinnaminson house; his office remained at Camden; his securities remained in the Camden banks; his personal counsel and legal adviser continued to be Judge Lippincott whose offices were in Camden and whose home was near Cinnaminson.

He continued actively as a member of the vestry and Senior Warden of Christ Church, at Riverton, N. J., near Cinnaminson. He was interested in investments in New Jersey and not in Pennsylvania. He was assessed and taxed on his personal property in Cinnaminson and not in Radnor. He and his wife continued to vote in Cinnaminson, neither one ever voted in Radnor. He was active politically in various ways in New Jersey, but not in Pennsylvania. He was appointed to, and served for several years on a commission of the State of New Jersey. His motor vehicle registrations and drivers' licenses were from New Jersey.

His intention to retain his residence in New Jersey is evidenced by many, many written statements and declarations, many of them in legal documents or instruments of various kinds, some of them under oath, and including his will,—an instrument of particular importance, not only because of the nature and solemn character of such an instrument, but because of the particular and forceful nature of the expressions therein as to his residence.

He continuously maintained the Cinnaminson house as a residence, open and fully equipped for occupancy at all [fol. 142] times, and with a full staff of servants, (whereas the Radnor house was sometimes closed and without servants); and both he and his wife and children came and stayed there at times, even though infrequently and for periods of not long duration. It is evident that he intended to occupy the Cinnaminson home more than he actually did; that he did not do so was largely due to the fact that subsequent to moving to the Radnor house his mother became ill and he established her at Cinnaminson, which thereby cut down the living quarters for the family. It is however not without special significance that it was to the Cinnaminson house that he returned when he came down, ill, from Bar Harbor in September of 1930, and that he died there. He had not only kept the house constantly in perfect repair, but had made improvements looking toward his eventual return.

The foregoing is by no means an exhaustive recital of all the evidence on the point; but enough has been mentioned to show the great weight of evidence to prove that he had no intent to abandon the Cinnaminson house as his permanent home; that it continued, as always, the "old homestead"; that he intended the Radnor house only as a temporary, not a permanent home; that he always intended to return to the permanent home at Cinnaminson.

It results therefore that he never acquired a legal domicile in Pennsylvania; that he never lost his legal domicile in New Jersey; that the Pennsylvania Court was without jurisdiction to levy transfer inheritance tax on the intangible personal property of his estate; that the Pennsylvania assessment was illegal, invalid; that the decision of the Pennsylvania Court is in no wise binding upon this Court or the Tax Commissioner of this State; that New Jersey has the right,—and the sole right,—to levy transfer inheritance tax upon the intangible personal estate; and that to [fol. 143] that extent, and so far as that ground of appeal is concerned, the present tax must be affirmed.

There were two or three other grounds of appeal of minor importance, dealing with alleged errors by the Tax Commissioner in failing to allow certain amounts claimed to be deductible as debts or administration expenses. These have not been considered, for the reason that counsel on both sides stated that they thought those could be satisfactorily worked out and adjusted or agreed upon. If such adjustment or agreement has not been or cannot be made, these items will be adjudicated upon application on the usual notice.

Supplemental Conclusions of Prerogative Court

NEW JERSEY PREROTATIVE COURT

No. 4148

In Re Estate of JOHN T. DORRANCE, Deceased

Between,

ETHEL M. DORRANCE, et al., Executors, &c., Appellants,

and

J. H. THAYER-MARTIN, Tax Commissioner, Respondent

Supplemental Conclusions. Filed May 10, 1934. (116 N. J. E. 204)

BUCHANAN, V.-O.

Since the filing of the earlier conclusions in this matter, (In re Dorrance, 115 N. J. Eq. 268, Atl. —), opposing counsel have come to agreement as to certain of the items then in process of negotiation,—namely that the so-called "Compromise Tax," (assessed, by way of compromise and commutation for present payment, in respect of legacies in expectancy which are contingent and defeasible), should be eliminated from the assessment under review, inasmuch as under the terms of the statute, tax on these transfers is not assessable until the occurrence of the contingencies, except by agreement and consent of the decedent's estate,—which is here lacking; also that the appellants are entitled to credit, (as a deduction from the gross estate, in the computation of the tax), as an administration expense, of the [fol. 145] additional commissions and counsel fees allowed the executors by the Burlington County Orphans' Court.

In the propriety and legality of this result, this Court concurs.

With respect to two other items, however, the parties have not been able to agree.

The statute, (P. L. 1929, c. 144) provides,—p. 252,—that in determining the value of the property transferred, for the purpose of computing the tax on the transfer, certain deductions "and no others" shall be allowed. Included in the specified deductions are "Debts of the decedent owing at the date of death," and

"Transfer taxes paid or payable to other States * * * on any property the transfer of which is taxable hereunder."

Appellants contend that under the first of the above specifications, they are enfitled, in the computation of the tax, to be credited with deduction in the amount of the personal property tax of $1,099,552.52, assessed by the State of Pennsylvania against Dr. Dorrance or his estate, subsequent to his death in respect of his entire personal estate (over and above the small amount thereof actually located in Pennsylvania), for a period of several years prior to the decedent's death. The basis,—and of course the only possible basis,—for the assessment of this tax, was the contention that Dr. Dorrance had been legally domiciled in Pennsylvania. That he was so domiciled in Pennsylvania was determined by the highest court in Pennsylvania, and it is a logical conclusion from proofs and circumstances in this case, that the present appellants were, or would have been, compelled to pay this tax, which they did in fact pay.

were consenting to the payment of this tax, or chargeable with any negligence in their efforts to resist it,—they acted on the advice of able counsel, and their course, especially in view of the circumstances and situation as they appeared at that time, seems quite justifiable. If the present issue dealt with the right of the executors to have this tax payment allowed as a proper disbursement item in their account as such executors in the Orphans' Court, there can be no question but that it would have to be so allowed.

The present issue however is quite different; it is as to whether the executors are entitled to have this tax deducted, under the New Jersey statute, from the amount of the estate on which the New Jersey transfer is to be computed. If the New Jersey Court is bound by the Pennsylvania decision, then it must be determined that the tax was legally owing, and that the executors are entitled to the deduction claimed.

As has been set forth in the earlier opinion herein, however, the New Jersey Courts are not bound by the Pennsylvania decision. As has already been said, this Court has the right to determine for itself the question of the domicile of Dr. Dorrance, and has determined that that domicile was in New Jersey and was not in Pennsylvania, [fol. 147]; and that,—so far at least as this State is concerned,—the assessment of transfer inheritance tax by Pennsylvania, was erroneous and illegal. For the same reason, the Pennsylvania assessment of this personal property tax,—supportable only on the finding that Dr. Dorrance was domiciled in Pennsylvania, must also be held erroneous and illegal. It was, therefore, not a debt legally owing by decedent,—and the appellants are not entitled to the deduction they claim.

For essentially the same reasons, the claim for deduction of the amount paid to Pennsylvania, for the transfer inheritance tax assessed by that State, must be held equally without support. That tax has been determined by this Court to be illegal and erroneous. When the Legislature provided for a deduction of "transfer taxes paid or payable to other States" it necessarily meant transfer taxes for which there was a legal liability on the part of the estate, under the laws of this State or binding this State. It obviously did not mean that if a foreign State made a claim for transfer tax, utterly unsupportable and illegal, and the executors should pay the same without contest, a deduction thereof should be made in the computation of tax by this State. It meant a valid and legal tax; it did not mean an illegal and invalid tax.

In the instant case the executors did not pay the Pennsylvania tax without contest; they made a strong contest and paid only when there was no further possibility of escape therefrom. Nevertheless it still remains that the tax they paid was an illegal and invalid tax,—and a tax therefore that is not intended by our statute to be deductible in the computation of our tax. That the estate of the decedent was compelled to pay the Pennsylvania tax is indeed unfortunate for the estate, but it cannot be allowed to interfere with the right of this State to collect the tax imposed by our statute.

[fol. 148] A contrary view might well result in a complete deprivation of this State,—the State of the domicile of the decedent and therefore the only State legally entitled to transfer tax on his intangible personal estate,—of any transfer tax whatever. The Pennsylvania tax in fact amounted to something like one-sixth of decedent's estate. It might equally well have amounted to one-half or more,—(the trend in such taxation is toward increasing the rates),—and there might have been one or more other States imposing and collecting a similar tax. If the total of such taxes imposed by other States amounted in the aggregate to the entire value of the estate, or even to a large proportion thereof, the tax collectible by this State,—the only State legally entitled to such tax,—would be reduced to nothing or to a comparatively small amount, under the contention of appellants.

The legislative provision means to allow as deduction only valid and legal transfer taxes. The Pennsylvania tax is not such, and appellants are not entitled to deduction in respect thereof.

Final Decree of Prerogative Court

NEW JERSEY PREROGATIVE COURT

ETHEL M. DORRANCE, et als., executors etc., of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, Appellants, vs.

J. H. THAYER-MARTIN, State Tax Commissioner, Respondent

In the Matter of the Transfer Inheritance Taxes in the Estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased

On Appeal. Final Decree. Filed May 11, 1934

This matter coming on to be heard in the presence of David T. Wilentz, Attorney General of the State of New Jersey, proctor for respondent, J. H. Thayer-Martin, State Tax Commissioner, and William D. Lippincott, proctors for petitioners, Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance, and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the Last Will and Testament of John T. Dorrance, deceased, and the record having been examined and arguments of Nathan L. Miller and John Milton, of counsel for petitioners, and Duane E. Minard, of counsel for respondent, having been heard, and briefs and reply briefs having been submitted by both sides, and the court being fully advised, and having considered the same, and

The court being of opinion that decedent, John T. Dorrance, was at the time of his death domiciled in the State of New Jersey, and that the transfer of his estate was properly [fol. 150] and lawfully assessable for transfer inheritance taxes under the Transfer Inheritance Tax Act of New Jersey, of April 20, 1909, and its amendments and supplements, and

The court being further of the opinion that said act, its amendments and supplements, and said assessment, do not deprive petitioners of their property without due process of law in contravention of the XIV Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, and

The court being further of opinion that said assessment is not repugnant to the provisions of Section 1, Article IV of the Constitution of the United States in that it fails to give full faith and credit to a decree of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, entered September 26, 1932, supplemented by an order of said court dated January 10, 1933, Docket No. 41, January Term, 1932, in a cause pending therein entitled "Estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, Appeal of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania," and

The court being further of opinion that said assessment is not erroneous because respondent, in determining the clear market value of the property of said estate, did not take into consideration and allow as deductions the sum of $1,099,552.52 paid by petitioners on February 27, 1934, as personal property taxes assessed against said John T. Dorrance, deceased, by the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes of the County of Delaware, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and

The court being further of opinion that said assessment is not erroneous because respondent, in determining the said clear market value of the property of said estate, did not take into consideration and allow as deductions the sum of $14,394,698.88 and interest thereon in the sum of $104,278.03 for transfer inheritance taxes (and interest) assessed against said estate by the Commonwealth of Penn- [fol. 151] sylvania, including all the intangible personal property included in the assessment here in question, and

The parties having agreed in open court that, if the assessment and levy of transfer inheritance tax by the State of New Jersey be otherwise legal, then in determining the clear market value of the property of said estate liable to tax, said petitioners are entitled to further deductions, (including additional attorneys fees and executors' commissions), in the amount of $533,784.81 upon the corpus of said estate, as allowed by the Orphans' Court of Burlington County, New Jersey;

It is on this eleventh day of May 1934, by his Honor, Luther B. Campbell, Ordinary of the State of New Jersey,

Ordered, adjudged and decreed that the so-called "Compromise Tax" assessment of $4,521,143.90 issued by respondent on October 10, 1932, of transfer inheritance taxes upon the transfer of the estate in expectancy, which are contingent and defeasible under the provisions of the last will and testament of decedent, be and the same is hereby declared to be inoperative and ineffective, without prejudice to the rights of the respective parties in respect to any assessment of transfer inheritance tax which may be made upon said transfer as and when the contingencies named in the will will eventuate, or to compromise or to effect the compromise thereof in the manner laid down in the statute in such case made and provided; and

It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed that respondent in determining the clear market value of the property of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, allow further deductions (including additional counsel fees and executors' commissions), in the amount of $533,784.81, as allowed by the Orphans' Court of Burlington County, New Jersey, and [fol. 152] It is further Ordered, Adjudged and Decreed that the assessment of transfer inheritance taxes as made by respondent on October 10, 1932, amounting to $12,247,333.52 upon the transfer of the property of said John T. Dorrance, deceased, as that of a resident decedent, subject to the above modifications, be and the same in all other respects is hereby affirmed.

Luther A. Campbell, Ordinary. Respectfully advised, Malcolm G. Buchanan, Vice-Ordinary.

NEW JERSEY SUPREME COURT

ETHEL M. DORRANCE, GEORGE MORRIS DORRANCE, M. D., ARTHUR C. DORRANCE and CAMDEN SAFE DEPOSIT AND TRUST COMPANY, Executors of the last will and testament of John T. Dorrance, deceased, Prosecutors, vs.

J. H. THAYER MARTIN, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, Respondent

On Certiorari. Filed Aug. 4, 1934.

Reasons on Certiorari.

The prosecutors, Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the last will and testament of John T. Dorrance, deceased, set forth the following reasons why a certain decree of the Prerogative Court, hereinafter referred to as the decree below, made by Honorable Luther A. Campbell, Ordinary of the State of New Jersey, on the eleventh day of May, 1934, affirming a transfer inheritance tax assessment made by J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, in the matter of the Estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, brought up by the writ issued herein, should be reversed, viz:—

1. The decedent, John T. Dorrance, at his death was not domiciled in New Jersey.

2. The Ordinary erred in holding that the decedent, John T. Dorrance, at his death was domiciled in New Jersey.

[fol. 154] 3. The said decedent, John T. Dorrance, at his death was domiciled in Pennsylvania.

4. The Ordinary erred in holding that the said John T. Dorrance never acquired a domicile in Pennsylvania.

5. The decedent, John T. Dorrance, lost his domicile in New Jersey.

6. The Ordinary erred in holding that the decedent, John T. Dorrance, never lost his domicile in New Jersey.

7. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania had the right and jurisdiction to levy a transfer inheritance tax with respect to the intangible personal property of the said decedent, the said decedent at his death having been domiciled in Pennsylvania.

8. The Ordinary erred in holding that the decedent at his death was not domiciled in Pennsylvania and that, consequently, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was without right or jurisdiction to levy a transfer inheritance tax with respect to the intangible personal property of the said decedent.

9. The Pennsylvania assessment of transfer inheritance tax with respect to intangible personal property of said decedent was legal and valid, said decedent at his death having been domiciled in Pennsylvania.

10. The Ordinary erred in holding that the decedent at his death was not domiciled in Pennsylvania and that consequently the Pennsylvania assessment of transfer inheritance tax, with respect to the intangible personal property of the said decedent, was illegal and invalid.

11. The judgment or decree of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, adjudging that said John T. Dorrance at his death was domiciled in Pennsylvania and upholding the validity of Pennsylvania transfer inheritance tax with respect to the intangible personal property of said decedent was within the jurisdiction of said Court and is binding upon the [fol. 155] Courts of New Jersey, and upon the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey.

12. The Ordinary erred in holding that the said judgment or decree of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court was not within the jurisdiction of said Court and is not binding upon the Courts of New Jersey or the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey.

13. The State of New Jersey had no right or jurisdiction to levy a transfer inheritance tax with respect to the intangible personal property of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, said decedent at his death not having been domiciled in New Jersey.

14. The Ordinary erred in holding that the decedent at his death was domiciled in New Jersey and that consequently the State of New Jersey had the right and jurisdiction to levy a transfer inheritance tax with respect to the intangible personal property of the said decedent.

15. The assessment of a transfer inheritance tax as made by the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey on October 10, 1932, amounting to $12,247,333.52, hereinafter referred to as the New Jersey assessment, upon the transfer of the property of said John T. Dorrance, deceased, as that of a resident decedent, was erroneous, illegal and void insofar as said assessment related to intangible personal property of the said decedent, said decedent at his death not having been domiciled in New Jersey.

16. The Ordinary erred in holding that the decedent at his death was domiciled in New Jersey and that consequently the New Jersey assessment of a transfer inheritance tax was made by the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey on October 10, 1932, amounting to $12,247,333.52 upon the transfer of the property of said John T. Dorrance, deceased, as that of a resident decedent, was legal and valid insofar as said assessment related to intangible personal property of the said decedent.

[fol. 156] 17. The said New Jersey assessment of a transfer inheritance tax, with respect to the intangible personal property of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, was erroneous, illegal and void because it was not authorized by the provisions of the Act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey entitled, "An Act to tax the transfer of property of resident and non-resident decedents by devise, bequest, descent, distribution by statute, gift, deed, grant, bargain and sale in certain cases," approved April 20, 1909, hereinafter called the New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax Act, and the supplements and amendments thereto, said decedent at his death not having been domiciled in New Jersey.

18. Said Ordinary erred in holding that the decedent at his death was domiciled in New Jersey and that consequently the aforesaid New Jersey assessment of a transfer inheritance tax with respect to the intangible personal property of the said decedent was authorized by the provisions of the New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax Act, approved April 20, 1909, and the supplements and amendments thereto.

19. The aforesaid New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax Act, approved April 20, 1909, its amendments and supplements, if authorizing said New Jersey assessment with respect to intangible personal property of said decedent (which prosecutors deny), deprive prosecutors of their property without due process of law, in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, in that the said John T. Dorrance at his death was not domiciled in New Jersey; and consequently said Act and said New Jersey assessment with respect to said intangible personal property are illegal and void.

20. The said Ordinary erred in holding that said decedent at his death was domiciled in New Jersey and that [fol. 157] consequently the said New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax Act, approved April 20, 1909, its amendments and supplements, as construed by said Ordinary to authorize said New Jersey assessment with respect to intangible personal property of said decedent, do not deprive prosecutors of their property without due process of law, in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

21. Said decree below and said New Jersey assessment of a transfer inheritance tax with respect to the intangible personal property of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, deprive the prosecutors of their property without due process of law, in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, in that the said John T. Dorrance at his death was not domiciled in New Jersey; and consequently said decree below and said New Jersey assessment with respect to said intangible personal property are erroneous, illegal and void.

22. Said Ordinary erred in holding that said decedent at his death was domiciled in New Jersey and that consequently the said New Jersey assessment of a transfer inheritance tax with respect to the intangible personal property of the said decedent does not deprive the prosecutors of their property without due process of law, in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

23. Said decree below and said New Jersey assessment with respect to the intangible personal property of said decedent are repugnant to the provisions of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the United States, in that they fail to give full faith and credit, as required by said constitutional provisions, to a certain decree of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, entered September 26, 1932, supplemented and affirmed by two certain orders of said Supreme Court, dated December 20, 1932 and January 10, [fol. 158] 1933 respectively, adjudging that said John T. Dorrance at his death was domiciled in Pennsylvania, and upholding the validity of Pennsylvania Transfer Inheritance Tax with respect to the intangible personal property of said decedent; and consequently said decree below and said New Jersey assessment with respect to said intangible personal property are erroneous, illegal and void.

24. Said Ordinary erred in holding that said New Jersey assessment with respect to the intangible personal property of said decedent is not repugnant to the provisions of Section 1, Article IV, of the Constitution of the United States as aforesaid and in failing to give full faith and credit, as required by said constitutional provisions, to the said decree and supplemental orders of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

25. Said decree below and said New Jersey assessment with respect to the intangible personal property of said decedent deprive the prosecutors of their property without due process of law, in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and also fail to give full faith and credit to said decree and supplemental orders of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in contravention of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the United States, in that said decree below and said New Jersey assessment require said estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, to pay a second transfer inheritance tax on the same transfer of the same intangible personal property of the said decedent, on which said estate has already been compelled to pay a transfer inheritance tax to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and consequently said decree below and said New Jersey assessment with respect to said intangible personal property are erroneous, illegal and void.

26. Said Ordinary erred in holding that said New Jersey assessment does not offend against either the said due [fol. 159] process clause or the said full faith and credit clause of the Federal Constitution in that said New Jersey assessment requires the said Estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, to pay a second transfer inheritance tax on the same transfer of the same intangible personal property of the said decedent, on which the said Estate has already been compelled to pay a transfer inheritance tax to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

27. Said Ordinary erred in determining the clear market value of the property of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, by not allowing as a deduction, as required by the said New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax Act approved April 20, 1909, its amendments and supplements, the sum of $1,099,552.52 paid by the prosecutors to the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes in the County of Delaware, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the same being a settlement of a debt of the said decedent, John T. Dorrance, representing personal property taxes assessed against the said John T. Dorrance for each of the years 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929 and 1930.

28. Said Ordinary erred in determining the clear market value of the property of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased, by not allowing as a deduction, as required by the New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax Act, approved April 20, 1909, its amendments and supplements, the Pennsylvania transfer inheritance taxes amounting to $17,437,655.26, assessed against the said decedent's estate, upon the same transfer of the same intangible personal property of said decedent upon which the said State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey made the New Jersey assessment, and payable to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which said Pennsylvania Transfer Inheritance Taxes the said prosecutors were and are compelled to pay as and when due, and of which they were compelled to pay and paid the sum of $14,394,698.88 to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on March 31, 1933.

[fols. 160-166] 29. The Ordinary erred in entering the decree below under date of May 11th, 1934, affirming said New Jersey assessment, instead of cancelling and setting the same aside, for the reasons above set forth.

30. Said decree below of the Ordinary and the imposition of the said New Jersey transfer inheritance tax with respect to the intangible personal property of the Estate of said John T. Dorrance, deceased, are illegal, erroneous and unlawful for the reasons above set forth, and divers other reasons.

Wm. D. Lippincott, Attorney for Prosecutors.

In Equity

No. 5092

[Title omitted]

AMENDMENT TO ANSWER—Filed April 12, 1935

Defendants amend their joint and several answer as follows:

1. Amend paragraph 43 to read as follows:

43. They say that from the decree of the Prerogative Court, the executors obtained a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey, and they admit that on February 11, 1934 said court sustained said decree of the Prerogative Court; further answering they say that copies of the decision of the Supreme Court and of the judgment of said court sustaining said decree of the Prerogative Court are hereto annexed and made part hereof.

[fol. 169] They say that said judgment of the Supreme Court is final but that the same is subject to judicial review by the Court of Errors and Appeals of the State of New Jersey; further answering they say that under the laws of the State of New Jersey the executors may have such judicial review by the Court of Errors and Appeals, by an appeal to that court, as a matter of right, within one year after the date of the judgment of said Supreme Court; the executors have not taken an appeal to said Court of Errors and Appeals.

They admit that said tax cannot be collected until after the institution of an action of debt in the name of the State of New Jersey, or by a statutory proceeding in the Prerogative Court of New Jersey; further answering they say that said statutory proceeding is as follows:

or corporations interested in the property liable to said tax to appear before the Ordinary on a certain day, not more than three months from the date of such citation, and show cause why such tax should not be paid; the service of such citation and the subsequent proceedings had thereon shall conform to the practice prevailing in the Prerogative Court. Upon the making of any decree the register of the Prerogative Court shall, upon the request of the State Tax Commissioner, furnish one or more copies of said decree, and the same shall be docketed and filed by the clerk of the Supreme Court, or by the county clerk of any county in this State, upon the request of the State Tax Commissioner, and the same shall have the same effect as a lien by judgment, and execution shall issue thereon according to the rules and practice appertaining to other judgments docketed and filed with said respective clerks.

[fol. 170] "22. Whenever the State Tax Commissioner shall have reason to believe that any tax is due and unpaid under this act, after the neglect and refusal of the persons or corporations interested in the property and liable to said tax to pay the same, he shall notify the Attorney-General of this State, in writing, of such failure to pay such tax, and the said Attorney-General, when so notified, if he have probable cause to believe that a tax is due and unpaid, shall prosecute the proceeding before the Ordinary of this State, as provided for in section twenty-one of this act, and the State Treasurer shall, on the warrant of the Comptroller, and the certification of the State Tax Commissioner, pay all the expenses of said proceeding."

2. Amend paragraph 44 to read as follows:

44. They deny that when defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner, made his said assessment, and when the said assessment had been sustained by the said Prerogative Court, the administrative procedure provided by said inheritance tax act was at an end; and they say that the administrative procedure provided by the said inheritance tax act was at an end at the time the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey had completed his assessment of the tax against the estate of the decedent on October 10, 1932.

They admit that under the Constitution and Laws of New Jersey, the Supreme Court of New Jersey, on certiorari, is authorized to review the facts as well as the law and to take additional testimony.

They admit that on certiorari, said court is authorized to affirm, reverse or modify the assessment made by the State Tax Commissioner; any they say that on the review of the decree of the Prerogative Court sustaining said assessment, (with modifications), said Supreme Court sustained said decree and said assessment (as modified by said decree), and entered its judgment dismissing the writ of certiorari brought by the executors to review said decree; [fol. 171] further answering they say that said authority of said Supreme Court is one of the judicial powers of said court inherent therein, under the Constitution and Laws of the State of New Jersey, as one of the prerogatives of said court, to supervise the proceedings and to correct the errors of all statutory tribunals.

They deny that the action of said court in entering its said judgment, affirming as aforesaid the decree of said Prerogative Court, was administrative and not judicial; further answering they say that said judgment of said Supreme Court was by a court of competent jurisdiction in a proceeding between the same parties in interest, or their privies, as are the parties in interest, or their privies, in the present case, and that said judgment of said court is res judicata as between the executors and the defendants in this suit.

3. Amend paragraph 47 to read as follows:

47. They deny paragraph 47; except that they admit that on February 13, 1935, plaintiffs, by their counsel, notified defendant Martin, through his counsel, that plaintiffs intended to take an appeal to the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals from the judgment of the Supreme Court of New Jersey; they further admit that under the statutes of New Jersey, plaintiffs may take their appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals at any time prior to February 11, 1936; they have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to plaintiffs' allegation that they will take such appeal prior to that date, unless in the meantime this action renders such appeal unnecessary; further answering said paragraph they say that no appeal has been taken by plaintiffs to the Court of Errors and Appeals; that because of the advice of plaintiffs' counsel to defendant Martin, through his counsel, that plaintiffs intended to take an appeal to the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals, no action has been taken by these defendants, or otherwise, on [fols. 172-174] behalf of the State of New Jersey, to collect said tax, or to enforce the judgment of the Prerogative Court or of the New Jersey Supreme Court.

David T. Wilentz, Attorney General of New Jersey, Solicitor for Defendants. Duane E. Minard, George S. Hobart, Counsel.

[fol. 175] IN UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

In Equity

No. 5091—No. 5092

[Title omitted]

On Motion for Interlocutory Injunction

ANSWERING AFFIDAVIT OF WM. D. KELLY—Filed April 12, 1935

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
County of Essex, ss:

William D. Kelly, of full age, being duly sworn according to law, on his oath deposes and says:

1. I am one of the persons named as a defendant in each of the above entitled suits.

2. I am State supervisor of the Inheritance Tax Division of the State Tax Department of the State of New Jersey. Said division was originally created in 1909 in the Depart-
[fol. 176] ment of the Comptroller of the Treasury, and so remained until July 1, 1931, when it was transferred to the State Tax Department by Chapter 197, of the Laws of 1931 (N. J. P. L. 496).

3. I have been in charge of said division since April 1914. There is no statutory creation or designation of the office or position of "State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey," as alleged in the complaints filed herein.

4. I am an attorney-at-law of the State of New Jersey, having been admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court at the June term, 1901. For the past 24 years I have devoted my attention, professionally and officially, solely to the study and administration of transfer inheritance and estate tax laws of New Jersey, the other states, and of Congress, and have examined and kept familiar with the decisions on these subjects of the various state and federal courts.

5. I have read and compared the bills of complaint in the two above entitled suits and have read and compared the affidavits filed in each suit in support of the application for interlocutory injunction and find that the bill of complaint and the affidavits in Suit No. 5091 contain the same allegations; that the affidavits and bill of complaint in Suit No. 5092, contain the same allegations; and the bill of complaint in Suit No. 5091 and the bill of complaint in Suit No. 5092 are alike in all essential respects, except as to identity of plaintiffs and alleged grounds of jurisdiction, and this affidavit is intended to answer the bills of complaint and supporting affidavits in both suits.

6. I have been familiar with, and have followed closely, the litigations in the State of Pennsylvania and in the State of New Jersey, respecting the assessment and collection of [fol. 177] inheritance taxes upon the Estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, referred to in the bills of complaint.

7. A complete official record in the case in the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, filed by the executors in the State Tax Department, as alleged in paragraph 34 of the complaint and in the twenty-second paragraph of the supporting affidavit of George Morris Dorrance, M. D., in Suit No. 5091, and paragraph 41 of the complaint and the twenty-second paragraph of the supporting affidavit of George Morris Dorrance, M. D., in Suit No. 5092, is submitted herewith to this court, and incorporated in this affidavit by reference, consisting of four bound pamphlets, each entitled as follows:

"In the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, Eastern District

No. 41—January Term, 1932

Estate of John T. Dorrance, Deceased. Appeal of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Record

"Appeal from the Decree of the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, as of March Term, 1931, No. 120." Volume 1 (Exhibit 1-a), Volume 2 (Exhibit 1-b), Volume 3, "Exhibits" (Exhibit 1-c), Volume 4, "Exhibits—Photographs and Photostats," (Exhibit 1-d).

[fol. 178] 8. The printed "State of the Case," in the Supreme Court of New Jersey, entitled:

"New Jersey Supreme Court

Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance, and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the Last Will and Testament of John T. Dorrance, Deceased, Prosecutors, vs.

J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, Respondent" is submitted herewith, and incorporated in this affidavit by reference, and marked Exhibit 2.

9. The record before the State Tax Commissioner, before the Prerogative Court, and before the Supreme Court of New Jersey, is contained in the four printed volumes above referred to as Exhibits 1-a to 1-d, inclusive, and Exhibit 2, and the issues of the litigation in New Jersey were decided upon that record.

10. A complete abstract of testimony and exhibits contained in Exhibits 1-a to 1-d, inclusive, and Exhibit 2, contained in a printed book (entitled in the same case as Exhibit 2) as submitted to the New Jersey Prerogative Court and to the New Jersey Supreme Court as "Appendix to Respondent's Brief," is submitted herewith, and incorporated in this affidavit by reference, as Exhibit 3.

11. The executors of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, were so appointed in the will of said decedent, dated May 15, 1928, as filed in the State Tax Department by said executors as a part of the proof submitted in the inheritance tax proceedings before the Comptroller of the Treas-
[fol. 179] ury and the State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey. A copy of the pertinent parts of said will is annexed hereto as Exhibit 4.

12. On October 1, 1930, the executors, acting under the provisions of said will, filed with the Surrogate of the County of Burlington, State of New Jersey, a sworn petition for probate therof and for the issuance of letters testamentary thereon, and made proof, under oath, of the death and residence of decedent in the State of New Jersey, in accordance with the statutes and other laws of New Jersey, and on October 2, 1930, said Surrogate, pursuant to said petition and proofs, entered his order of probate of said will and issued letters testamentary thereon to said executors. A copy of the proceedings and order on said petition is attached hereto as Exhibit 5.

13. By virtue of said proceedings, shown in Exhibit 5, the executors undertook the administration of the estate of the decedent under the jurisdiction of the Orphans' Court of Burlington County, and the laws of the State of New Jersey, and have ever since continued to administer the estate, and are now administering the estate and exercising the powers of trust conferred upon them by said will, under and by virtue of said proceedings and under laws of New Jersey and the jurisdiction of the Burlington County Orphans' Court. No will of decedent has ever been probated, and no letters of administration have been applied for or granted on the estate of decedent, in Pennsylvania. His estate has, from the beginning, been administered according to the provisions of the will and solely under authority of said probate proceedings and the jurisdiction of the laws and courts of the State of New Jersey as the estate of a decedent resident thereof.

14. On or about October 15, 1931, said executors filed their petition for first accounting of the estate in the Burlington County Orphans' Court, and said accounting was allowed copy of the pertinent parts thereof are annexed hereto as Exhibit 6. The first item on Schedule "B" of said accounting (Ex. 6) is a legacy of $100,000 to Ethel M. Dorrance, one of the plaintiffs in Suit No. 5091, paid pursuant to the provisions of the Tenth section of the will of said decedent, as printed at page 195 on Exhibit 2. All of the items shown on Schedule "D" of said accounting (Ex. 6) are monthly payments made to the beneficiaries of said will under the Fourteenth section thereof, as printed at pages 197-210 of Exhibit 2, out of the income of said estate, including such monthly payments of $30,000 or more, to Ethel M. Dorrance, one of the plaintiffs in Suit No. 5091, and monthly payments of $10,000 to Elinor Dorrance Hill, the plaintiff in Suit No. 5092. In Schedule "F" of said accounting (Ex. 6) the assessment of New Jersey Inheritances Taxes was set up by the Executors and allowed by the court as a principal liability reserve. Schedule "K" of said accounting (Ex. 6) shows that the executors who are the plaintiffs in this court in Suit No. 5091, received allowances of commissions on the account of $900,000.

15. On or about November 5, 1932, said executors filed their second intermediary accounting in the Burlington County Orphans' Court which was allowed by order thereof entered on November 25, 1932. Extracts of the pertinent parts of said account are attached hereto as Exhibit 7. Schedule "D" of said accounting (Ex. 7) shows monthly payments since the previous accounting (Ex. 6) to the beneficiaries of said estate out of income of the estate, including payments of $35,000 or more per month to Ethel M. Dorrance, one of the plaintiffs in Suit No. 5091, and payments of $10,000 per month to Elinor Dorrance Hill, plaintiff in Suit No. 5092. In schedule "F" of said accounting (Ex. 7) said Executors set up an accrual for New Jersey [fol. 181] inheritance taxes as a principal liability reserve, which was allowed by said court in its order on that accounting. As shown by Schedule "K" of said accounting, (Ex. 7) said executors, plaintiffs in Suit No. 5091, received additional commissions on said Second Accounting of $600,000.

16. No accounting has been filed by said executors since the accounting allowed November 25, 1932, (Ex. 7), but deponent is informed and believes that monthly payments out of the income of said estate under said last will have continued down to the present time to the beneficiaries shown in Schedule "D" in Exhibit 7, including large monthly payments to said Ethel M. Dorrance and said Elinor Dorrance Hill.

17. Solely by virtue of said probate proceedings said executors filed their amended petition of appeal in the New Jersey Prerogative Court and prosecuted the same to review the assessment made by the State Tax Commissioner on October 10, 1932, and solely by virtue of that authority they obtained and prosecuted their writ of certiorari in the New Jersey Supreme Court to review the final decree of the Prerogative Court, as hereinafter set forth, and solely by virtue of that authority they filed their complaint in this court in Suit No. 5091, and solely by virtue of any rights which she derived under said will and said probate proceedings, said Elinor Dorrance Hill filed her bill of complaint in this court in Suit No. 5092.

18. In paragraph 2 of each of the complaints the several defendants herein are correctly enumerated in their official titles, except for this deponent who has no statutory title as indicated therein.

19. I am familiar with the provision of the transfer inheritance tax laws of New Jersey, and have been for the past 24 years. I deny the allegation of the last sentence of [fol. 182] of paragraph 2 of the complaint in Suit No. 5091 and the third paragraph of the complaint in Suit No. 5092, and the corresponding paragraphs of the supporting affidavits, that all of these defendants are clothed under the laws of New Jersey with duties in the assessment and collection of transfer taxes. The only powers or duties with respect to the assessment of transfer inheritance taxes are those which were conferred upon the Comptroller of the Treasury prior to July 1, 1931, and have since been conferred solely upon the State Tax Commissioner. A printed copy of the transfer inheritance tax act, Chapter 228, Laws of 1909, as supplemented and amended to and including the year 1934, is herewith submitted to the court as Exhibit 8, and incorporated herein by reference. The only powers and duties existing under said laws with respect to compelling the collection of such taxes is provided in Section 21 of said act (p. 22 of Exhibit 8), which directs the State Tax Commissioner, in case of non-payment of tax, to report such fact, in writing, to the register of the Prerogative Court and directs that such register shall issue a citation to the persons involved to appear before the Ordinary (which is the New Jersey Prerogative Court) on a day to be fixed therein, and Section 22 (pp. 22-3 of Exhibit 8) which directs the State Tax Commissioner in such case to notify the Attorney General, whose duty it is to then prosecute the proceedings before the Ordinary as prescribed in Section 21. The only persons named as defendants in these suits who are, under existing law, charged with any duty or power of assessment or collection of inheritance taxes are the State Tax Commissioner and the Attorney General.

20. Paragraphs 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 18 of the complaint in Suit No. 5091, and paragraphs 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24 and 26 of the complaint in Suit No. 5092, and the corresponding paragraphs of the supporting affidavits [fol. 183] of George Morris Dorrance, M. D., and Charlotte Dorrance Wright, in both suits, do not accurately set forth, and are contrary to the facts with respect to the matters therein stated, as testified to by the testimony of said George Morris Dorrance, M. D., at pages 63a to 129a of the Pennsylvania record, Exhibit 1-a (abstracted at pages 52-8 of Exhibit 3) and by the plaintiff Arthur C. Dorrance at pages 129a-169a of Exhibit 1-a; (abstracted at pages 58-63 of Exhibit 3), and by the plaintiff Ethel M. Dorrance at pages 250a-358a of Exhibit 1-a; (abstracted at pages 73-85 of Exhibit 3), and as shown by other testimony and exhibits submitted on behalf of said executors in the various proceedings in the two states contained in Exhibits 1-a to 1-d, inclusive, and Exhibits 2 and 3.

21. In answer to the allegations in paragraph 26 of the complaint in Suit No. 5091, and paragraph 33 of the complaint in Suit No. 5092; and corresponding paragraphs of the supporting affidavits; at the request of the attorneys for the executors I attended as a witness at the trial at the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, to identify an exemplified copy of the bill for the assessment of New Jersey inheritance taxes upon the Dorrance Estate, which was presented to me by said attorneys at that trial and offered by them as their Exhibit C, (Exhibit 1-c, p. 961-a). That testimony is given in full at pages 169-a to 170-a of Exhibit 1-a, and is abstracted on page 63 of Exhibit 3.

22. Referring to the allegations of paragraph 28 of the complaint in Suit No. 5091, and paragraph 35 of the complaint in Suit No. 5092, and the corresponding allegations in the supporting affidavits, a true copy of the decision of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court on the application of the executors for a reargument of the Federal question, is attached hereto as Exhibit 9.

[fol. 184] 23. The assessment of October 17, 1931, of transfer inheritance tax against decedent's estate referred to in paragraph 32 of the complaint in Suit No. 5091 and paragraph 39 of the complaint in Suit No. 5092, and the corresponding paragraphs of the supporting affidavits, was made by the State Tax Commissioner on the proofs and documents submitted on behalf of the Executors by their proctor, as appointed in Section Thirty-fifth of said will (Exhibit 2, pp. 227-8), to the Comptroller of the Treasury and the State Tax Commissioner, respectively, including an Inheritance Tax Return and an amended Inheritance Tax Return signed and sworn to by the said Executors and printed in full, as a part of the return of the Prerogative Court to a writ of certiorari from the New Jersey Supreme Court, at pages 97-105, 124-228 of Exhibit 2. Included in that return is a finding of fact of the Comptroller of the Treasury, dated May 13, 1931, as follows:

"After a careful consideration of all available data, including oral statements submitted by you, (Hon. William D. Lippincott, Proctor for the executors) during your recent appearance, the Department has concluded that the legal domicile of the decedent at the date of his death and for many years prior thereto was Cinnaminson, Burlington County, New Jersey." (State of the Case, Exhibit 2, page 163.)

24. The assessment of October 10, 1932, referred to in Paragraph 34 of the complaint in Suit No. 5091, and paragraph 41 of the complaint in Suit No. 5092, and the corresponding paragraphs of the supporting affidavits, was made after additional proof and documents had been submitted on behalf of the Executors by their proctor, as mentioned in paragraph 23, to the State Tax Commissioner, which additional proof appears in Exhibits 1-a, 1-b, 1-c and 1-d, and Exhibit 2, as abstracted in Exhibit 3, pages 20-158.

[fol. 185] 25. Deponent denies that the decision of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court was based upon the same evidence submitted to the State Tax Department and to the Courts of New Jersey, and says that Exhibit 2 contains much proof submitted on behalf of the Executors before the State Tax Department which was not included in the record of the Pennsylvania proceedings, (Exhibit 1-a and 1-d inclusive.)

26. Section 18 of the New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Act, (p. 21, Exhibit 8) provides:

"Any person of corporation dissatisfied with said appraisement or assessment may appeal therefrom to the Ordinary of this State within sixty days after the making and filing of such assessment, or giving a bond, approved by the Ordinary of this State, conditioned to pay said tax so as aforesaid levied by the said State Tax Commissioner, together with interest and costs, of said tax be affirmed by the Ordinary."

And Section 20 of said Act, (page 22, Exhibit 8), provides:

"The Ordinary of this State shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine all questions in relation to any tax levied under the provisions of this act."

27. Pursuant to these provisions of the Statute, the Executors appealed to the Ordinary by amended petition of appeal filed March 14, 1933, as printed at pages 7 to 18, inclusive, in the "State of the Case" in the New Jersey Supreme Court, (Exhibit 2) to which petition of appeal one of the defendants here, J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner, joined issue in the answer and answer in lieu of pleas filed March 28, 1933, as printed at pages 77 to 89 in the "State of the Case" in the New Jersey Supreme Court, (Exhibit 2), and said case was duly heard and argued in the Prerogative Court of the State of New Jersey and decided in the conclusions of the Court filed February [fol. 186] 7, 1934, printed at pages 271 to 287 of Exhibit 2, and in the supplemental conclusions filed May 10, 1934, printed at pages 288 to 293 inclusive of Exhibit 2, and on May 8, 1934, a final decree was accordingly entered in the New Jersey Prerogative Court, as printed at pages 294 to 297 of Exhibit 2, awarding a liquidated money judgment of $12,247,333.52, which, together with the addition of lawful interest and costs may be docketed as a judgment in the New Jersey Supreme Court and execution issued thereon.

28. The Executors on July 6, 1934, applied to the New Jersey Supreme Court and obtained a writ dated that day, issuing out of said Court to the Ordinary and Judge of the Prerogative Court of the State of New Jersey to review the above mentioned final decree of the Prerogative Court. Said writ is printed at pages 1 and 2 of Exhibit 2. The reasons assigned and filed by the Executors on August 4, 1934, on said writ of certiorari are printed at pages 298-306 of Exhibit 2.

29. Hearing and argument on said writ came on for independent judicial determination of all questions of fact and law before the Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey at the October Term, 1934, on the record contained in Exhibits 1-a to 1-d, inclusive, and Exhibit 2, and that Court rendered its decision on February 8, 1935, a true copy of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit 10, and a rule for judgment thereon was accordingly entered February 11, 1935, affirming the decision of the Prerogative Court and dismissing the writ. A true copy of said rule for judgment is annexed hereto as Exhibit 11.

30. The subject-matter and the issues of fact and law presented in the amended petition of appeal (Ex. 2, pp. 7-18) and the answer, and answer in lieu of plea (Ex. 2, pp. 77-89), and determined in the Prerogative Court, and in the reasons filed by the executors under their writ of [fol. 187] certiorari and determined in the New Jersey Supreme Court (Ex. 2, pp. 298-306), are the same as those presented by the complaints and supporting affidavit in these cases, and the parties were the same in the proceedings in the courts of New Jersey as between the executors and the State Tax Commissioner as in the complaint in Suit No. 5091 in this court, and the defendant as far as the State Tax Commissioner is concerned, was the same defendant or respondent in the New Jersey courts as in complaint No. 5092 and the plaintiff therein was privy to, and bound by, the proceedings in the New Jersey Courts instituted by the Executors on her behalf, (pp. 102 and 104, Exhibit 2; Exhibits 4 and 5).

31. All the questions of law and fact and the subject-matter at issues presented by the complaints in these cases are res judicata.

32. With respect to the allegation in paragraph 38 of the complaint in Suit No. 5091 and paragraph 45 of the complaint in Suit No. 5092, and the supporting affidavits in both cases that these defendants threatened to collect said transfer inheritance taxes, deponent says that Sections 21 and 22 of the New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax Laws (pp. 22-3; of Exhibit 6) provide the means for enforcing the collection of the tax. The initiation of such proceedings rests solely with the State Tax Commissioner and the only other state officer having power to prosecute is the Attorney General, who is directed, only if and when the State Tax Commissioner initiates such a proceeding, to prosecute the same as required in Section 21 of the Act. The State Tax Commissioner has made no report, in writing, to the register of the Prerogative Court and the register of the Prerogative Court has issued no citations to these plaintiffs to appear to show cause why the tax should not be paid, as provided in Section 21 of the Act, and the State Tax Commissioner has not notified the Attorney Gen- [fol. 188] eral in writing of such failure to pay the tax and no proceedings has been prosecuted by the Attorney General before the Ordinary as provided in Section 22 of the Act.

33. Deponent denies the allegations of paragraph 43 of the complaint in Suit No. 5091 and paragraph 48 of the complaint in Suit No. 5092, and the corresponding paragraphs of the supporting affidavits, that because of any threat of these defendants or any of them to collect said tax, plaintiffs or any of them, have been compelled to maintain a large cash reserve at a low rate of interest and have been and are being prevented from selling, pledging, transferring or otherwise utilizing principal property of the decedent's estate of the appraised value of more than $81,000,000. He says that, with the exception of certain small direct bequests made in and certain small trusts created by decedent's will, the entire corpus of the estate is placed in trust in the custody and care of these executors as trustees by the Fourteenth Article of decedent's will (printed at pages 197-210 of Exhibit 2) to be administered by them in accordance with the provisions of said will for a period not to exceed 16 years or until the happening of certain events and the falling in of certain contingencies described therein, so that there is no occasion, or right, to sell, pledge, transfer or otherwise utilize the principal property of said estate except as therein provided. With respect to the allegations concerning the substitution of securities in the second division of said paragraphs of the complaints, and affidavits, respectively this deponent says that the substitution of securities therein described is required under Section 12 of the Inheritance Tax Law (pp. 16-19; Exhibit 8); and that Section 5 of said act (p. 14; Exhibit 8) imposes a lien upon all the property of decedent for such taxes from the date of his death until secured by bond or otherwise pro-

[fol. 189] vided for in accordance with the terms of the act. Deponent further says that in the matter of the matured State bonds mentioned in said paragraphs, the State Tax Department did issue waivers on condition that other securities be pledged as alleged, and the executors entered into a voluntary agreement, in writing, with said State Tax Commissioner for that purpose, a true copy of which agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit 12. Said agreement provides that the substituted securities are to be registered in the names of the executors and held by the Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, one of the executors, under the joint control of it and the State Tax Commissioner, and the executors receive the interest on said bonds as it accrues. Respecting the third division of said paragraphs and affidavits, respectively, alleging that on June 26, 1934, in order to avoid the posting of a bond of upwards of $24,000,000, the executors placed in escrow securities with an appraised value of $12,360,000; deponent says that under the practice of the courts of New Jersey one who seeks to review a judgment by writ of certiorari, may be required to give bond or security in such amount as may be approved by the Court. On the application by the executors to the New Jersey Supreme Court for the writ of certiorari the court imposed a condition for the issuance of the writ, that plaintiffs furnish security either in the form of a bond or a deposit of adequate securities to secure the amount of the judgment. The Executors chose the second alternative and voluntarily offered to deposit said shares of stock, and voluntarily entered into an agreement with the State Tax Commissioner for that purpose. A copy of that agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit 13. It provides that such securities shall be delivered, without change in registration, to, and be held by, Camden Safe Deposit Trust Company, one of the executors, in escrow, under the joint control of it and the State Tax Commissioner. The Executors are free [fol. 190] to receive the dividends accruing on said securities and are not otherwise hampered in their ownership thereof. Said securities form part of the corpus of the estate held in trust by the Executors under Article Fourteenth of said will and cannot be sold, pledged, transferred or otherwise utilized, except as therein provided.

35. Deponent further says that if and when the Executors are free, and desire, to sell, pledge, transfer or otherwise utilize the bonds or stocks mentioned in paragraph 34 of this affidavit, or any other personal property of the estate, they may do so by giving bond or other security for the payment of the judgment for taxes or by substituting other satisfactory securities. In the present instance, the only security which said Executors have given for, or that is required pending the litigation of these taxes, is the deposit of said bonds and stock in escrow under the terms of said agreements (Exs. 12 and 13), and they are not by that arrangement deprived of any of the benefits or proceeds thereof, and at the same time they are relieved from giving bond, or paying premiums on a bond or other forms of security.

36. Plaintiffs in said suits are therefore not confronted, as alleged in paragraph 44 in suit No. 5091, and paragraph 49 in suit No. 5092, and the corresponding paragraphs in supporting affidavits, with any possible demands of defendants for bonds or securities, in addition to the security already provided by the deposit of the aforesaid bonds and stocks under said agreements (Exhibits 12-13).

dent's will, and not by any threat of defendants to collect the taxes. Deponent further says that there is nothing to prevent the plaintiffs from obtaining a waiver of all or any part of said estate except said bonds and stock which are now held in escrow under said agreements (Exhibits 12 and 13). Said Executors have had at all times, and still have, the right and privilege, insofar as the State of New Jersey or any of its officers are concerned, to apply for and obtain a waiver, releasing all of the remainder of said estate except said bonds and stocks so held in escrow, and such further security as may be necessary to cover additional taxes (not involved in these suits) that may hereafter become due upon the falling in of certain contingent remainders or estates in trust created by the will. The same is true of the allegations contained in paragraph 47 of the complaint, in suit No. 5091, and paragraph 52 of the complaint in suit No. 5092, and the corresponding paragraphs of supporting affidavits.

38. With respect to the allegations of paragraphs 48, 49, 50 and 51 of the complaint in suit No. 5091, and paragraphs 53, 54, 55 and 56 of the complaint in suit No. 5092, and the corresponding paragraphs of the supporting affidavits, deponent says that the Transfer Inheritance Tax law of New Jersey provides in Section 15 thereof (Exhibit 8, p. 20) as follows:

"When any amount of said tax shall have been paid erroneously to the State Tax Commissioner, it shall be lawful for the Comptroller of the Treasury on satisfactory proof rendered to State Tax Commissioner of such erroneous payments, and duly certified by him to the comptroller, to draw his warrant on the State Treasurer, in [fol. 192] favor of the executor, administrator, person or persons who have paid any such tax in error, or who may be lawfully entitled to receive the same, for the amount of such tax so paid in error; provided, that all such applications for the repayment of such tax shall be made within two years from the date of such payment."

And Section 24 of said act (Exhibit 8, p. 24) provides as follows:

"All amounts becoming due under the provisions of this act shall be paid from the same fund provided in the annual appropriation bill for the payment of refunds to estates pursuant to section fifteen, chapter two hundred and twenty-eight, laws of one thousand nine hundred and nine, as amended * * *."

Item "D-17, State Tax Department" of the annual appropriation act of the Legislature of New Jersey for the year 1934 (Chapter 232, N. J. P. L. at p. 580), provides as follows:

"Upon approval of the State Tax Commissioner, the Comptroller of the Treasury is hereby authorized and it shall be his duty, to withdraw from the state fund such amounts as shall be required to carry out the provisions of Chapter 238, Laws of 1909, and to refund and pay such claims as may be necessary and the State Treasurer shall pay same upon the warrants of said State Comptroller, and there is hereby appropriated an amount necessary therefor."

The "Claims" referred to in said act are claims of refunds made under the provisions of Section 15 of the Transfer Inheritance Tax law above quoted. A like provision has existed in the annual appropriation acts of the Legislation of the State of New Jersey for many years past, and it is the practice to include the same provision in each annual appropriation act. All refunds which have been made in the past under Section 15 of the Transfer [fol. 193] Inheritance Act have been paid out of such provisions of the annual appropriation acts. Deponent further says that Chapter 255 of the Laws of 1934 (N. J. P. L. 717), referred to in paragraphs 48 and 53 of said complaints, respectively, provides, in sections 14, 15 and 16 (N. J. P. L. 1934, pp. 721-722), that funds to meet the interest and principal upon said $10,000,000 of bonds, as they mature, shall be paid first out of the proceeds of the licensing of the sale and delivery of alcoholic beverages, and if that source is insufficient; second, out of moneys received for inheritance taxes in certain classes of cases therein defined, including the case in question, and if either of the first and second sources are not realized, or are insufficient; third, then out of an assessment levied and collected annually in each of the municipalities of the counties of New Jersey upon real and personal property.

Said bond issue does not therefore depend primarily upon the taxes collected from decedent's estate, and such taxes, if erroneously or illegally paid, are recoverable under the aforesaid provision of law. Deponent further says that under the laws and practice of New Jersey, if the State Tax Commissioner, the Comptroller of the Treasury, and the State Treasurer, or any of them, should fail or refuse to act in the matter of refunds in accordance with the provisions of Section 15 of the Inheritance Tax Act in case of any taxes erroneously or illegally paid by plaintiffs, they have an adequate remedy at law by mandamus or certiorari, as the case may be, in either state or federal courts having competent jurisdiction in the premises, to compel such action or to review any refusal to do so by the State Tax Commissioner, the Comptroller of the Treasury and the State Treasurer, or any of them. It is the established law of the state that the New Jersey Supreme Court will in circumstances like the present case, compel a refund of taxes erroneously paid, and that said provisions of the law are applicable where a tax imposed [fol. 194] has been adjudged unlawful in whole or in part, and that such statutes enable the court, in proper proceedings, to compel the restoration of the tax unlawfully paid, and that under such statutory provisions the court can administer complete justice between the state and the taxpayer, without restraining the collection of the tax. The financial resources of the State of New Jersey are ample to pay any refunds of taxes erroneously or illegally paid by said Executors. For the year 1934 the total ratables of real and personal property in the State of New Jersey (exclusive of property taxed by license, gross receipts or excise taxes in lieu of all other taxes) was in excess of five billion nine hundred million dollars.

39. Respecting the allegations contained in paragraphs 58 and 63 of the complaints, respectively, and the corresponding paragraphs of the supporting affidavits, the deponent says that neither the State of New Jersey nor any of these defendants, nor any officer of the State of New Jersey, was a party to the suit of the Executors in the State of Pennsylvania, and neither the judgment of March 27, 1933 of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania nor the judgment of March 29, 1933 of the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, mentioned in paragraphs 30 and 37 of the complaints, respectively, and the corresponding paragraphs of the supporting affidavits, was ever established or entered as a judgment in any court of the State of New Jersey or of the United States.

40. With respect to the allegations of paragraphs 59 and 60 of the complaint in suit No. 5091 and paragraphs 64 and 65 of the complaint in suit No. 5092, and the corresponding paragraphs of the supporting affidavits, deponent says that the plaintiffs in either suit are not threatened with irreparable injury unless this court grants equitable relief, and that the plaintiffs are not without [fol. 195] adequate remedy at law, because the executors may at any time within one year from the entry of the judgment in the New Jersey Supreme Court, review the same as a matter of right, under Section 25 of the Practice Act of New Jersey (N. J. P. L. 1916, p. 109) and New Jersey Supreme Court rules 137 to 147 inclusive, on appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals, the court of last resort in New Jersey, which appeal operates as a stay in all proceedings under the judgment of the New Jersey Supreme Court, and from any judgment of the Court of Errors and Appeals, if the same be adverse to the Executors, they may review the same in the Supreme Court of the United States, in accordance with the statutes, and the practice of that court. Such appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals, and such right of review of its judgment in the Supreme Court of the United States, affords to plaintiffs in suit No. 5091, and the plaintiff in suit No. 5092 as represented by said Executors, the opportunity to avoid irreparable injury, and affords to them an adequate remedy at law.

Extracts from Last Will and Testament of John T. Dorrance, Deceased

I, John T. Dorrance, of the Township of Cinnaminson, in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, being of sound and disposing mind, memory and understanding, do make and publish this, my last will and testament, hereby revoking any and all will or wills heretofore by me at any time made.

* * * * * * *

Seventh: I give and bequeath unto my wife, Ethel M. Dorrance, all my clothing, and all of my furniture and furnishings and household goods and household effect of every kind and description whatsoever, including silverware, china and glassware, rugs and pictures which I shall own at the time of my decease, excepting my grandfather's clock above bequeathed and excepting all tapestries; all of the furnishings and furniture and household goods and household effect of every kind and description, now used by my wife and myself in the house where I now reside in Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, and elsewhere, excepting my grandfather's clock above bequeathed and excepting all tapestries, being the property of my said wife, Ethel M. Dorrance.

* * * * * * *

Sixteenth: I hereby nominate, constitute and appoint my said wife, Ethel M. Dorrance, my brother, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., my brother, Arthur C. Dorrance, and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, of Camden, New Jersey, Executors of this, my last will and testament.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 197] Seventeenth: And I do hereby nominate, constitute and appoint my said wife, Ethel M. Dorrance, my said brother, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., my said brother, Arthur C. Dorrance, and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Trustee under this, my last will and testament.

* * * * * * *

Eighteenth: I do hereby nominate, constitute and appoint Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company of Camden, New Jersey, Guardian of my said children until they shall respectively arrive at the age of twenty-one years, and I do hereby authorize and empower said Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, as such Guardian of my said children to expend for the maintenance, support and education of my respective children while they shall be under the age of twenty-one years, such part of the income of my estate as shall be paid to said guardian of my said children respectively, and/or such part of the income of the moneys which shall be held by said Guardian of my said children, respectively, as in the sole discretion of said Guardian, shall seem fit and proper, without obtaining any order of the Court authorizing such use of said income, and notwithstanding the fact that my wife may have ample means to maintain, support and educate my said children while they shall be under the age of twenty-one years.

• • • • • • •

"Twenty-eighth: And I do hereby order and direct that if any person who shall be entitled to any interest whatever in my estate under the provision of this, my last will and testament, shall take any proceedings to contest or prevent the probate of this, my last will and testament, or if any proceedings, shall be taken on behalf of any such person to contest or prevent the probate of this, my last will and testament, then such person by or on whose behalf such proceedings shall be taken, shall receive no interest, income [fol. 198] or benefit whatsoever under this, my last will and testament, and any legacy or interest given or bequeathed to such person under this, my last will and testament, is hereby revoked."

• • • • • • •

Thirty-third: I hereby order and direct that if my said wife, Ethel M. Dorrance, or my said brother, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., or my said brother, Arthur C. Dorrance, or said Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of this, my last will and testament, or any of them shall fail or refuse to make application to the Surrogate of the County of Burlington, or to the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey, for the probate of my last will and testament within thirty days after the date of my decease, then such one or more of my said Executors so failing or refusing to make application to the said Surrogate or to the said Ordinary for the probate of my said last will and testament within thirty days after the date of my decease, shall cease to be such Executor or Executors and Trustee or Trustees, and the appointment in my said last will and testament of such one or more of my said Executors primarily nominated and appointed in and by this, my last will and testament, who shall fail or refuse to make application to the said Surrogate or to the said Ordinary for the probate of my said last will and testament within thirty days after the date of my decease, shall cease and determine and be void and of no effect and as to such of my Executors primarily named in this, my last will and testament, as such Executors, as shall so fail or refuse to make application for the probate of this, my last will and testament, to the said Surrogate or to the said Ordinary within thirty days after my death, I revoke the appointment herein made as Executor or Executors and also as Trustee or Trustees.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 199] Thirty-sixth: I hereby order and direct that the provisions herein made by me for the benefit of my wife, Ethel M. Dorrance, are by me made and are to be by her accepted in lieu of her dower in any lands which I may own at the time of my decease.

In witness whereof, I, the said John T. Dorrance, have to this, my last will and testament, contained in this and the preceeding thirty-four pages of typewriting, set my hand and seal, this Fifteenth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight.

[fol. 234] EXHIBIT 9 TO AFFIDAVIT—Filed January 10, 1933

Decision Pennsylvania Supreme Court on reargument.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF PENNSYLVANIA, EASTERN DISTRICT

No. 41, January Term, 1933

In Re Estate of John T. Dorrance, Deceased.

Appeal of Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Petition of Appellee for Reargument.

A general reargument of this case was not granted. Reargument was allowed under Rule 84, solely to permit the appellee-executors formally to bring to the attention of this Court the fact that they had filed an amended petition in the court of first instance suggesting a question or questions under the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. On the appeal to this Court, no reference to the matter was made in the arguments though provision therefor is expressly made in Rule 47. The executors now urge that we pass on those questions, suggested in the court of first instance, and reconsider the appeal on a theory not presented when the case was argued here. The Commonwealth objects to such reconsideration, contending that "They (the executors) deliberately elected to argue the [fol. 235] case as one arising under the law of Pennsylvania."

At the time that this Court decided the question of fact,—in its judgment, a matter for decision according to the law of Pennsylvania,—it was held, for the reasons stated in the opinion filed, that John T. Dorrance was domiciled in Pennsylvania. As no federal question was involved, or presented by the records or briefs or in the oral argument, for consideration in the decision of the basic matter of fact, none was considered or decided and none remains for decision.

No reason appears for modifying the decision originally made.

Justices Schaffer and Drew dissent from this order.

No. 251. October Term, 1934

ETHEL M. DORRANCE, GEORGE MORRIS DORRANCE, M. D., ARTHUR C. DORRANCE and CAMDEN SAFE DEPOSIT AND TRUST COMPANY, Executors of the Last Will and Testament of John T. Dorrance, deceased, Prosecutors, vs.

J. H. THAYER MARTIN, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, Respondent.

Reported: 13 N. J. Misc. R. 168. Filed Feb. 8, 1935

Submitted October Term, 1934; decided February 8, 1935

Before Justices Trenchard, Heher and Perskie

For Prosecutors: John Milton (Nathan Miller and Harold Otis, of the New York Bar).

For Respondents: David T. Wilentz, Attorney-General, William H. Smathers, Assistant Attorney-General, and Duane E. Minard.

Per Curiam:

The writ of certiorari, in this case, brings up for review a final decree of the New Jersey Prerogative Court, dated May 11, 1934, affirming a transfer inheritance tax assessment, made by J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, in the matter of the [fol. 237] estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, as made on October 10, 1932, and amounting to $12,247,333.52.

We have carefully studied and considered the voluminous records, proofs and briefs herein submitted. The opinions of Buchanan, Vice-Ordinary, in this matter when it came up before him for determination are reported in 115 N. J. Eq. 268, and 116 Id. 204. They disclose a very careful analysis and consideration of the proofs as well as the law applicable thereto; they are comprehensive, clear, sound and correct.

We are of the firm opinion that there has been nothing further presented to this court which would merit or justify a disturbance of the results reached by the learned Vice-Ordinary and with which we are in thorough accord.

Accordingly the decree brought up for review is sustained and the writ of certiorari is dismissed, with costs.

Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the Last Will and Testament of John T. Dorrance, deceased, Prosecutors, vs.

J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, Respondent.

On Certiorari. Rule.

This cause coming on to be heard at the October Term, 1934, of this Court, and the Court having inspected the return to the writ of certiorari issued therein and the Court having considered the reasons assigned for the setting aside of the transfer inheritance tax assessment in the matter of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, as corrected by a decree of the Prerogative Court in the above-entitled cause, and the Court being of the opinion that said assessment, as corrected by said decree, should be affirmed.

It is, on this eleventh day of February, 1935, Ordered that the assessment of transfer inheritance taxes in the matter of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, as corrected by the final decree of the Prerogative Court allowed May 11, 1934, be and the same is hereby affirmed and that [fols. 239-248] the writ of certiorari allowed herein be dismissed, with costs.

On motion of David T. Wilentz, Attorney General of New Jersey, Attorney for Respondent.

County of Philadelphia, ss.:

Gertrude Britton, being duly sworn according to law deposes and says:

I was secretary to Dr. John T. Dorrance, from June 6, 1913, until September 1, 1930, when he died.

I kept Dr. Dorrance's books of account, in which are recorded his personal expenditures, and prepared all checks which Dr. Dorrance signed.

Dr. Dorrance paid $350,000 for the property known as "Woodcrest". Radnor, Delaware County, Pennsylvania, which he purchased in 1925. His expenditures for preparing "Woodcrest" for occupancy, and for furnishing and decorating it aggregated more than $350,000.

The cost of maintaining Dr. Dorrance's family at "Pomona Farms", Cinnaminson, New Jersey, for the years 1923 to 1925, inclusive, was as follows:

1923	$24,995.61
1924	29,843.36
1925	22,271.75

The cost of maintaining Dr. Dorrance's family at "Woodcrest", during the years 1926 to 1930 inclusive, was as follows:

1926	$89,605.67
1927	93,033.75
1928	95,226.14
1929	90,386.60
1930 (to Sept. 21)	66,429.81

Subject, however, to the fact that in 1928, 1929, and 1930, all of the house servants were taken with the family to Bar [fol. 251] Harbor for the summer, and the figures given, include their wages and commissary there during the summer months.

The expenditures at "Pomona Farms", Cinnaminson, New Jersey, for 1926 to 1930, inclusive, were as follows:

1926	$10,064.68
1927	10,344.29
1928	8,373.89
1929	6,459.90
1930 (to Sept. 21)	4,200.17

Dr. Dorrance's mother and sister, both of whom were ill, lived at "Pomona Farms" from August, 1926 until they died, his sister in the summer of 1928, and his mother, in January, 1929.

At the end of the year 1925, Dr. Dorrance instructed me to begin, on January 1, 1926, to keep a diary, showing where he spent each night. I kept such a record from January 1, 1926, until the date of Dr. Dorrance's death. Attached hereto and marked "Exhibit No. 1", is a correct transcript of the entries in the record. All of the entries in the record books were made by me or under my direction. I received from Dr. Dorrance the information which I wrote in the books.

Gertrude Britton.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this seventeenth day of April, 1935.

H. L. Kober, Notary Public. (Seal.)

My commission expires January 14, 1939.

[fol. 252] Certificate of Prothonotary to Notary omitted in printing.

[fol. 327] II. AFFIDAVIT OF ETHEL M. DORRANCE

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA,
County of Philadelphia, ss:

Ethel M. Dorrance, being duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that she is the widow and one of the executors under the will of John T. Dorrance, deceased, and that the facts hereinafter in this affidavit set forth are true and correct:

I have read the injunction affidavits of my daughter Charlotte Dorrance Wright and of my brother-in-law and co-executor, George Morris Dorrance, M. D. The statements made in their affidavits regarding the use of "Woodcrest" and "Pomona Farms" during my husband's life-time, are correct.

It is not true, as stated in Mr. Kelley's "Answering Affidavit", paragraph 20, page 8, that the statements in the Bill of Complaint in this case, and the supporting affidavits of my daughter and my brother-in-law are contrary to the facts to which I testified in the Pennsylvania proceedings, pages 250a-358a.

Because of my husband's desire in his life-time to be regarded as a "legal resident" of New Jersey and to have his estate administered in New Jersey, my co-executors and I felt it our duty to do our utmost to resist Pennsylvania's claim that my husband, at the date of his death, was domiciled in that State. We presented whatever evidence we could to establish our contention that Dr. Dorrance was domiciled in New Jersey.

But it was impossible to present evidence that our family ever lived in New Jersey after November 14, 1925. In my testimony, I stated that Dr. Dorrance, our children and I occasionally returned to "Pomona Farms" at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and spent one or more nights there. But [fol. 328] I did not say that all of us were ever together there at the same time, nor did I say that any of us lived at "Pomona Farms" regularly. In effect we visited our former home occasionally. Dr. Dorrance was under the impression that if we did that, and kept the place in New Jersey open and ready for occupancy, he could by declaring himself a resident of New Jersey, retain his domicile there.

My testimony in Pennsylvania was as strong as I could possibly make it against Pennsylvania's claim. If I had been asked more questions by the attorneys for Pennsylvania, I would have been compelled to make admissions which would have been very damaging to our then contention.

I would have been compelled to admit that I knew that Dr. Dorrance, notwithstanding our continuous residence at Radnor, was trying to be regarded as a "legal resident" of New Jersey; that one of his reasons for this was his unwillingness to pay the Pennsylvania 4 mills tax on intangible property; that I had instructed our older daughters to go to Cinnaminson and spend a night there periodically in an effort to support Dr. Dorrance's desire to be regarded as a "legal resident" of New Jersey; that our entire family was never at "Pomona Farms" at any time prior to Dr. Dorrance's fatal illness; that when we moved to Radnor, Dr. Dorrance took with him his library of which he was extremely fond; that our chauffeur, Charles Hacker, was moved to Radnor with his family; and that at no time during Dr. Dorrance's life-time did he ever suggest to me or to any other member of his family, as far as I know, that we might some day abandon "Woodcrest" as our home and return to Cinnaminson.

At the Pennsylvania trial, a number of our former servants testified for the State. We made no effort to contradict their testimony. Except in a few unimportant details, their testimony was correct.

[fol. 329] None of my children was permitted to take the witness stand in Pennsylvania. None of them could have testified that our family had ever lived at "Pomona Farms" after November 14, 1925.

Whatever Dr. Dorrance's motives may have been in purchasing "Woodcrest",—and I gave them to the best of my ability in the Pennsylvania proceedings,—he did not move to "Woodcrest" with his family for a limited time or for a temporary purpose. It became our home on November 14, 1925, and during Dr. Dorrance's life-time he never contemplated removing our home to any other place.

When I testified in the Pennsylvania proceedings, I had never seen the diary which Miss Britton kept for Dr. Dorrance, the entries in which, marked "Exhibit No. 1", are attached to Miss Britton's affidavit in this case.

I have carefully gone through the diaries and am satisfied that they correctly state the places where Dr. Dorrance spent his nights from January 1, 1926 to the date of his death.

Referring to the periods which Dr. Dorrance spent at Cinnaminson in the summers of 1926, 1928, 1929 and 1930:

On July 16, 1926, we closed "Woodcrest" for 10 days to give the servants a vacation. During this period, Dr. Dorrance lived at Cinnaminson. I went to Jamestown, R. I., when "Woodcrest" was closed.

In the summers of 1928, 1929 and 1930, all of our household servants were taken from "Woodcrest" to Bar Harbor, Maine, and, therefore, Dr. Dorrance could not live at "Woodcrest" when he spent time at the factory.

In 1928, after our family left Bar Harbor, the servants were given a few days' vacation after which they cleaned "Woodcrest" and prepared it for occupancy. Dr. Dorrance and I lived at Cinnaminson from September 13, to [fol. 330] September 20, when we returned to "Woodcrest".

In 1929, the servants preceded us to Bar Harbor. They went by automobile. Dr. Dorrance and I lived at Cinnaminson for 4 days to enable them to get to Bar Harbor and have the cottage ready for us; and we then went to Bar Harbor by train.

In the fall of 1929, Dr. Dorrance and I left for Europe before the servants had been able to take their vacations and prepare "Woodcrest" for occupancy. Our two youngest children accompanied me from Bar Harbor to Cinnaminson on September 8. That is the "family" to which the diary refers. Our other children visited friends in Pennsylvania until "Woodcrest" was ready for occupancy.

In 1930, as in 1929, the servants preceded Dr. Dorrance and me to Bar Harbor. We spent 3 days at Cinnaminson to enable them to get there. The circumstances which caused Dr. Dorrance to be at Cinnaminson at the time of his death, are as stated by my daughters in their sworn statements in this case.

[fol. 331] III. AFFIDAVIT OF WILLIAM H. DONNELLY

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA,
County of Philadelphia, ss:

William H. Donnelly, being duly sworn according to law, deposes and says:

At the instance of the plaintiffs in these casese I made an investigation at the State House at Trenton, N. J., for the purpose of learning what the available balances have been in the "State Fund" from 1930 to date.

I interviewed Abram W. Vermuelen, Chief Accountant in the office of the Comptroller of the Treasury of the State of New Jersey, State House, Trenton, N. J., who gave me the following figures taken from the official records of the State:

Free balances on hand of cash on the basis of an actual cash position, disregarding accounts receivable which the comptroller's office deem uncollectible at the present time, as follows:

June 30, 1931	Surplus	$ 361,321.13
June 30, 1932	Deficit	2,382,493.77
June 30, 1933	Deficit	2,708,297.09
June 30, 1934	Surplus	1,295,573.86

On June 30, 1934 there was also a reserve cash fund set aside for contingencies, of $1,000,000.

There are no figures for the balance on June 30, 1930 because the chief accountant stated he could not guarantee such figures as the State accounting system was wholly inadequate up to that date.

It is impossible to get the current balance in the State fund at this date. That balance will be ascertainable only on June 30, 1935.

Refunds of inheritance tax are payable only out of the free balances in the State fund, so that it would have been [fol. 332] impossible to pay any refunds on June 30, 1932 and June 30, 1933; and the amount available at June 30, 1934 was less than $3,000,000.

[fol. 333] IV. AFFIDAVIT OF ETHEL DORRANCE COLKET

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA,
County of Philadelphia, ss.:

Ethel Dorrance Colket, being duly sworn according to law, deposes and says:

I am a daughter of Dr. John T. Dorrance, deceased.

I have read the Bills of Complaint, and the Injunction Affidavits filed in the cases of Elinor Dorrance Hill v. J. H. Thayer Martin, et al., and Ethel M. Dorrance, et al. v. J. H. Thayer Martin, et al., in the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey, In Equity, Nos. 5092 and 5091, respectively.

The facts set forth in the Bills of Complaint and the Injunction Affidavits, as they relate to the use of "Pomona Farms", Cinnaminson, N. J. and "Woodcrest", Radnor, Pennsylvania, after November 14, 1925, are correct.

After November 14, 1925, I returned to "Pomona Farms" only on rare occasions.

My father, my mother, my sisters, my brother and I were never at "Pomona Farms" at the same time on any day after November 14, 1925, until my father's fatal illness in September, 1930.

Our only family home after November 14, 1925, was "Woodcrest", Radnor. There we lived together continuously except when we went to New England for summer vacation.

I never heard my father indicate in any way that our family home would at any time be moved to any place other than "Woodcrest", or that "Woodcrest" had been acquired for a temporary purpose or for temporary use. [fol. 334] It was prepared for occupancy, improved and maintained as a permanent establishment.

[fol. 335] V. Affidavit of Elinor Dorrance Hill

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
County of Philadelphia, ss.:

Elinor Dorrance Hill, being duly sworn according to law, deposes and says:

During the period beginning November 14, 1925 and ending September 21, 1930, I was at Pomona Farms, Cinnaminson, New Jersey, on only three occasions. Two or three days before I was married I visited my grandmother and stayed for about two hours. In the Summer of 1928 I visited my father at Cinnaminson and stayed for three days. The other occasion was when my father was ill in September, 1930.

I was married on October 1, 1927. My husband never saw Cinnaminson until my father's last illness, when the entire family went to Cinnaminson.

From the date of my marriage until the date of father's death my husband and I visited my family at Radnor at least two week-ends per month. Except for the first Christmas after our marriage we spent Christmas, Thanksgiving, Easter and all other holidays with my family at Radnor. Father was always at home on holidays as were the other members of the family.

[fol. 336] VI. Affidavit of Charles G. Hacker

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
County of Philadelphia, ss.:

Charles G. Hacker, being duly sworn according to law deposes and says:

I was employed by Dr. John T. Dorrance as chauffeur in December 1918.

From December 1918 to November 14, 1925 I lived with my family in a house on the Dorrance place known as "Pomona Farms", in Cinnaminson, N. J.

On November 14, 1925, my family and I moved into a house at "Woodcrest", Radnor, Pennsylvania. I have lived there ever since that date.

Prior to November 14, 1925, my regular duties consisted of driving Mrs. Dorrance and members of the Dorrance family during the day-time, of being at the Campbell Soup Company factory in Camden, N. J., at five o'clock P. M. to take Dr. Dorrance to Cinnaminson, and of driving Dr. and Mrs. Dorrance in the evenings, Sundays and holidays.

After November 14, 1925, my duties were the same except that I no longer went to the factory to take Dr. Dorrance home. A factory car usually brought him to "Woodcrest".

I lived at "Woodcrest" all of the year except when the Dorrance family was in New England for the summer. I always accompanied them, with my family. We were at Jamestown, R. I., in the summers of 1926 and 1927, and at Bar Harbor, Maine, in the Summers of 1928, 1929 and 1930.

I saw Dr. Dorrance at "Woodcrest" practically every day, except when he was in Europe, in the South, or in New England.

Dr. Dorrance spent practically every week-end at "Woodcrest" while he was in this part of the country [fol. 337] Frequenly, while his mother was at Cinnaminson, we drove over to see her on Sunday morning, returning to "Woodcrest" before lunch-time.

When I was driving Dr. Dorrance and he wanted me to go to "Woodcrest", he always said, "Home". If he wanted me to drive to Cinnaminson, he said "Farm".

Mrs. Dorrance and her children also directed me to go "home", when they wanted to be driven to "Woodcrest". I scarcely ever drove them to Cinnaminson after November 14, 1925.

On Motion for Preliminary Injunction before the Court Specially Constituted under Section 266 of the Judicial Code.

Before Wooley and Davis, Circuit Judges, and Avis, District Judge

OPINION—Filed June 3, 1935

[fol. 339] WOOLLEY, Circuit Judge:

On September 21, 1930, John T. Dorrance died. His place of business had been Camden, New Jersey. During the later years of his life he maintained at the same time three domestic establishments: one at Cinnaminson in the State of New Jersey, another at Radnor in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and still another at Bar Harbor in the State of Maine. He spent a portion of the summer of the year 1930 at his Bar Harbor residence and, on returning, died at his New Jersey residence where he had been staying while his Pennsylvania residence was being made ready for occupancy.

Dorrance, by his will, declared himself a resident of the Township of Cinnaminson, in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey and, by express provision, required his executors, under severe penalties for disobedience, to offer his will for probate in that state. Accordingly, on October 1, 1930, they offered his will for probate before the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, and in due course that official granted them letters testamentary. Thereupon the executors, acting under the jurisdiction of the Orphans' Court of Burlington County, New Jersey, set about to administer the vast estate of the testator which consisted almost entirely of intangible personal property.

The State of New Jersey evidently took it for granted that, as Dorrance had, on his own declaration, been a resident of that state and as his estate was being administered under letters testamentary granted in a county thereof, the situs of his intangible personal property was New Jersey and, accordingly, the property was subject to inheritance tax under the laws of that state. On the other hand, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, acting more promptly, claimed that Pennsylvania was the domicile of Dorrance and therefore was the situs of his intangible personal property, and for that reason his property was subject to inheritance tax under the laws of that commonwealth. The State of Maine, evidently recognizing that the establishment of Dorrance at Bar Harbor was only a summer residence, has made no claim for taxes.

[fol. 340] Thus there arose a controversy, nominally between persons but actually between states, which by reason of the stake has grown to major proportions. An understanding of its present phase can be had only by giving in brief outline the administrative and judicial proceedings which have been pursued concurrently and along somewhat parallel lines in the two states.

Early in the New Jersey administration of the Dorrance estate the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania formally claimed that the decedent was at the time of his death domiciled in Radnor Township, Pennsylvania. Acting under claim of authority of Pennsylvania inheritance tax laws the Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, appointed an appraiser who, on April 20, 1931, filed an appraisement of the Dorrance estate at $199,999,000 upon which was computed and assessed inheritance tax due Pennsylvania in the sum of $31,465,200.

On May 14, 1931, the executors, resisting taxation in Pennsylvania, appealed from this assessment to the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania. That court sustained the executors' appeal and set aside the assessment. Thereupon the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania appealed to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. On September 26, 1932, that court reversed the decree of the Orphans' Court and reinstated, in a modified amount, the tax assessment which the Register of Wills of Delaware County had made. On petition, the Supreme Court of the United States, denying the State of New Jersey a right to intervene, refused the executors a writ of certiorari because (it was thought) it could not find that a federal question had been presented to and passed upon by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. Thereupon the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania on March 27, 1933, entered judgment for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and against the executors of the will of John T. Dorrance for transfer inheritance tax in the amount of $14,394,698.88, subject to an additional tax if and when the final determination of the amount of the federal estate tax should disclose that 80 per cent. thereof exceeded the above amount. The judgment included a tax upon the transfer of all of Dorrance's intangible personal property. On mandate a like judgment was entered in the [fol. 341] Orphans' Court of Delaware County and on March 31, 1933, the executors paid the tax with $104,278.03 interest and gave bond for $4,000,000 to meet the eventuality of an additional assessment because of the federal estate tax.

During all these proceedings in Pennsylvania, taxing officials and courts in New Jersey had been active in an endeavor to assess, sustain and collect from the Dorrance estate the inheritance tax in that state. Of this Pennsylvania officials and the executors of the will were fully informed.

The New Jersey proceedings, stated as shortly as possible, were these: On various dates the executors of the will of Dorrance, aiding the taxing authorities in New Jersey, made returns to the Comptroller of the Treasury of New Jersey showing their testator was domiciled in New Jersey and supplying data for transfer inheritance tax purposes under the laws of that state, particularly that the decedent left no real property; that his entire estate, the market value of which was estimated at $115,121,518.92, consisted of personal property and almost entirely of intangible personal property; that all securities of the estate except a small amount not then important were located in New Jersey; and that after deductions for debts and expenses the net amount for distribution was $112,055,400.86. On this and other information the State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, on October 17, 1931, made an assessment of transfer inheritance tax against the decedent's estate in the sum of $12,247,333.52 with a notice that if the tax was not paid before a named date interest would be added at the rate of ten per cent per annum, and made an additional assessment in the sum of $4,521,143.90 on account of certain contingent remainders.

In December, 1931, the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey opened this assessment pending the decision of the Pennsylvania courts of Pennsylvania's claim for inheritance tax and for the purpose of permitting additional information to be submitted regarding the domicile of Dor- [fol. 342] rance. However, on October 10, 1932, after the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania had been rendered and offered in evidence, the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey again made an assessment of transfer inheritance tax against the estate in the same amounts as before and with like penalty for non-payment, which, as before, included tax on intangible personal property.

On December 9, 1932, the executors, being charged with a tax due Pennsylvania and now resisting taxation by New Jersey challenged this (the final) assessment by appeal to the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey. On May 11, 1934, the Ordinary entered judgment in the Prerogative Court sustaining the State Tax Commissioner's final assessment, which was a decision opposed to and without giving credit to the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania on the issue of domicile. Thereupon the executors obtained a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court of New Jersey which after hearing sustained the judgment of the Prerogative Court. Although having notified the State Tax Commissioner of their intention to appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals of New Jersey, the executors, with ample time yet to do so, have turned abruptly from the state courts of New Jersey to the federal courts in proceedings to which, in this rather long recital, we have at last arrived.

After the decision by the Supreme Court of New Jersey sustaining the inheritance tax imposed by the taxing authorities of that state upon the intangible personal property of John T. Dorrance, his executors in one suit and Elinor Dorrance Hill, his daughter and a beneficiary under his will, in another suit in the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey, pray by their bills that injunctions issue, temporary until hearing and perpetual thereafter, enjoining the defendants, officials of the State of New Jersey vested with power to assess and collect taxes, from collecting or attempting to collect inheritance tax on the transfer of intangible personal property of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased. The plaintiffs seek [fol. 343] this relief in the federal district court upon the assertion that the administrative proceedings of the State of New Jersey in respect to the assessment of the tax against the estate of John T. Dorrance had been completed with the decision of the Supreme Court of that state and that judicial proceedings thereon have not since been commenced, and on the contention that in such case the federal district court, specially constituted with three judges sitting, has jurisdiction under Section 266 of the Judicial Code, title 28 U. S. C. A., Section 380, of the constitutional questions raised:

The constitutional question which the plaintiffs particularly urge is to the effect that lawful inheritance taxation of intangible personal property of a decedent depends on its situs and its situs depends on the domicile of the owner at the time of his death; that the domicile of John T. Dorrance, the decedent in these cases, has been judicially determined by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania to be the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and accordingly the situs of his intangible property is there also; that only Pennsylvania, the state of domicile, can impose the tax; that if the

New Jersey Inheritance Tax Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, in force at the time of the assessment of the tax in New Jersey, has been properly construed by the defendants (and by other administrative agencies of New Jersey) as applying to property the situs of which is outside of the State because the owner was not domiciled in New Jersey at the time of his death, it is unconstitutional under the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States; and if, on the other hand, the Act has not been properly construed by the defendants and administrative agencies of the State, the assessment violates the due process and equal protection clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment.

At a hearing on bills, answers and affidavits for preliminary injunctions, this court, three judges sitting, was met on the threshold with the question whether it has jurisdiction under Section 266 of the Judicial Code to grant preliminary relief in the legal circumstances. Putting aside for the moment the disputed factual question of domicile [fol. 344] of the decedent, there is on the question of jurisdiction no dispute of fact, that is, no dispute as to what has happened. The question of jurisdiction centers in the legal character of the things that have been done and in their legal consequences as they affect the plaintiffs' right to ask for and the power of this court to grant the relief for which they pray.

The theory underlying federal jurisdiction in such cases is that the administrative proceedings of the state in laying the tax must have been completed before the aggrieved taxpayer can call upon a federal court for relief. At that particular point, that is, before anything else shall have been done to correct or annul the assessment, the taxpayer may seek relief in a federal district court under the cited provision of the Judicial Code if an appropriate constitutional question is involved and other jurisdictional requisites are present. But the theory underlying federal jurisdiction in such case goes a step further and is to the effect that if the aggrieved taxpayer should pass the point at which administrative proceedings end and should take an appeal or otherwise seek relief in a state court whose jurisdiction of the matter is judicial, then he is bound to the tribunal of his choice and bound by its decision which, if error, is subject to correction only by the orderly method of appeal. In such case a shift in the midst of judicial proceedings from a state court to a federal court, by institution of suit in the latter for equitable relief, would, perhaps, be met by a plea of res judicata, and if the federal suit should operate as a stay of proceedings in the state court it is forbidden by federal law. (Judicial Code, Section 265.)

Executors of John T. Dorrance vs. J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner, et al.

Applying these observations to the doings in the New Jersey side of this controversy, it is possible that the administrative proceedings in respect to the tax may have ended with the assessment by the State Tax Commissioner and promptly thereafter the executors (other jurisdictional requisites being present) might have applied to a federal court for relief from threatened unconstitutional acts, conformably with somewhat like proceedings in the case of City Bank Farmers Trust Co., Executor, vs. Schnader, At- [fol. 345] torney General, 291 U. S. 24. However, instead of moving to a federal court at this critical point, when perhaps their way was clear, the executors appealed from the assessment to the Ordinary of New Jersey who, through the Prerogative Court of that state, approved the assessment. If the jurisdiction of the Prerogative Court is administrative, the executors, by appealing to that court, lost no opportunity to go elsewhere, for in that event the administrative action in laying the tax was not concluded with the assessment by the State Tax Commissioner but carried through to the Prerogative Court. Whether the jurisdiction of that Court is administrative as the executors contend is debatable. We could, conceivably, be persuaded under New Jersey authorities that its jurisdiction is judicial. However, as the matter is not dispositive of the case, we shall assume, without deciding, that its jurisdiction in respect to tax matters is administrative. If the administrative proceedings stopped with the decision of the Prerogative Court, then the executors could at that point have lawfully sought relief in a federal court from constitutional misconduct of state officials. Evidently believing the administrative proceedings did not stop there, the executors went on to the next New Jersey court—the Supreme Court—which they reached by certiorari. That court, in turn, affirmed the judgment of the Prerogative Court sustaining the assessment. Then it was, the executors said, the administrative proceedings came to an end, and at last they could go to the federal court. But that would be true only if the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of New Jersey in respect to tax matters is administrative. If judicial, the administrative proceedings ended with the Prerogative Court and the executors were too late.

We are firmly of opinion that the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of New Jersey in reviewing the action of statutory agencies created for the purpose of assessing and collecting taxes is judicial (Danford vs. Mecue, 31 N. J. L. 302; Traphagan vs. Township of West Hoboken, 39 N. J. L. 232; Flannigan vs. Plainfield, 44 N. J. L. 118; Jersey City vs. Lembeck, 31 N. J. E. 255; Roebling's Estate, 91 N. J. E. 72; Black's "Law of Taxation", 4th Edition, [fol. 346] Sec. 279a, Sec. 129h, p. 181), made so by the Constitution of New Jersey, and that the Court is of sufficiently high rank to be recognized and on occasion followed by court of the United States (Erie R. R. Co. v. Hilt, 247 U. S. 97, 101); that the administrative proceedings in respect to the tax ended at the latest with the judgment of the Prerogative Court and that in consequence the executors on turning to the federal district court after the judicial decision by the Supreme Court of New Jersey not only encountered a plea of res judicata but were confronted by Section 265 of the Judicial Code which, going directly to the jurisdiction of this Court to grant the relief asked for, provides that: "A writ of injunction shall not be granted by any court of the United States to stay proceedings in any court of a state, except * * *."

It is intimated that because the Supreme Court of New Jersey had come to a judgment, the proceedings in that court similarly had come to an end, leaving the executors free to seek relief where they chose, whether by appeal to the New Jersey Court of Appeals or by suit in the United States District Court. But we are constrained to hold that, having passed by the ending of the administrative proceedings in respect to the tax and having thereafter entered a state judicial tribunal, the executors must abide the consequences, one of which is that proceedings in the state courts were not ended by the judgment of the Supreme Court. The prohibition of Section 265 of the Judicial Code denying the right of any court of the United States to stay proceedings in any court of a state is not limited to proceedings in a court of a state "up to and including final judgment, but (extends) to the entire proceedings from the commencement of the suit until the execution issued on the judgment or decree is satisfied." Leath vs. Thomas, 97 Fed. 136, 138; Wayman vs. Southard, 10 Wheat. 1, 22. What may happen in consequence of the decision by the Supreme Court of New Jersey remains to be seen. The executors may appeal to the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals or the State may proceed to collect the tax validated by the New Jersey Supreme Court decision. The latter, in this state of the case, is not subject to interference by a federal district court; the former constitutes a remedy [fol. 347] at law with admittance finally to the Supreme Court of the United States if a valid constitutional question is involved.

Adverting finally to their main insistence, we are constrained to differ from the position of the executors that in all material respects the instant case parallels and is controlled by the City Bank Farmers Trust Co. vs. Schnader et al., 291 U. S. 24. While both cases concern the situs of and therefore the right to tax personal property of a decedent, the point of departure between the cases is that in the Schnader case resort was made to a federal court at the very end of the administrative proceedings or at what the court regarded as its equivalent and before judicial proceedings had been commenced in the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County, while in the instant case the taxpayers moved to the federal court not at the end of the administrative proceedings but intermediate the judicial proceedings.

Elinor Dorrance Hill vs. J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner

Elinor Dorrance Hill, daughter of John T. Dorrance, the decedent, and a beneficiary under his will, has brought an independent suit in the United States District Court on the theory that, though not a party to the tax proceedings in the two states and not a party with the executors in their suits in the State courts, she needs, is entitled to, and therefore seeks federal relief from a threatened taking of her property by taxing officials of New Jersey in violation of her constitutional rights. Though not a party, she certainly was privy to those proceedings and suits. They concerned in part property which some day will be hers and with respect to which the executors presently hold title and have possession with rights to administer, including payment of lawful taxes. Her grievance against what she conceives to be threatened misconduct by New Jersey officials and her right to relief therefrom are no higher and no greater than, and indeed no different from the grievance and the right of the executors litigating for her benefit. [fol. 348] We cannot see how the legal circumstances of the case cast upon her a right to maintain this suit for preliminary injunction when they deny such a right to the executors with respect to the same property coming from the same source and involving the same questions of fact and law. A grant of her prayer for a preliminary injunction would be as plain a violation of Section 265 of the Judicial Code as a grant of the like prayer of the executors.

Holding that this court is without jurisdiction in the premises, the prayers of the bills for preliminary injunctions are denied and the cases set over for final hearing on motion of counsel.

Statements of fact and conclusions of law in the foregoing opinion shall be regarded as findings of fact and conclusions of law within Equity Rule 70½.

Petition for Appeal and Order Allowing Same—Filed June 4, 1935

PETITION FOR APPEAL

The above-named plaintiff, feeling aggrieved by the decree made and entered in the above entitled proceeding in equity on the 4th day of June, 1935, does hereby appeal from the said decree to the Supreme Court of the United States, for the reasons specified in the Assignments of Error filed herewith; and prays that this appeal may be allowed, and that a transcript of the record, proceedings, and papers, upon which the said decree was made, duly authenticated, may be sent to the Supreme Court of the United States under the rules of the said Court in such case made and provided.

And your petitioner further prays that the proper order relating to the security to be required of her be made.

Dated June 4, 1935.

Wm. A. Schnader, Solicitor for and of Counsel with the Plaintiff, 1719 Packard Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

[fols. 351 & 352] ORDER ALLOWING APPEAL

And now, to wit, June 4, 1935, the foregoing appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States is allowed upon the giving by the above mentioned plaintiff of a bond, as required by law, in the sum of 250 dollars.

Victor B. Woolley, Circuit Judge; J. Warren Davis, Circuit Judge; John Boyd Avis, District Judge.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS AND PRAYER FOR REVERSAL—Filed June 4, 1935

And now, to wit, June 4, 1935, comes the plaintiff in the above entitled proceeding in equity, appellant herein, and files the following Assignments of Error upon which she will rely in the prosecution of her appeal from the decree made by this Honorable Court on the 4th day of June, 1935, in the above entitled cause:

I

That the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey erred in denying the interlocutory injunction prayed for by the plaintiff.

[fols. 354-369]

II

That the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey erred in holding that it was without jurisdiction to grant the prayer of the Bill of Complaint for interlocutory injunction.

III

That the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey erred in entering the following decree:

"And now, to wit, June 4, 1935, this cause came on to be heard at this term, and was argued by counsel, and upon consideration thereof, it is ordered, adjudged and decreed as follows:

"I. The prayer of the Bill of Complaint for interlocutory injunction be, and is hereby denied for want of jurisdiction, to grant such interlocutory injunction."

Wherefore, the appellant prays that the aforesaid decree be reversed and that the case be remanded to the District Court of three Judges for final hearing upon the merits, and that the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey be ordered and directed to grant such further relief and in such form as the Supreme Court of the United States shall deem just.

PLAINTIFF'S OBJECTION TO THE INCORPORATION IN THE RECORD OF THE MATTERS SPECIFIED IN DEFENDANTS' PRÆCIPE—Filed June 27, 1935

To the Honorable the Judges of the Above Court, Specially Convened in the Above Case:

The plaintiff objects to the inclusion in the record on appeal of the exhibits specified in Defendants' Præcipe, and in support of her objection respectfully represents:

[fol. 374] 1. That Exhibits 1a, 1b, 1c, and 1d are copies of the records in the Dorrance Estate tax litigation in the States of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and Exhibit 3 is a so-called "Abstract of Record", prepared by the Attorney General of New Jersey, setting forth, from his standpoint, the salient points in the said records.

2. That Exhibit 2 is the record in the New Jersey proceedings.

3. That reference to said exhibits was made by William D. Kelly in his "Answering Affidavit" in opposition to the plaintiff's motion for interlocutory injunction, but said William D. Kelly did not swear in his affidavit to the truthfulness of anything contained in Exhibits 1a, 1b, 1c, 1d or 3.

4. That it is unnecessary to incorporate in the record on appeal the text of the New Jersey statutes which are pertinent to a consideration of the appeal.

5. That the court in denying plaintiff's motion for interlocutory injunction did not pass on the merits of the controversy but rested its decision and decree solely on its belief that it lacked jurisdiction to issue the injunction.

[fol. 375] 6. That Exhibits 1a, 1b, 1c, 1d, and 2 and 3 are wholly unnecessary to a consideration of the questions arising on plaintiff's appeal.

Respectfully submitted, Wm. A. Schnader, Solicitor for Plaintiff.

ORDER AS TO RECORD—Filed June 27, 1935

Plaintiff's Objections to the incorporation in the record of the matter specified in Defendant's Præcipe having been this day filed and William A. Schnader, Solicitor for Plaintiff, appearing in support of the objection and Duane E. Minard, counsel for defendants, appearing contro, on argument of counsel having been heard and the matter considered, it is on this 27th day of June, 1935,

Ordered that the record in this case to be certified by the Clerk on appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States as specified in Defendant's Præcipe be limited to the following parts thereof:

Exhibit 1a—Testimony of George Morris Dorrance, M. D., pages 63a to 129a, inclusive; Arthur C. Dorrance, pages 129a to 169a, inclusive; William D. Lippincott, pages 174a to 230a, inclusive, 408a to 417a, inclusive; Ethel M. Dorrance, pages 250a to 338a, inclusive.

Exhibit 1b—Testimony of William D. Lippincott, pages 614a to 633a, inclusive.

Exhibit 3—Pages 1 to 29, inclusive; 142 to 158, inclusive. Defendant's Præcipe.

J. Warren Davis, Circuit Judge.

[fol. 377] EXHIBIT 1-A

Portions of Testimony before Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, in an action by Commonwealth of Pennsylvania against Executors of the Dorrance Estate to collect Transfer Inheritance Tax, submitted as Exhibits by Appellees, and incorporated in this Record by order of the Court above.

Exhibit 1a

Testimony of George Morris Dorrance, M. D., pages 63a to 129a, inclusive.

Testimony of Arthur C. Dorrance, pages 129a to 169a, inclusive.

[fol. 378] Dr. George M. Dorrance, sworn.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Where do you live, Dr. Dorrance?
A. 2218 Delancy Street, Philadelphia.
Q. You are a practicing physician?
A. And surgeon.
Q. Among other things, a surgeon?
A. Yes.
Q. A graduate of what institution?
A. University of Pennsylvania.
Q. What year?
A. 1900.
Q. What is your relation, if any, to the decedent here, Dr. John T. Dorrance?
A. Brother.
Q. Are you older or younger than he was?
A. 3½ years younger.
Q. Where was your brother born?
A. So far as I know Bristol, Pennsylvania. I was told that.
[fol. 379] Q. That is where your family—your father and mother lived?
A. Yes. And that is where I was born.
Q. That is where you were born? Mr. Gray asks for the date of your brother's birth?
A. He was supposed to be born in 1873—3½ years younger, I am. I was born in 1877.

The Court: Do you know the date of the month?

A. The exact date I don't know. I think it was November 11. I have been reminded of that.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. November 11, 1873, is that right?

A. I calculate 3½ years younger, I am. I think that is correct. I was born April 24, 1877. So I calculate back that way.

Q. Did you and your brother grow up as boys together?

A. Yes, and slept together.

Q. Where did your brother, Dr. Dorrance, receive his education?

Mr. Gray: I object to that as totally immaterial and irrelevant.

Mr. Hannum: It is purely historical.

The Court: I will hear it. Grant you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. The Massachusetts Institute of Technology, graduated there; and then went to Gottinger, Germany and received his Doctor's degree.

[fol. 380] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Do you recall when he returned from Germany, how old he was at that time?

A. He must have been twenty-one when he graduated from "Tech" and eighteen months in Germany, he must have been about—I think he then traveled a month or two before he returned, he must have been twenty three when he returned here.

Q. When did he go to work or employment upon his return from Germany?

A. He went to Camden, New Jersey; then to the Camden Preserving Company in which my uncle then had a substantial interest. I might say he had intended to go——

Mr. Gray: That answers the question.

Mr. Hannum:

Q. You started to say that he intended to do something, what was that?

The Court: What did he do? Unless he intended to establish a residence somewhere.

Mr. Hannum: I am coming to that.

Q. He went to work for the Campbell Soup Company in which your uncle was then interested?

A. Yes.

Q. What uncle was that?

A. My uncle, Arthur Dorrance.

Q. When he went to work at the Campbell Soup Company, where did he go to live?

A. On Linden Street, Camden, at the residence of Miss [fol. 381] Mary Bergen. He lived there and boarded with other men for a certain length of time. I forget the exact time. I have no way of knowing it. Then he moved to the Robeson Apartments.

Q. Is Miss Mary Bergen an aunt of Martin Bergen?

A. Yes.

Q. He lived there how long, boarding with Miss Bergen in Camden?

A. Must have been several years, I think, to 1905, somewhere there, and then he moved to the Robeson Apartments.

Q. He went there why?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. He can't tell another man's reasons in performing an act.

The Court: Unless Mr. Dorrance told him, how can this man tell you.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did he tell you?

A. He did.

Mr. Gray: I object to the question even though Mr. Dorrance told him. It is hearsay and has nothing to do with this case.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Gray: Grant me an exception.

The Court: Yes. You get an exception every time. The Act of Assembly required it. You get it.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

[fol. 382] Mr. Hannum:

Q. Answer the question?

A. Because Miss Bergen, I think, she was closing up that house, and he then moved to the Robeson Apartment.

Q. Where was the Robeson Apartment?

A. Camden, New Jersey.

Q. How long did he live in the Robeson Apartment, if you know?

A. He lived there until the end of 1907. At the end of 1907 I was over there——

Q. Just before we come to that. He lived there until the end of 1907?

A. Yes.

Q. When was he married, if you know?

A. 1906.

Q. Do you know whether or not he and his wife lived at the Robeson Apartments after they were married?

A. They did.

By the Court:

Q. Where was he married?

A. In Baltimore.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. That is Baltimore, Maryland?

A. Yes.

Q. Was or was not that the residence of his wife, Baltimore, Maryland?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. I understand you to say that after he was married [fol. 383] he continued to live at the Robeson Apartments until when?

A. The last of 1907.

Q. What happened then?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. Unless he states that he knows of his own knowledge, I object to it.

The Court: If he got it from Dorrance that would be evidence.

Mr. Gray: I don't believe so.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception granted.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Will you answer the question?

A. I was over at the Robeson Apartments and he said "Can you take me in?"

Q. What reason did he give for making that inquiry?

A. His governess at that time wasn't allowed to come in a certain room to have her dinner and he said it was too cold out there for any woman to eat where she was and if he couldn't get his governess where it was warm he would leave. And then he moved. I said I could take him in and he moved over with me at 1716 Locust Street.

Q. That is in Philadelphia?

A. In Philadelphia.

Q. Was that a temporary or a permanent arrangement? How long did he reside with you?

[fol. 384] The Court: Surely that isn't proper, it is leading.

Mr. Hannum: Was it temporary or permanent?

Mr. Gray: I make an objection.

By the Court:

Q. How long did he stay with you?

Mr. Gray: To that I have no objection.

A. He stayed in the winter up until he moved out to Cinnaminson in 1911. It was my home at that time.

Q. You made, your home was in Philadelphia?

A. Yes. That is my home.

Q. He stayed at your home until he moved to Cinnaminson?

A. Yes. I might say that he had a home also, or residence in Camden, at the same time.

Mr. Gray: I ask that that be stricken out.

The Court: Strike that out.

Mr. Gray: Don't volunteer anything, please.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did he live with you all the year around while he was there?

A. No sir.

Q. For what part of the year did he reside with you?

A. He came somewhere around the first of October and left about the first of June. I couldn't give you the exact dates. The rest of the time his family lived at Atlantic City at a hotel there—Brighton.

[fol. 385] Q. At that time did he say anything to you about a home in New Jersey?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to: in the first place because it is leading. In the second place, whatever he may have said relative to his home in New Jersey is not properly admissible evidence.

The Court: I don't agree with the latter. But I think the first is good—that it is leading.

By the Court:

Q. What did he say in regard to leaving your place to go to New Jersey?

Mr. Gray: Grant me an exception.

The Court: Yes, go ahead.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He said he was going over to New Jersey so that he could be close to his place over there; that he thought he ought to know more about growing tomatoes and such things and was going to establish an experimental farm out there because he could increase the solids in tomatoes two per cent, which would be a great deal of benefit to the canning industry.

The Court:

Q. Then he moved and went to where?

A. Cinnaminson.

Q. When he was at your place, did he board with you?

A. Yes. He boarded with me and paid me so much per month, food and everything included.

[fol. 386] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did he vote in Pennsylvania while he lived with you?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. It is totally immaterial.

The Court: It certainly is objectionable, unless this man has told him when he voted.

Mr. Gray: The question whether he voted or not is totally immaterial.

The Court: I don't know about that. Your objection is sustained. Exception granted.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Where did you say that he went to live and when?
A. In Cinnaminson, Burlington County, New Jersey, in 1911.
Q. Is that the same place at which he died?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you present when Dr. Dorrance died?
A. I was.

The Court:

Q. Where did he die?
A. Cinnaminson, New Jersey, on the Pomona farm.
Q. His own house?
A. Yes.

[fol. 387] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. You say that he moved to Cinnaminson in 1911?
A. Yes.
Q. How long did he live there?
A. Until he died.
Q. And that was September 21, 1930?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you occupy any position with the Campbell Soup Co.?
A. Chairman of the Board.
Q. And have been for how long?
Q. Since his death.
Q. And prior to that were you familiar——
A. Vice-President from 1915 on.
Q. From 1915 on?
A. Yes.
Q. Will you kindly state what part your brother took in the active management of the Campbell Soup Company?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to as totally immaterial and irrelevant. He may have a residence or domicile one place and his business another.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He had to do with everything of the whole plant. Anybody who was there, they would have seen that themselves.

Q. Tell us what he did?

A. He had meetings with different members of the staff daily. If any one was at the plant, he would see them.

[fol. 388] Q. How about the running of the business? What official capacity did he have?

A. He was President and main spark of the whole thing.

Q. He was President of the Corporation?

A. Yes.

Q. What did he do in the management and running of that plant?

A. He was on all committees. Nothing was decided without his approval.

Q. How often was he there? When he was in America?

A. Every day that he could get there. That is where he always went to.

Q. What did his activity consist of in the management of the plant, and the production in connection with it?

Mr. Gray: Will you permit my objection and your Honor's ruling to go to this whole line of questions with respect to the conduct of the business by the decedent. If so, sir, it won't be necessary to interpose a separate objection to each question.

The Court: I will give you an exception—overrule your objection and give you an exception. As to the conduct of the business you needn't object any more. Let one objection cover it all.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Will you answer the question?

A. There was nothing important decided in that business without him knowing about it. He was there earlier and [fol. 389] stayed later than most anybody else working in the business. The materials—nothing could be changed anything, in quality or in products without his O.K. on it. I can only say there was hardly a minute detail of that business that he didn't look into. And his interest was very thorough*t*. Even in the care of the horses, he was interested in. The farms, all those had to be returned or reported to him in a certain committee. Even so much so, the experimental development of what tomatoes to be planted, had to all come under him because he was interested in every detail of the industry.

Q. Are you able to state what the size of the business was when he took hold of it, and what it grew to in the State of New Jersey under his management and control up to the time of his death?

A. I couldn't give you those official figures without looking them up. But there are facts. It was a very small canning—general canning industry and it finally developed into principally the Soup Industry.

Q. Do you recall the incorporation of the Campbell Soup Co.?

A. Yes, very well.

Q. Are you able to say whether it is a corporation of the State of New Jersey?

A. We are a corporation of the State of New Jersey.

Q. Do you recall when your brother purchased this so-called residence at Woodcrest?

A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. I think 1925, as near as I can remember.

Q. Where was that residence, where was that place?

[fol. 390] A. At Radnor.

Q. When he purchased it, did you have any conversation with him regarding it and if so, what did he say regarding it?

Mr. Gray: If the Court please, I object to that. Now, at any time that your Honor cares to hear me on the legal proposition involved in the question of his intention, I shall be very glad to present my argument. That is a declaration of intention.

The Court: They certainly must be evidence under all the cases that I have read.

Mr. Gray: They may be under certain circumstances.

The Court: I overrule the objection and give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Read the question. (Question read.)

A. Did I have any conversation with him on that score?

The Court:

Q. At the time that he purchased, did you have any conversation as to his purchasing it?

A. Prior to the purchase, at the purchase and after the purchase.

Q. What were they?

A. That he was—I said to him: "Are you going to move out to there?" "No, I am going——"

[fol. 391] Mr Gray: There is another question pending. I object to the question.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. "Are you going to move out in Pennsylvania?" "No," he said, "my home is in New Jersey. I am purchasing this home for my wife and kiddies. I want to be over in New Jersey. It is a long trail out there, running out there and back every day; do you think I will stand it?"

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. In that connection, were you his physician?

A. I was his brother-physician, yes. He said, however, to that: "I am going out and take that place. I know it is not good for me, but I will be over here a good deal of the time and I will have my home out here". Then I said: "This will not involve any change of your residence?" He said: "No". I said: "Alright, then from a business standpoint I am satisfied. If you want to go out in a social way, that is your affair."

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Is your mother living, Dr. Dorrance?

A. No, sir.

Q. When did she die?

A. January 9, 1929.

Q. Was she sick for sometime before her death?

A. Yes.

Mr. Gray.: I am assuming that he has personal knowledge of these questions.

[fol. 392] Mr. Hannum: Yes.

A. I was there when she died.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. How long did you say she was sick before she died?

A. About four years. She was a gradually decreasing old lady.

Q. Was she taken to Dr. John T. Dorrance's home before her death. That is yes, or no?

A. Yes.

Q. And where was she taken?

A. To Cinnaminson.

Mr Gray: Wait a minute: When he put the question: Was she taken to Dr. Dorrance's home before her death, if he meant to develop the fact that was his home—I had no way of telling when he put the question whether he meant Woodcrest or Cinnaminson.

The Court: He said Cinnaminson.

Mr. Gray: Was he taken to Cinnaminson, I have no objection. It is the conclusion that is to be drawn from the suggestion that she was taken to his home that I object to.

Mr. Hannum: That is a matter for you in hearing the testimony. I think my inquiry is entirely proper, and where she was taken whether that was his home or domicile is a matter for the Court.

The Court: Go ahead.

[fol. 393] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. How long was she there before she died?

A. I presume two years.

Q. Where had she been residing—I am speaking of your mother—before she became or was taken to Dr. Dorrance's home at Cinnaminson?

A. My sister's home in California, San Diego.

Q. That is which sister?

A. Winifred Dudley, Mrs. Roy Dudley.

Q. Was your sister, Mrs. Hood, at any time ill?

A. Yes.

Q. Where was she taken before her death, before she died?

A. Pomona Farms.

Q. When was she taken there?

A. I have had some difficulty in finding the exact date of that. I think it was in the fall of 1925.

Q. How long did she stay at your brother's home before her death?

A. Until she died.

Mr. Gray: I object to the characterization of this place as the brother's home.

The Court: It doesn't necessarily make it his home even though he calls it his home.

Mr. Gray: I object to the question.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I think she died June 16, 1928. She was buried from there.

[fol. 394] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did she die there?

The Court: He said that she died there and was buried from there.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did you have any conversation with your brother regarding his mother and sister coming there while they were ill?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to as totally immaterial and irrelevant. That even doesn't come within your Honor's ruling as to declaration of intention with respect to residence.

The Court: It may be a general conversation; that wouldn't be evidence.

Mr. Hannum: About his mother and sister coming to Cinnaminson, while they were ill. In other words, I don't want to suggest what the conversation may have been, if there was any conversation.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He said that he would—when I asked him if my mother and sister could come there, he said "I will have to see Ethel and talk it over with her and see if it would be satisfactory."

The Court:

Q. What was it he said?

A. "I will have to talk to Ethel"—that is his wife—"to [fol. 395] see if it would be alright for them to come to my home."

Q. He said that, did he?

A. Yes. And some time later——

Mr. Gray: That answers the question. Please don't volunteer.

The Court: Let him finish the thing up.

Mr. Gray: He is talking about some time later.

A. It is the same thing. Two or three days later he said it was perfectly satisfactory for them to come there; Ethel would run the house just the same as she has always run it and it would be perfectly alright providing that his room and one other room was always there so that he could come at any time.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge with what other corporations, if any, was your brother connected, than the Campbell Soup Company?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to as totally immaterial and irrelevant.

By Mr. Hannum

Q. Was he at any time prior to his death in any way associated with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to as totally immaterial and irrelevant, whether he was or not.

The Court: I can't decide that it isn't relevant. I don't [fol. 396] know what it may be. I will hear it and if it is not followed up I will exclude it. I can't tell now whether it is relevant or not. Your objection is overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth)

A. He was a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Mr. Gray: I move that be stricken out. It is nothing to do with the question of his residence.

The Court: I don't know. I will overrule your objection and give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth)

A. A director of the Girard Trust Company.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did he at any time prior to that time that he became a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company talk to you about whether he would or would not become a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

A. I went to him——

Mr. Hannum:

Q. Answer that question whether he did or did not talk to you?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. Now then, the next question is: What did he say on that subject?

[fol. 397] Mr. Gray: That is objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I went to him and said: "Jack, does that mean—

Mr. Hannum:

Q. What mean?
A. Accepting this directorship of the Pennsylvania Railroad—that was before he was appointed—does that mean you have to be a resident of the State of Pennsylvania?" He said: "No; or I should refuse to accept it; and I have been told that there were other men who have been directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad who were not residents of Pennsylvania and they have assured me that it is not necessary and I can remain and I am going to remain a citizen of New Jersey. Otherwise, I will not accept a directorship in the Pennsylvania Railroad."
Q. When was that?
A. I couldn't quite tell you that. I haven't looked that up. I am not sure about it.
Q. Was it before or after the purchase of the property at Radnor, which property was in the name of him and his wife?

A. I don't know, sir, I am not sure of that date. So I wouldn't want to swear to it.

The Court:

Q. It was before he became a director?
A. Yes. It was before he became a director. Yes.

[fol. 398] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Was that talk that you had with him about the time that he became a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad?
A. That was before he became a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad.
Q. I understand it was before. But was it about the time?
A. Yes. He accepted it after they assured him it wasn't necessary to be a resident of the State of Pennsylvania; that he could still be a resident of the State of New Jersey.
Q. It has been stated that the Radnor property was purchased in 1925?
A. Yes.
Q. After 1925, did you go to Cinnaminson, the house at Cinnaminson. Did you go there?
A. Yes.
Q. How frequently were you there between 1925 and 1930?
A. Very often. Possibly may be twice a week; may be once in two weeks. I couldn't say. I was there very often. Any time I was over there, I stopped in and had dinner.
Q. Was your brother, Dr. Dorrance, there on those occasions?
A. Sometimes he would be there; sometimes he wouldn't. I never knew. I often would go there and have dinner with him and stay all night with him.
Q. How frequently did that occur, over that period, Dr. Dorrance?
A. Quite a number of times. I just couldn't say how many. I suppose, thirty five, forty, fifty sometimes sixty. [fol. 399] I haven't any way of just recollecting those things. I didn't put the things down.
Q. When you went there, was the house open or closed?
A. I have never seen it closed since they moved in.
Q. Was or was it not furnished and liveable and were there servants there?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to until the date is fixed with reference to which counsel is putting the question.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. All the days upon which you did go there, either alone or with Dr. Dorrance, between 1925 and 1930, the date of his death?

Mr. Gray: I will have no objection if the witness will state that it was in the same condition on each of the occasions. Then of course there need not be any distinction between one and another. Unless he will say that it is the same, I will object to it until the date is fixed.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. It is the same as it was when he was there before he moved, the furniture was there, the same plates, the same dishes, the same linen, the same beds.

Mr. Hannum:

Q. The same in every part?

A. Yes. One of the beds very hard.

Q. Was or was not Mrs. Dorrance, your brother's wife, there on most of those occasions?

[fol. 400] A. I wouldn't say. I couldn't say on most of them. She was there on some of them. She was there frequently when I was there.

Q. With Dr Dorrance?

A. With Dr. Dorrance; sometimes without Dr. Dorrance.

Q. Were the children and other members of the family there on some of those visits; some of the times that you were there?

A. Sometimes the children were in there alone without anybody; sometimes they were there with Mrs. Dorrance and my brother there as well—all being there sometimes.

Q. Then you stated that you were at your brother's death at this home in Cinnaminson?

A. Yes.

Q. How long had he been there prior to his death, if you know?

A. About seven days.

Mr. Gray: Do you know of your own knowledge.

A. Yes.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Are you able to state of your own knowledge where he had come from to Cinnaminson previously to the seven or eight days before his death. Where he had come from?

A. Yes. I left him at Bar Harbor.

Q. What, if anything, did he say to you when you left him?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

[fol. 401] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Relative to his home at Cinnaminson?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What if anything did he say?

A. He said: "I will see you at my home."

The Court:

Q. What?

A. I will see you at my home when I come down.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Where did you go to see him?

A. Cinnaminson, New Jersey.

The Court:

Q. Did he tell you where to go to see him?

A. No, sir. He just said: "I will see you at my home."

Q. You went to Cinnaminson?

A. Yes.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did you find Mr. Dorrance there?

A. Yes, on the porch.

[fol. 402] By the Court:

Q. On the porch?
A. Yes. On the porch, I drove up.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Was he ill at Bar Harbor when you had that conversation that you have just detailed?
A. Yes. I didn't expect he was going to die.
Q. I didn't ask you that. I asked you if he was ill?
A. Yes.
Q. Was or was not that the reason that he was coming home to Cinnaminson, his illness?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. It calls for a conclusion.

A. I don't understand.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Was he ill at Bar Harbor?
A. Yes.
Q. And was that the reason that he was coming home to Cinnaminson, his illness, when he said to you: "I will see you at home at Cinnaminson?"

Mr. Gray: He didn't say that. The question is therefore an improper quoting of the testimony.
The Court: He said "I will see you at my home."
Mr. Gray: That is objected to, because it asks a witness to give his conclusion.
Mr. Hannum: I asked him if he was ill.
[fol. 403] The Court: The objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He said the season was over and he was coming down and was coming right down to his home. The season was over at Bar Harbor. It was too cold up there.
Q. Was your brother, if you know, of your own knowledge, connected with any church?

Mr. Gray That is objected to as immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He was a member of a church at Riverton, New Jersey—the Episcopal Church. He was warden of that church.

Q. If you know, is that Christ Church, Riverton, New Jersey?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you happen to know of your own knowledge when he became warden?

A. It must have been—I couldn't just tell you the exact date. It was quite sometime. I remember the time that a donation came up. The reason I know about it: They asked him to buy—they wanted to get some coal and he said "No, I won't give you any coal, you have a fight in the vestry." Before he went out he said: "If you don't tell anybody——"

The Court: Never mind, that isn't evidence.

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

[fol. 404] A. The reason; I am fixing the time.

The Court: He is guessing about it.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Was he warden of that same church at the time of his death, if you know?

A. Yes.

Q. If you know of your own knowledge, what was Dr. Dorrance's stock holdings in the Campbell Soup Company at the time of his death?

A. All except a certain number of shares that the directors had; all the rest he owned and had.

Q. He owned the entire—all the stock in the company. How long had he owned that before his death, if you know?

A. From the time I became vice president, 1915, June 3rd.

Q. From 1915 on until the time of his death?

A. Yes.

Q. The certain number of shares that you spoke of were qualifying shares that were given by him to the directors to qualify.

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. But he owned one hundred per cent of the stock of the company?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hannum: Cross-examine.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Do you know what date in 1906 Mr. Dorrance and his wife, the present widow, were married?

[fol. 405] A. Not of my own knowledge; no, sir. I haven't that with me.

Q. You have given a great deal of information gleaned from other sources. Do you know from other sources when they were married?

A. Not the exact date. The exact date, no.

Q. The fall was it, of 1906?

A. It was in the fall, I think.

Q. When did Mr. Dorrance and his wife come to live with you in Philadelphia?

A. That was the first of the year 1908.

Q. First of the year, 1908?

A. Yes.

Q. I am reminded, you told us before it was 1907, which is correct?

A. I said it was the last of 1907. He left Cinnaminson—Camden, the last day of the year and come over to me on the first.

Q. Why did you say Cinnaminson, because you have that in your mind all the time?

Mr. Hannum: Just a minute.

The Court: You have his answer. Go on.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Why did he say Cinnaminson—because you got that prominently in your mind?

A. No, sir, Mr. Gray.

Q. He came to live with you in the first part of 1908. Of what did your household then consist in Philadelphia?

A. It consisted of myself, because my sister had just gotten married.

[fol. 406] Q. What did it consist of?

A. Regular residence in Philadelphia.

Q. Who lived there?

A. I did.

Q. Nobody but you?

A. No, sir. Not at that time.

Q. Did you have servants there?

A. Yes.

Q. Before they came to live with you?

A. Yes. Someone for years.

Q. How big a house was it?

A. It is 1716 Locust Street. It may be about ten or twelve roomed house, I suppose.

Q. What part did you rent to them?

A. Well, they had—I wouldn't call it renting exactly, Mr. Gray. We lived together. I invited them to come in and live with me.

Q. As what we call paying guests?

Mr. Hannum: It isn't necessary to characterize it in any unpleasant way.

Mr. Gray: That is not characterizing them in any unpleasant way.

A. They just came. We never called it "paying guests". I ran the house. He said to me: "How much will it cost?" I said: "I don't know." I said: "What it costs me while you are here—if I can put it that way—I will charge you."

Q. He ran the house?

A. No, sir. I ran the house.

Q. What did you charge?

A. I don't have the figures.

Q. He paid a stipulated sum per month?

[fol. 407] A. Yes.

Q. What was the amount per month?

A. I don't know. I don't know that I have the record now.

Q. Your memory can go back to conversations prior to that time, yet you can't tell me the amount per month that your brother paid you when he moved in in 1907, is that correct?

A. I couldn't tell you the dollars and cents. No, sir.

Q. You have no idea?

The Court: What difference does it make? He said that he lived there. What is the use of taking time with trifling questions?

Mr. Gray: I think not. My friend goes to the question of his living there in 1907 and endeavored to establish that it was a temporary living. I am going to establish the fact that it was not a temporary living, if I can; but that Dr. Dorrance himself was in charge of running the house.

The Court: Go ahead.

Mr. Gray:

Q. You have no idea of what he paid you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now he lived with you from 1907 until 1911, is that correct?

Mr. Hannum: I object. He said, 1908.

Mr. Gray: You are perfectly right.

Q. From 1908 until 1911, is that right?

[fol. 408] A. Yes.

Q. What time in 1911?

A. I think that was the first of April. I can't fix it. I thing it is the first. It must have been, because that is when the lease ended, because I left there then because he was moving. I had made other arrangements to go over and live with McCarthy at that time.

Q. That is 2022 Walnut Street with Dr. McCarthy?

A. Yes, I went there. I had arranged to come there.

Q. After he bought the property, your brother bought the property in Cinnaminson, New Jersey, is that correct?

A. He either bought it or it belonged to the Campbell Soup Company. It is my recollection that he rented that from the Campbell Soup Company in Cinnaminson.

Q. When in 1911?

A. It is my recollection that he either bought it or rented it from the Campbell Soup Company.

Q. Do you know whether he ever bought it or not?

A. I am not sure of that fact. Later I think he rented it——

Q. Do you know whether he ever bought it?

A. I am not sure about that fact.

Q. You don't know at that time whether the title was taken either by your brother or your brother's wife?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, am I correct in suggesting that between 1911 and 1925 you visited your brother and his wife at Cinnaminson?

A. Yes.

[fol. 409] Q. That is at the place that you referred to as Pomona farms?

A. Yes.

Q. And that is in Burlington County?

A. Yes.

Q. By the way, those farms were farms that were used by the Campbell Soup Company for the purpose of growing vegetables, isn't that correct?

A. Experimental farms, principally. You asked me that, what they were for.

Q. Alright, they were experimental farms?

A. Yes.

Q. These Pomona farms, the place where your brother lived from 1911 until 1925 was an experimental farm of the Campbell Soup Company?

A. Yes. A certain part of that was not taken care of by the farmers of the farms. That other part was taken care of by his people.

Q. You would recognize a picture of the place, if you saw it, of course?

A. I certainly would.

Q. I show you a picture of photograph which I will ask the stenographer to mark as Commonwealth's Exhibit "A" or "1" (Photograph marked Commonwealth's Ex. 1), and ask you if that is a picture of the house at Pomona farms, Cinnaminson, New Jersey?

Mr. Hannum: I object. The picture isn't in evidence.

The Court: He is going to show it to him. He hasn't offered it in evidence. He can show him the picture. Let him see it. Let the witness answer.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

[fol. 410] A. It looks exactly like it.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Is it?

A. Without there is another one similar to this one, it is, yes.

Q. You didn't see it often enough to be able to tell it from the photograph?

A. That is—this looks exactly like it.

Q. Is that a picture of it?

A. This picture looks exactly like the place out there.

The Court: That is certainly an answer. It looks like it.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. I show you what purports to be a picture taken from the air, of Pomona farms, Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and ask you whether or not that is an accurate picture of the plot of grounds together with the house and such other buildings as may be on it at Pomona farms, Cinnaminson, New Jersey.

Mr. Hannum: I have the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

A. Well, Mr. Gray, if I may answer the question——

By Mr. Gray:

Q. That is what I want you to do.

[fol. 411] The Court: Just answer what you know about it.

A. May I have the question?

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Is that a picture of the grounds and buildings thereon at Pomona farms, Cinnaminson, New Jersey, from the air? Of course, I am not binding you to where the limits of the farm are, or anything of that kind.

Mr. Hannum: That was taken from an airplane.
Mr. Gray: Yes.

A. I don't just exactly. I couldn't say. It isn't all the farm, I am sure of that.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Let me suggest to you that the house is in here where you see it coming through the trees.

The Court: How is he to tell if it is the picture if he can't see the house. It is your suggestion.
Mr. Gray: He can see it.

A. Is this the Lippincott farm down there?
Q. If you can't answer the question, I will have to state that I don't know whether that is Lippincott's farm or not.
A. That looks like, to me, what the Lippincott farm would be like from up above.

Q. What I want to know. Does that look like the Pomona farm from the air?

[fol. 412] A. I don't see the house. That is—I get it now. That is our stables.

Mr. Hannum: Have you any pictures from the ground?

A. For the farm business. That is the experimental station, and these are the experimental greenhouses.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. That is a picture then of Pomona farms?

A. Yes, I guess it is. May be I had—that is not all the farms. This is just one farm. This is farm No. 1. We have farm No. 2 across the road. It isn't connected with that farm No. 2.

Q. This is the farm on which the house contained in the picture Exhibit 1 is located?

A. That is where Pomona farms of Mr. Dorrance's place is a portion of that, right off that. The rest of it is farm No. 1. That is not Pomona farm. Farm No. 1 is technically known to us as farm No. 1. The residence part which he had I suppose would be Pomona farms. But the rest is farm No. 1.

Q. Then you are sure that the picture Exhibit 2 is the farm on which this building which is in Exhibit 1 is located, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. After 1925, when did you first visit Cinnaminson?

A. I couldn't tell you, Mr. Gray. I suppose possibly a month or six weeks after. I made frequent visits out there for very many and various reasons. I was a member of the firm.

Q. You went frequently to Cinnaminson because of the [fol. 413] experimental farm station that belonged to the Campbell Soup Company, that is correct?

A. No, sir.

Q. Then you never went to Cinnaminson because of the experimental station that belonged to the Campbell Soup Company out there?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did they have an experimental farm out there?

A. They had them and a man in charge of them.

Q. You never visited them?

A. I had visited them but I had no official business there.

Q. I am not talking of official business?

A. If I did, I did just for general—nothing reported me.

Q. You went there sometimes to look at the experimental farms?

A. Not officially. I might have gone there; not for that purpose. I didn't go there for that purpose.

Q. When was your mother taken there?

A. My mother came there in 1926.

Q. What time in 1926?

A. Some time in September.

Q. Now, did you have professional charge of your mother?

A. No, sir. I had Dr. Rogers of Riverton to see her sometimes. Sometimes my partner saw her. Dr. McCarthy. I was her son. I wasn't her doctor.

Q. That is the reason of this question: Did you have professional charge of her? Your answer is no.

A. No.

Q. Now, Dr. Daniel J. McCarthy, did he have charge of her case?

[fol. 414] A. No, sir. My partner, Dr. J. W. Bransfield, had charge of it.

Q. What is Dr. Bransfield's name?

A. John W.

Q. Where is his office?

A. 2112 Spruce street.

Q. Is he still there in practice?

A. Yes.

Q. Is he here in court?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know he has been subpœnaed in this case?

A. I don't know.

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge how frequently during the time when your mother was taken there in 1926 and died I think—if I am wrong correct me—on January 9, 1929, did Dr. Bransfield visit her?

A. No, I haven't any knowledge.

Q. He is your associate?

A. Yes.

Q. Was he so then?

A. Yes.

Q. When did he become your associate, or you become his?

A. Really I don't know. He is my partner.

Q. Prior to 1926?

A. Yes.

Q. But you can't tell us, although Dr. Bransfield had charge of your mother?

A. I couldn't say "charge of her". She was an old lady, just gradually going down. It didn't require much medical attention. She was just there because she was an old lady and couldn't get around at nights. If anything went wrong they called me and either I went out or called [fol. 415] Harry Rogers, or if he couldn't go, and anything serious they got my friend, Dr. McCarthy to go out to see my mother. He just went out maybe once or twice. I don't know how many times.

Q. You mean once or twice in two or three years?

A. Yes. Towards the last end he came. She was just a gradual senile lady.

Q. Would you say your partner Dr. Bransfield was there once or twice in several years?

A. No, sir. Bransfield was out a good many more times than that.

Q. How many?

A. I really don't know.

Q. How many times did Dr. Rogers go out there?

A. I suppose Rogers during her last illness—seven, eight, nine, ten, 12, to 14 times. I don't know.

Q. What is his first name?

A. Harry.

Q. Where is his office?

A. Riverton and Moorestown. He has two offices.

Q. Is he in court?

A. No, not that I know of. I don't know.

Q. Now, did you go to the Cinnaminson house at any time in between the time that your brother, John T. Dorrance, moved to Woodcrest, Radnor, and the time that your mother was taken to the house at Pomona Farms, Cinnaminson, New Jersey?

Mr. Hannum: I object. Dr. Dorrance has not said that his brother moved to Radnor.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the executors.)

A. Yes.

[fol. 416] Mr. Hannum: My objection is to the word move. I don't want his answer to be based on that premise.

The Court: I will sustain the objection as to the word "move".

Mr. Gray: I am perfectly willing to take the word "move" out.

The Court: Went from one place to the other.

Mr. Gray: Yes.

Q. (Question repeated.)

A. I did.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. How long after John T. Dorrance went to Radnor, Woodcrest, Radnor, was your first visit made to Cinnaminson?

A. I think I answered that a moment ago.

Q. Answer it again, it will save time.

A. I couldn't definitely tell you. I couldn't definitely answer that more than to say it must have been two or three months, in there.

Q. What is that?

A. Possibly two or three months.

Q. Two months after he went to Radnor?

A. Yes.

Q. When did he go to Radnor?

A. In 1925.

Q. What time of the year?

A. I haven't that just in my mind.

Q. How do you know that was two months afterwards?

Mr. Hannum: I object to a question like that. He may [fol. 417] know that he went to Radnor without knowing at the time, and that two months after that time, he went to Cinnaminson.

A. It was about that time, as near as I can get at it.

The Court: He said that he couldn't say.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. What was the purpose of your first visit to Cinnaminson after John T. Dorrance went to Radnor?

A. I haven't the faintest idea,

Q. What were the purposes of the various visits that you say you made between 1925 and the date of John T. Dorrance's death, when you went to Cinnaminson?

A. Sometimes to get dinner. Because I would go to see people in Riverton and I would go over there and have dinner, and then go somewhere else. Other times, I would go out there to play golf. I would go there and have dinner. I might sleep there if it was too hot in my home. Again I would go out there hoping to see him out there. Other times I would go down there by appointment to see him. Those are the only reasons that I know why I would go there.

Q. He was interested in the farms, of course?

A. He was?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. Supervised them, you said?

A. He had a head agriculturist in charge of them. They reported to him.

Q. The agriculturists in charge of the experimental farms reported to your brother, John T. Dorrance?

A. Yes.

Q. How many times would you say that you slept at Po-
[fol. 418] mona farms from 1925 to the date of John T. Dorrance's death?

A. Maybe forty, or fifty or sixty, I don't know. Somewhere in there.

Q. Did you ever sleep there in winter time?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever sleep there in summer time?

A. Yes. Many times in summer time.

Q. Did you ever know Dr. John T. Dorrance to sleep there over night?

A. Did I ever know Dr. Dorrance to sleep there over night?

Q. Yes.

A. Many, many, many times.

Q. Did you ever know Mrs. Ethel Dorrance to sleep there over night?

A. Yes.

Q. You have been there on nights when she has been there?

A. Yes.

Q. Would any of the children sleep there over night?

A. I think so, yes.

Q. You are not sure about that?

A. I am most sure.

Q. How many times have you known Mrs. Ethel Dorrance to sleep there over night?

A. I couldn't swear to just how many. It seems to me to my recollection it would be sometimes—I am trying to figure it, according to my recollection—especially there for quite a long spell——

Q. You were never there for a long spell?

A. I never stayed there any long spell.

Mr. Gray: I ask that that be stricken out.

[fol. 419] The Court: I refuse to strike it out.

Mr. Gray: Grant me an exception.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. I am asking you a question, which please try to answer: How many nights do you know, of your own knowledge, that Mrs. Ethel Dorrance slept at Pomona farms since that place at Radnor was bought in 1925?

A. Do I know that she slept in the house, that is know it, or whether I was told that she had been there for in that length of time.

The Court: Answer the question, if you were down there.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Of your own personal knowledge?

A. I suppose my own knowledge would then be, I should say, about forty, as near as I can get to it.

Q. Did you count that forty up on your fingers just now?

A. I tried to, yes, Mr. Gray.

Q. How many times did you visit Woodcrest at Radnor?

A. Now, do you mean—that is went out on social visits or do you mean to stay there over night?

Q. I mean the number of times you have been there?

A. The number of times. I haven't any idea. I think I have slept there four times. I don't believe I have been there over forty times, or thirty—thirty or forty times. I just didn't keep track of them, Mr. Gray. If I cut out his last illness when I was out on professional calls it would [fol. 420] naturally go down quite a lot. I was counting those professional times that I had to go out there.

Q. Your visits to Cinnaminson, you counted your professional visits you made there?

A. No, sir. I didn't go out there for that reason at Cinnaminson—only his last illness, say the last four or five days—I counted those in, in the same way that I counted up—

Q. When you stayed at Woodcrest over night, did you stay there on occasions when Dr. John T. Dorrance was not there?

A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. That was not unless when there were several times he was abroad and something was wrong with one of the children and I stayed out there.

Q. Mrs. Dorrance and the child were always at Woodcrest when you were there?

A. Mrs. Dorrance was abroad at that time.

Q. But at all times she and the children were there?

A. At my visits?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir. I went out several times and Mrs. Dorrance and Doctor were abroad. I went out there just to see how things were going.

Q. To see the children?

A. Just the same as any other brother would go.

Q. Were the children abroad with them?

A. No, sir.

Q. Where were the children?

A. There at Radnor.

Q. That is the place I am talking about, were they there?

[fol. 421] A. Yes, they were there. Not all of them. Some would be abroad with her; some would be there.

Q. Let me come back to Cinnaminson. When were you called to Cinnaminson either professionally or because of your being his brother on account of the last illness of Dr. John T. Dorrance?

A. The day that he got back.

Q. What date was that?

A. Of course, I had phoned to know, I remember over the phone to the Campbell Soup Company. I said "Notify me when Mr. Dorrance gets back. I want to see him."

Q. When was the date that he got back?

A. He died on the 21st. It was, I think, seven days before that that he returned. It must have been on this date.

Q. When was he taken sick, on the day that he returned?

A. No, sir. Just about the same that he had been for sometime. He hadn't been well.

Q. When was he taken sick in his last illness?

A. You mean the final thing that terminated in his death? Four days before he died.

Q. Do you know where he was taken sick?

A. No, I don't.

Q. You were connected with the Campbell Soup Company, weren't you?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you there every day?

A. Where?

Q. What am I talking about?

A. You are talking Cinnaminson, I think.

Q. I asked you whether you were connected with the Campbell Soup Company?

[fol. 422] A. Yes, I am vice president.

Q. Then I asked you whether you were there every day and you asked me where? Now I am talking about the Campbell Soup Co.?

A. I thought Cinnaminson—my brother's illness is what I have connected up with.

Q. May be I don't put my questions intelligently. I am now talking about the Campbell Soup Company. Were you there every day?

A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't remember?

A. I wasn't there every day. I didn't go to the Campbell Soup Company every day.

Q. How often did you go there?

A. Sometimes I might go there every day for a week; then I might be there one day a week or twice a week.

Q. In September 1930, between the 14th and the 21st were you at the Campbell Soup Company at all?

A. I certainly was.

Q. Didn't you know when your brother returned?

A. I certainly did know when my brother returned.

Q. You met him on the day that he returned?

A. I think it was that day or the next day.

Q. At the Campbell Soup Company?

A. At the Campbell Soup Company?
Q. Yes.
A. No.
Q. Where?
A. Cinnaminson.
Q. Didn't you see him at the Campbell Soup Company?
A. No, sir.
Q. When he came back you got a message did you?
[fol. 423] A. Yes.
Q. From whom?
A. I think it was from Miss Brinton, his secretary. I think that is who it was. I don't know who it was.
Q. Advising you that he was home?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you go to the Campbell Soup Company to see him?
A. I didn't see him at the Campbell Soup Company.
Q. Did you go to the Campbell Soup Company to see him?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did you call him on the phone at the Campbell Soup Company?
A. No, sir. I didn't talk to him on the phone.
Q. Did you have a previous appointment to see him on any particular day?
A. No, sir.
Q. You went to Cinnaminson to see him?
A. Yes.
Q. Day time or evening?
A. I haven't the faintest idea.
Q. Which day was it before his death that you then went to Cinnaminson after his return from Bar Harbor?
A. Let me get that question again.
Q. (Question read.)
A. I think it was the day after he returned.
Q. He wasn't ill then?
A. Well, he had been as ill as he had been for sometime.
Q. What did you go there to see him for?
A. Because he was my brother and wasn't well.
[fol. 424] Q. Why didn't you drop in to see him at the Campbell Soup Company?

Mr. Hannum: I object.

A. Because he wasn't there.

The Court: Objection overruled.

(Bill sealed for Executors.)

A. Because they phoned he was at Cinnaminson.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. They phoned that he was at Cinnaminson.

A. Yes. When he got back.

Q. Isn't it a fact that your brother was taken sick at the Campbell Soup Company and removed from the Campbell Soup Company to Cinnaminson, Pomona farms, and you having been sent for you were there when he was taken ill?

A. No, sir. That is not my recollection.

Q. Will you say that is not so?

A. I will say so.

Q. Where were you when he was taken sick?

A. Mr. Gray, I have been calling on him so long about that, many times, that I cannot answer that question directly. I mean all the times that I had been called to him. This man had not been well for a long time.

Q. Did you know that he was removed from the Campbell Soup Company place to the Pomona Farms after he was taken ill?

A. It is my recollection that he never went to the Campbell Soup Company place after he came down from Bar Harbor. It is my recollection that he came directly from Bar Harbor over to his home at Cinnaminson.

[fol. 425] Q. You say that you saw him the second day after he came back?

A. That is so, I think.

Q. When did you see him the next time after that?

A. I couldn't swear to that. I think the next day, as far as I remember.

Q. You were with him at the time that he died?

A. Yes. I stayed there.

Q. How many bed rooms are in the Cinnaminson house?

A. One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine on the second floor.

Q. Does that include any servants' rooms?

A. They are upstairs.

Q. Nine bed rooms on the second floor?

A. I think that is right, it is eight or nine, I forget which.

Q. How many of those bed rooms during the week of September 1930 were furnished—during that week of the 14th?

A. All except one of them.

Q. How many of those bed rooms had covers on the beds?

A. All of them had.

Q. Did you go into all of them?

A. I don't say that I did. I walked down the central place, and looked into them. I didn't look into each bed room, no sir.

Q. Then you don't know?

A. But it is my recollection that all the rooms were.

Q. What is your recollection based on?

A. I walked down that corridor to go out into the back porch, as I remember it. I couldn't say definitely. The [fol. 426] rooms were furnished as they always had been.

Q. You say they had servants there then?

A. Yes.

Q. How many?

A. At the time he died?

Q. Yes.

A. I think there were three.

Q. Name them?

A. Name them? Their names?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't know their names, except Mary, the cook, the one I had dealings with.

Q. Do you know her last name?

A. No, sir, I don't. I never have known her name. It has been a good while. She was Mary to me.

Q. That is the only name that you knew her as, Mary, is it?

A. Yes.

Q. There was a waiting girl, I presume?

A. Yes.

Q. And there was a cook?

A. Yes, I think so.

Q. Do you know of any other girl there?

A. There was an older one. I don't know what her name is. I never paid any attention to her name. I don't know what her name is.

Q. Was the other named Bridget?

A. It seems to me, I think it is.

Q. You would know her if you saw her?

A. No, sir. I wouldn't know her name if I heard it.

Q. What were the apparent duties of the other one as you saw her around the house?

A. She was cleaning the rooms, I guess, and fixing the [fol. 427] halls up and sweeping the porch. I know she swept the porch.

Q. Tell me whether the name of the girl called Mary is Mary McLaughlin?

A. I don't know. I never heard her last name.

Q. Do you know whether that girl, Mary, is living or dead?

A. I don't know.

Q. Those are the only servants you saw?

A. It seems to me there was a third one around there that waited on the table. I won't swear to that now. I think there was.

Q. Do you mean to say you can't tell the Court during the time that you were there whether there was some other girl there other than the one that did the cooking and the one that cleaned?

A. Well, they were very such serious times that I remember very, very little. My brother was dying. I don't remember the details at that time. It was too much of a serious thing at that time.

Q. What other doctors were there in his last illness?

A. Dr. Wm. E. Hughes, he had attended him and did attend him then.

Q. Dr. Hughes of Philadelphia?

A. Yes. Dr. Ulmer from Moorestown. Dr. Gradle of Germany, also, who was not in attendance. But he just came back from over there and he had Gradle's medicine. Everybody does that—brings it back. Gradle sent reports to Hughes and I think reported to me. I know we went all over this medicine. I know Ulmer was one and Cohen from Moorestown was the local man.

[fol. 428] Q. Were those doctors in constant attendance at the house?

A. No sir. I was there a great deal of the time.

Q. Were any of them ever at the house?

A. Yes. Hughes was certainly there.

Q. Was any other there?

A. No. Ulmer was there.

Q. Those were times of difficulty and trouble. Go back to the times when you visited there and had dinner sometimes. Who were the servants there then?

A. This one that you termed Bridget, she was the elderly one—I don't know, she was there. Mary was there, and then there was one other. What her name was——

Q. Are you sure of that now?

A. Yes, I am sure they were there.

Q. You never saw any more than those three?

A. Not that I recollect. At least I don't count the chauffeur as a house servant.

Q. Did you ever attend any social gathering at Pomona farms, Cinnaminson, at which other people were present than those that have been discussed since your brother went to Radnor in 1925?

A. Yes, there was a meeting there—I don't just know—a lot of vestrymen of his church were there at his house. I don't know just when it was. And then I know he had some other gentlemen there, because I happened to come in. They said there was somebody here. I said: "Good by, I am going; I won't come in." I remember distinctly.

Q. Only those two occasions in five years?

A. In my mind. I hadn't thought of this before.

Q. Well, think of it.

A. Those are the two that are on my mind. There may [fol. 429] have been more. I don't remember at this moment.

Q. You can't think of any others?

A. I remember many times of men being there at dinner with him.

Q. Name any of them?

A. Mr. Armstrong.

Q. Is he here?

A. No, sir. Mr. Wallis Armstrong.

Q. Where does he live?

A. Moorestown.

Q. Any others?

A. Mr. Hall, his experimental agriculturist was there.

Q. You mean the one that had charge up there?

A. Had charge of all that business, of all the farms.

Q. Name anybody else?

A. I think Mr. Newkirk from the company there.

Q. What Newkirk, what is his first name?

A. Phillip Newkirk.

Q. What is his business?

A. He is purchasing agent of the Campbell Soup Company.

Q. Can you name anybody that came there other than for business that you met there?

A. Mr. Gray, there were a number of men came down to visit him. I wasn't there.

Q. I ask you to name anybody else that you met there?

A. No, sir, I couldn't.

Q. Your answer is no. Did you ever attend any social gatherings at Pomona farms, Cinnaminson, at which Mrs. [fol. 430] Dorrance and the children were present, or Mrs. Dorrance or the children, either way?

A. Nothing excepting the times of my mother's and my sister's death. They were there entertaining the people who stayed there.

Q. I am not referring to those. I am referring to social gatherings. You mean the funeral?

A. Before that. The night before, sir, when people came down and stayed there.

Q. But nothing else except that?

A. Not that I remember.

Q. Your sister was brought there ill too?

A. Yes.

Q. When was your sister brought there ill?

A. Now, she—that was in September, 1923 or 1924, to the best of my knowledge at the present.

Q. That is before Dr. Dorrance bought the Radnor place?

A. No, sir. I am wrong. Let me go over that just a minute. That must have been September 1926.

The Court:

Q. What year?

A. September 1926.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. What are those notes you have?

A. These are notes—I am trying to refresh my mind on these things.

Q. Let me see them please. They were made in a lawyer's office?

A. Yes, I asked him to look it up for me.

Q. And contained in a letter that was addressed to you by the lawyer.

A. Yes.

[fol. 431] The Court: This is not a Quarter Sessions Court.

Mr. Gray: I recognize that. But if my question be a proper one I must ask that I be permitted to put it—except under your Honor's ruling I will stop.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. When did your sister die?

A. June 6, 1928. I corrected that up by the burial note up at Bristol.

Q. So that your sister and your mother were present at Cinnaminson together for some period of time?

A. Parts of the time.

Q. You went to visit them, I suppose?

A. I certainly did. And come to think of it that would make my visits very much more often. I hadn't included those in. I must have been there a great many more times, because there wouldn't be one week went by that I didn't see my mother. So I didn't include those in. I was always there at least once a week.

Q. That was the principal purpose of your visiting there, wasn't it?

A. Yes, one of the principal—one of the reasons I went there—with the other reasons I had.

Q. You have been in Woodcrest, of course. I show you another photograph and ask you whether or not this photograph fairly represents the house and grounds at Woodcrest?

The Court: At Radnor, you mean?

Mr. Gray: Yes. I think the record shows that I named the house at Woodcrest—the house at Radnor was Woodcrest.

[fol. 432] A. Yes, I think that represents it. (Photo marked Com. Ex. 3.)

Q. Now you have attended many social gatherings at Woodcrest at Radnor?

A. Two.

Q. When were they?

A. One when my brother gave a dinner, I think to some Pennsylvania Railroad officer.

Q. About when, if you know?

A. I don't know the exact date. It is just one to the Pennsylvania Railroad officer. I forget who he gave the dinner to. It was one of the vice presidents of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Q. The other.

A. The other when his daughter was married.

Q. When was that?

A. The two daughters were married. I don't just remember. One was married this spring. I don't remember the other one—the other was married some two or three years ago.

Q. Where was the one married this spring?

A. Right in the house at Woodcrest.

Q. The house at Woodcrest, Radnor?

A. Yes.

Q. Where was the other married?

A. At the church at Wayne.

Q. Yes.

A. No, not Wayne. I don't know—a church out there.

Q. St. Davids?

A. I don't know exactly. On this new road there as you go to Wayne. I don't know the name.

Q. You were in the church?

A. I don't know whether I can find that.

[fol. 433] Q. You were at the church?

A. Yes.

Q. And there at the house reception?

A. Yes.

Q. That was at Radnor?

A. Yes.

Q. Very large gatherings both of them?

A. The last one wasn't a large gathering; very, very small.

Q. On account of death?

A. Yes.

Q. That was the only time you were invited?

A. That wasn't the only time I was invited. That is the only time I went.

Q. How many times were you invited to social affairs out there?

A. I don't know. Numerous times. I don't remember them.

Q. Thirty-five or forty?

A. I couldn't say. My brother knew that I didn't care to go to those things.

Q. He sent you invitations?

A. He talked to me about them.

Q. You said that your brother knew that you didn't care about such things. I say for that reason, he didn't send you many invitations?

A. He talked to me about them. I might have received some. But they were the only ones I went to.

Q. They sent out formal invitations to many affairs out there?

A. Not that I remember.

Q. You don't recollect receiving any formal invitations, and didn't even get one to the wedding?

[fol. 434] A. No, sir. I don't even know that. I would have to ask my wife.

Q. Your brother, Mr. Dorrance, used to send Christmas cards?

A. I think one came to my wife.

Q. With a picture of Woodcrest, Radnor, on it, didn't he?

A. While I say that I saw them, Mr. Gray, the only one I remember was one picture like one with some snow around. I don't remember Woodcrest. I remember something like with snow on the ground.

Q. Didn't you get a Christmas card from him with a picture of Woodcrest, Radnor, on it as a Christmas card?

A. I never remember of such a card.

Q. Now, my recollection is of your testimony, and please correct me if I am wrong, that when you wanted to take your mother and your sister, one or the other, and I am going to ask you which one it was, to Pomona, and you asked your brother John T. Dorrance about it, he said that he would have to talk to his wife, is that correct?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. Was that your mother?

A. That was my sister.

Q. And he said that he didn't want or that Ethel—to use the language that you used—didn't want to have her running of the house interfered with, is that correct?

A. No, sir. That wasn't what I said.

Q. What was the thing that he said?

A. "Ethel would run the house just the same as she always had run it."

Q. How was that?

[fol. 435] A. She ran the whole house and always had run it.

Q. What did she do?

A. She dictated to the servants and ordered the food and all those sort of things.

Q. You saw that or heard it?

A. I know it to be true.

Q. Did you hear it?

A. That is what the cook always told me when I wanted anything special: "Well, I will have to ask Mrs. Dorrance about it," and then order—for my mother and sister.

Q. Did you ever take dinner with Mrs. Dorrance at Cinnaminson after 1925?

A. I think I have, yes.

Q. You are not sure about it?

A. Yes, I am sure about it.

Q. Once, you mean?

A. I think more times than that. But I couldn't just—I didn't put those things down in my records. I am sure it is much more than that—in the spring and summer. Yes—thirty, forty, fifty, sixty times.

Q. That just dawned on you?

A. I am just calculating when I was there at times in the spring and summer.

Q. Thirty, forty to sixty times.

A. Yes.

Q. The daughters were there at the same time, I suppose?

A. I can't remember whether they were or not.

Q. You can remember them for thirty, forty, fifty to sixty times?

A. I think that is as near as I can get to it. It may be [fol. 436] anywhere from twenty to forty, as near as I can remember.

Q. You also told me that he said his room must be preserved and not disturbed. Is that when he told you when you asked about taking your sister over there?

A. He said I want that kept so I can have it at any time.

Q. Do you remember why there was any necessity of informing you that if your sick sister went there where your sick mother was that Ethel must run the house and that his room must still be preserved so that he could have it at any time?

A. He was a man that always had everything in that room. His things were kept there; he didn't want to move out. His ties and underwear, his pajamas, shoes, clothes were still in there—a certain part of them.

Q. They were the only clothes in the house were they?

A. I don't know about that. I remember getting a couple of night gowns because an accident happened to my sister and they found a couple of night gowns. Where the nurse found them, I don't know.

Q. You have no idea where they found those?

A. No, sir. I didn't go into those things.

Q. Do you know whether as a matter of fact that Dr. Dorrance, Dr. John T. Dorrance, avoided going to Cinnaminson during the time that your mother and sister were there ill?

A. No, sir. I don't know that he avoided that.

Q. You say that you saw them there while your mother and sister were ill, either one of them?

A. Yes.

[fol. 437] Q. No doubt about that in your mind?

A. Absolutely no doubt about it. My brother would go there.

Q. How many servants did they have there at Woodcrest?

A. I certainly don't know.

Q. You couldn't count them.

The Court: He said he couldn't tell.

A. No, I don't know.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. You have no idea?

A. No, sir.

Q. Your brother never told you that?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know why your brother was so careful always to hold these conversations about being a resident of New Jersey, with you?

A. Why this even came up at business as well as at lunch time, at table. He said that every man connected with the Compbell Soup Company ought to be a resident of New Jersey and if he didn't stay over in New Jersey he couldn't insist upon the rest of them living over there and he thought it was essential to the business for them to be in contact politically and otherwise with conditions in New Jersey.

Q. Because you were a New Jersey Corporation?

A. A New Jersey Corporation.

Q. When he talked about becoming a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad you were a little worried?

A. I didn't like it.

Q. You said you asked him about moving to Pennsylvania?

A. No, sir. May I change—I didn't mind his becoming a [fol. 438] director of the Pennsylvania Railroad, but I didn't want him to be a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad if that meant that he had to give up his rights in New Jersey, because I thought firmly it couldn't be that way for business reasons.

Q. What rights in New Jersey?

A. I mean if he wasn't a resident of New Jersey—giving up voting rights.

Q. You asked him if he was going to move to Pennsylvania didn't you?

A. Yes.

Q. And he told you that he bought this place for his wife and kiddies?

A. Yes.

Q. You wanted to know whether it would involve any change of residence? He said no. You said, alright, if it won't interfere with your business?

A. It is all right with me if it doesn't interfere with your business, it is your business.

Q. You were vice president?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have any stock?

A. One share of stock.

Q. Did you get any salary?

A. Yes.

Q. That is the only interest you had in the business, to get your salary?

A. No, sir. That isn't it. I didn't want particularly to go into the thing. But my brother wanted me to be there.

And I said: "Alright, Jack, I might possibly please you in some way." He said: "I wish you would come in very much and for many reasons. I want you here for a while. So I said: "Alright." I let him go ahead and do it.

[fol. 439] Q. What year was that?

A. 1915.

Q. Your brother was the kind of man that would have taken any orders from you with reference to what should be done relative to his residence or business, was he?

A. No, he wouldn't take orders from me. No, because our business isn't run that way. The head does run the business. You don't take orders from any one below you in that business.

Q. He was the only one in control.

A. Yes. He would take suggestions and he welcomed and would ask me for them. If I hadn't gone to him he would have said something to me for not coming to him.

Q. Now, you not only had discussion with him about his becoming a resident of Pennsylvania at the time that he either was buying or contemplating buying the property at Radnor, Pennsylvania, but then you had a very similar discussion with him at the time there was talk about his being elected a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Two separate occasions, wasn't there?

A. Yes.

Q. On each of these you went to him?

A. I went to him after very careful legal advice and asked about the thing, if it was alright. I wanted to know where I was standing. I asked if these Pennsylvania Railroad made any difference and they told me that it didn't make any difference; that men had been residents of other states and still director of the Pennsylvania Railroad and they instanced a State. George Graham, who happened to be a Congressman—that is what they told me—George Graham [fol. 440] happened to be a Congressman from Pennsylvania and he purchased a place in New York and he lived there most of the time. That is what they said.

Q. Now you used this expression in answer to my question: "You wanted to know where you were standing". What did you want to know about your standing. What did you mean by that?

A. My standing? I didn't say anything about my standing.

Q. (Answer read.)

A. I said to my lawyer I wanted to know where I was standing.

Q. Why did you want to know where you were standing?

A. I wanted to know—I went to a lawyer to find out about whether the advice that I had obtained was correct—if he was a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad it didn't make any difference where he lived. I wanted to get that fact straightened out from the legal end of it.

Q. How did that effect your standing?

A. I haven't any standing. I wanted to know for business reasons.

Q. How did it effect business?

A. Because I thought he ought to be a resident of New Jersey, and if becoming a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad necessitated that he be a resident of Pennsylvania, I would then object to it very strenuously.

Q. You would have objected to it?

A. Yes.

Q. With your foot on one share of stock?

A. Well, now, my brother and I weren't one share of [fol. 441] stock. He talked to me about those things. We had conversations about those things. It wasn't one talk.

Q. So you and your brother continuously did everything you could to keep him before the public as a resident of the State of New Jersey, didn't you?

A. I don't think we did anything for that.

Q. You don't think you did anything for that purpose?

A. No, sir.

Q. I asked you about the doctors who had charge of your mother, were they the same doctors that had charge of your sister at Pomona farms?

A. Doctor Charles Potts saw my sister at Cape May and he was out there to see her at certain definite times to regulate things.

Q. What address, what is his address?

A. He is dead.

Q. Were there any other doctors that had charge of your sister?

A. Dr. Bransfield, my partner was there a great deal. Then I think Ulmer was on there to. These things are a little hazy. Yes, I think Ulmer was there. Mostly it was Bransfield and Potts. Potts came out regularly at stated definite visits. It was a case of an injury to the back, broken back, following a fall, so there was nothing much to be done except nursing.

Q. Do you see here in the Court room any of the servants that you ever saw at Cinnaminson?

A. Peter was there.

Q. What is Peter's last name?

A. He has a Russian name. I don't recall the name.

Q. Orliff—I will speak it?

A. It might be. I won't swear that is it. Charles was [fol. 442] there, the chauffeur. I don't know Charles last name.

Q. What was Peter's business?

A. He did anything that anybody wanted him to do. He also looked particularly after my brother. He looked particularly after my brother, any wish that he might want.

Q. He came over with him and went back to Radnor with him, you mean.

A. I don't know when Peter came with my brother. I think it was after my brother got to Radnor.

Q. What about Charles?

A. I think Charles has been there for twenty years.

Q. Where?

A. Everywhere, both places.

Q. He was the chauffeur?

A. Yes.

Q. What is his last name?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Hasker?

A. Yes.

Q. He was the chauffeur who drove Mr. Dorrance up there?

A. To where?

Q. I asked you if there were any servants here?

A. I am trying to see if—I guess that is Mary, I don't know. There is somebody there. It looks like Mary. I wouldn't swear to it. I think that is Mary. I wouldn't swear to that. I don't see anybody else.

The Court: How does that get on the notes "That is Mary".

Mr. Gray: I am satisfied. If your Honor would like to have her stand up and be identified.

[fol. 443] Q. Will you indicate which lady it is?

A. I think it is this lady right back there with the black hat. I think so.

Q. If you indicate the lady——

A. That lady right back there; she is looking back. I don't know whether that is the one or not.

Mr. Gray: Will you please stand up. Is that the lady you mean.

A. I think it is. I am not sure about it.

Mr. Gray: Can we have your name?

The Lady: Mrs. Reed A. Morgan. I am from Roxborough, Philadelphia.

The Witness: I am sorry. I thought that was Mary. I beg your pardon if I have done anything I shouldn't.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. How long did the Campbell Soup Company own that Pomona Farm, do you know?

A. Well, it has been—one part—it has been added to several times—Pomona Farms. If you mean where Mr. Dorrance went at first first went—that first one was purchased in 1911.

Q. That memorandum that you have were you testifying from that?

A. A gentleman in court just handed me that as he came in.

Q. Who handed it to you?

A. I think this gentleman with the bald head, with the white—that white haired gentleman just handed it to me [fol. 444] in a letter. I was reading it to see what it was.

Q. Were you testifying from it?

A. No, sir. I don't know anything about it.

Q. If you were testifying from it, I had a right to see it?

A. No, sir. I don't even know what was in it. It was just handed to me as I came in. I thought it was something important. I didn't know anything about it. I thought it was something I had to do in court.

Mr. Gray: You might have waited until you got through before reading your correspondence.

That is all.

ARTHUR C. DORRANCE, sworn.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What relation were you to Dr. John T. Dorrance, the decedent?

A. A brother.

Q. You were younger?

A. Twenty years younger.

Q. What is your business or association?

A. I am President of the Campbell Soup Company.

Q. And have been for how long?

A. I was elected shortly after my brother's death.

Q. What position did your brother occupy with the Campbell Soup Company?

A. He was President.

Q. For how long?

A. From 1915.

Mr. Gray: If you want to save time, if this is a matter of corroborating witnesses that he was connected with the [fol. 445] Campbell Soup Company, I will admit it.

Mr. Hannum: You answer the question.

A. My brother was President from 1915 until his death.

Q When did you first go with the company?

A. My first regular employment with the company was in 1914 upon graduating from college.

Q. In what capacity?

A. I went in to learn the business as a laborer.

Q. Will you just tell us your gradations in the company, if you will?

Mr. Gray: I object as totally immaterial and irrelevant. We are not concerned with what this young man did.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I continued with the company until 1915 and then I went with the Franco-American Food Company, Jersey City, and left there to enter the service. Sometimes after I was discharged from the army I returned to the Campbell Soup Company which was in the year 1920, month of September.

Q. Then what were your activities in the Campbell Soup Company from that time on?

A. Shortly after returning to the Company I was appointed assistant to the General Manager. My brother was both President and General Manager.

Q. Shortly after your return in 1920 you became your brother's assistant?

A. One of them.

[fol. 446] Q. One of them?

A. Yes.

Q. Are you acquainted with and familiar with the growth of the company from your first association with it until the present time, Mr. Dorrance?

A. More particularly from 1920 until the present time.

Q. Will you describe the growth of the company in that time?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: I don't see that is material. How is it material?

Mr. Hannum: To show the large interest and great stake that this decedent had in this entire company in the State of New Jersey.

The Court: I sustain the objection. Give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. At the time of Dr. Dorrance's death how extensive was this business?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. It is the same question in a different form.

Mr. Hannum: That isn't the purpose of it.

The Court: I will admit and give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. At the time of my brother's death it was one of the [fol. 447] largest companies engaged in the canning and preserving of food products.

Q. One of the largest companies where?

A. In this country.

Q. How many men did it employ; its buildings, give the general details of this business.

Mr. Gray: Your Honor's ruling covers all this.

The Court: Yes.

A. Am I to answer that question?

Mr. Hannum:

Q. Yes.

A. The Company's property in Camden comprised 16 acres; the business employed from 4000 to 5000 people depending upon the season of the year. It contracted in 1930 for approximately 24,000 acres of tomatoes.

Q. In New Jersey?

A. In the State of New Jersey. In addition to that it required a quantity of carrots and potatoes and other vegetables, which were, however, under contract. Between sixty-five and seventy-five per cent of the employees were residents of New Jersey. Although there was no requirement of residence in New Jersey.

Q. Go ahead. What about its payroll and daily output?

A. The payroll was approximately $60,000 a week. The daily output reached the maximum total of a little more than nine million cans a day.

Q. Will you tell us please how closely connected and how frequently you saw your brother during the period of his activity over there and yours?

[fol. 448] A. My brother ran the business, all departments of it.

The Court:

Q. He asked you how often you saw him?

A. I saw him daily when he was in Camden.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did you ever have any talk with him or he with you regarding his prospective directorship in the Pennsylvania Railroad?

Mr. Gray: Yes or no.

A. Yes.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What was that conversation?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He said: "I have been notified of my election to the Board of the Pennsylvania Railroad." I congratulated him upon his selection. And he said: "I don't think I will accept". And I asked him why? And he said: "Because I am a resident of New Jersey and I understand that one of the requirements of the directorship in the Pennsylvania Railroad is residence in Pennsylvania." But he said: "I am going to talk to General Atterbury about it." Later, some days later he told me that he was mistaken about the [fol. 449] requirement and that he had been assured by General Atterbury that it was known to the directors that he was a resident of New Jersey at the time they elected him.

Q. Under that condition did he accept?

A. He accepted the service.

Q. Are you one of the co-executors of your brother's estate?

A. I am.

Q. Prior to his death, did you ever have any conversation with your brother in regard to the management of his estate or anything regarding it?

A. I did.

Q. What was that conversation, when was it, if you can recall?

A. In 1928.

Q. What was that conversation?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. May I state my reasons?

The Court: Unless it has some reference to residence.

Mr. Hannum: It has. That is the purpose.

The Court: If he connects it, I will admit it. If it isn't proper I will exclude it.

Mr. Gray: Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. In the course of a business conversation in my brother's office he said: "By the way, if you ever have anything to do with the management of my estate remember this: I want my will probated in New Jersey; I want the estate administered in New Jersey and I want you to fight to the [fol. 450] last ditch any effort to have it administered in the State of Pennsylvania." I was embarrassed at this statement, which came without any introductory remarks, and I said: "You are quite as likely to read my will as I am to read yours." He said no more about it.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. You said that you had almost daily contacts with your brother when he was here in Camden about the business?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he on any of those occasions ever express to you his intention regarding his home or domicile?

Mr. Gray: Yes, or no.

A. Yes.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What did he say?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He said that it is too long to run out to Radnor, fifty minutes to go out and fifty-five minutes to come back; I am going to stay more over at my home in Cinnaminson. He said Radnor is necessary for Ethel and the girls but I am better at Cinnaminson.

Q. Do you recall any other conversation in or about or shortly before his death in which there was a discussion of the purchase of another tract of land?

A. Yes.

[fol. 451] Q. ~~Will you~~ tell us what that was, please?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I was considering the purchase of a tract of land near farm No. 1 which adjoins Pomona farm at my brother's home at Cinnaminson.

Q. Just particularize that so that we can get the relation, Mr. Dorrance, please. You say your brother's home at Cinnaminson was where?

Mr. Gray: If he uses the word "home" as meaning house I have no objection. If you intend to ask this man, or witness, where his domicile was, I am objecting to it positively.

A. Home or house?

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What did your brother call Cinnaminson?

A. He called it his home. It was contiguous to the experimental farm, what we described as farm No. 1 of the Campbell Soup Company. I had in mind to purchase a small tract of land across the road from Farm No. 1 and quite near to Pomona farm. And I had gone so far as to consult an architect.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. You were purchasing it for what?

A. For a residence for myself.

[fol. 452] By the Court:

Q. Did he say anything about it.

A. I was considering which way I would have the house face which depended somewhat upon his continuance there, and he said "I am always going to live here."

Q. What?

A. He said: "I am always going to live here." That was in reply to my inquiry as to the continuance of his residence at Pomona farms.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Will you describe the house and grounds and so on in a general way which your brother called home in Cinnaminson?

A. The home at Cinnaminson consisted of approximately seven acres of ground; very attractive trees because they had been planted by nurseryman who owned the property before it was purchased by the Company. The house itself is approximately fifty to fifty-five years old; brick construction; remodeled; it was enlarged somewhat at the time of the commencement of its use by my brother. I think may have added fifty or sixty percent to the original size of the house. It has some very attractive rooms. The dining room in particular is the one that he liked.

Mr. Gray: I object to his describing it as attractive. We are not particularly concerned.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Go ahead.

[fol. 453] A. On the ground floor the most attractive room is the dining room, which is very large that at one end he had his dining room table, and another end was used as a breakfast room.

Q. When does that description apply?

A. From the time of 1911 to my brother's death. I was familiar with the house throughout that period. Upstairs there were a number of rooms, I should say eight or nine rooms and there were three or four bathrooms. As to what was on the third floor, servants quarters, I have no knowledge. I was never there. In the rear of the house is a garage. In back of that is a large greenhouse used by the Company in that section of New Jersey. It is considered one of the attractive places.

Q. What are the grounds like. You spoke of them as being seven acres?

A. Yes. Very well kept up, always have been.

Q. What do they contain?

A. It has a lawn with many old beautiful trees, elms, a great variety of trees on account of the nurseryman having taken an interest in laying out the property itself.

Q. Did your brother take any continuous interest in the upkeep of that establishment?

A. Yes. He did it, and improved it very much during the period of his occupancy. He increased the planting. He brought hydrangeas there.

Q. This planting, you mean planting shrubbery and trees and so forth on the ground?

A. Yes. He was very critical of it in any way—the condition of the lawn—if it was allowed to get out of repair or good condition.

Q. From 1911 up until the time of his death were there [fol. 454] or were there not employees constantly engaged in the upkeep of the grounds and lawn?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. There is no possible knowledge other than what the brother of this witness told him.

Mr. Hannum: I am asking him about his knowledge.

Mr. Gray: I object to the question.

The Court: Objection is overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I remember seeing one or two men frequently at work cutting the grass; sometimes it was trees sprayed. It was a well kept place.

Q. Between cleaning up and keeping the grass and lawn——

A. The leaves were regularly raked off the lawn. It was well manured.

Q. Did you visit your brother at Cinnaminson between 1911 and 1925?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Frequently or not?

A. Very frequently in 1911 until the time that I went into the army, because I was unmarried.

Q. When was that?

A. In 1917, May.

Q. From 1925 until 1930 did you visit your brother and his family at Cinnaminson?

A. Occasionally.

Q. How often?

A. I should think six or eight times a year.

[fol. 455] Q. Who would be there on those visits that you made, Mr. Dorrance, to your brother and his family?

A. It depended upon the time of year. In the spring and fall Mrs. Dorrance was often there and one or two of the children; seldom all of them; and more apt to be the younger ones.

Q. How long would they be there in the spring and fall?

Mr. Gray: If that is to be limited by the length of time of his presence there, I have no objection. If it calls for what he may have learned, I object.

The Court: He is speaking from his own knowledge, of course.

A. I would be there frequently week-ends and I know Mrs. Dorrance and the children were there then. I know that my brother continued to go in and out from Cinnaminson to business and I assumed his family was still there even though I might not have gone there on consecutive nights.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Were you there in the winter time when your brother was there?

A. Yes, but less frequently.

Q. On or about the occasions when your were there, what was the condition of the house as to livability and servants and furnishings and general condition for a home and habitation?

A. It was always the same. They seemed to have the same corps of servants right through the years. I saw no difference between the maintenance of the house before he [fol. 456] purchased Woodcrest and after he purchased Woodcrest.

Q. It was identical?

A. Yes.

Q. On any of the occasions that you went to Cinnaminson, in all the period that you went there, and particularly from 1925 until 1930, was the house at Cinnaminson ever closed?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Gray: Not while you were in the house. That is what you mean.

A. Not while I went there.

The Court: While he was there. That is all he is speaking of.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Was your brother there on all of those occasions?

A. No, sir. Sometimes he was there; sometimes he was not.

Q. Were there occasions when Mrs. Dorrance was there and he was not and vice versa?

A. Yes. I can remember one or two such occasions.

Q. Occasions when the children were there, with and without the parents, or with one parent or the other?

A. I remember the children being there with Mrs. Dorrance. But I don't recall an instance when they were there and she was not.

Q. How many were they, how many children?

A. There were five children of varying ages.

Q. How often between 1925 and 1930 was your brother at the house in Cinnaminson?

[fol. 457] Mr. Gray: That is objected to. He can't tell that.

The Court: Unless he knows he can't tell. If you are speaking of your own knowledge you can answer the question.

A. May I ask for this question?

Q. (Question read.)

The Court: From your own knowledge, or what he told you?

Mr. Gray: I must interpose another objection if your Honor allows what his brother may have told him.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. In the course of business talk my brother would say: "I am going out to Woodcrest" or "I am going out to Cinnaminson tonight", and in that way I had general knowledge about the frequency of his visits to Cinnaminson. He lived there for a part of every month, I should say.

Mr. Hannum:

Q. Where else did he live beside Radnor and Cinnaminson.

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I remember he was at Jamestown one or two summers, but not there through out the summer.

Q. Where was he when he wasn't at Jamestown?

[fol. 458] Mr. Gray: Objected to.

A. At Cinnaminson.

Mr. Gray: I object. He can't know unless he was with him.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. Later he spent the summer in Bar Harbor and came down to Cinnaminson at intervals of every two or three weeks and stayed perhaps four or five days and then returned to join his family at Bar Harbor. On those occasions the house at Woodcrest not being open he stayed—this I am sure—at Cinnaminson. Frequently I went there with him during the summer. His family being away and my family away.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What sort of a cottage did he have at Bar Harbor, if you know?

Mr. Gray: Objected to as immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. An attractive home with perhaps five or six acres of ground along the ocean front, quite large but not a new house, the only one that I visited. In other years he had another house but I didn't see it, because I didn't visit it.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Who told you that?
[fol. 459] A. Either he or Mrs. Dorrance told me.
Q. Then I understand from you that he went to Jamestown in the summer time and when he wasn't at Jamestown he was at Cinnaminson, is that correct?

By Mr. Gray: That is objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. When he was near Camden and I saw him he was living at Cinnaminson during the summer.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. When they had a home at Bar Harbor and he wasn't at Bar Harbor where was he.

Mr. Gray: I object.
The Court: How can he tell?
Mr. Gray: That is the reason I object to the other.

Mr. Hannum:

Q. From what you saw or from what he said to you?

A. When he was down to his business in Camden he spent the nights at Cinnaminson during the summers. I couldn't say that when he wasn't at Bar Harbor that he was at Cinnaminson, because he occasionally visited his daughter at Newport.

Q. Was he at Radnor on those occasions, from what you know or from what he told you?

Mr. Gray: Objected to.

[fol. 460] A. Not from any knowledge——

The Court: Was he at Radnor on those occasions—unless you know of your own knowledge or what he told you you can't answer.

Mr. Gray: I object to what he told him or of his own knowledge.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. To my knowledge he was living at Cinnaminson on those occasions.

Mr. Gray: I object and ask that the answer be stricken out as not responsive.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge whether or not the years that Dr. Dorrance and his family had a summer home at Bar Harbor that the house at Radnor was closed?

Mr. Gray: I object. It is leading. He will have to lay the basis of this knowledge before this witness can answer the question. In the first place the question is leading. It suggests that the house in Radnor was closed. In the second place before this witness can testify he should be asked the basis of that knowledge.

The Court: Whether he knows of his own knowledge or what Mr. Dorrance told him, I suppose he meant.

[fol. 461] Mr. Hannum: That is what I mean.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I was told that it was closed.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What did he tell you?

A. That "I am living at Cinnaminson. Woodcrest is closed."

Q. Do you recall, Mr. Dorrance, when your brother purchased the place at Radnor?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he say anything to you at that time about his reason or purpose in purchasing it?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did he express any intention to you for purchasing it?

Mr. Gray: He said that he didn't say anything.

The Court: Did he or did he not? What did he say.

Q. (Question repeated.)

Mr. Gray: I object to that. He did answer that he didn't speak to him about it.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He didn't tell me the purpose of purchasing it. But he told me that he had bought a house on the main line.

[fol. 462] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did you make any inquiry regarding what he was going to do towards going to that place?

Mr. Gray: Objected to.

A. Yes.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What inquiry did you make?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to, as totally immaterial and irrelevant whether he made inquiry or not.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What inquiry did you make?

Mr. Gray: Objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I said: "Are you going to live in Pennsylvania? He said: "No, I am going to continue to live in New Jersey."

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did you have any conversation with him regarding the trips over and back at any time to Radnor?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. This entire testimony [fol. 463] has been the testimony of counsel, suggestions of counsel. I am objecting to it.
The Court: The objection as to that question is sustained. Put it in some other shape.

(Bill sealed for Executors.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did you attend your brother's funeral?
A. I did.
Q. Where was it held?
A. The funeral services were at the church in Riverton, Christ Church, Riverton, and the burial was at West Laurel Hill Cemetery.
Q. I am talking about where the funeral services were held. Were there any services at Cinnaminson, or gathering of people there?
A. The family gathered at Pomona Farms and went to the Church from there in the funeral procession, the church being in Riverton, New Jersey, three miles away.

Mr. Hannum: That is all. Cross-examine.
The Court: Before cross-examination, take a recess until two o'clock.

Two o'clock. Court convened.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. You are married, I think; you referred to your family?

[fol. 464] A. Yes.

Q. You were married when? What year?

A. 1918, in February.

Q. So that you spoke of returning to the Campbell Soup Company's employ in 1920 and from then until 1925 your brother and his family lived at Pomona farm. When I say your brother, I mean Mr. John T. Dorrance?

A. Yes.

Q. You visited them frequently with your family during that period of time?

A. No, sir. We lived at that time in Camden and some of the time in Riverton nearby and we occasionally went over to my brother's home.

Q. I mean you and your family visited your brother and his family at Cinnaminson?

A. Occasionally.

Q. Just what do you mean by occasionally. How frequently or how occasionally would that be?

A. I was there more frequently——

Q. I am speaking of you and your family first. I am asking you about your family?

A. Two or three times a year.

Q. Mr. John T. Dorrance visited you at your home when you lived at Riverton?

A. No, sir, I don't recall that he did.

Q. Did they visit you at your home in Camden when you lived at Camden?

A. Yes. We lived at Camden.

Q. They visited you there?

A. No, sir.

Q. So that most of the visits that you made to the home in Cinnaminson between 1920 and 1925 were your own personal visits?

[fol. 465] A. Yes, most of them.

Q. I suppose a great many of them would be connected with business?

A. Many.

Q. Mr. and Mrs. John T. Dorrance entertained at the Pomona farms?

A. I don't recall any large entertaining there.

Q. Such as a family would do living in a place of that kind at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. After 1925, you knew of course that the family took this home at Woodcrest, Radnor?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hannum: I object. You are doing the same thing that you object to my doing, talking of his home.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors)

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Well, we will change it to house and extensive grounds, stable and numerous outbuildings. May be that might suit you better. You knew, of course, of their taking that place at Radnor?

A. Yes.

Q. And after 1925 did you and your family ever visit your brother John T. Dorrance at Cinnaminson?

A. Occasionally.

Q. You and your family?

A. My wife and I. My children were quite small.

Q. When I speak of your family, of you and your family I am speaking of you and your wife You and your wife occasionally visited them at Cinnaminson?

[fol. 466] A. Yes. I don't recall that we stayed over night.

Q. Prior to that time you had?

A. No, sir.

Q. There was no necessity for it because you lived near-by?

A. Exactly. There was no difference.

Q. How many times did you say that you and your wife visited Cinnaminson and visited your brother and his family there after 1925?

A. I think three times.

Q. For a specific purpose on any of those times?

A. I don't remember any specific purpose other than social.

Q. You are not including when your brother, Dr. Dorrance died, the time you went over to the funeral?

A. No, sir.

Q. You saw your brother there at Cinnaminson numerous times after 1925?

A. Yes.

Q. Principally for business, I suppose?

A. I don't know how much was business and how much other than business.

Q. He was very much interested in his garden up there?

A. Yes, very much.

Q. And the farm or several of the farms of the Campbell Soup Company were just adjoining there, that is correct?

A. Yes.

Q. I thought you described his place as a place of seven acres?

A. Yes, Pomona farms, seven acres.

Q. How frequently did you and your family visit at Woodcrest, Radnor after they took the place?

[fol. 467] A. I would answer that the same way: Two or five times a year.

Q. Stay there over night?

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you there to the various social gatherings they gave?

A. Not very many.

Q. You knew that he gave a great many?

A. Most of them, so far as I know, were just for their children.

Q. Whoever they were for, you knew they gave a great many social entertainments at different times there at Woodcrest?

A. I don't think they gave a great many.

Q. You read the newspapers?

A. Yes.

Q. Haven't you seen many accounts of the various social gatherings as given in the newspapers?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Now, we have had identified here a picture of the house at Pomona farms. I want to show it to you and ask you whether you recognize it as being the house of Mr. Dorrance as shown in Commonwealth's exhibit one?

A. Yes, that appears to be the house.

Q. Now, is Mrs. Dorrance living there now?

A. I am not sure.

Q. When were you there last?

A. I was at the farms quite frequently during the harvesting season.

Q. When were you last in the house at Pomona farms, Cinnaminson?

A. Shortly after my brother's death.

Q. No since?

[fol. 468] A. Yes. I did go in since. There had been some derangement in the ceiling and I went up there when it had been repaired. My sister-in-law was up at that time.

Q. Prepared for them to come back into the house?

A. Repaired.

Q. Repaired and prepared for Mrs. Dorrance and the children to come in the house?

A. I didn't think of that. I wanted merely to make sure that it was properly repaired.

Q. You spoke about the place of being kept in good repair. It has been painted and fixed up since this litigation started?

A. It was painted.

Q. When?

A. Last spring or early summer. But that was part of the usual treatment of the house. It has a great deal of wood work.

Q. How long had it been since it had been painted before, if you know?

A. I remember that it was two years or two and a half years previous.

Q. Two to two and a half years previous?

A. That would be my impression.

Q. Isn't is a fact, Mr. Dorrance, that the place was allowed to go into disrepair up until the time after—sometime after your brother John T. Dorrance's, death?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now there were seven acres around that place?

A. Approximately.

Q. Has there been a good deal of repair work done there this summer as well as painting it up?

A. Just the same as usual.

[fol. 469] Q. That don't answer my question: Has there been a good deal of repair work done there this summer, as well as the painting of it?

A. No, sir. Just the care of the place; maintenance of the house and planting the ground.

Q. Has there been a good many mechanics doing a great deal of work in the house?

A. In connection with the house it was found that some of the wood work rotted. I know that because the house was the property of the company and it was leased by Dr. Dorrance.

Q. Dr. Dorrance never owned it?

A. No, sir. It came under my jurisdiction to see that it was properly maintained.

Q. Saw that it was maintained by the Company?

A. Yes.

Q. This is a picture after it was repaired and after it was painted?

A. I couldn't say that. It was painted the same color.

Q. You couldn't tell from the photograph. Since 1925, the telephone bills for the house have been paid by the Campbell Soup Company, haven't they?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. You say that they haven't been?

A. In an organization of that size, I couldn't say.

Q. As a matter of fact, all of the expenses for the maintenance of that house since 1925 have been paid by the Campbell Soup Company?

A. Some of the expenses are paid by the Campbell Soup Company and then billed to the tenant.

Q. You mean billed to Mr. John T. Dorrance?

A. Billed to Mr. Dorrance. No, they would be billed to Mrs. Dorrance.

[fol. 470] Q. How long a lease was given on the property?

A. I don't know what the present lease is. I think it is year to year.

Q. Year to year lease?

A. That is my impression, but I can't be sure of it.

Q. Now, you recognize this picture, I suppose, that is exhibit 3, is it a picture of Woodcrest, Radnor?

A. I think it is.

Q. Have you been all over or through that house at Radnor?

A. No sir. Not all over it. I have been in the rooms on the lower floor and some of the rooms on the upper floors. But not all of them.

Q. You of course went to the house at Pomona farms, Cinnaminson, to visit your mother when she was sick?

A. Yes.

Q. She was brought there from where?

A. From Cape May where she had been visiting my brother, Dr. George Dorrance.

Q. Where was her home before she went to live, during the last years of her life, at Pomona farms?

A. Her last permanent home was at the Wellington Apartments.

Q. Philadelphia?

A. At 19th and Walnut Streets, and then she gave up that former residence and traveled with my sister who is no longer living. They went to South America and when she returned from South America my sister was in ill health, suffering an accident and my mother and sister went to Cape May to visit my brother Dr. George Dorrance. My sister's health didn't improve and she went to Pomona [fol. 471] farms with my mother and both continued there until their respective deaths.

Q. They both went there together?

A. Merely my mother was looking after my sister.

Q. They both went there together to live?

A. That is my recollection.

Q. Do you recollect about when that was, Mr. Dorrance?

A. In a general way.

Q. I don't expect any witness to be able to give me exact dates of matters years ago?

A. It was in the fall of 1927 or 1928. But I am not certain.

Q. When did your mother die?

A. My mother died in 1929.

Q. In January?

A. Yes, it was in January.

Q. When did your sister die?

A. About six months prior to that time.

Q. Now at any time while your mother and sister were there did your brother, Dr. John T. Dorrance and his wife and children regularly occupy that house. Did they?

A. My brother and his wife were there at frequent inter-yals. But I don't recall when I was there that the whole family, that is my brother and his wife and his children, were in the house simultaneously. I don't think there was room.

Q. What you mean, when you say your brother and his family were there frequently, that they came there from the place at Radnor and made periodical or frequent visits to Cinnaminson, that is what you mean?

A. I don't know whether that is true, Mr. Gray.

[fol. 472] Q. What I mean is that — didn't have there a large corps of servants regularly occupying Cinnaminson and living at Radnor occasionally, but what they did was to live at Radnor and visit Cinnaminson occasionally?

A. I don't know.

Q. Why don't you know?

Mr. Hannum: I object to that.

Mr. Gray: Let me put the question.

Mr. Hannum: I object to the question: Why don't you know?

Mr. Gray: I haven't put it yet.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for Executors.)

By Mr. Gray:

Q. How is it with all the other information which you have been able to give with respect to the movements of your brother and so on in response to Mr. Hannum's questions that you can't tell me what I ask you?

A. How is — I can't answer that question?

Q. Yes. You gave me two answers that you don't know — to two questions that I put to you about your brother's habits.

A. It is my belief that my brother and his wife were frequently at Pomona farms and I presume that they went there more than may be they otherwise would have gone to see my mother and sister. I had assumed that my mother and sister being in the house and both being in ill health had crippled the use of Pomona farms both for entertain-

[fol. 473] ment and other purposes. But I was not there frequently when my brother and his wife came to see my mother. It was by coincidence if we called at the same time. That is why I cannot answer with assurance why they came.

Q. They called and you called. They called at times and you called at times?

A. Yes.

Q. Their habitation at that time was Woodcrest, Radnor?

A. No, sir. I don't know whether it was or not, no.

Q. I am not talking about the legal question of legal domicile——

The Court: He has answered the question, hasn't he. He says he doesn't know.

Mr. Gray: I am trying to find out whether I can refresh his memory to the point of having him know.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Mr. Dorrance, I am trying to be perfectly proper in asking my questions of you, isn't it a fact, that where their habitation was, where they regularly returned from the other places that they may have been visiting, was Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania?

A. No, sir.

Q. It was not?

A. No, sir.

Q. Where do you say their regular habitation was?

A. Upon returning from Jamestown and from Bar Harbor I recall distinctly that Dr. Dorrance and Mrs. Dorrance and their children went to Pomona Farms, Cinnaminson.

[fol. 474] Q. For how long?

A. For a period of a week or two weeks, sometimes longer.

Q. Then where did they go?

A. To Woodcrest, Radnor.

Q. Now, didn't they go to Cinnaminson before they went to Woodcrest in order to allow Woodcrest at Radnor to be put in proper shape for them?

A. I haven't any way of knowing that.

Q. During the time in Cinnaminson from 1925 until your brother's death—by the way I suppose you were there at the time of your brother's death, at the time your brother died?

A. I was there a few minutes afterwards. I wasn't there at the time that he died.

Q. Were — there during the time that he was ill, just preceding his death?

A. Yes. I came out frequently during the week before his death.

Q. Do you know where he was taken sick or where he was when he was taken sick?

A. He hadn't been well all that summer.

Q. I mean taken specially sick so that he had to be taken somewhere and put to bed?

A. I don't think there was a specific time that you could describe as a time he was taken sick.

Q. Was he taken away from the Campbell Soup Company in Camden by conveyance to Cinnaminson or Pomona farms?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. You say that is not so?

A. I couldn't say it is not so. But it is not my impression that it is so.

Q. Since 1925, at any time, how many servants have you [fol. 475] known to be there in the house at Pomona farms, Cinnaminson, New Jersey?

A. I believe there were four maids. I think there were. I think one of the farm hands was sleeping in the house, but he wasn't a servant—so there would be a man in the house.

Q. Can you name the four maids?

A. No, sir. I am not sure that I could recognize them.

Q. Can you name any one of the four maids?

A. Give the name of any one of the four?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever see any one of them doing any work or were you just under the impression that there were four maids?

A. Yes, I am particularly conscious of one maid who was considerate of my mother. She was an elderly woman. But I don't think I ever called her by name.

Q. You say your mother died in January, 1929?

A. Yes.

Q. When did your sister die?

A. About six months earlier.

Q. I direct your attention to the period of time from 1929 in January, your mother and sister both being dead at that time, to the time your brother, John T. Dorrance died on September 21, 1930, and ask you if you recall any maids there during that period of time?

A. I recall there were maids in the house. But I have difficulty remembering as to the number. But I don't remember their names.

Q. Isn't it a fact that the only person that was there in the character of servant in the house was the woman by [fol. 476] the name of Bridget Kane who was a caretaker?

A. No, sir. There were three or four there all the time.

Q. Three or four, but you don't remember their names? Do you remember how many servants they ever had at Woodcrest?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you any idea?

A. No, sir.

Q. Not the slightest?

A. Yes, I have the slightest idea—there must be many more than four to take care of that house.

Q. Can you describe the inside of that house to the Court?

A. Which house?

Q. Woodcrest?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you do so?

A. It is a gray stone house, quite large, large entrance hall extending up to the second floor with a balcony surrounding it. Off to the right are four rooms, two small rooms and one large living room having the fire place. Off to one end of that is a small— In the other direction there is the dining room and the breakfast room. And I am not familiar with the arrangement beyond of the kitchen.

Q. In other words, the kitchen and other things way beyond that, you cannot detail your description?

A. I have never seen them. I can't give you great detail on the second floor. I am familiar with only three or four rooms.

Q. How many rooms are on the second floor, bed rooms and baths?

[fol. 477] A. I don't know. I have been in three but I know there are a number more than that.

Q. How many floors to the building?

A. I have only been to two, but I think there are three.

Q. You know they have at least fifteen or sixteen servants?

A. No, sir.

Q. You don't know that?

A. No, sir.

Q. How many would you say that you know they have?

A. I don't recall any of them by name.

Q. I won't ask you to do that.

A. I think I know that there were four, perhaps five. I think there must be more in a house of the size of that one. I have seen only three or four.

Q. You know there is a night watchman?

A. I know there was one.

Q. You know there is a gardener?

A. I don't remember the gardener. I presume there is a gardener.

Q. You know there are two chauffeurs?

A. I know only one.

Q. You know there is a butler?

A. Yes.

Q. How many maids do you know that there were in the house?

A. I don't think I know. I don't recall ever seeing any maids.

Q. You never saw any of them?

A. No, sir.

Q. You saw them in Cinnaminson?

A. Yes.

[fol. 478] Q. You mean the house at Woodcrest, Radnor, that the maids could be around without your seeing them?

A. No, sir. But at dinner the butler served and I didn't see the maids. Whereas at Cinnaminson the maids served.

Q. You related a conversation with your brother in which, out of a clear sky, I think you put it, or an expression similar to that, he said something to you as to his estate. When was that conversation?

A. Sometime in 1928.

Q. You related another conversation when he spoke of it being a long run out to Radnor. When was that conversation?

A. It was along about that time or perhaps a little later. It was either in 1928 or 1929.

Q. Now then you told us that you were considering buying a place and building up near your brother at Cinnaminson.

A. Yes.

Q. Did you buy the place?

A. No, sir.

Q. You went and consulted your brother first to find out if he was going to stay or retain Cinnaminson?

A. Not only that. My brother was twenty years older and I looked to him for the head of the family for advice on such matters.

Q. But you also told the court——

Mr. Hannum: Have you finished?

A. And among other things I asked him about his intention because it would affect the arrangement of the house that I then proposed to build. But he was very positive in his reply that he planned to continue to live there forever.

[fol. 479] By Mr. Gray:

Q. And notwithstanding his positiveness, you didn't build?

A. I haven't built yet.

Q. By the way, prior to 1925, at the Cinnaminson house, how many servants did they have?

A. The same number, as far as I know.

Q. The same number? Would you say they didn't have more?

A. There were nurses and governess, servants also, who were there then.

Q. I won't refer particularly to those who had the care of the children for naturally they would go wherever the children and the family were. But those that I refer to are those that are employed to be generally or regularly around the house?

A. My impression would be that there were the same number.

Q. That there were no more. I think you said Woodcrest was closed during the summer. Isn't it a fact that Woodcrest has not been closed during any summer but is open and servants in it while your brother and his wife were at Bar Harbor?

A. My impression was it was always closed up while my brother was at Bar Harbor.

The Court: Let him finish——

Mr. Gray: You have finished?

A. No, sir. I had more to say.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Say it.

[fol. 480] A. I know that the rugs were all rolled up before they left and that the house was in no condition for occupancy and that the servants needed transporting to Bar Harbor.

Q. Took all the servants to Bar Harbor?

A. I won't say that all of them, because transportation was required for a number of them. But I wasn't informed as to the details of my brother's household.

Q. Where did your sister-in-law, Mrs. Dorrance, spend this summer, 1931?

Mr. Hannum: Is that after Doctor Dorrance's death?

Mr. Gray: Yes.

Mr. Hannum: He is asking the witness as to where Mrs. Dorrance spent this summer after Dr. Dorrance's death. I object.

The Court: Objection is sustained.

Mr. Gray: Let me tell my reason why I think it is material—material only in this respect: This witness has said that the rugs in the summer are rolled up and the conditions are such that the servants couldn't stay there. I want to show by this witness, if he will state it, that the conditions were the same this summer, rugs were rolled up and everything else when they went to Bar Harbor but that the house was still open and the servants therein.

The Court: How does that effect the question of domicile?

Mr. Gray: It affects the question whether the conditions were that way during the other summer, because your Honor [fol. 481] permitted him to so testify to hearsay knowledge. All of that testimony is on hearsay over my objection. I am compelled therefore to cross-examine with respect to it. Therefore, I am endeavoring to show that he doesn't know anything about it.

The Court: Objection is sustained. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Gray:

Q. You said something about your brother going to Cinnaminson part of every month. What part did he usually go to Cinnaminson?

A. By that answer I mean that he went at intervals of every three or four weeks. I don't know that there was any time in the month he chose.

Q. You mean that is during the winter?

A. During the winter; and the summer he was there more frequently.

Q. But during the winter time when he went down to Cinnaminson at intervals of every three or four weeks, where was he the rest of the time?

A. Much of the time he spent at Radnor—Woodcrest.

Q. Aside from the few times that you saw your brother at Pomona farms at Cinnaminson, all the other occasions that you have given about the presence of your brother and his family at Cinnaminson you testified to because of what he told you?

A. I saw him quite frequently at Cinnaminson.

Q. I am going to let you tell me the number of times that you saw him there, actually saw him in the house at Cinnaminson living there—not just when he came up to the farm [fol. 482] and go in the house for some purpose—from 1925 until his death in 1930?

A. My answer must be approximate—25 or 50 times.

Q. And any other times that you testified to beyond that were what you learned from other sources?

A. I knew of his movements because I saw him every day in business.

Q. I say what you learned from other sources, either from him or other people?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have anything to do with the purchase of the house at Woodcrest, Radnor?

A. No, sir, nothing.

Q. Do you know what your brother paid for it?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Hannum: I object.

The Court: He said no.

Mr. Gray: That is all.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. You spoke of your brother and his various trips to different places, are you able to tell us of your own knowledge or from what he told you, how many trips abroad he made each year?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. First, it is totally immaterial and irrelevant; secondly, because it asks this witness to testify to what he learned from other persons.

The Court: Objection sustained. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

[fol. 483] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge how frequently he went abroad each year?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to because of his own knowledge he could know only by accompanying him.

The Court: He may have gone with him. I don't know. Objection is overruled. Exception.

Mr. Gray: I ask that that be found out first.

The Court: Objection is overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Answer the question.

A. When my brother was away, when he was abroad between 1920——

Mr. Gray: I object to this answer because it is not responsive.

The Court: He hasn't answered. Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He went every year, or almost every year. I know because it was my duty to send him cablegrams twice a week.

Q. When did he go?

A. It was in the spring of the year, in May frequently, and he returned sometime in June.

Q. Every year from when until when?

A. I can't remember a year between 1920 and 1930 when he didn't go.

[fols. 484-486] By Mr. Gray:

Q. Did he go alone every year?

A. No, sir, he didn't go alone.

Q. Did he go alone any years?

A. No, sir.

Q. Family all with him?

A. Mrs. Dorrance was with him always so far as I know.

Q. That was a pleasure trip, of course?

A. Sometimes pleasure; sometimes a mixture of business and pleasure.

Q. Such trips however as a man in his standing could afford to make if he felt like making them at any time?

A. Yes.

Q. He didn't take the servants with him?

A. I wouldn't know that. I presume he would take his valet with him.

Q. He wouldn't take a staff of servants from Woodcrest with him?

A. I am sure not.

Mr. Gray: That is all.

Mr. Hannum: That is all.

[fol. 487] TESTIMONY OF WILLIAM D. LIPPINCOTT

Pages 174-a to 230-a, inc.

WM. D. LIPPINCOTT, sworn.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Judge Lippincott, what is your full name?

A. William Duncan Lippincott.

Q. What is your profession?

A. Counsellor at law in the State of New Jersey.

Q. For how long?

A. I was admitted to the bar in February, 1894.

Q. Where?

A. Moorestown, New Jersey.

Q. Have you occupied any official position in New Jersey?

A. I have.

Q. What was that and for how long?

A. I was judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Burlington County, New Jersey, from April 1, 1914, to April 1, 1919, five years.

Q. Did you know Dr. John T. Dorrance?

A. I did.

Q. When did you first become acquainted with him?

A. About 1910 or prior to 1910.

Q. What association from that time, or shortly after that time did you have with Doctor Dorrance?

A. After 1910 I was the counsel for the Campbell Soup Company or rather at that time of the Joseph Campbell Company, of which Dr. Dorrance was an officer and as a result of my association with the Joseph Campbell Company I became well acquainted with Dr. Dorrance.

Q. Did you ever occupy any professional association with him or have any professional association with him personally?

A. I was his personal counsel from at least 1912.

[fol. 488] Q. Until when?

A. Until the day of his death.

Q. You say that your first association with this business was with the Joseph Campbell Soup Company or Joseph Campbell Company?

A. Joseph Campbell Company.

Q. And that company eventually became the Campbell Soup Company?

A. It became the Campbell Soup Company in 1922.

Q. In 1922, how did it become the Campbell Soup Company?

Mr. Gray: I will object to that. We have heard from the other witnesses all about the Campbell Soup Company.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Mr. Gray: Will your Honor allow my objection to cover all the questions along that line?

The Court: I will let your objection cover all that he says on that line.

A. In the latter part of 1922 there was a reorganization of the Joseph Campbell Company, as a result of which the Campbell Soup Company was formed and from December, 1922, up to the present time the company has been the Campbell Soup Company.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Is it a New Jersey Corporation?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you acquainted with Dr. Dorrance's stockholding in the Campbell Soup Company?

[fol. 489] A. I was after about 1915.

Q. From 1915 until the time of his death, what did they consist of in stockownership?

A. He was the sole owner. There were qualifying shares in the hands of the directors.

Q. You said that you were Doctor Dorrance's personal counsel from when?

A. From at least 1912.

Q. Until the time of his death?

A. Until the time of his death.

Q. How closely associated were you with him in connection with his affairs?

A. He consulted me on the company's business and also on his private business.

Q. What were his activities for and with the company of which he owned personally?

A. He was President of the Company and the operator of the company.

Q. Did Doctor Dorrance say anything to you at any time regarding his purpose and intention as to the continuance of the Campbell Soup Company after his death?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to as immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: I will admit and give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He did.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What did he say?

A. He said that he wanted——

[fol. 490] Mr. Gray: That is objected to as hearsay.

The Court: Your objection covers it all.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He said that he wanted to keep the Campbell Soup Company intact in the business, that is, his holdings of stock.

Q. That is his entire holdings in the company?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he discuss with you plans for doing that legally, which plans were to be effective after his death?

A. Yes.

Q. What was his discussion with you and you with him regarding that?

Mr. Gray: My objection covers all this. It is hard for me to determine how far it is going. Therefore, I have got to use my judgment. I will have to make another objection.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. Will you read the question.

Q. (Question read.)

A. There were a number of discussions on that subject, Mr. Hannum, running from prior to May of 1925 when he made a will, and running through the summer of 1925 when he made another will, I think in July—I have the wills here, and then there were discussions upon that subject also prior to the final will, the last will, which was made in May of 1928.

[fol. 491] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Well, did he say anything to you about maintaining the integrity of this business for any member of his family eventually?

Mr. Gray: Objected to as leading.

The Court: I think that objection is good. I sustain that objection.

Mr. Hannum: Because it is leading?

The Court: No, because it is immaterial. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. You said something about a will made in 1925?

A. There was a will made in 1925.

By the Court:

Q. Were you consulted about it?

A. Yes, I was consulted about it.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. As to this feature of it——

A. We had a number of conferences about the feature as to the accumulation of income; as I recollect it first came up in connection with the will of 1925.

Q. What did Doctor Dorrance say to you regarding what was his purpose and intention and what did you say to him?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

[fol. 492] The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. Doctor Dorrance said to me that he wanted to have a plan devised whereby the income of his estate over and above such income as might be necessary for the proper maintenance and support of his wife and his children—that the excess of the income might be applied to the payments of the inheritance tax, both Federal and State.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What reason, if any, did he give you for desiring to do that?

A. He said that he wanted to arrange it so that the income might be accumulated and he wanted to give the executors the right to borrow money to pay the taxes immediately, and then that the estate might be built up; and give them power—he told me to put in the will a power to hypothecate his stocks in the Campbell Soup Company in such a position that it wouldn't have to be sold by his executors in order to pay his taxes.

Q. For what purpose did he want to keep the Campbell Soup Company in that order for the estate?

By Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He told me that he wanted to keep that stock——

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Why?

[fol. 493] A. He told me that he wanted to keep that stock for the benefit of his family.

Q. Who?

A. He directed me to put a provision in his will that his son should be given an opportunity to learn the business of the Campbell Soup Company and prove that he was qualified to take his place in the business and he wanted to keep the stock intact, if it was possible to do so, in order that his family might have the benefit of the company and in order that his son, if he qualified, might take his place.

Q. Is that son still living?

A. Yes.

Q. What is his name?

A. John T. Dorrance, Jr.

Q. Now when he told you that, what if anything did you say to him about it so far as New Jersey or other states were concerned?

Mr. Gray: I object. I must object to this continuous leading. His questions are leading from beginning to end. Occasionally he asks a question that is not leading; and I object to the materiality of the question besides.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Q. (Question read.)

A. I told him that the plan of the accumulation of income which he had proposed was good; it could be carried out in New Jersey. I told him that it couldn't be carried out in Pennsylvania and I told him that it couldn't be carried out in New York. But it was perfectly feasible in New Jersey to be carried out.

[fol. 494] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Go on and tell us any other discussion that you had with him on that subject, Judge Lippincott, or about preserving the integrity of this estate?

A. In connection with the drawing of his last will, I told Dr. Dorrance that in Pennsylvania his wife might, if she desired, take against the will, and might instead of taking the provisions which are made for her—might require the allotment to her of one third of the personal estate, as I was informed.

The Court: How about New Jersey?

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What about the law of New Jersey, as to that?

A. In New Jersey the wife has no vested interest in the personal estate of her husband.

Q. Then she couldn't claim against the will?
A. She can not claim against the will except as to real estate.

The Court:

Q. I mean as to personalty?
A. No, sir.
Q. If she did she wouldn't get anything?
A. No, sir. She couldn't get anything if the will was valid.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What did you tell Dr. Dorrance as to that what you have just spoken of?

The Court: He just said that he told him.
[fol. 495] Mr. Hannum: I didn't hear it.

Q. Then I am asking if he told Dr. Dorrance that last?
A. Yes. There were many discussions.
Q. Go on and tell us about it.

Mr. Gray: That is too general. I object to it.
The Court: That won't do. Ask him what you want to ask him.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. You said that there were many discussions on this particular subject, now then——
A. There were many discussions, Mr. Hannum, relating to his wills and especially the last will of 1928. The will was a very complicated one and there were a great many provisions which he directed should be inserted in the will, which related to the Campbell Soup Company and especially with relation to the possibility of a sale. He directed me to make the various—or insert the various clauses which are inserted in that will relating to selling the Campbell Soup Company and at the same time restricting the sale falling short of directing the executors not to make a sale. In other words, there was a provision in the will, which after all, gave to the executors the right to make the sale but he enjoined upon them——
Q. What provisions are you talking about, Judge?
A. There are a number of provisions.

Q. What particular one are you talking about now?

A. If I may have a copy of the will before me, I will tell you.

[fol. 496] The Court: Here you are. Did you write that will?

A. Yes.

Q. In accordance with his directions?

A. Yes. Entirely according to his directions, making the 19th section of the will to the 23rd section of the will, three clauses, which relate to the sale of the Campbell Soup Company.

The Court: What has that to do with the domicile question?

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Has that anything to do with the domicile question?

Mr. Gray: I object to the witness determining whether that has anything to do with the domicile question. I object.

By the Court: Certainly not.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I am talking about whether these sections to which you point have anything to do with this domicile question?

Mr. Gray: I object to that.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Do they refer to it in any way?

By Mr. Gray: Wait.

[fol. 497] The Court: I don't think that he can determine or interpret them.

Mr. Gray: Then your Honor rules it is not evidence.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Will you refer to the section of the will regarding its probate?

A. That is the 33rd section of the will.

By the Court:

Q. Was that put in at his direction?
A. It was.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What was your talk with him about that?

Mr. Gray: Objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. Mr. Hannum, we—the talk about that was dated back to the month of December in 1925. That was after he had bought the Radnor property.
Q. After what?
A. After he had bought the Radnor property. He directed me to put a codicil, prepare a codicil and put it to his will, which was dated in July, 1925, in which his executors were required to make application for the probate of his will either to the surrogate of the County of Burlington, or to the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey within thirty days after his decease.

[fol. 498] Mr. Gray: What are you doing, just reading the clause?

A. No, sir. I am not reading the clause.

The Court: He is telling what is in it.

A. I am stating what was in it.

Mr. Gray: I object. The will speaks for itself. Judge von Moschzisker says you are talking about a prior will.

A. Prior will?

Mr. Gray: Made in 1925. Subject to the objection that I made before.

A. Or rather a codicil to the prior will.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Tell us what Dr. Dorrance said in regard to it?

Mr. Gray: I object to that. Your Honor makes the same ruling?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Gray: What he said about some prior will that we haven't heard about.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. To place in the codicil a provision that if his executors should not make application to the surrogate of Burlington [fol. 499] County or—I think he said in that—to the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey within sixty days—he said in that—from the date of his death, that the executors so failing or refusing to present the will for probate, their appointment should be revoked.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did he state to you any reason for that provision?

Mr. Gray: I object to that as immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He told me that he wanted his will admitted to probate promptly in the State of New Jersey.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did he say why?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

The Court:

Q. If he did, state why?

A. He told me that is what he wanted, that he wanted it admitted to probate promptly, in connection with that.

[fol. 500] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Yes.

A. He told me that a number of persons about that time, or just prior to that time, asked him if he was a Pennsylvania resident.

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. He has told what Mr. Dorrance told him and now he is going to tell what somebody else told Mr. Dorrance, or what Mr. Dorrance, said that somebody else told him.

The Court: That is evidence in a case of this kind. I will admit and give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He told me that he had said to them that he wasn't a Pennsylvania resident, that he didn't intend to leave New Jersey and he wanted me to put in his will or codicil to his will which was to insure the prompt probate of his will in New Jersey, which I did.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. That is regarding what will?

A. That was the will of August, 1925, and the codicil was prepared the latter part of December.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What about the will of 1928, the particular will in question?

Mr. Gray: Well, what about it? What about it, is not a legal question.

[fol. 501] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What did Doctor Dorrance say?

A. In the preparation of the will of 1928 he told me to insert a clause to which I have referred which was in the codicil of December, 1925, but that he wanted the time limit made, I think, it is thirty days instead of sixty days as in the codicil.

Q. He changed the time, in other words?

A. Yes.

Q. Shortened it?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you in any ways associated with Dr. Dorrance's purchase of the Radnor property?

A. I was.

Q. What was that association?

A. I was present at the time of the settlement for the property.

Q. May I ask you right there: in whose name the title was put?

Mr. Gray: I object to that. If my friend follows it up by producing the deeds we will have the whole information.

The Court: If he knows he can state.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. My recollection is that the title was taken in the name of John T. Dorrance and Ethel M. Dorrance, his wife.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Estate by entirety?

A. Yes.

[fol. 502] The Court: You will follow it up by producing a deed?

Mr. Hannum: Yes.

Q. That was in 1925?

A. 1925. My recollection is it was in the spring of 1925.

Q. After the purchase of the property at Radnor did Dr. Dorrance ever express to you his intention regarding his residence or domicile?

A. He did, many times.

The Court:

Q. What did he say?

Mr. Gray: I object.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What did he say?

Mr. Gray: Will your Honor rule on that. I have objected.

The Court: I will admit it and give you an exception. Overruled your objection and give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I first had a conversation with Dr. Dorrance with reference to the Radnor property at about the time of his purchase and he asked me whether the purchase of that property would make any difference to his residence in New Jersey. And I told him that the matter—he said, legal residence——

Mr. Gray: I object to what this gentleman told him.
[fol. 503] The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

A. I told him that residence was largely a matter of intention and if he retained his Cinnaminson property with the intention of making that his home, it wouldn't make any difference—the purchase or occupancy of the Radnor property would not make any difference to his residence in New Jersey.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. You say that is substantially the first conversation with him. What was the next conversation?

A. The next conversation, which I recollect, I think occurred in connection with the preparation of the will of May, 1925. We had a number of conferences with reference to that will and in relation to that I told him that since his previous conversation I had examined the law of domicile in New Jersey and that if he retained his New Jersey property, and had no intention to abandon that property as his home, his domicile was clearly, in my opinion, in New Jersey.

Q. Did he say anything to you about his intention to abandon it?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.
The Court: Or not to abandon.

The Court:

Q. Did he tell you what was his intention as to his residence?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

[fol. 504] (Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. Yes. He said that he intended to retain his Cinnaminson home; that he intended to keep it always open; that he would have a quota of servants there, and that he would always be there in the summer; and that he would come there in the spring for a time and in the fall. That is at that time he told me that.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What was your next conversation with him regarding his home in New Jersey?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. The next conversation that I recollect in relation to the matter came in December of 1925. That was after the Radnor property had been occupied by him and he asked me—that was in the same conference as referred to the codicil and his will—he asked me whether his wife had the right to take her legal residence in Pennsylvania and he have his in New Jersey. And I told him, at that time, as I understood the law of domicile, the domicile of the wife followed that of her husband, but there had been quite a little talk in New Jersey to give the wife the right to take a domicile wherever she pleased. But I told him that the whole matter might be covered by an agreement. And he said that could be easily done and he gave me the notes of an agreement which he wanted me to prepare. He said that Mrs. Dorrance would sign such an agreement.

[fol. 505] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you Exhibits "D" and "E", are they the agreements you prepared, one for Mrs. Dorrance and one for Mr. Dorrance, covering the question which you have just testified to?

A. They are.

Q. When were they signed?

A. My recollection is that they were signed in Dr. Dorrance's office in Camden.

Q. Will you turn to the signatures, please, do you know Dr. Dorrance's signature?

A. I do.

Q. Is that it?

A. It is.

Q. Do you know Mrs. Dorrance's signature?

A. I do.
Q. Is that it?
A. Yes.
Q. On Exhibit "D"; you just looked at Exhibit "D"?
A. On both.
Q. On both Exhibits "D" and "E", is that correct?
A. Yes, they are duplicates.

Mr. Hannum: I desire to offer these in evidence. I don't know whether your Honor desires to see them——

Mr. Gray: I object to them. I take it that my friend is only offering one of them. They are duplicates of each other; I take it that he is only offering one of them.

Mr. Hannum: I am offering each one.

Mr. Gray: You can offer them both. I am putting my ob- [fol. 506] jection on this ground: that no agreement in the language contained in this agreement—I have seen a copy of it—is admissible in evidence in this case, even though it is offered for the purpose of showing the declaration of intention of John T. Dorrance, the testator, at the time that this agreement was executed.

The Court: Objection is overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. At any time at or about the execution of these agreements was there any law passed in New Jersey with reference to that situation?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. If you will produce it and let me look at it I might agree with you, if it has any relevancy to the case that that is the law. I don't know even what law you are talking about. Do you mean a law that authorizes a wife to have a separate domicile.

Mr. Hannum: That is what I said.

Mr. Gray: Do you mean you are going to produce a law authorizing husband and wife to have separate domiciles?

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did I understand it was passed or threatened at the time this agreement was drawn?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. The witness cannot understand what he understands.

The Court: What do you propose to prove?

[fol. 507] Mr. Hannum: I propose to prove that about the time this agreement was drawn, as I understand from the witness's testimony, there was a law either passed or threatened to give the wife the right to have a separate domicile.

The Court: I will let you prove that. That is some evidence. I overrule your objection.

Mr. Gray: I agree if he proves this in the proper way, it is only a question of whether it is relevant.

The Court: He can say there was one, but that doesn't prove the law. He has got to prove the Act of Assembly.

Mr. Gray: Does Your Honor recall that his question was: Passed or threatened.

Mr. Hannum: Passed or suggested.

Mr. Gray: I object to the question.

The Court: If there was any such law he can produce it. He said "suggested," Mr. Gray, not "threatened." Can it make any difference anyhow, Mr. Gray. A paper of this kind is certainly evidence of a man's intention to retain his residence in the place where he is living.

Mr. Gray: I think not. But we have been right at the point where we are ready to argue that. If at any time your Honor wants to hear argument on the question of the inadmissibility of these declarations of intention I will be very glad to present it.

The Court: Alright; I will admit it now. If it isn't evidence, I will strike it out. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

[fol. 508] By Mr. Hannum: Will you go ahead. (These are in evidence.)

Mr. Gray: Your Honor admitted these. These is no question. He told him to go ahead.

The Court: Ask him the question you want answered.

Mr. Hannum: I did ask him a question. I will ask it again.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Was there any law suggested in New Jersey legislature relative to the separate domicile of a wife?

Mr. Gray: I object to that, as being totally immaterial and irrelevant whether there was such a law or not suggested.

The Court: I will admit the question and grant you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. A law was suggested but I don't know whether it had been suggested to the legislature. It was passed in 1927.

The Court:

Q. At the time this agreement was entered into then there was no such law?

A. No, sir.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge anything regarding Dr. Dorrance's voting in New Jersey?

[fol. 509] Mr. Gray: To save time, I agree to stipulate——

Mr. Hannum: Answer the question.

Mr. Gray: Counsel on the other side asked me to enter into a stipulation. I said I would in connection with that, to save them from bringing witnesses here. Now he is touching on the same subject. My only desire is to save time.

Mr. Hannum: This is another feature.

Q. (Question read.)

A. I never saw him actually vote but he mentioned to me——

Mr. Gray: I object to what he mentioned.

The Court: I think it is evidence. Overruled objection. Exception noted.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He mentioned to me on several occasions that he had been up and voted.

The Court:

Q. He didn't say where?

A. At Cinnaminson.

The Court: That is very slight evidence; but still it is a little.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Had you finished?
A. No, sir.

Mr. Gray: He must have finished because he has told us all that was responsive to the question. I object to his [fol. 510] stating anything else until you put another question.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Are you finished?
A. That is all I know about his voting. I received a letter from Dr. Dorrance with reference to voting, at a later date.
Q. I show you Exhibit "F," is that the letter to which you referred as having been received from Dr. Dorrance regarding voting?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that Dr. Dorrance's signature to the letter?
A. It is.

Mr. Hannum: If the Court please, I desire to offer this letter in evidence.
Mr. Gray: I object to it, if your Honor please.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Mr. Gray: Will your Honor look at the letter first.
The Court: The letter is admitted. Objection is overruled.
Mr. Gray: Note an exception. Your Honor admitted the agreements without even looking at them. Your Honor has overruled my objection to this letter without even looking at the letter to see what it is.
The Court: The place to complain about that is after the case is over.
Mr. Gray: I have to get it on the record.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

[fol. 511] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. You have spoken of a will drafted by you for Dr. Dorrance in May of 1925?

A. Yes.

Q. What was his residence given in that will?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. Where is the will.

Mr. Hannum: We have it here. I will get you to straighten these wills out as they come chronologically.

Q. Is that the one of May, 1925?

A. Yes. Then on the back there is another one, a codicil; that is a codicil.

Q. I show you Exhibit "G"——

Mr. Gray: Let me see it. Are there codicils attached to this?

Mr. Hannum: Yes.

A. One attached, Mr Gray.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you Exhibit "G", what is Exhibit "G"?

A. Exhibit "G" is a will of Dr. Dorrance dated May 5, 1925.

Q. Is there a codicil attached to it?

A. Yes.

Q. Then Exhibit "G" is a will and codicil?

A. If the codicil is not marked separately, it is, yes.

Q. It isn't marked separately.

A. The codicil was dated May 5, 1925.

Q. Now the will and codicil are both signed by Dr. Dorrance?

A. Yes.

[fol. 512] Q. Did you draw them?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. In each one is his domicile given?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. That asks for a conclusion of law to start with.

By the Court:

Q. What does the will say with regard to his domicile?

Mr. Gray: I object to that.

The Court: Why?

Mr. Gray: The paper is either admissible or not admissible. If it is admissible it speaks for itself. If it isn't admissible, he can't interpret it.

The Court: That is very true. It is an admissible document. Let it speak for itself.

Mr. Hannum: I offer it in evidence.

Mr. Gray: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you Exhibit "I"; what is that?

A. That is a codicil to the last will and testament of Dr. Dorrance dated May 6, 1925.

Q. Is it signed by Dr. Dorrance?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you draw it?

A. Yes, I did.

[fol. 513] Mr. Hannum: I offer it in evidence.

Mr. Gray: It is objected to.

The Court: I overrule the objection and admit it. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you Exhibit "J"; what is Exhibit "J"?

A. Exhibit "J" is a codicil to the will of Dr. Dorrance dated June 30, 1925.

Q. Did you draw it?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he sign it?

A. He did.

By Mr. Hannum: I offer Exhibit "J" in evidence.

By Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Mr. Hannum: These papers are all offered—the ones that I have offered as well as the ones that I am going to offer to show the declarations of the decedent regarding domicile.

Mr. Gray: I object. He is stating to you a conclusion of law, not even a declaration of domicile at all.

The Court: I presume they speak for themselves.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you Exhibit "K"; what is that?
[fol. 514] A. That is a will of Dr. Dorrance, Dr. John T. Dorrance, dated July 30, 1925.
Q. Drawn by you?
A. It was.
Q. Signed by Dr. Dorrance?
A. It was.

The Court: What is that for the purpose of showing his residence? Or what he called his residence?
Mr. Hannum: Yes. I offer in evidence Exhibit "K".
Mr. Gray: I object.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you Exhibit "L"; what is that?
A. That is a codicil to the will of Dr. Dorrance dated October 17, 1925?
Q. Drawn by you?
A. Yes.
Q. Signed by Dr. Dorrance?
A. It was.

Mr. Hannum: I offer Exhibit "L" in evidence.
Mr. Gray: Objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you Exhibit "M"; what is that?
A. That is a codicil to the will of Dr. Dorrance dated December 30, 1925.
[fol. 515] Q. Drawn by you?
A. It was.
Q. At his direction?
A. Yes.
Q. Signed by Dr. Dorrance?
A. Yes.

Mr. Hannum: I offer in evidence Exhibit "M."
Mr. Gray: That is objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you Exhibit "N"; what is that?

A. That is a power of attorney given by Dr. Dorrance to Heberton L. Williams dated May 15, 1928.

Q. Drawn by you?

A. Yes.

Q. Signed by Dr. Dorrance?

A. Yes, in my presence.

Mr. Hannum: I offer Exhibit "N" in evidence.

Mr. Gray: I object to it.

The Court: What is the purpose?

Mr. Hannum: To show declaration of decedent regarding his residence.

Mr. Gray: You didn't look at it carefully.

The Court: I thought I looked at it.

Mr. Hannum: You had it long enough.

Mr. Gray: It says at its top "I, John T. Dorrance, of the Township of Cinnaminson." I don't think that is a declaration of domicile.

[fol. 516] The Court: Let me see it. This time I will look at it.

Mr. Gray: I wish I could get on the record every time your Honor doesn't look at it.

The Court: I will admit and give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you Exhibit "O"; what is that exhibit?

Mr. Gray: In order to save time and I have offered Mr. Hannum several suggestions but he wouldn't adopt them. They are all different powers of attorney. The only purpose he is offering them for is for the purpose of showing declarations contained therein that the man lived in Cinnaminson, County of Burlington. Subject to my objection that they are not relevant, he may offer them for that purpose.

The Court: Your objection is overruled. I am admitting them.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

The Witness: That appears to be a duplicate——

By the Court:

Q. What is that?

A. That is a power of attorney given by Dr. Dorrance dated May 15, 1928, to Heberton L. Williams.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Is it drawn by you and signed by Dr. Dorrance?

A. Yes.

[fol. 517] Q. What is Exhibit "P"?

Mr. Gray: Your Honor will not blame me for loss of time. I agree that these should be offered without identification.

A. That is a duplicate of Exhibit "O".

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What is Exhibit "Q"?

A. Exhibit "Q" is a power of attorney given by Dr. Dorrance to George M. Dorrance, M. D., his brother.

Q. Signed by him and drawn by you?

A. Yes, dated March 26, 1929.

Q. What is Exhibit "R"?

A. Exhibit "R" is a power of attorney given by Dr. Dorrance to Heberton L. Williams and William D. Lippincott.

Q. Drawn by you and signed by him?

A. Yes. It was drawn by me and signed by him.

Q. What about Exhibit "S"?

A. That is a power of attorney given by Dr. Dorrance to Heberton L. Williams and Wm. D. Lippincott and signed by Dr. Dorrance September 12, 1929.

Q. Did I show you Exhibit "R"?

A. Exhibit "R" is a power of attorney given by Dr. Dorrance to Heberton L. Williams and Wm. D. Lippincott, dated September 12, 1929, signed by Dr. Dorrance.

Q. Exhibit "U"?

A. Is a power of attorney given by Dr. John T. Dorrance to Heberton L. Williams and Wm. D. Lippincott, dated September 12, 1929, and signed by Dr. Dorrance.

[fol. 518] Mr. Gray: If he is contemplating offering them in evidence I would like to examine them. I made you an offer and you wouldn't take advantage of it.

The Court: Are they offered in evidence.

Mr. Hannum: I offer them in evidence.

Mr. Gray: I object to them on the ground that they are irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Mr. Hannum: Cross-examine:

Cross-examination:

By Mr. Gray:

Q. You said that you had to do with the settlement for the purchase of the property known as Woodcrest, Radnor?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you mean by that that you had entire charge of that settlement?

A. I attended the settlement, Mr. Gray, at Mr. Hirst's office in Philadelphia.

Q. Representing who, Mr. Dorrance and his wife?

A. Representing them, yes.

Q. Was the settlement actually made there?

A. It was.

Q. Not made at the Bryn Mawr Title and Trust Company?

A. The representative, as I recollect, the representative of the Bryn Mawr Trust Company came to Mr. Hirst's office in Philadelphia.

[fol. 519] Q. From whom was that property purchased?

A. From Mrs. Munn. I don't know her exact name.

Q. How many acres were in it?

A. I don't know.

Q. How much was paid for it?

Mr. Hannum: I object. What importance is it, what he paid for it.

Mr. Gray: It is a very important factor in the case to start with.

The Court: He can answer the question, if you know.

A. I don't know the exact amount. I can get you the settlement sheet.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. I know all about the settlement sheet. I am asking you if you know what was paid for it?

A. Not precisely, no.

Q. Approximately?

A. Aproximately ($350,000) three hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Q. Wasn't there over $400,000 paid for it?

A. I think not.

Q. How many parcels of property were present at the settlement, out there, near or surrounding Woodcrest?

A. The Munn property.

Q. Do you know whether they purchase other properties there?

A. Yes.

Q. How many altogether?

A. I don't know.

[fol. 520] Q. Do you know what was paid for all the properties in the aggregate?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know how many acres were in the Munn property?

A. I don't know. The deed will show.

Q. I know the deed will show. Prior to the time that that property in Woodcrest, Radnor, was bought, you never had any of these discussions that you have testified to with Mr. John T. Dorrance, did you?

A. Prior to that time?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. Right after Mr. Dorrance bought the property known as Woodcrest, Radnor, from the Munns, he came to you and discussed the question of the law of Domicile, didn't he?

A. He did.

Q. And he also discussed with you the inheritance tax laws of the State of New Jersey and the State of Pennsylvania, didn't he?

A. He discussed——

Q. Did he or did he not, please.

Mr. Hannum: Let him answer.

By Mr. Gray: I asked him whether he discussed the inheritance tax laws of the State of Pennsylvania and the State of New Jersey. I am cross-examining him and he must answer me directly.

Q. He did or did not?

A. No.

Q. Did he discuss with you the personal property tax of the State of Pennsylvania?

[fol. 521] A. Not at that time.

Q. At any time?

A. He discussed——

Q. At any time?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did he at any time discuss with you the inheritance tax laws of the state of New Jersey and the state of Pennsylvania. Did he at any time?

A. If you put that question as it is, I will say no.

Q. Did he ever write you about it?

A. No, sir. He discussed with me the New Jersey Inheritance Tax law continuously, but never the Pennsylvania Inheritance Tax Law.

Q. He wanted you to revise them, didn't he?

A. Yes.

Q. He wanted to abolish the Federal Tax laws, if he could, didn't he?

A. I think he did.

Q. He went so far as to endeavor to have an Act of Congress passed eliminating the Federal taxes, didn't he?

A. I don't know.

Q. And tried to have it passed?

A. I don't know.

Q. He was desirous of having the corporation taxes of the State of New Jersey reduced in order that he might save the Campbell Soup Company incidently a large and substantial amount of taxation, isn't that true?

A. No, sir.

Q. No steps made about that?

A. No, sir.

Q. You don't know about that. Prior to 1925, have you [fol. 522] any papers such as you have produced for the date after 1925?

A. I have not. But I have wills, yes.

Q. You haven't brought any of those?

A. Not here, no, sir.

Q. And the first will that you produced here was executed by him on May 5, 1925?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that right after he purchased the Radnor property?

A. I think so.

Q. Don't you know?

A. We haven't the deed here for the Radnor property. The date of the deed will show. I can produce it tomorrow morning.

Q. I know the date of the deed. I want to know if you know it.

A. If you give me the date of the deed I will tell you.

Q. You don't know whether it was after or not?

A. I don't know, but I think——

Q. How long prior to May 5, 1925, was it that he gave you instructions for the purpose of drawing that voluminous will on that date?

A. Several weeks, I think. It was done under pressure, however.

Q. Why?

A. It was a very great change in the plans for the previous wills and it was very laborious work.

Q. Why was it done under pressure?

A. I was under pressure to get it done correctly and properly.

Q. You mean he wanted it done as quickly as possible. [fol. 523] Of course, we always have got to do things properly?

A. Yes.

Q. You say that he never discussed the personal property tax in the State of Pennsylvania?

A. I didn't say that, no, sir.

Q. Did he discuss it?

A. Yes.

Q. When was it he discussed it?

A. After he got notice from some assessor out in Radnor Township of a proposed assessment against him.

Q. You mean of the four mills personal property tax?

A. Yes. That is what you are referring to?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. It has been shown in this estate that the inventory of his personal property was 114,000,000 dollars in 1925 and 1926. Was he worth that much money?

A. I don't know, Mr. Gray.

Q. Was it over one hundred million?

A. About that.

Q. Do you know whether he ever paid any inheritance taxes or paid any personal property tax to the State of Pennsylvania?

A. I don't know. I think not. I don't know at all.

Q. Now, when you were discussing that question of his having moved to Radnor, Woodcrest at Radnor, he discussed it with you because he wanted to place himself in the position of wanting your legal advice on not becoming a citizen of the State of Pennsylvania, that is true?

A. He never discussed moving to Radnor with me.

[fol. 524] Q. I said after he moved to Radnor he wanted to avoid becoming a citizen of Pennsylvania if he could and he came to you to discuss how he could, legally?

A. No.

Mr. Hannum: I object to the word "move."

By Mr. Gray:

Q. After he bought the place called Woodcrest at Radnor and went there to live with his family, it was then that he came to you and discussed the question of how he could avoid becoming a citizen domiciled in the State of Pennsylvania and still retain citizenship in New Jersey; isn't that correct?

A. No, sir. He wanted to retain his citizenship in New Jersey.

Q. And not become a citizen of the State of Pennsylvania?

A. No, sir.

Q. That is what he wanted?

A. He didn't want to become a citizen of the State of New Jersey and said so.

Mr. Hannum: State of Pennsylvania, you mean.

A. State of Pennsylvania, I mean.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. We agree on that. He came to you to find out how he could legally avoid becoming a citizen of Pennsylvania?

A. No, sir.

Q. What was it that he came to seek advice about?

A. When the purchase of the Radnor property was under [fol. 525] discussion, he asked me whether it would interfere with his New Jersey legal residence.

Q. Go ahead.

A. And I told him that was largely a matter of intention, and he assured me at that time that he intended to keep his New Jersey home.

Q. You told him it was primarily a matter of intention?

A. Largely a matter of intention, yes.

Q. Largely a matter of intention?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, did that discussion take place prior to the purchase of the Radnor property?

A. About the time.

Q. Well, now, you said when the purchase of the property was under consideration—that leads me to believe it was before that time. Was it or not?

A. It was under consideration—by that I mean, some deal was on. I don't know whether it was before or just after the settlement had been made or the agreement made. It was about that time.

Q. Was it before the agreement, was it before the property was settled for and title taken, while the purchase was under consideration or was it after the deal was consummated that he came to talk to you?

A. I couldn't tell you.

Q. Was it before or after you came to Hirst's office to make that settlement?

A. I couldn't tell you.

Q. Who suggested to him the title to this property should be in the name of both Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance, you?

A. Dr. Dorrance.

Q. Did you advise him that you had investigated the [fol. 526] Pennsylvania State laws, that if the property was put in the names of the two of them that it would pass to his wife as survivor upon his death and there would be no inheritance tax to be paid?

Mr. Hannum: That isn't the law.

Mr. Gray: I will advise any client that comes to me that that is the law.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Did you advise Dr. Dorrance that if he took title to the property at Radnor in the name of both himself and his wife as tenants by entireties that in the event of his death there would be no inheritance tax that would have to be paid to the State of Pennsylvania?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you look that up for him?

A. I did not.

Q. Did he discuss it with you?

A. He said that he wanted the title taken in the name of himself and his wife.

Q. Did he tell you the reason?

A. I think not.

Q. You say that you looked up some of the laws of the State of Pennsylvania for him?

A. New Jersey.

Q. I recollect you said that?

A. New Jersey, Mr. Gray.

Q. You said here according to my notes, I recollect your saying that you discussed the law of the State of Pennsylvania and New Jersey and later on that you told him you had investigated the law of the State of Pennsylvania. What was that with reference to?

[fol. 527] A. I don't remember saying that.

Q. Did you look up the law of the State of Pennsylvania as to any piece of this matter for him?

A. No, sir.

Q. You didn't?

A. No, sir. Except I was informed by someone—some of my friends at the bar later as to the right of the wife to take against the will. I also looked up the law of Pennsylvania sometime, I think, later on the question of the right of accumulation. But that was incidental.

Q. Was Dr. Dorrance fearful that his wife in the State of New Jersey might elect to take against his will—was he fearful that she might elect to take against the will and spoil the plan for preserving the Campbell Soup Company?

A. Dr. Dorrance was fearful lest the amount of his taxes plus that possible contingency would make it impossible to keep the Campbell Soup Company intact.

Q. That is if his wife elected to take against his will?

A. Yes.

Q. And you advised him that under the laws of the State of New Jersey the wife couldn't take or could elect to take against the will but that his estate being practically all personal property that it wouldn't make any difference with reference to testamentary disposition?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you also advise him that if his domicile was in the State of Pennsylvania and he left a will which would have to be probated where his domicile was, namely in the State of Pennsylvania, that then under the Pennsylvania [fol. 528] law his wife could elect to take against the will and take such a share of the personal property as she would be entitled to take if he died intestate?

A. That was not the form of my advice.

Q. What did you tell him with reference to the Pennsylvania law?

A. I told him that under the Pennsylvania law the wife could take against the will.

Q. In other words, you didn't enlarge upon it and say what she could take?

A. Yes. I told him she could take one-third of the personal estate.

Q. Isn't that what I said?

A. No, sir, that is not what you said.

Q. Was that before or after his will of May, 1925, was drawn?

A. My impression is that it was prior, just prior to the making of the will of 1928.

Q. In other words, the will of 1925 and the codicil thereto were made long prior to that discussion?

A. Yes.

Q. The will of 1925 had a codicil attached to it as of the date of December 30, 1925, which contained a provision similar in form to the provision contained in his present will with reference to the probate of it in Burlington County, that is true, isn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. You drew that?

A. Yes.

Q. Why—I don't mean why you drew it—you drew it because you were instructed to—but why, after consultation with Dorrance and yourself, was it drawn?

[fol. 529] A. That was after the Radnor property had been occupied by him.

Q. Yes.

A. And people had asked him whether he was now a resident of Pennsylvania and he stated that to me.

Q. You mean he was fearful——

The Court: Wait until he finishes——

A. He stated that to me and he said that he wanted to put something in his will which would ensure the prompt probate of his will in Burlington County.

Q. In other words, he was fearful that his action in occupying the property at Radnor would be considered as adopting Pennsylvania as his domicile?

A. I don't think he was fearful of it. But it had been suggested by his friends out there that he was a resident of Pennsylvania, and he denied it.

Q. In other words, what he was doing—did you advise him that what he was doing was to deny the legal effect of his act, wanted to overcome that legal effect as far as you could, by some declaration of intention?

A. No, sir, I didn't advise him in that form.

The Court: You can't finish with this witness tonight. We will adjourn until tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

October 21, 1931.

Court convened at ten o'clock.

WILLIAM D. LIPPINCOTT, recalled for further cross-examination.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. How long after your preliminary talks with Mr. Dorrance with respect to the effect of his having purchased the Pennsylvania property upon his citizenship of Pennsyl-

[fol. 530] vania was it that you took up with him the question of the agreement which was ultimately drawn between him and Mrs. Dorrance?

A. That was several months, Mr. Gray.

Q. The agreement is dated, I think, sometime in the following year, isn't it?

A. It is dated early in January, 1926. It was originally drawn for 1925. It was drawn as I recollect at the same time as the codicil of December 30, 1925. It wasn't signed in 1925. So we changed the time from 1925 to 1926.

Q. What was the purpose of the agreement?

A. The purpose of the agreement was exactly as stated in the agreement, Mr. Gray.

Q. Did you advise him that it was unenforceable?

A. I told him that an agreement might be good between himself and Mrs. Dorrance.

Q. Did you advise him that it was unenforceable?

A. I told him, I thought, that the agreement was perfectly good and it was alright to have it made between him and his wife.

Q. Did you advise him that it was unenforceable?

A. I think the question of whether it should be enforced didn't come up at that time. It was made in perfectly good faith between Dr. Dorrance and his wife.

Q. Did you advise him as to any manner in which it could be enforced in the event of his wife not living up to it?

A. That wasn't contemplated in our conversation.

Q. Wasn't the agreement entered into simply for the purpose of creating another evidence of declaration of intention?

[fol. 531] A. It was not. It was made exactly as I stated yesterday.

Q. During the time between 1925 and the time of Dr. Dorrance's death in 1930, did you visit him at Radnor?

A. Yes.

Q. How frequently?

A. To the best of my recollection three or four times.

Q. Of course, I suppose you saw him at your office principally throughout that period of time in connection with these various documents that have been produced?

A. Almost always at his office.

Q. Were those the only places that you saw him?

A. I saw him at Cinnaminson.

Q. How frequently did you see him there?

A. I saw him there quite a number of times.

Q. By engagement that you would make with him?

A. Sometimes.

Q. When was the last time prior to his death that you saw him at Cinnaminson?

A. Either late summer or early fall of 1929, as I recollect.

Q. 1929?

A. That is my personally speaking to him?

Q. Yes.

A. Either late summer or early fall 1929.

Q. A little over a year before his death?

A. Yes.

Q. He met you there alone on that occasion?

A. My recollection is that Peter was there.

Q. His valet?

A. Yes.

[fol. 532] Q. Peter made his home with him over here at Radnor?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell me, if you know when your elections were held in 1930 in the State of New Jersey?

A. Primary?

Q. Either that or any election?

A. Primary election was held, as I recollect it—I can verify it by statute, but as I recall it, it was the third Tuesday in June. That is my best recollection.

Q. Was there any other election at all in the spring of 1930?

A. No, sir.

Q. Was there any election prior to November in the fall of 1930?

A. No, sir.

The Court: Was this the primary you mean, that he has spoken of.

Mr. Gray: Primary was in June.

The Court: That is prior to November.

Mr. Gray: I mentioned in the fall, I think I said in the fall, any election in the fall prior to November?

A. Not that I recollect, no, sir.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. In all of these matters in connection with the various documents that were introduced, the wills and other matters and questions that you have testified as to your personal contact, you were Mr. Dorrance's private counsel, weren't you?

A. Yes.

[fol. 533] Q. And acted for him?

A. Yes.

Mr. Gray: That is all.

Redirect examination.

By Mr. Hannum:

—. I just want to ask you a question or two if I may.

The Court: Go ahead.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. About these wills—this will of 1928, is that his last will?

A. Yes.

Q. After it was signed by Dr. Dorrance what did he do with it?

A. He gave it to me and told me to take care of it.

Q. How long did you have it?

A. I had it until the following summer, summer of 1929.

Q. And then, what if anything transpired in connection with it?

A. Dr. Dorrance asked me to——

Mr. Gray: I must object to any testimony given with respect to what Dr. Dorrance asked him about this.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

[fol. 534] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Then what if anything transpired in connection with the will of 1928?

A. In the same summer of 1929, prior to the first of August when I went on my vacation, Dr. Dorrance asked me to bring the will to him and I did so.

Q. Where did you take it?

A. I took it to his office in the Campbell Soup Company building at Second and Market Street, Camden, New Jersey and he and I went over that will together.

Q. Did he make any changes in it?

A. No, sir, he didn't.

Q. And then after he went over it, what did he do with it?

A. He gave it back to me and told me to take care of it.

Q. Did he say anything else?

A. At that time, as he did at the time that he originally gave the will to me immediately after its execution, he told me that he wanted me to remember that if anything happened to him he wanted that will admitted to probate in New Jersey and he wanted me to see that was done.

Q. And after he gave you the will on this last time, how long was it in your possession?

A. It was in my possession until a few days after Dr. Dorrance's death.

Q. And then what did you do with it?

A. I took it to Mt. Holly personally and delivered it to the surrogate of Burlington County at Mt. Holly, New Jersey.

Q. Is there a law in New Jersey relative to the assessment and payment of a poll tax?

[fol. 535] There is.

Q. I show you a book, what is that book?

A. That is, that book is the pamphlet laws of the State of New Jersey for the year 1918.

Q. Is there a reference in that book to a poll tax law?

A. There is a reference in that book to an Act for the assessment and collection of taxes.

Q. Is the Act in that book?

A. Yes.

Q. What is the Act?

A. The Act?

Q. What is the date and what year, what year and what date?

A. The Act is Chapter 236 of the laws of 1918 of the State of New Jersey, approved March 4, 1918, to take effect on October 1, 1918, according to its terms.

Q. What page is in the pamphlet laws of 1918?

A. Page 847 of the pamphlet laws of 1918.

Mr. Hannum: I offer the pamphlet laws of the State of New Jersey for the year 1918 in evidence, particularly with reference to the Poll Tax Act which appears in said pamphlet laws on page 847 thereof.

Mr. Gray: I have no objection except that I would like to ask the Judge one question:

Q. Are these laws still in effect in the State of New Jersey and never been repealed?

A. Yes.

Mr. Gray: No objection.

The Court: No objection; it is received.

By Mr. Hannum:

[fol. 536] Q. I show you exhibits V, W, Y, Z, Z-1, Z-2, Z-3, and ask you what they are and what reference they have to this particular act?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. On the face they purport to be poll tax receipts and this is not the proper witness to prove they are poll tax receipts by.

The Court: You want them to call somebody who issued the receipts.

Mr. Gray: Somebody that knows properly and legally what they are.

The Court: I suppose that is true. I won't receive them. But will let them prove them another time.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you Exhibit "A-1"; what is that?

A. That is a deed from—made by Joseph L. Thomas, trustee, and Catherine H. P. Williams to John T. Dorrance dated November 20, 1909, covering a tract of land containing 76.62 acres of land, more or less situate in the Township of Cinnaminson, County of Burlington and State of New Jersey.

The Court: Let me see that.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you Exhibit "A-2"; what is that?

A. That is a deed made by John T. Dorrance and Ethel M. Dorrance his wife to Joseph Campbell Company, a corporation created by and existing under and by virtue of the State of New Jersey, dated December 29, 1909, covering a tract of land in the Township of Cinnaminson in the County [fol. 537] of Burlington, State of New Jersey, containing 76.62 acres more or less.

Q. Now is the property in A-1 and A-2 identical?

A. The property is identical.

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge whether Pomona farms at which Dr. Dorrance lived in New Jersey is a part of the curtilage of that property?

Mr. Gray: I object to that. I will not object if Mr. Hannum will put his question as to whether he knows what property that is.

By the Court: Do you know what property it is.

A. Yes.

The Court: Then he can tell what property it is. I have no objection to that.

The Court: Now ask your question.

A. The property included in these two pieces consists of the property known as Pomona farms, Dr. Dorrance's home at Cinnaminson, Cinnaminson Township, and farm No. one of the Campbell Soup Company as at present constituted.

Mr. Hannum: I desire to offer these two exhibits in evidence.

Mr. Gray: May I inquire for what purpose?

Mr. Hannum: For the purpose of showing the ownership and residence of Dr. Dorrance primarily and eventually the Campbell Soup Company, and then Dr. Dorrance and his residence.

Mr. Gray: I object. Not because of any technical question that I am raising in the manner of proof, I will waive [fol. 538] that. But on the ground that they do not prove either the purpose for which they are offered, nor do they prove anything that is relevant or material to this case. I direct your Honor's attention to the fact that this is a purchase of a piece of property in 1909, in November, and the holding of it for a period of a little over a month, a month and nine days to be exact, and the conveyance of that same piece of property then to the Campbell Soup Company one month and nine days later, and back in 1909, twenty-one years before his death. I can't see that it has any relevancy to this case.

The Court: Unless it proves his residence at that time, and then somebody will have to prove a change, when he changed his residence.

Mr. Gray: If your Honor please, it doesn't prove his residence at that time. There is testimony that he lived at Pomona Farms until 1925 in a tract of ground covering seven acres. But this is taking title to a piece of property and passing it to the Campbell Soup Company twenty-two years before his death.

The Court: This would probably be evidence of his residence in Camden County.

Mr. Hannum: As you will recall, there was evidence here from Dr. George Dorrance, I think, that he had—that he selected this particular place for his home and residence in about 1910 or 1911 somewhere.

Mr. Gray: For a month and nine days.

The Court: It doesn't make any difference how long, if it is only for a minute, if he intended to make it his residence.

[fol. 539] Mr. Hannum: And that he had selected and bought this property.

The Court: I think he did testify to that.

Mr. Gray: That is something that happened some twenty-two years ago. I have stated my objection. Your Honor overrules it.

The Court: I over-rule your objection and give you an exception. It is some slight evidence. It is not quantitative but it is some evidence.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Recross-examination.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Did you have anything to do with this transaction that is represented by these two deeds?

A. Mr. Gray, there is every indication that the first deed was drawn by me or by my directions. The second deed was drawn by me or by my direction and I took the acknowledgment to it.

Q. By the first, you mean the deed by which Mr. Dorrance took title to this particular property; by the second you mean the deed by which he conveyed that title to the Campbell Soup Company?

A. Yes.

Q. And that property is the property which the Campbell Soup Company used for the purpose of raising vegetables?

A. That property in part is the property which the Campbell Soup Company used for raising vegetables and in part the property which Dr. Dorrance maintained as his home up to the time of his death.

[fol. 540] Q. In other words, it contains on that piece of land, the house, a picture of which you have seen?

A. I haven't seen it.

Q. The picture of which has been here exhibited, the property is owned and has been owned by the Campbell Soup Company continuously since 1909?

A. By Joseph Campbell Company and its successor.

Q. And this Campbell Soup Company is the successor?

A. Yes.

Q. I show you picture which is marked exhibit 1 and repeat my question to you—that the property is the property on a certain piece of ground of which there exists this house that I have shown you a photograph of?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, to come back to the other end. The other matter about which Mr. Hannum has examined you. You said in the latter part of 1928, if I recall the date correctly Mr. Dorrance spoke to you about his desire to have his will probated in Burlington County?

A. No, sir.

Q. Am I wrong as to the date. If I am wrong as to the date, correct me. Am I wrong as to the date?

A. The latter part of 1925.

Q. If you testified that that conversation was in the latter part of 1928 before, then that is an error. It is 1925, is it?

A. It depends which conversation you are referring to. If you are referring to the conversation as to which I was examined just a few minutes ago by Mr. Hannum——

Q. I am referring to that?

[fol. 541] A. There were two conversations.

Q. I am referring to that, last talk about that, when was that?

A. First conversation?

Q. When was the one—I am asking you about the conversation about which you were examined in redirect examination a few minutes ago, when was that?

A. That was in the summer of 1929, prior to August 1st.

Q. I had understood it was 1928.

Q. That answers my question.

A. There were two.

Q. In the latter part of 1925 you drew a codicil to his will?

A. Yes.

Q. And in that codicil it was provided that his will should be probated in Burlington County?

A. It was.

Q. And in 1928—if I am wrong correct me as to the dates. I am not bothering referring to my memorandum, you drew another will for him?

A. Yes.

Q. And in that will it was provided that his will be probated in Burlington County, that is right?

A. Yes.

Q. And in either one or both of these documents, that is either the will of 1925 and the codicil thereto, or the will of 1928 or both, it was provided that you should be retained to act as counsel?

A. As proctor for the estate.

Q. As proctor for the estate. And naturally, therefore, both of these wills and the codicils you were very familiar with them?

A. Yes.

[fol. 542] Q. And they contained the express instruction, that is correct, to probate in Burlington County?

A. The codicil.

Q. The codicil of December, 1925, and the will of 1928?

A. Yes.

Q. But notwithstanding all those expressed instructions Dr. Dorrance again in the summer of 1929 told you that he wanted you to be careful, in effect, to see that these instructions were carried out. Is that correct? Did he tell you that?

A. That was not his statement.

Q. What was his statement?

A. That he wanted me to see to it that the will was probated.

Q. Did he use the word "see to it"?

A. Yes.

Mr. Gray: That is all.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. You started to speak about the conversation in 1925 and were interrupted by Mr. Gray, what was that conversation?

A. That conversation that I had in my mind was the conversation of 1929 when Doctor Dorrance and I went over his last will, when he handed it to me.

Q. What did he say?

Mr. Gray: He testified to that on both direct and redirect examination.

The Court: We have had that a half dozen times. I don't see any reason why it should be repeated.

[fols. 543–545] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I understood you to say there was some conversation in 1925?

A. It was practically the same conversation.

Mr. Hannum: The same conversation?

The Court: He said that.

Mr. Hannum: I desire to recall Judge Lippincott later concerning some other matter.

The Court: You may recall him at any time.

[fol. 546[TESTIMONY OF WILLIAM D. LIPPINCOTT—Pages 408-a to 417-a, inc.

WM. D. LIPPINCOTT, recalled.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you exhibits, executors' Exhibit A-15, and ask you whether you know the signature that appears there as President?

A. Yes.

Q. Whose is it?

A. Signature of John T. Dorrance.

The Court: Show him all the papers and ask him the same thing on all of them.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I show you Exhibits A-14, A-17, A-18, A-19, A-21, and ask you whose signature appears on there as President?

A. The signature of John T. Dorrance on all of them.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. The signature, the other signature appearing upon these various exhibits that have just been shown to you, when the question was put to you, is your signature?

A. Yes.

[fol. 547] Q. You were Secretary of the company during all this period of time when these reports were filed?

A. Yes.

Q. And then in another exhibit here, that has been offered in evidence and accepted over my objection, there is on Exhibit 20, that is your signature as Secretary, that is true?

A. Yes.

Q. And on Exhibit No. 16, your signature appears alone, does it not?

A. Yes.

Mr. Gray: That is all.

Mr. Hannum: That is all.

The Court: Are you going to offer these papers in evidence?

Mr. Hannum: I did offer them.

The Court: But you opened the question again, because the signature was not admitted. Now it is proven. Offer them again if you wish to.

Mr. Hannum: I desire to offer in evidence Exhibits A-16, A-20, A-15, A-21, A-19, A-18, A-17 and A-14.

Mr. Gray: I object to them.

The Court: Objection overruled. They are admitted for the purpose of showing his residence, as evidence of his residence.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Mr. Hannum: I understand it is agreed on the record between Mr. Gray and me that photostatic copies of these may be put in the record.

[fol. 548] The Court: It doesn't make any difference whether you agree or not, I will let you do it.

By Mr. von Moschzisker:

Q. Judge, Mr. Gray asked you the other day when you were on the stand in his cross-examination whether all the wills of Dr. Dorrance which you identified then were not dated subsequently to 1925, and you answered, yes, that they were. I hand you these documents and ask you what they are?

A. They are wills and codicils signed by Dr. Dorrance.

Q. At what dates?

A. Between the second day of March, 1912, and the 19th day of May, 1924.

Q. In other words, they are all wills prior to the will of 1925?

A. They are wills and codicils.

Q. Wills and codicils?

A. Signed by Dr. Dorrance.

Q. Now, there is one purpose I have here, will you just read the introductory words——

Mr. Gray: I object to that. Either they are admissible or they are not. He can offer them for a limited purpose if he wants to.

Mr. von Moschzisker: The reason I put it that way is this; I don't see any occasion for encumbering the record by copying these several wills. We just want the words in the beginning of each one.

The Court: Limit them as you want, in the evidence.

[fol. 549] Mr. von Moschzisker:

Q. Read the introductory words in the first will where he describes his residence.

Mr. Gray: I object to that upon the ground that if any part of this paper is evidence the entire paper has to go in evidence. Although my friend may limit the purpose for which he offers it, still he may not have the contents read of a part of a paper.

The Court: That may be true. If you want to encumber the record, we will let it all go in. If it is to show residence if it is stated in there where his residence is. I don't know what is in the paper.

Mr. von Moschzisker: I pass the paper up to your Honor. My notion of it is simply to show the admission or declaration.

Mr. Gray: By an opposing party.

Mr. von Moschzisker: Not necessarily an opposing party.

The Court: I will permit you. Overrule the objection and give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. von Moschzisker:

Q. Now, what are the introductory words as to residence of the testator, just the introductory words as to his residence.

A. "I, John T. Dorrance, of the Township of Cinnaminson in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, being of sound and disposing mind, memory and understanding——". That was the beginning of his will [fol. 550] dated March 2, 1912. Signed by Dr. Dorrance.

Q. Now, read the others.

A. "I, John T. Dorrance, of Township of Cinnaminson, in the County of Burlington, State of New Jersey, being of sound mind, memory and understanding" was the beginning of a codicil signed by Dr. Dorrance dated September 26, 1913. That is the codicil to the will which I have just mentioned.

"I, John T. Dorrance, of the Township of Cinnaminson, in the County of Burlington, and State of New Jersey" was the beginning of a further codicil to the will of 1912, dated April 26, 1915. Signed by Dr. Dorrance.

Mr. Gray: My objection covers all these.

The Court: Yes. Objection overruled.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. "I, John T. Dorrance, of the Township of Cinnaminson, in the County of Burlington, State of New Jersey" was the beginning of a will signed by Dr. Dorrance dated June 26, 1918.

"I, John T. Dorrance, of the Township of Cinnaminson, in the County of Burlington, and State of New Jersey," was the beginning of a will signed by Dr. Dorrance dated January 17, 1919.

"I, John T. Dorrance, of the Township of Cinnaminson, County of Burlington, and State of New Jersey," was the beginning of a codicil to the will of 1919, which codicil was dated October 28, 1919 and signed by John T. Dorrance.

[fol. 551] "I, John T. Dorrance, of the Township of Cinnaminson, County of Burlington, and State of New Jersey," was the beginning of a codicil to the last mentioned will and dated May 13, 1924. Signed by Dr. Dorrance.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. When did all these wills come into your possession?
A. At the time they were executed.
Q. In other words, they were all drawn in your office?
A. They were drawn by me under my direction or supervision in my office.
Q. I suppose the mechanical work of the drafting of the wills was done by somebody else than yourself?
A. In some of them, yes.
Q. In other words, the provisions with the beginning and the ending of the wills are usual and customary in the State of New Jersey as they are in other states, and any one in your office knew them as well as you did?
A. Mr. Gray, I dictated every word of all of these wills and codicils.
Q. When you did it in each case you had the previous will before you because each one exhibits a change in some provisions in the previous will?
A. Except the first one.
Q. And then coming on down the wills follow the same general form?
A. Yes.

By Mr. von Moschzisker:

Q. You have already told us your qualifications as a [fol. 552] lawyer, and an Ex-Judge of the State, I hand you a volume marked "Laws of New Jersey, 1918," opened at page 848, what is that a law with reference to.

Mr. Gray: Objected to. It may make it a criminal offense to kill a dog. Let me see it. Go ahead.

By Mr. von Moschzisker:

Q. What does that law have reference to?
A. It has reference to the taxation of property within the State of New Jersey and also with reference to the poll tax payable under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

Mr. von Moschzisker: I think it is proper I should state my purpose on what I am about to do. When these tax returns were offered they showed a very small sum returned for personal tax assessment, a few thousand dollars. I want to show by Judge Lippincott what personal property is exempt in New Jersey from taxation. So there will be no false conclusion drawn from these returns.

Mr. Gray: I object to it, because I don't think that is the proper way to go about it. I think what they will have to do is not to show what the law is but what property is exempt. But they will have to show first what property Dr. Dorrance had and then show under the law that property was exempt. We are not concerned with anything else. Whether that property during those various years was exempt or not, we are not concerned with the question of what property is exempt. We are concerned with whether that particular property was exempt on the theory of Judge von Moschzisker.

[fol. 553] The Court: The bills assess the tax on the personal property.

Mr. Gray: Yes. They will have to show first of all what personal property he had during those years.

The Court: Not necessarily.

Mr. von Moschzisker: You have the appraisement here.

Mr. Gray: The appraisement doesn't show it. Let me state my objection in this way: I object to the witness stating or testifying as to what the laws are with respect to the property that is or is not exempt from taxation in the State of New Jersey, until and unless my friend on the other side shows what property John T. Dorrance—personal property—was possessed of during that period of time that these tax bills cover, or unless they include as part of their offer the intention to establish that immediately hereafter.

Mr. von Moschzisker: It is not necessary for the Judge to read from the book at all. I will simply offer the book.

The Court: Objection overruled. Give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. von Moschzisker:

Q. Go ahead and tell us what character of property and read to us parts exempting property from taxation.

A. Under Section 202 of the Act, which is Chapter 236 of the Laws of 1919, it is provided that all property real [fol. 554] and personal within the jurisdiction of this state not expressly exempt by this Act, or excluded from its provisions, shall be subject to tax annually under this Act at its true value and shall be valued by the assessors of the respective taxing districts. Then there are other provisions.

Q. All I asked you to read were the exemptions.

A. The exemptions are contained under section 203 of Chapter 236, and cover two pages and a half.

Q. You needn't read all those.

Mr. Gray: If you want to read it——

By Mr. von Moschzisker:

Q. Go ahead and read them.

A. Section 203 of that Act, on page 848 of the Pamphlet Laws of 1918, provides: The following property shall be exempt from taxation under this Act, namely—1: (a)—I might say there have been subsequent amendments of this section 203.

Q. Just go ahead.

A. That is not the last Act for exemption, showing the exemptions under the law.

Q. Did they make additional exemptions, or did they take away some exemptions?

A. They do both.

Q. Have you the subsequent ones with you?

A. No, sir.

By Mr. Hannum: Will you get them.

A. I can produce them.

Mr. von Moschzisker: You can produce them. I will [fols. 555-558] withdraw you temporarily. The witness is withdrawn temporarily.

I want to offer a couple letters here in evidence, marked Executors' Exhibits A-22 and A-23. I now offer executors' exhibit A-22 and A-23 being letters: one dated—A-23 being dated April 27, 1925 and A-22 being dated May 26, 1925. The first is a letter from the Continental Storage and Warehouse Company to John T. Dorrance and the second is a letter from John T. Dorrance to the Continental Storage and Warehouse. Now, the only thing I need to read to you is the letter from Dr. Dorrance. Will you have them both?

Mr. Gray: I desire, if the Court please, to interpose an objection to the relevancy and materiality and admissibility of these letters, not on the technical ground that the letters have not been proven, because I agreed with Counsel on the other side that they need not actually prove the writing and mailing or receipt of the letters. But assuming that proof has been offered with regard to these letters, and others, which I am also making the same admission with regard to—I do object to them because of their not being admissible in evidence.

The Court: I will admit them and give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Mr. von Moschzisker: The purpose of the offer is to show declarations as to residence at Cinnaminson.

[fol. 559] TESTIMONY OF ETHEL M. DORRANCE—Pages 250-a to 358-a

ETHEL M. DORRANCE, sworn.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Mrs. Dorrance, what is your full name?
A. Ethel Mallin Ckrodt Dorrance.
Q. Who was your husband?
A. John Thompson Dorrance.
Q. When were you married?
A. 18th of August, 1906.
Q. Where were you married?
A. Baltimore, Maryland.
Q. Maryland was then your home?
A. I was born and raised in Baltimore, Maryland.
Q. Were there children by the marriage?
A. Five children.
Q. And the oldest, and then the next, their names?
A. Do you wish me to say where they were born?
Q. I want you to give us their names?

A. Eleanor Dorrance; Ethel Mallin Ckrodt Dorrance, 2nd; Charlotte Kelsey Dorrance; Margaret Winifred Dorrance and John Thompson Dorrance, Jr.

Q. What was the name of the first?

A. Eleanor.

Q. Where was she born?

[fol. 560] A. At the Presbyterian Hospital, in Philadelphia.

Q. And the next?

A. At the Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia.

Q. And the third?

A. At the Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia.

Q. And the fourth?

A. Cinnaminson, Pomona Farms, Cinnaminson, New Jersey, at my residence.

Q. And the fifth?

A. At Pomona farms, Cinnaminson, New Jersey.

Q. How long prior to your marriage had you known Dr. Dorrance?

A. Two years and four months.

Q. At the time of your first acquaintance with Dr. Dorrance, are you able to say where he was employed?

A. He was employed by the Joseph Campbell Preserving Company which is now the Campbell Soup Company.

Q. Where was he living at that time?

A. At 522 Linden Street, Camden, New Jersey.

Q. With whom, if you know?

A. He was living with Miss Mary Bergen.

Q. And boarding there?

A. And boarding there.

Q. Who was Miss Mary Bergen as to any one whom we know on this date?

A. She was an aunt of a friend of his, Martin Bories Bergen, and the two Bergen boys and several other young men worked in different shipyards and lived there, friends of Mr. Bergen.

Q. How long did Dr. Dorrance live there?

A. He lived there from the time of his entrance into the Campbell Preserving Company until Miss Mary Bergen's death, which was in November, 1905.

[fol. 561] A. And after her death and the close of her house, of that house, where did he then go?

A. He took apartments at the Robeson Apartment House, Camden, New Jersey.

Q. And is or is not that the place at which he was living when you and the doctor were married?

A. That is where he was living and where I went to live.

Q. After your marriage?

A. After we were married.

Q. May I ask, how long did you live there?

A. We lived there until the fall of 1909.

Q. I neglected to ask you—won't you tell me when you went there to live?

A. I went there to live in—right after I was married, in 1906.

Q. You lived there substantially three years?

A. All the time except when we were at Atlantic City, or unless we took little trips.

Q. And then when you left the Robeson Apartments in 1909, where did you go to live?

A. At the residence of my brother-in-law, George Morris Dorrance, 1716 Locust Street.

Q. Was that residence there temporary or permanent, in character?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. Neither counsel or witness may characterize the residence. The witness may describe it and what was done there; how they lived there. But the matter of determining whether that residence was temporary or permanent is for your Honor to draw the conclusion from the testimony.

The Court: If the testimony is that it was temporary I draw the conclusion that it was temporary; if the testimony [fol. 562] is that it was permanent I draw the conclusion that it was permanent. Therefore, I admit the question.

Mr. Gray: Will your Honor hear me further before ruling?

The Court: No, I have heard you. I will overrule the objection and give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Mr. Hannum:

Q. (Question read.)

A. It was a temporary residence.

Q. Why did you go there?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to as immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Yes. I sustain that objection. She says it was temporary. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. How long were you there?

A. We went there the first part of November, 1909, and went to the Brighton Hotel at Atlantic City for the Easter vacation, where we stayed a month and then returned for a few weeks—went back there the last part of June where we stayed until the first of October. And then in the meantime Dr. Dorrance and I had been looking for a residence. And we went back to Dr. Dorrance's and stayed from the first of October until March when we again went to Atlantic [fol. 563] City; and from there we moved to Pomona Farms the 7th of May, 1911.

Q. You say that you and Dr. Dorrance had been looking for a residence?

A. Yes, we had.

Q. Did you after that search make any selection?

A. Well, we chose what we——

Q. Answer yes or no?

A. Yes.

Q. What selection did you and Dr. Dorrance make?

A. Well, we chose a place that was then called Pomona by the Parry family that was afterwards purchased by my husband and when we took the place to live there I added "farms", because there were several Pomona or Povonas and so many things around the country that got people confused, so as it was a farm, I added "farms" to it.

Q. And this is Pomona Farms in Cinnaminson Township?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Which has been spoken of so frequently in this case?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you go there to live at Pomona Farms, Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, New Jersey?

A. The 7th of May, 1911.

Q. How long did Dr. Dorrance live there?

A. Until his death.

Q. Had you had any other intended establishment or home of your own up until that time?

Mr. Gray: Up until the time of Dr. Dorrance's death? Up until what time?

[fol. 564] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Up until you went to live at Cinnaminson?
A. No, sir, we had not.
Q. Did you look at others?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to as immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: That objection is sustained. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Will you describe Cinnaminson for us, the house, and the grounds?

A. Well, it was an ordinary red brick mansard roof house of the time that it was built; very ugly. We were undecided whether to tear it down or to build. But they had beautiful trees around and so we decided to keep the house where it was and add to it and have the trees. As I say it is very ugly but very comfortable inside. It is nicer inside than it is out.

Q. Will you describe the interior, please?

A. Well, we have a very large glass inclosed porch in front that we always use as a living room. And then inside there is a regular room; one on one side and one on the other, which we never use unless it was too cold to sit outside. And then back of that is a very large dining room, I suppose, it is about sixty-five feet long with a big fire place in the middle and a breakfast room at the end; and back of that is the pantry and kitchen, and laundry [fol. 565] and servants dining room. And upstairs were eight bed rooms and three baths; with a big enclosed porch at the back.

Q. That is upstairs?

A. Yes, second floor. Third floor: four bed rooms and two baths.

Q. And the grounds, their extent and character?

A. I have no idea of the acreage, but we had lawn all around us and a tennis court, and our vegetable gardens and orchard. Then back of that was the experimental farm.

Q. Can you give us the approximate outside dimension of the house, Mrs. Dorrance?

A. I am awful sorry, I don't think I could.

Q. Can you characterize it in any way as to size?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. That won't help us at all.

The Court: She lived in the house; she can describe it. Show her that photograph; ask her if that is the photograph of it.

Mr. Hannum: That photograph too was taken with the camera in the back door.

Mr. Gray: I ask that that remark be stricken from the record.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. How old were the oldest children in 1925, Mrs. Dorrance?

A. My oldest child in 1925—my oldest would be eighteen on the 12th of November, 1925—no, 1926—wait a minute.

The Court: Why don't you have Mrs. Dorrance give the birthday of all the children.

[fol. 566] A. She would be 18 on the 12th of November, 1925.

Q. And the next child, how old was she?

A. She was sixteen on the 17th of July, 1925.

Q. And the next?

A. The next would be—she would be fourteen the 10th of November, 1925.

Q. And the other two were—what was the next?

A. The next would be ten on the 18th of October, 1925.

Q. And then the boy.

A. The boy would be—he was six years old in 1925.

Q. Now, in 1925, did Dr. Dorrance purchase any other property?

A. He purchased a property at Radnor, called Woodcrest.

Q. And why was that purchased?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: If she knows.

Mr. Gray: If your Honor will hear me on that——

The Court: I will hear you.

Mr. Gray: I want to know whether he is asking the reason that emanated from Mrs. Dorrance's mind or the reason that emanated from Dr. Dorrance's mind. His question is not clear to me.

The Court; She didn't purchase it.

Mr. Gray: Yes, she did. She and Dr. Dorrance?

The Court: He purchased it and put the title in her name.

Mr. Gray: I haven't heard that evidence yet.

The Court: That is what Judge Lippincott said.

[fol. 567] Mr. Hannum: Yes.

Mr. Gray: Let us assume that for the sake of argument: then she is being asked the reason why Dr. Dorrance purchased it; she is asked to give the reason of a mind outside her own.

The Court: She can testify to it. Overrule the objection. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I wanted my husband to buy.

Mr. Gray: Pardon me: now she, in answer to the question, says, she knew what she wanted. Your Honor has ruled that she may tell why Dr. Dorrance purchased it.

The Court: She has the right, of course; it is evidence to show that she induced him to purchase it; and why he did it. Isn't it?

Mr. Gray: I don't think it is evidence.

The Court: I do, in this kind of a case. It is on the question of domicile, as I understand.

Mr. Gray: Yes.

The Court: I think anything that can be shown that Dr. Dorrance did as affecting his domicile, whether it was in New Jersey or Pennsylvania or any other place that he had any, is proper evidence.

Mr. Gray: Anything that he did——

The Court: Or any conversation that he had is evidence.

Mr. Gray: I don't think so.

[fol. 568] The Court: I do. We disagree as to that. Just at present, I have the deciding of it.

Mr. Gray: Yes.

The Court: I will overrule your objction and give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

The Witness: May I have the question again?
Q. (Question read: Why was that purchased?)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I am speaking of Radnor?

The Court: If you know, of course.

A. It was purchased so that our children would be more in contact with children and where they could go to school more easily with children with their prospects in life, and where we could do some entertaining for my oldest daughter who was then coming of age and who mingled with the world; and where I—may I—

The Court: Certainly, go ahead.

A. And where I would be nearer my associates.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Was that discussed by you with Dr. Dorrance?
A. Very often.
Q. What did he say about the purchase of it?

Mr. Gray: I interpose an objection.
The Court: Objection is overruled. Exception.

[fol. 569] (Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

The Court: I will let your objection cover it all.
Mr. Gray: I will interpose an objection when I think it is needed.

A. He said for years he would never go to Philadelphia or Pennsylvania to the country because it was too far from his business and I prevailed upon him to do it and it was with the stipulation that we spend so much of my time every week at Pomona farms and so much of my time in the summer there, because he thought when we did decide on Radnor as a residence that it would be too tiresome for him to motor backwards and forwards.

Q. When the property at Woodcrest was purchased at Radnor, were or were not any of the furnishings taken from Cinnaminson to that property, household furnishings?

A. None of the furniture was taken there except, I think, a chair and bed for my mother who lived with me at that time and a few little things of hers.

Q. When Woodcrest, or the Radnor property, was purchased, when you stayed at Radnor was the Cinnaminson house open or closed?

A. It was never closed.

Q. Has or has it not ever been closed since you and Dr. Dorrance first went there to live up until the time of his death, and after, to the present day?

A. It has never been closed to my knowledge.

Q. Are there servants at Cinnaminson?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

A. Yes.

[fol. 570] Mr. Gray: That is objected to, until it is shown that this lady has some knowledge whether there are servants at Cinnaminson.

The Court: Well, he can ask if she has any knowledge of it.

A. Do you mean at the present time?

The Court: Up to the time of your husband's death.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Who has managed and supervised the maintenance and conduct of the home at Cinnaminson since it was opened in 1911 and you went there to live up to and including the present time?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. I wouldn't object to the question if it was limited to a time in 1925 when this lady moved to Woodcrest, Radnor. Inasmuch as the question includes down to the present date, I must object.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Q. (Question read.)

A. I have.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Now, will you tell us about what servants you have had there during that period?

Mr. Gray: I object to that notwithstanding the witness answered that she has managed during that period of time. I have no objection to the witness testifying as to the serv[fol. 571] ants that were out there in 1925.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. Well, I don't think I can possibly enumerate all of them from 1911.

Mr. Hannum:

Q. You don't remember.

A. I couldn't enumerate them from 1911.

Q. I don't mean their names?

A. How many I had—how many servants I kept?

Q. Yes. How many have been kept there?

A. When I left to go to Radnor the winter of 1925 I left four servants in the house; a house man who took care of the porches and the furnace and did the windows. And then one waitress who was quite young left in a few weeks because she said it was very quiet, not having the family there constantly; and then I had three with the house man. And then I had them until, I think in 1928, this girl who had lived with me always—I think it was first place she had in this country—got married and went back to Ireland. And then I had two with the houseman. And then when I went over, backwards and forwards, I would always take people with me.

Q. That is by people, you mean servants?

A. Servants from Woodcrest would go with me and my children's nurse.

Q. Now, Mrs. Dorrance, did you have a cottage at Bar Harbor?

Mr. Gray: I object to that as totally immaterial and irrelevant.

[fol. 572] The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I did.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. For what years?

A. I had them for four years—1931, 1930, 1929 and 1928.

Q. When you left Radnor to go to Bar Harbor would you take the servants from Radnor to Bar Harbor as you did when you left Radnor to go to Cinnaminson, some of them?

A. I only took the servants from Woodcrest because Woodcrest——

Q. I am asking you whether you took them, not why you took them?

A. Ask me the question again.

Q. When you left Radnor to go to Bar Harbor would you take servants from Radnor to Bar Harbor?

A. All, excepting in the year 1926 when the house was kept open so that the servants stayed there that summer because we went to a hotel to live.

Q. Now, as I understand, when you left Radnor to go to Cinnaminson you took some of the servants to Cinnaminson from Radnor?

A. Yes.

Q. And when you left Cinnaminson in 1925 to go over and stay at Radnor you took some of the servants from Cinnaminson to Radnor?

A. I did.

Q. You have said that you supervised and managed Cinnaminson, and that servants were there. What about pro-
[fol. 573] viding food and so on for Cinnaminson?

Mr. Gray: What about it? I object to that. I would like him to put a question. I don't understand this "What about."

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What were the natures of the food and things supplied for Cinnaminson?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. May I have the question preceding that one read. Unfortunately, I don't understand it. If it is my dumbness I would like to acknowledge it.

(Question read.)

Mr. Gray: I object to that.

The Court: Objection overruled. I don't think it amounts to much. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I always had groceries and canned goods there and the preserving was done from the fruit trees every fall and during the summer just as formerly.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. In the winter time was the house heated—was the house heated?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you first go to the Radnor property and open it for habitation?

A. We slept there the first night the 14th of November, 1925.

[fol. 574] Q. From 1925 until 1930, how much of Dr. Dorrance's time was spent at the Radnor house. In other words, how did it run along; when did you go there and how long did you stay?

A. Well, we went there and it was our intention to go over and get——

Q. I am talking now about Radnor.

A. We spent a great deal of time there except when we were in New York or when we were in Florida where we went every winter, or when we went abroad, or when we were at Cinnaminson.

Q. When would you go to the Radnor home or house?

A. Usually at the week ends when the children weren't at school.

Q. I am talking about Radnor?

A. When would we go there?

Q. Yes, what time of year?

A. After the children's school commenced and when the parties started.

Q. Social activities began?

A. Yes.

Q. When would that be?

A. The first—about the first part of October—around the first part of October.

Q. And you stayed there, as I understand it, intermittently while they continued?

Mr. Gray: She hasn't said anything of the kind. My friend's understanding is totally immaterial.

The Court: Take out the "understanding." Now ask her.

Mr. Gray: I want more than "understanding" out of it.

[fol. 575] The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Gray: He suggested that he understood it was intermittently.

The Court: I have sustained your objection.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I understood you to say that you went there each year after you purchased the Radnor place?

A. Yes.

Q. About October?

A. Yes.

Q. I likewise understood your testimony to be that that was when the children's school opened and when the social activities began?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. How long would you stay at Cinnaminson?

Mr. Gray: Wait a minute.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. I mean at Radnor?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. I haven't the slightest objection to his asking this lady from time to time, that is from November 14, 1925, when they first occupied the place, where she was and how long she stayed there and where she went and then so on. But just the general "How long would you stay there——"

The Court: How long did you stay there?

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. How long did you stay there?

[fol. 576] Mr. Gray: After you went there in November, 1925.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. How long did you stay there. I understood it was your practice to go there in October?

A. Yes.

Mr. Gray: That is objected to unless he indicates what particular year he is talking about.

Mr. Hannum: Let her take it along chronologically, if you desire it.

Mr. Gray: I don't desire. Your Honor overrules my objection.

The Court: Yes, objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. Dr. Dorrance and I stayed during the week most all winter until the latter part of March or first part of April when we went abroad every year. Unless—we fished every year in Florida, and then we would take short trips or go to Cinnaminson.

Q. Now beginning, if we might, with the year 1925, you have said or testified that you went there in November?

A. The 14th.

Q. I assume that you went abroad—or did you go abroad in the winter of 1925, January or February of 1926.

A. We went, I think, in April of that year.

Q. You went in April?

A. Of 1926. We went every year from 1922, sometimes twice. 1928 and 1929 we went abroad twice.

[fol. 577] Q. Did you during the time from November, 1925, until April, 1926, go to Cinnaminson?

A. Why, yes.

Q. About when and how often?

A. Usually over the week-ends when the children's school——

Q. When the children——

A. Didn't have to be at school.

Q. Did the same condition apply as to 1926 and 1927?

Mr. Gray: That is too general. I must object to it.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. It did. And then always on the nights—always when they had a vestry meeting at Christ Church, we always, of course, went after that. And then——

Q. Go ahead.

A. Of course, other times.

Q. How frequently were those vestry meetings of which you spoke?

A. I think they were twice a month. I am not positive. Mr. Lewis will be able to tell you.

Q. Now, when you returned from abroad, Mrs. Dorrance, where did you go in 1926, if you recall?

A. We went to Radnor for two days. I think it was about two days. And then went to Cinnaminson with the children.

Q. And then from Cinnaminson, where did you go?

A. We went to Jamestown in 1926.

Q. And you stayed in Jamestown, until when?

[fol. 578] A. Well, some time the first part of September, I don't remember the exact date.

Q. When I say you, I mean you and the Doctor and your family. When you returned from Jamestown, where did you go?

A. We went to Cinnaminson.

Q. And stayed there how long?

A. Until the children's school opened.

Q. And then when the children's school opened, you went——

A. To Radnor.

Q. To Radnor. Now the following year, did you go abroad?

A. We did.

Q. That is, when I say you, did you and the Doctor go abroad?

A. We did.

Q. Do you recall when, about?

A. Well, it was always in the spring, because Dr. Dorrance wanted to be home for his busy season which was the summer. It was either April—some time in April that we usually sailed. Occasionally we sailed the last of March.

Q. When you returned where did you go?

A. I think that we probably did the same thing; went back and collected the children who were still at school and went to Cinnaminson and then to Bar Harbor.

Q. To Bar Harbor, to a cottage there?

A. Yes, to a cottage there.

Q. And then how long did you stay at Bar Harbor that year?

A. I would say until about the 10th of September.

[fol. 579] Q. Were the servants taken from Radnor with you?

A. They were.

Q. To Bar Harbor?

A. To Bar Harbor?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, they were.

Q. Did you occupy a house up at Bar Harbor?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Radnor open or closed?

A. It was closed for every year except the first year, because we had no place the first year to let the servants go to and I couldn't discharge them all for the summer.

Q. You couldn't turn them loose if they were any good. You wanted to keep them certainly. When you returned from Bar Harbor, where did you go?

A. To Cinnaminson.

Q. And you stayed there how long?

A. Depending upon the time that we got there until the time that the children's school opened, Mr. Hannum.

Q. You came back there until the children's school opened?

A. Yes, school opened.

Q. And then went on back to Radnor?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, from anything that you know of your own knowledge or from any statement that Dr. Dorrance ever made to you while you were at Bar Harbor that year——

A. Which year?

Q. The second year—the first year that you went to Bar [fol. 580] Harbor, did Dr. Dorrance come on East here to Camden?

A. To Camden.

Q. Or to the plant at Camden?

A. He did.

Q. From your own knowledge or from anything that he may have said to you about that, about now many times did he come down here to the plant at Camden?

A. The first year, very frequently.

Q. By frequently, by very frequently, what do you mean, how often?

A. Well, he spent more time down at Cinnaminson——

Mr. Gray: I must ask that that be stricken out. She is not asked anything about Cinnaminson. She is asked whether from her own knowledge or information given about Dr. Dorrance's home trips to Camden. I raise no objection against that. I asked that her statement that he spent time at Cinnaminson be stricken out.

The Court: Never mind about that; just ask about the Camden business.

Mr. Gray: Will your Honor strike out that portion of the answer.

The Court: Strike out the answer. Now go ahead.

A. May I have the question again.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. What I asked you was this: While you were at Bar Harbor the first summer, did Dr. Dorrance go back and forth from New Jersey to Bar Harbor?

[fol. 581] A. He did.

Q. I asked you how frequently?

A. I suppose he came about four or five times to Bar Harbor during the summer.

Q. From your own knowledge or from anything that Dr. Dorrance may have said to you, where was he, where did he live when he wasn't living at Bar Harbor?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. You may answer.

A. At his home at Cinnaminson.

Q. Did he, that year, spend more time at Cinnaminson or Bar Harbor?

Mr. Gray: If your Honor please, that is objected to. This lady was at Bar Harbor.

The Court: That is objectionable. I sustain the objection.

Mr. Gray: That involves strictly speaking the previous answer, which is precisely the same thing. This lady testified that she was at Bar Harbor; that he came to Cinnaminson.

The Court: She testified that is what he told her.

Mr. Gray: Then, on my theory, I move to strike out that answer.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception. Motion overruled. Exception.

[fol. 582] (Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Mr. Hannum: May I put my question another way?
The Court: Start another question, yes.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Where did Dr. Dorrance spend most of his time during that summer, if you know?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to. She was at Bar Harbor and couldn't possibly know where he spent his time.
The Court: If you know from anything that he said——
Mr. Gray: I object to that, because if it was from that, then it was hearsay.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. I think he spent most of his time at the factory.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Where, if you know, from anything that he said to you, or of your own knowledge was he living when he wasn't at the factory?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. At Cinnaminson, New Jersey.

[fol. 583] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Now, I understood when you came back from Bar Harbor that year, in 1927, you came to Cinnaminson?
A. We did.
Q. Then from there, where did you go?
A. To Radnor.
Q. And when did you go there, the time?
A. Well, the last of September or the first day or two in October.
Q. Were you abroad that year, 1928?
A. We went abroad every year from 1922 until my husband's death.

The Court: That is ten times she said that.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. When you came back from Abroad in 1928 where did you go?

Mr. Gray: Are you jumping from the fall of 1927 to 1928?

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Answer my question, please.
A. We went to Radnor and then to Cinnaminson.
Q. And then where?
A. And then to Bar Harbor.
Q. And from Bar Harbor where?
A. To Cinnaminson.
Q. Was Dr. Dorrance at Bar Harbor all summer that summer?
A. Is this 1928 you are speaking of?
Q. Summer of 1928, yes?
[fol. 584] A. 1928, he was not.
Q. From your own knowledge or from what he may have said to you, where was he living when he was not at Bar Harbor?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth)

A. At Cinnaminson.

By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Where did your family come when they left Bar Harbor that year?
A. To Cinnaminson.
Q. And the same and customary practice was followed when they went to Radnor at school time for the children?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, the year 1929, was or was not the same and customary practice followed as to Radnor, Cinnaminson, Bar Harbor and return or was it changed?
A. We were in Europe in the fall of 1929, and I think we returned to Radnor because I am sure, I am positive that the children's schools were open and our family was there then.

Q. Did you go to Cinnaminson that winter as had been your practice and custom?

A. Yes.

Q. What about the next year, Mrs. Dorrance, 1930.

A. 1930?

Q. Yes.

A. My husband was more often in Bar Harbor on account of his health and we left there the 14th of September [fol. 585] and arrived in Camden the 15th. We were met at the station by Mr. Oliver Willetts, and my husband rode with him directly to Cinnaminson; and I, and the small children went in another car; and it was a very hot day and my husband sat on the porch. Shall I continue——

Q. Yes.

A. My brother-in-law came out to see him in the afternoon and stayed for dinner. When he left that night he said that he really thought that he was very—in very good condition; and that if he took things quietly and didn't go to the office he was sure he would be alright; and the next morning he was sitting to be shaved and he had an attack. His brother was telephoned for and the other doctors.

Q. Was he at the plant at all, Mrs. Dorrance, from the time that you came down from Bar Harbor until he went over to Cinnaminson?

A. Do you mean when he returned in 1930?

Q. Yes.

A. He was never near there. He never went there. He went directly from North Philadelphia Station across the Palmyra Bridge. Of course, we were both in two cars. We went together, I mean we followed each other and went directly to the house. He was not at the factory.

Q. Did Dr. Dorrance ever state to you, if he lived, what was to be the eventual future of the place at Radnor?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: What was the question?

[fol. 586] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. Did Dr. Dorrance ever state to you what he was eventually going to do with Woodcrest, the place at Radnor?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Hannum: Well, if your Honor please——

The Court: Unless it has something to do with domicile.

Mr. Hannum: That is the purpose, to show what he was using it for and what he proposed to do with it after that use was at an end.

Mr. Gray: There is nothing of that kind in issue in this case. It isn't relevant to this and it is immaterial.

Mr. Hannum: My contention, of course, is, if he acquired this place for a particular purpose that he may state what that purpose is and he may likewise state, to show his intention, what he is going to do with the particular thing or property when that purpose has been served and is at an end.

The Court: In the first place, he would have nothing to do about that because the title would be in him and his wife, no matter what his intention might have been.

Mr. Hannum: That might be; but he stated what his intention was.

The Court: I will sustain the objection and give you an exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

[fol. 587] By Mr. Hannum:

Q. After Woodcrest was purchased, did Dr. Dorrance ever make any statement to you about where he considered his domicile or home?

Mr. Gray: That is objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. He said that he was always going to have his residence in New Jersey on account of his interest in his business there; and that it was too far and inconvenient for him to live permanently any place in Pennsylvania.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. When you came to Philadelphia to live in the fall of 1909, you went to 1716 Locust Street, did you not?

A. I did.

Q. And in order that you will understand my questions, all the way through when I say "you" I mean you and Dr. Dorrance, unless I indicate to the contrary.

A. Yes.

Q. You remained there, aside from such trips as you may have made until November, 1909, that is correct?

A. Remained from—I remained until November, 1909? I went there in 1909.

Q. You went there in the fall of 1909 and you remained there until March, 1911, that is correct?

A. Yes, it is.

[fol. 588] Q. And during that time or period of time, though you may have made trips, you had no other home than 1716 Locust Street, in Philadelphia?

A. We didn't consider it our home, Mr. Gray, because we spent so many months of the year down at the Brighton Hotel at that time. We always were there for a month at Easter; and then for at least two and a half months during the summer; because it was so easy for my husband to commute and my children would be at the sea shore.

Q. Easier from Atlantic City than Radnor?

A. I wasn't at Radnor then.

Q. I know that.

A. Yes, he made it in an hour.

Q. I think two witnesses said it took fifty-five minutes from Radnor, and he made it in an hour from Atlantic City?

A. He made it from the hotel. He said he made it in an hour from the Hotel Brighton to the factory and have a car meet him at the station.

Q. During the time from November, 1909, until March, 1911, had you any other permanent home than 1716 Locust street, Philadelphia.

A. None.

Q. You said in the course of your examination that during the time that you lived at 1716 Locust street you were looking around for a place; is that correct?

A. We were.

Q. During what period of time from the fall of 1909 until the spring of 1911 were you looking for a place. Was it during all of that off and on?

A. No, sir. It was the first year, because my husband purchased at that time—we—in 1910, I think it was—we decided on—and the purchase of the property belonging to [fol. 589] the Parry's, to Mr. and Mrs. Williams, who was a Miss Parry, was made. I am not exactly certain.

Q. We don't want to confuse you in the matter of dates, that has been used here, in 1909?

A. It was after we moved in 1909 with my brother-in-law that we were looking for a house and I am positive that it was when the house was being remodeled. That is the reason we went back to him the next year and inconvenienced him very much, I am very sure.

Q. Was that in 1909 Dr. Dorrance found this place at Cinnaminson?

A. I think it was 1910 after the first of the year that we found it.

Q. That was a property that was adjoining the farm belonging to the Campbell Soup Company, wasn't it?

A. No, sir. At that time the Campbell Soup Company didn't own a farm of any kind, I think.

Q. Had no farm at that time?

A. At that time, no, sir.

Q. Was there a house erected on the place?

A. The house that we live in now.

Q. There was a house erected?

A. There was a house erected on the place.

Q. And Dr. Dorrance bought the place?

A. He did.

Q. And that was as a result of your looking around for a home?

A. Yes.

Q. And then he conveyed to the Campbell Soup Company or to the Campbell Preserving Company the predecessor of the present Campbell Soup Company?

A. Yes.

[fol. 590] Q. Mrs. Dorrance, he never bought and kept the title to any property at Cinnaminson, did he?

A. No, sir.

Q. And then after this property at Cinnaminson was purchased, and then conveyed to the Campbell Soup Company, which the record of the deeds as introduced by your counsel show, these would show it was done in December, 1909?

A. Yes.

Q. You didn't move in there until some time in spring or summer of 1911, did you?

A. It was because the house was being remodeled.

Q. I am perfectly willing—I was going to ask the reason; but the fact is you didn't move in there until sometime in 1911; that is correct?

A. That is correct; the 7th of May, 1911.

Q. At that time you had how many children?

A. I had two children.

Q. When you moved into Cinnaminson and opened it as a home, how many servants did you at first have in Cinnaminson?

A. How many servants we had?

Q. Yes.

A. We had three servants; three house servants and two nurses. We had a butler, a cook and a house girl.

Q. Any others?

A. No, sir.

Q. You increased later the number of servants that you had in Cinnaminson?

A. We did, as my husband acquired more wealth.

Q. That is very natural. And up to what maximum in the number of servants did you have in later years, did you have at Cinnaminson?

[fol. 591] A. We had a butler, and a cook, a kitchen maid, and an upstairs girl; and a woman that came in and did the laundry and two governesses for the three girls.

Q. Is that all. Did you have some outside servants?

A. We had a chauffeur and a man that did the porches and took care of the furnace.

Q. What was the greatest number of servants that you had at any time while you were living at Cinnaminson, at any one time?

A. Seven, eight—eight and the houseman. By the houseman, I mean the man that took care of the fire and the porches.

Q. Did you have a gardener also?

A. We did.

Q. Besides those that you have enumerated?

A. The garden was run in connection with the Campbell Soup Company—their operations.

Q. You mean it was the Campbell Soup Company employee who kept and looked after your lawns and trees; is that what you mean?

A. I think my husband—I think that he was on the Campbell Soup Company payroll.

Q. In other words, you had in addition to him, whether you paid him or whether the Campbell Soup Company paid him, in addition to this man there was somebody else who looked after your lawns and your trees and your garden?

A. Yes. And all of his repairs to the building—I think that is the reason that he wanted it that way, because the factory paid all the repairs and did all the painting and papering and everything of that kind.

Q. In other words, he could lease it cheaper than he could run it himself?

[fol. 592] A. Yes.

Q. While we are discussing the question of expenses of the maintenance of the house, and I am talking about now down to 1925, the company paid all your telephone bills, did they not?

A. No. I think they were paid from my husband's office. I am sure; because he used to object very seriously to some of the bills.

Q. Of course, your husband's office, your husband's was the office of the corporation.

A. I think our personal bills like dressmaker bills, I think they went in—and I think the telephone bills were——

Q. Along with the other personal bills?

A. Went with the personal bills.

Q. You are not sure?

A. I am not positive, but I am almost positive.

Q. You had two telephones in the house, didn't you?

A. No, sir. We had one—one downstairs and one in our bedroom.

Q. I mean two separate numbers; I am not talking about extensions?

A. No, sir.

Q. At no time?

A. No, sir, at no time.

Q. You had gas in the house?

A. Yes.

Q. Was your gas bill paid by Mr. Dorrance or by the company?

Mr. Hannum: I don't see the relevancy of this whether the gas bill was paid by the company or by the Dorrances. What is the difference?

[fol. 593] The Court: I don't see what it has to do with it, but still, there is no objection.

A. I don't know, but I imagine it was paid by Dr. Dorrance with the personal bills.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. You have electricity in the house?

A. It was installed when the house was purchased.

Q. At some time between 1909 and 1911 when you moved in?

A. Yes.

Q. Were the electric light bills paid by the corporation or by Mr. Dorrance, if you know?

A. I don't know, Mr. Gray.

Q. Do you know what rent Dr. Dorrance paid the corporation for that property in Cinnaminson prior to 1925?

Mr. Hannum: I object. What difference does it make.

The Court: I overrule the objection. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the executors.)

By Mr. Hannum: If you know?

The Court: Yes.

A. I don't know, Mr. Gray.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. It was never told you by Dr. Dorrance?

A. No, sir.

Q. You never discussed it with him?

A. I never discussed it with him.

[fol. 594] Q. When the property was purchased at Woodcrest, Radnor, did you say the time that was purchased was 1925; in the spring, wasn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. There were several purchases made which went to make up the site at Radnor, was there not?

A. Not at the same time.

Q. Whether they were made at the same time or not, there were several purchases made of ground and buildings there, adjoining ground and building.

A. In 1925 there was one purchase.

Q. Only one purchase in 1925?

A. As far as I know.

Q. That was the purchase of what was called the Munn property; is that so?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. How many acres was in that plot of ground, do you know?

A. I think 118, I am not positive, but I think it was that.

Q. Can you tell us off hand how many acres the place ultimately grew to?

A. I imagine—I think there were something like thirty acres acquired later, to protect the boundaries; because it was a family—the Munn property was—it was a family division, then when the Mills and Mr. Paul sold to people who expected to develop their property, Dr. Dorrance bought the property that would prevent it.

Q. Thirty acres between so as to protect his own place?

A. No. At parts of his boundary.

Q. But he bought no more than thirty acres?

A. I don't think so. I mean it may have been a little [fol. 595] more. It may have been a little less. I don't know. But I haven't any idea about the exact amount.

Q. Did he make more than one extra purchase after he purchased the original property?

A. Yes, he bought twice. Mrs. Mills sold her property soon after that.

Q. You mean that he made two other purchases after the original purchase?

A. Yes. I think it was just two. He may have bought a little corner.

Q. What did he pay for the properties that he purchased originally?

Mr. Hannum: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled. I will hear it. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

A. I don't know. I think it was $350,000. I think it was $350,000. But I am not positive.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Do you know what he paid for each purchase that he purchased, which were contiguous to the original?

A. I haven't any idea but I think it was very much more in comparison for the acreage because they knew that he wanted to protect himself.

The Court:

Q. And they raised the price?

A. Yes.

[fol. 596] By Mr. Gray:

Q. Will you tell his Honor as to the entire investment that was made in regard to the house and other houses located thereon and grounds, at Woodcrest, Radnor, in all of these various parcels that he purchased?

A. I am certain I couldn't, because I have no idea how much he paid for the other properties that he bought.

Q. Can you tell me when he bought the other properties that adjoined the original property which he purchased in the spring of 1925. Can we get at it in this way?

A. Would you ask me that question again?

Q. I asked you whether you can tell me when he bought the other property. You told me that he bought several of them. Now, I will change that question to this: can you tell me when he bought the last bit of property that he added to Woodcrest, in what year?

A. I think it was the last of 1928 or 1929; but I am not positive.

Q. Mrs. Dorrance, when you moved from Cinnaminson to Radnor and slept there as you said for the first time in November on the night of November 14, 1925, did you take any servants with you?

Mr. Hannum: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

Mr. Hannum: I object to the word "move" in the question.

Mr. Gray: It is not significant.

The Court: Went from one place to another. He did move; of course he did.

[fol. 597] A. I took the two governesses and the chauffeur.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Did you take any other servants?

A. We left them all in the house.

Q. Are those two governesses no longer with you?

A. No, they are not with me.

Q. Will you give me their names?

A. One of them was named Katherine Lithgow.

Q. Is she living?

A. She is living.

Q. Can you tell me where she is living?

A. She was in Newport this summer with the——

Q. Where is she now?

A. I can tell you the family that she was with because she wrote my boy a letter and I answered it after he was operated on this summer. I am trying to think who the other woman was. I can't remember the other woman's name, but I will find out for you if you think it is necessary.

Q. Do you know where Katherine Lithgow lives now?

A. I know where her sister lives because she is working at Wanamaker's store.

Q. Where does her sister live?

A. I don't know her residence, but I could find out for you.

Q. What is her sister's name?

A. I haven't any idea. I just know that she was a sister of Katherine.

Q. The other girl you don't remember?

A. I don't know. But if you wish me I will find out for you.

[fol. 598] Q. I won't bother. How long did Katherine Lithgow, after you moved to Radnor, remain with you?

A. Two years, I should say.

Q. How long did the other remain with you?

A. I don't remember the other woman.

Q. You don't remember how long she remained with you?

A. No, sir. I really don't remember anything about her. I will ask my children what they remember.

Q. What is the name of the chauffeur?

A. Charles Hasker.

Q. Is he still with you?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you discharge the servants, or did you leave all the others at Cinnaminson?

A. I didn't discharge them. The man named Michael McDevitt, who is my butler, and whom I wished to take with me for the winter, at Woodcrest, said that the house was too large and he didn't want to undertake it and he has been living with—I don't know whether she is a Baroness or Countess von Holstein since then, you can get in touch with him there.

Q. He left?

A. He left me because he didn't want to undertake it.

Q. What were the names of the servants that you left in Cinnaminson, in 1925?

A. The cook is Mary McLaughlin.

Q. Is she living or dead?

A. I heard she was run over by a bus on the Lancaster pike the winter before last.

Q. After 1925, how long did she remain at Cinnaminson?

[fol. 599] A. She remained there three or four years, Mr. Gray. Three years, I should say.

Q. Was she discharged or did she leave?

A. She left because she had varicose veins.

Q. I don't want the reason.

A. I am telling you why.

Q. I don't want to go into that. She was not replaced with any one?

A. Yes, she was.

Q. With whom?

A. I don't remember who replaced her, but a woman—I don't remember whether it was some one came and weren't satisfactory or they didn't like the place, but the next cook that I remember that was installed was a woman named Mary Grimes.

Q. When did she come to you?

A. When?

Q. Did she succeed McLaughlin?

A. May be I had someone in between for a week or two, but I don't remember.

Q. When did Mary Grimes come there?

A. I don't know, but I can find out from the payroll.

Q. It was sometime later after the McLaughlin woman left, that is correct?

A. Yes.

Q. How long did Mary Grimes remain there with you?

A. She remained with me until during my husband's illness.

Q. You mean that she was actually at Cinnaminson up until some time in September, 1930?

A. She was there during my husband's illness and she left because she said the work was too hard.

Q. While he was there ill?

[fol. 600] A. While he was ill.

Q. You mean from the 14th of September to the 21st?

A. From the 15th of September until his death.

Q. Where is she living?

A. I have no idea. I never want to see her again.

Q. You have no idea?

A. I haven't the slightest idea. I was just about to say: naturally the house had a great many people in it; there were trained nurses and my son-in-law——

Q. While your husband was sick?

A. Yes, and one of the cooks from the factory came to assist but I don't know what was the matter with Mary.

Q. Let me take you back to 1925. You have given us the name of one of the servants that lived there at Cinnaminson as Mary McLaughlin. Now give us the name of any other servants you did leave at Cinnaminson in 1925?

A. Cecil Duffy was one; she only stayed a little while. She was very young.

Q. A week or two you mean?

A. No, sir. She stayed about two months, I suppose.

Q. Now then give me the name of any other servants that you left at Cinnaminson in 1925?

A. Mary. It has just kind of gone out of my head for a minute. She was the girl I said lived with me and went back to Ireland.

Q. We will assume that she has a last name and that she remained with you?

A. I know it almost as well as I know my own, because she lived with me for eight years.

[fol. 601] How long did she remain after you moved into the Radnor place?

A. She remained until 1928.

Q. Until 1928?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you give me the name of any other servants?

A. Bridget Kane.

Q. Before we come to Bridget Kane, let me see if I am correct about your testimony as to the other. The one girl remained with you for several months. The last girl that we have mentioned whose name has never been mentioned——

A. Mary Maroney.

Q. She remained until she was married in 1928?

A. I am not positive about 1928 but she stayed with me.

Q. And the McLaughlin girl remained with you possibly for—up until two or three years, and then you have some other in between of a temporary nature, and then the Grimes girl was with you who remained up until the time of your husband's death, or about that time, that is correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, isn't it true, other than those you have told us of, the only other inside servant that you had was Bridget Kane, isn't that true?

A. I don't understand.

Q. You have described these various women that were with you?

A. Yes.

Q. Then I asked you whether there were any other servants there in 1925 that you left at Cinnaminson. You mentioned Bridget Kane [fol. 602] A. Bridget wasn't there then.

Q. She was not there?

A. But I got her back again. She had been with me. And I got her back again when this Cecile, this little Cecile Duffy left. She was away from me about two or three months.

Q. Were there any other house servants that you left at Cinnaminson when you went to Radnor in 1925?

A. There were not.

Q. So when you left there were three?

A. Yes, and the houseman.

Q. And of those three one left in a short time and was replaced by Bridget Kane?

A. Yes. Who had been with me before.

Q. And another left when she got married and was not replaced?

A. Yes. She was replaced.

Q. By whom? Give me the name?

A. Bridget Gallagher.

Q. How long did Bridget Gallagher live with you?

A. I think it was about a year she was with me. She was with me until after my mother-in-law's death.

Q. Which was in January, 1929?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you replace her at all in January, 1929?

A. No, sir, I didn't.

Q. So that after 1929 the only inside servants that were in the house were Bridget Kane and one other?

A. After 1925?

Q. After 1929, the only other servants in the house were Bridget Kane and one other woman, is that correct?

A. Yes.

[fol. 603] Q. And that continued to last down to the time of your husband's illness?

A. Yes.

Q. Is Bridget Kane in court?

A. Are you asking me?

Q. Yes.

A. I haven't any idea.

Q. She is still employed at the house at Cinnaminson, is she not?

A. She was there Sunday when I was there.

The Court: We will take a recess until two o'clock.

Two o'clock. Court convened.

ETHEL M. DORRANCE, recalled for further cross-examination.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. When did you last see Bridget Kane? You answered that.

A. I said on last Sunday.

Q. How old a woman is she?

A. I have no idea. But she is a very old woman and has a very queer walk.

Q. Quite deaf, also?

A. I don't think that she is particularly deaf.

Q. Very hard of hearing?

A. I don't think so. I think she is a little deaf, like a person of her age would be.

Q. Is she a woman of seventy?

A. Well, from her looks I think she is, but from the amount of work she does, I think she must be younger.

Q. Since your husband died in September, 1930, down until the first of January, 1931, was there any other servant in the house than Bridget Kane?

[fol. 604] Mr. Hannum: I object; what does it amount to whether there were any others or not. We are talking about his home, if your Honor please.

The Court: This is after the death of the husband?

Mr. Gray: Yes.

The Court: What difference does it make?

Mr. Gray: So that we can make a comparison of the staff at different times.

The Court: Why should you make any comparison with any time after the death of the husband. He had nothing to do with it after that. He had nothing to do with the house personally after he died.

Mr. Gray: I agree with you, but there have been a large number of questions in this case that the husband had nothing to do with.

The Court: What is the object to this inquiry.

Mr. Gray: So that I may show first the entire history of the servant question with respect to Cinnaminson from the time that he occupied Cinnaminson in 1911 down to the present time.

The Court: Is it objected to.

Mr. Hannum: I object to it.

The Court: The objection is sustained. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Gray:

Q. When you came to Radnor in 1925, did you take any of the servants that had been connected with the property prior to your occupancy of it?

[fol. 605] A. Yes. I had a Mrs. Holgraves as housekeeper for a few months.

Q. Were there any others?

A. No, sir.

Q. Either the house or grounds?

A. My husband's personal man who didn't live in the house at Camden. I forgot him. I thought afterwards that you probably meant him when you kept asking me if there was another name. My husband's valet, a man named Herbert Whiteser, lived for eighteen years with my husband, and then he went out to Woodcrest, I think for about ten days, or two weeks. He was a married man and had three children, and when we were at Cinnaminson lived there for the entire year. My husband sent for him every morning and sent him back every night.

Q. Where did he live?

A. He lived in Camden, or outskirts of Camden, near the Burlington Pike, where the Burlington Pike came into Camden.

Q. You mean he took him with him ten days and he found that Radnor was too far from his home?

A. No, my husband took him out there to have his clothes arranged, and then he put him in charge of the cafeteria that was connected with the Campbell Soup Company and my husband got another man.

Q. My question originally was as to whether there were any other servants that had been—prior to that time—connected with Radnor, that is that were connected with Radnor before the time you occupied it, that you took over?

A. You mean house servants or people?

Q. House or ground people?

A. Well, the overseer, Mr. Charles I. Stratton.

[fol. 606] Q. He had been with the Munns, prior to that time?

A. Eight years, I think, he was with the Munns.

Q. You kept him with you?

A. He is now taking charge of Woodcrest.

Q. I say you kept him, he is still with you?

A. Yes.

Q. Is he here in court?

A. I think he told me he was excused to-day. He was here all day yesterday.

Q. Are those the only servants that were connected with Woodcrest, Radnor, before you occupied it, that you took when you occupied it?

A. I think there were some men that worked on the place. I know there were. There was a man named David somebody. There were several that I just can't remember their first names.

Q. Aside from the servants that you took with you from Cinnaminson and the servants that were connected with the place that you adopted, so to speak and kept with you, how many other servants did you add to your staff there?

Mr. Hannum: That is objected to. What is the relevancy of the servant question?

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

A. How many have I now?

By Mr. Gray:

Q. How many did you add to your staff right after you went there in 1925?

A. I doubled it because the house was twice as large.

[fol. 607] Q. How many servants did you have on the first of January, 1926?

A. I think thirteen.

Q. What is the highest number that you had there since that time?

A. Sixteen.

Q. How many have you there now?

A. Sixteen.

Q. Now, how long have you had sixteen servants on the place?

A. Mr. Gray, do you include the outside people? Because I have a great many more than that. I thought you meant the house people.

Q. You have sixteen in the house alone?

A. Yes.

Q. Let me address my question to those sixteen servants then, and ask you for how long you have had sixteen servants in the house?

A. I should say three years.

Q. In other words, from sometime in the fall of 1928?

A. I might have had them before then.

Q. But from at least since that time?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, how many servants have you on the grounds or in your place anywhere in addition to the sixteen that you have in the house?

A. I haven't the least idea.

Q. Are they numerous?

A. Yes. I think there are ten or twelve men.

Q. Ten or twelve men?

A. Inclusive of everyone.

Q. You have had these ten or twelve men since you have occupied the place?

[fol. 608] A. No, sir; not all the time. I think there are sometimes less. I know there have been less than that. I mean that is the maximum.

Q. And sometimes more?

A. Never more than twelve so far as I know.

Q. The minimum of what number are kept on the ground?

A. I would say about eight.

Q. When you were either going to Europe or to Bar Harbor or to Jamestown or to Cinnaminson or any other place, are your men or servants that are employed on the grounds allowed to remain there and work. Do they continue?

A. The house—the grounds are kept up all the time, yes.

Q. Your answer to my question is yes, that those people are employed all the year around and at all times?

A. Yes.

Q. They are not discharged or relieved temporarily?

A. Some men are taken on for the summer.

Q. Some additional men?

A. No, not more than twelve.

Q. Not more than twelve. But if you happen to have eight in the winter, in the summer time no matter where you have been four others are taken on?

A. I don't know that there are necessarily four.

Q. We won't consider that you are giving the exact figure. You gave it approximately?

A. Yes.

Q. With the sixteen servants that are in the house, instead of asking you generally about them I will be a little [fol. 609] more specific. I believe you testified that you went abroad in the spring of 1926?

A. I did.

Q. There was no change of conditions at your home at Woodcrest——

Mr. Hannum: I object to the word "home".

Mr. Gray: When I use those words your Honor will draw no conclusion. They are not intended to persuade you to such conclusion at all.

Mr. Hannum: Nor for the witness to adopt them. If he makes that condition, I have no objection.

The Court: Go ahead, Mr. Gray.

Mr. Gray:

Q. There was no change in the conditions of the servants when you went to Europe. They simply all remained there as they were, did they not?

A. Yes. I couldn't discharge them.

Q. From November, 1925, when you went to Woodcrest in Radnor until you went to Europe in April, 1926, did you go to Cinnaminson at any time?

A. Why, yes.

Q. Did you go to Cinnaminson at any time accompanied by Dr. Dorrance?

A. He always accompanied me. I mean he always went or spent the night there. He always spent the night there.

Q. You mean then——

A. We were both together in this part of the country.

Q. I am confining myself to the time between the fall of 1925 and the spring of 1926. Do you mean by that that [fol. 610] there was no time—that there were no times that you were at Cinnaminson that Dr. Dorrance was not with you; is that correct?

A. I was there in the day time alone.

Q. Yes. How many times did you go to Cinnaminson during that period of time?

A. I couldn't tell you that, Mr. Gray.

Q. After November 14, 1925, which was the first night that you occupied the property at Woodcrest, when was the first time you went to Cinnaminson?

A. I don't know, Mr. Gray.

Q. You mean that you can't tell either the first time that you went there after November, 1925, nor how many times you went there between November, 1925, and April, 1926?

A. I couldn't.

Q. Did you go there any time between November, 1925, November 14, when you occupied the property at Woodcrest and the first of January, 1926?

A. I am positive that I did.

Q. When?

A. I just told you, Mr. Gray, that I don't remember any special trips.

Q. Did you go there at any time between January 1st, 1926, and the time you went to Europe in April, 1926?

A. I did.

Q. Can you tell me when?

A. I don't know, Mr. Gray.

Q. Can you tell me how many times?

A. I don't know, Mr. Gray.

Q. Did you at any time go to Cinnaminson between November, 1925, and April, 1926, and take with you any of your servants from Woodcrest?

[fol. 611] A. Yes.

Q. How many times?

A. I couldn't—I don't know.

Q. Name any servants that you took with you?

A. The man that follows Herbert Whitezer was named Sidney something and he went with my husband always and waited on the table until he left us and got married. And then Peter Orloff came with my husband.

Q. Sidney was your husband's valet?

A. Yes.

Q. When did he leave you?

A. He was with my husband about three or four months. He is now with Mr. Jay in Washington—Mr. Augustus Jay. He was in his place at Bar Harbor last summer.

Q. Then sometime in the early part of 1926 Peter Orloff came to work for your husband?

A. I think that was about the date.

Q. Is that the only servant that you ever took with you to Cinnaminson during that period of time?

A. No. The nurses used to go there.

Q. With whom?

A. With me and the children; and when I didn't go, with my mother with the children.

Q. Your mother wasn't over there in 1925 and 1926?

A. She went over very often. She would go there with the children, very often, when Dr. Dorrance and I would dine out on the main line, and they would go over on the week-end.

Q. You mean you would remain at home and they would go?

A. I would remain at Woodcrest if we dined some place [fol. 612] on the main line Saturday night and my mother would go over with the children and the nurses.

Q. When did you come back from Europe, in 1926?

A. I don't know the exact dates, but Miss Brinton has them written down.

Q. Who?

A. Miss Brinton, Dr. Dorrance's secretary.

Q. Can you tell me the month when you returned?

A. It was either sometime in June, so far as I can remember——

Q. Did you then go to Radnor?

A. I think we went to Radnor for a few days and then went to Cinnaminson.

Q. For how long?

A. Until we went to Jamestown.

Q. For how long?

A. I don't remember, Mr. Gray.

Q. You recall that it was Radnor for a few days; now, how long were you in Cinnaminson when you went there?

A. I would say about ten days.

Q. Then to Jamestown?

A. Then to Jamestown.

Q. When did you return from Jamestown that summer?

A. Is this 1926?

Q. Yes.

A. Either just before or after Labor Day. I don't remember whether it was——

Q. Did you take your servants with you to Jamestown?

A. No, sir, we didn't. Because, I told the Court we lived in a hotel that summer.

Q. Did you leave your servants at Radnor?

[fol. 613] A. I did.

Q. Leave the house open?

A. I left the house open.

Q. All summer?

A. Yes.

Q. In other words, there was no change in conditions at Woodcrest at Radnor during the summer of 1926 than what it had been?

A. The rugs were put away, such as that.

Q. Such as you may do any summer time?

A. No, we leave the rugs down all summer when we are at home all summer. They are always down at Cinnaminson. They are never taken up except to clean.

Q. You took the rugs up and left the servants there the same as you would do at any time when the main part of the house was not being occupied in the summer?

A. Yes.

Q. And where the servants quarters were elsewhere than in the main part of the house?

A. Yes.

Q. Then when you returned from Jamestown you went where?

A. I am almost positive we went to Cinnaminson.

Q. You are not sure?

A. I am not sure. But I am almost positive.

Q. And remained there long enough to have the rugs down and fix the house in shape?

A. Not at all.

Q. Then you went to Radnor?

A. Because, Mr. Gray, August and September are very busy times at the factory and my husband, if for no other reason, always was around that part of the country, so [fol. 614] that it wouldn't take him away, to come back and forward, because he was at the office very late and he went very early in the morning.

Q. In other words, he wanted to be as close to his business as possible during that period of time?

A. Yes.

Q. When you went back to Radnor in the fall of 1926, you stayed there until you went to Europe in the spring of 1927?

A. We went fishing in Florida and then we would go over to Cinnaminson.

Q. You made visits over to Cinnaminson?

A. Yes.

Q. You said something about your mother living with you. Was it your mother or Mr. Dorrance's mother?

A. My own mother.

Q. She lived with you at Radnor?

A. She lived with me wherever I lived.

Q. She lived with you prior to the time that you went to Radnor in 1925 when you were at Cinnaminson?

A. She lived with me at the Robeson Apartments in Camden.

Q. Then from the Robeson Apartments she lived with you at 1716 Locust Street?

A. Yes.
Q. Then she lived with you at Cinnaminson?
A. At Cinnaminson.
Q. Then when you came to Radnor in the fall of 1925 she came there with you?
A. Yes, she did.
Q. Is she living, Mrs. Dorrance?
A. No, she is not.
[fol. 615] Q. How long has she been dead?
A. She died in November, 1928.
Q. Did Mr. Dorrance's mother ever live with you?
A. She lived at Cinnaminson at the time my sister-in-law was ill there.
Q. She never lived at Radnor?
A. She never lived at Radnor.
Q. Did your sister-in-law that you refer to ever live at Radnor?
A. No, sir, she never lived at Radnor.
Q. Do you know when it was that Mr. Dorrance's mother and sister, the two persons we heard referred to, went to Cinnaminson?
A. I don't know the date, but it was in August.
Q. Do you know the year?
A. I do know the year; but I don't know the date of the month that they went.
Q. August of what year?
A. August of 1926.
Q. Then they both remained there until they died, isn't that correct?
A. My mother-in-law went with my sister-in-law, Mrs. Hood, to Cinnaminson and then they thought it was very depressing for her, because she was very ill and she went to visit my other sister-in-law at San Diego for several months during that winter and then she returned to the house at Cinnaminson.
Q. That is your mother-in-law?
A. That is my mother-in-law, my husband's mother.
Q. Well, she remained at Cinnaminson until she died?
A. She.
Q. And the sister remained there, your sister-in-law, until she died, at all times?
[fol. 616] A. Yes, she did.

Q. Now from my recollection of testimony other persons gave in this case, your mother-in-law lived there until she died in January, 1929?

A. Yes.

Q. When did your sister-in-law die?

A. She died in June.

Q. 1928?

A. My mother-in-law died in January, 1929, and my sister-in-law died in June, 1928, when Doctor Dorrance and I were in Bad-Nauheim, Germany.

Q. You especially avoided going to Cinnaminson during the time that they were there?

A. I didn't especially avoid going, but there wasn't very much room with two or three trained nurses and two very ill women. Our children went there as much as they could. Dr. Dorrance and I went there because his room—our room was always kept intact.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you especially avoided going to Cinnaminson from 1926 until your mother-in-law died in January, 1929?

A. Not at all.

Q. Now the summer of 1927 you were at Bar Harbor. That is meant for a question.

A. I am just trying to think how many—no, we were at Jamestown that year.

Q. Jamestown in 1926 the first summer after you went to Radnor. Were you also at Jamestown the second summer?

A. We went to Jamestown several years. Will you just let me think a minute.

Q. Certainly—suppose we pass the question up and put it to you another way. When you went away for the sum-[fol. 617] mer in 1926 you have already told us you left the servants there and the house open?

A. Yes.

Q. When you went away in the summer of 1927, whether it was Jamestown or Bar Harbor, did you take any of your servants with you or did you leave the house open?

A. The years we were at Bar Harbor the house was entirely closed, and every servant, except the night watchman who was one of the men that worked on the place and slept in the house on account of the fire insurance, were taken with us. The years we were at Jamestown, I never took any servants except the nurses because we lived at a hotel there. We never had a cottage.

Q. Tell me how many years you were at Jamestown since you took the house in Radnor in the fall of 1925. You don't need to designate the year. How many of them?

A. I think there was one—but thinking back how many years I was in Bar Harbor—well, that must have been two years.

Q. Two years at Jamestown?

A. Yes.

Q. Three years at Bar Harbor?

A. No, four years at Bar Harbor: thirty-one——

Q. You are including 1931.

A. 1931, 1930, 1929, 1928.

Q. 1927 and 1926 at Jamestown?

A. Yes.

Q. Now then, therefore when you went to Jamestown in 1927 you not only took the governesses with you, you left the house open?

A. I left it the same way as we had the year before.

[fol. 618] Q. So in 1926 and in 1927 in the summer time, as well as on the occasion when you went to Europe that year, your house was left open and with the same servants in it as when you were there?

A. Of course.

Q. Now, so I won't have to repeat, in 1929 and 1930, on each of the occasions when you went to Bar Harbor you took your servants with you?

A. Every one of them.

Q. So that for the period of time that you were in Bar Harbor where you had a home or house, whatever you called it—so I won't trespass by using the wrong name—you took all your servants excepting, as you say, someone that was necessary to remain there as caretaker of the house?

A. Well, he wasn't a caretaker; it was just someone to sleep there. No one really lived in the house. It was just a man sleeping in a bed there as say on account of——

Q. Keeping it occupied to comply with the provision of your fire insurance policy?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they go to Bar Harbor ahead of you, your servants?

A. We were always in Cinnaminson when we went up.

Q. Now, you see, Mrs. Dorrance, that doesn't answer my question, except by inference. They went up to Bar Harbor before you went up, the servants?

A. No, sir. They didn't.

Q. What do you mean then when you said you were in Cinnaminson when they went up?

A. Well, of course, we used to send them up in the car. Then the nurses and I always went up by train and I would [fol. 619] take some of them up in the train with me.

Q. What you did was, you sent your servants up there to get your house ready. In the meantime, you went to Cinnaminson?

A. No, sir. The house was always ready. They were rented houses and they were always supposed to be ready for occupancy when you arrived.

Q. Hadn't you found it necessary to do a great many things with those rented houses to make them fit for occupancy?

A. No, sir. They were fit; they are always in perfect order.

Q. Your servants always got up there before you did?

A. No, sir. I have gotten there first.

Q. You would get along without the servants for a few days?

A. Not a few days. For a day, probably.

Q. Dr. Dorrance was not at Cinnaminson in the fall of 1929, was he?

A. When we returned from Europe, we went there.

Q. I understand you didn't go to Europe until the 5th of October. I am talking about the time prior to your going to Europe. Was Dr. Dorrance with you prior to October 5, 1929, and in the fall of that year, at Cinnaminson?

A. Yes, I went down with him from Bar Harbor to Cinnaminson before he sailed.

Q. When?

A. Well, he sailed the latter part of September. And sometime the middle of September I went down with him. I don't know the dates, Mr. Gray.

Q. Then you both, both you and he, came from Bar Harbor together?

[fol. 620] A. Yes.

Q. You said a moment ago that he left you at Bar Harbor and came down here and then went to Europe?

A. I was there with him. It might not have been the day before or the date that he sailed. But I did come down that summer either the last part of August or the first part of September and stayed a day or two at Cinnaminson with my husband.

Q. What servants did you have there then. Nobody but Bridget Kane?

Mr. Hannum: Let her answer.

A. Of course, I always had Bridget Kane. I am trying to think who the cook was then. I think it was Mary Grimes.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Then it was Bridget Kane and Mary Grimes. Those were the two that you did have at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. By the way, you say that Mr. Dorrance was there with you when you were there at Cinnaminson in the spring of 1929, also?

A. He was there after we came home from Europe and before we went to Bar Harbor.

Q. You were there before you went to Bar Harbor, at Cinnaminson, for a while?

A. Yes.

Q. For how long each year?

A. Yes, different times in different years.

Q. Won't you tell us the greatest length of time you ever stayed at Cinnaminson during any winter of this period?

A. At one time, you mean?

[fol. 621] Q. Yes.

A. I think between two and three weeks.

Q. That is the greatest?

A. Yes, at one stretch of time.

Q. Greatest since 1925?

A. I think so.

Q. And then when you were ready to come home, your house at Radnor was closed, did your servants leave at Bar Harbor the same time you did in these different years?

A. No, sir. I would leave and then they would leave.

Q. Approximately the same day, you mean?
A. Sometimes.
Q. Sometimes there was a day's difference?
A. Yes.
Q. And then went to Radnor didn't they?
A. Yes.
Q. You didn't take them to Cinnaminson?
A. I took some of them with me.
Q. Anybody more than the one man with Mr. Dorrance?
A. Yes.
Q. What other servants did you take along, did you ever take to Cinnaminson with you from Bar Harbor?
A. Annie—I can't think of her name. Well, she is—her name is Annie. She is the parlor maid. Her name has gone out of my head.
Q. The name is immaterial. You had to take her because you didn't have such a servant at Cinnaminson?
A. Yes.
Q. She is the only one?
A. No, sir.
[fol. 622] Q. Governesses?
A. Yes.
Q. The children went with you of course when you came back from Bar Harbor?
A. Yes. Unless they visited other people.
Q. Which they usually did, isn't that true?
A. No. The two older girls would go and stay with girls.
Q. Did either one of the two older girls after 1925 ever sleep at Cinnaminson?
A. Of course.
Q. Did they?
A. Absolutely.
Q. When you came to Cinnaminson and brought these servants with you in 1928, 1929 and 1930 can you tell me how long you stayed at Cinnaminson on each one of those occasions?
A. I couldn't.
Q. As a matter of fact, as soon as the servants had your Radnor house prepared, that is where you went?
A. No, sir; we didn't.
Q. But at any rate, after a short period of time you went to Radnor?

A. Yes. Different, varying times, depending mostly upon the children's school and the time of the year that we returned from Bar Harbor or Jamestown.

Q. During the winter of 1927 and 1928, during that period of time, it has already been shown by your own testimony and others your mother-in-law and sister-in-law were in the house at Cinnaminson. How many times did you go to Cinnaminson?

A. I have no idea, Mr. Gray.

Q. You can't answer the question?

[fol. 623] A. I never gave it any thought. I just used to go. I didn't keep a diary.

Q. But you can't answer the question: how many times?

A. No, sir. I couldn't.

The Court: She answered it. She said that she didn't know.

Mr. Gray: That is true.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. And during the time from the period when you left Cinnaminson in the fall of 1927 until you went to Europe in the spring of 1928, what was the greatest length of time you ever remained at Cinnaminson?

A. Mr. Gray, you say "left"—I never really left. Because everything that we had ever owned was there. We used to go backward and forward. We might spend a night——

Q. You had a great many things that you owned at Woodcrest?

A. Yes, a great many things.

Q. So that you might not misunderstand me, or quibble about the use of words: When you went out to Cinnaminson in the fall of 1927, after staying there a short time after your return from Bar Harbor and went to Radnor, between then and the time you went to Europe in the spring of 1928, what was the greatest length of time you ever remained at Cinnaminson?

A. I don't know if more than two nights at a time.

Q. Two nights was the utmost?

A. I think so.

Q. And unless you were away at Florida or Atlantic City or some other place away from this section, all of the rest [fol. 624] of the time during that period you were at Radnor. That is so, isn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. And that also applies, does it not, to the winters of 1928 and 1929, and 1929 and 1930, without my taking you in detail over them?

A. Yes.

Q. After your mother-in-law died in 1929 you were at Europe twice in 1929—in the spring and the fall, weren't you?

A. Yes.

Q. You were at Bar Harbor in the summer?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you out to Cinnaminson in between the time that you were in Europe during the Spring of 1929 and the time you went to Bar Harbor in the summer of 1929?

A. May I ask you to repeat that question?

Q. Having gone to Europe in 1929 in the spring and having gone to Bar Harbor in the summer, I want to ask you whether at any time you visited Cinnaminson between those two trips?

A. Yes. When we came home from Europe.

Q. How many servants did you have in Cinnaminson then?

A. I had two.

Q. You had Bridget Kane and the cook, didn't you?

A. Yes.

Q. Isn't that all?

A. And I think Bridget Gallagher was there. I think she left soon after—no, no, wait a minute. This is in the spring——

Q. After you came from Europe in 1929?

A. Bridget Gallagher was there as waitress.

[fol. 625] Q. When did she leave?

A. Soon after I got back.

Q. She left when you got back from Europe in the spring?

A. I think so. I am not positive about this, Mr. Gray.

Q. But this was the place that you managed and controlled?

A. Yes, I know it is the place that I was managing and controlling, but we always had reserve servants that we would bring backwards and forwards with us and it really didn't make so much difference whether they were there or not just so there was a cook and someone to keep the house clean and the beds made; and then I would bring in extra people.

Q. When you were there and stayed over night, you took your clothing with you, your necessary night things and toilet articles?

A. Not at all; I had them there.

Q. Clothes?

A. Yes.

Q. In Cinnaminson?

A. Yes.

Q. Always?

A. I always had clothes there.

Q. Since 1925?

A. I always had clothes there.

Q. House clothing or outside clothes, for wear outside?

A. I never kept any of my handsome things—any of my more formal clothes.

Q. By the way, you never gave any entertainment at Cinnaminson after 1925, did you?

A. I never gave any large entertainments. I have had [fol. 626] people for dinner. But Mr. Gray, you must remember that there were two ill women there from 1906 until——

Q. 1926?

A. I mean 1926 until January of 1929.

Q. Alright, after January, 1929, did you ever give any entertainments there?

A. At Cinnaminson?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir. I never gave any entertainments. I have had people for dinner.

Q. You mean an individual friend who might be there for dinner?

A. I mean we would have several people for dinner. I never gave a large dinner because most of our friends lived over on the main line and it was very much more convenient for them to dine with us there than to take this trip to Cinnaminson and then all the way back again.

Q. What about your old friends in New Jersey that you made between 1911 and 1925?

A. They dined more constantly when I was over there.

Q. Are any of them here?
A. Yes, Mr. Armstrong.
Q. Is he the only one?
A. I couldn't say. The only one that I can see.
Q. Have you arranged for any of the others to be here?

Mr. Hannum: Of what importance is that? I object.

A. No, I have not.

The Court: Objection sustained.

[fol. 627] Mr. Gray: Grant me an exception.
The Court: Yes.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Gray:

Q. In 1929 after you came from Bar Harbor, I have your reply that you had gone to Cinnaminson, your reply to Mr. Hannum, am I correct in that?

A. I went to Cinnaminson and then my daughter Charlotte had her coming out party on the 5th—on the first of October and I sailed to join my husband in Bad-Nauheim where my husband went from Bar Harbor. I sailed on the 5th of October. My husband left Bar Harbor and went back—I think he came—of course, he came to Cinnaminson to the factory and then he sailed for Bad-Nauheim to take the cure.

Mr. Gray: I ask that what the witness said: "Of course, he came back to Cinnaminson to the factory" be stricken from the record. I ask that what the witness said: "Of course, he came back to the factory to Cinnaminson, before he went to Bad-Nauheim," be stricken from the record. It is not responsive to any question whatever.

The Court: I refuse the motion. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

By Mr. Gray:

Q. With you?
A. With me.
Q. By the way, did you go to New York to see him off to Europe?

[fol. 628] Mr. Hannum: I object to that. What difference does it make?

The Court: She can answer that question. Overrule the objection. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

A. I did.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. But you don't know what date he sailed?

A. He sailed on the Bremen. It is a very easy date to look up.

Q. You don't know.

A. I think it was the second sailing of the Bremen from America, and that is a very easy date.

Q. When did you and Dr. Dorrance come back from Europe, the approximate time of your arrival?

Mr. Hannum: What year.

Mr. Gray: We understand each other.

The Court: You are talking about 1929, aren't you?

Mr. Gray: Yes, when I change it from that I will mention a new date.

A. I sailed on the 5th of October on the Berengaria, which usually took six or seven days and I was three days in Paris with my husband and returned on the same ship at its next sailing from Europe to America.

Q. So you were back in a little over two weeks from the 5th of October?

A. I went over, and came back with him.

Q. I suppose your daughter Charlotte's coming out party [fol. 629] that you mentioned, on the first day of October, was at Woodcrest, Radnor?

A. Yes.

Q. Two of your daughters have been married in the last two years, have they not?

A. Yes.

Q. Miss Eleanor, the oldest, was married when?

A. She was married on the first of October in 1926.

Q. Where was she married?

A. Where did the ceremony take place?

Q. Yes.

A. At the Church of the Redeemer, Bryn Mawr.

Q. Were you connected in any way with the Episcopal Church?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you connected with that church?

A. Not at all. I had never been in it before.

Q. Was Dr. Dorrance connected with that church?

A. Not at all.

Q. The ceremony was performed by whom? The Rector of it?

A. The Rector of the church, Mr. George——

Q. You had, of course, a reception, did you, at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. Where was that reception?

A. At Woodcrest.

Q. Radnor?

A. Yes.

Q. Your second daughter was married, Miss Ethel, when?

A. She was married the 29th of this May.

Q. 1931?

[fol. 630] A. 1931.

Q. On account of the death of the father, of course, there was not such an elaborate affair as the other?

A. Just the two families.

Q. Where was she married?

A. In the library of her home.

Q. At Woodcrest?

A. At Woodcrest.

Q. Was your daughter, Eleanor, of age when she married?

A. No, sir; she was nineteen.

Q. Did you go with her to secure a marriage license?

A. I had to. I think they went by themselves—my son-in-law Nathaniel Hill and my daughter, and then they came back and got me because I had to——

Q. You had to sign?

A. I had to sign.

Q. You did sign something, didn't you?

A. I signed something——

Q. Given you to sign.

A. Yes.

Q. Where was it you signed this?

A. It was some place on the Conshohockin Road in Bryn Mawr, some place along there, Bryn Mawr.

Q. In other words, you secured the license there?

A. I didn't secure it. My son-in-law, Nathaniel Hill, secured it.

Q. Where did you give, when you signed that paper, yours and your daughter's residence?

Mr. Hannum: I object. It seems this was after Dr. Dorrance's death, May 29, 1931.

Mr. Gray: No, it wasn't.

[fol. 631] A. No, this was my older daughter, Eleanor.

The Court: You are speaking of the first marriage?

A. Yes.

Mr. Gray: Mrs. Dorrance and I thoroughly understand each other.

A. I don't remember that I gave any residence. I probably gave Radnor, as I was there at the time, and I had come from Radnor.

Q. You certainly didn't give Cinnaminson, did you?

A. I don't think that I was even asked my residence. I may have been.

Q. You are in the habit of giving Radnor as your address?

A. Yes—my address?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. When your second daughter was married in 1931, did you have anything to do with the securing of the license?

A. None.

Q. None whatever. Was she of age?

A. Yes, she was twenty-one.

Q. Mrs. Dorrance, will you describe—I think I did ask you and you did describe the house at Woodcrest.

A. No, I never have.

Q. You never described it?

A. No, sir, it was my brother-in-law.

Q. Who?

[fol. 632] A. It was my brother-in-law, Dr. George Dorrance, who described it yesterday.

Q. Won't you give me a description of the house?

A. Well, it is a large stone residence with a very large center hall and two small rooms and a large room with a study, and on the left a dining room. Shall I go on to the servants' end?

Q. How large is the dining room?

A. Well, it isn't as long as our dining room at Riverton, Cinnaminson, but it is a very elaborate room, because we—it is the way it was when we bought it, you see.

Q. On the first floor there are two small rooms on one side of a large center hall?

A. Yes.

Q. And a very large living room?

A. Yes.

Q. And then the study?

A. Yes.

Q. And then the other side of the hall, is that the dining room?

A. Yes.

Q. And I suppose back of the dining room—I don't want you to go into detail—are the pantries and kitchen?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that approximately all on the first floor without giving the detail of the servants' part of the house?

A. Well, one or two lavatories.

Q. Then on the second floor. By the way, does the hall, that open hall—is the ceiling of that hall at the floor, at the second floor, or does the hall arise to the third floor?

A. It goes to the second floor. The rooms open on a bal- [fol. 633] cony on the second floor. The third floor is not connected with it, except——

Q. In other words, the hall is open to the third floor?

A. To the floor of the third floor.

Q. How many rooms have you on the second floor in that house?

A. Ten rooms.

Q. Ten bed rooms?

A. No, they are not all used as bedrooms.

Q. Some are dressing rooms?

A. And study for the children. A little study with desks in it; and then two little sitting rooms.

Q. How many bed rooms?

A. Seven.

Q. How many baths?

A. Five.

Q. On the third floor what is there?

A. There is a nursery and two smaller rooms on either side of it with baths, that one of the nurses sleeps in. One of the smaller rooms on this floor is not used at all. There is a linen room and five bed rooms, besides the nursery end, the part that I used for the nursery end.

Q. You say living room?

A. No, I said linen room.

Q. And five other bed rooms and baths up there that are not used?

A. Yes.

Q. How many other buildings have you on the grounds there?

A. There are—what was the stable, and we have two little ponies in there and the work horses; and what was the car-
[fol. 634] riage house during Mr. Paul's and Mrs. Munn's time is used as a garage.

Q. How large a garage is it; how many cars does it accommodate?

A. I think we have—it would accommodate five or six—five, I mean in rows in front. There was room for three or four in back and two or three in front, if you put them in front. It is very awkward, because it is a carriage house turned into a garage.

Q. How many other buildings on the ground?

A. There is a little courtyard and a small house that was connected that was for the men living on the place, workmen.

Q. Have you a house on the place in which your servants live?

A. No, sir. I haven't. The chauffeur lives in a house and the gardener lives in a house.

Q. Then there is a separate house for the chauffeur?

A. No, sir. They are all connected with the carriage house and the garage.

Q. Do your house servants live in that also or do they live in the house?

A. Peter Orliff, who is a married man, has one of the houses, but he also has a room in the house. He is the only one.

Q. Take your maids in the house, where do they sleep?

A. They sleep in the house.

Q. You mean there is one wing in the house that is for servants' quarters that you haven't described?

A. Yes. Over the kitchen.

Q. Over the kitchen is the servants' sleeping room?

A. Kitchen and dining room, and the cold room, and all [fol. 635] of those rooms have two stories, all the servants' rooms are over there.

Q. And the servants' rooms are over them?

A. Yes.

Q. How many servants' rooms are there in that servants' wing of the house?

A. Twelve small rooms, little rooms, with two baths.

Q. Now, are there any other buildings on the place besides those you have described?

A. There is a lodge at the gate, but it isn't in use.

Q. You mean at the present time or never has been?

A. It was at one time occupied by the butler who lived with us for about a year.

Q. I am going to show you a photograph which you may not have seen, that is marked Commonwealth Exhibit 3, and ask you whether or not that is an accurate picture of the house and part of the grounds?

A. It is. This is an outer building that isn't used. This is the squash court, we used as a junk place because no one in the family plays squash.

Q. Pointing to building in close proximity to the residence itself?

A. Yes.

Q. Are these outer buildings appearing in the upper right corner of the picture part of the buildings on your ground?

A. No, sir.

Q. Your property is next to the St. David's Golf Club, which is indicated as far as part of it is concerned, in the upper left corner of the picture, is that correct. Probably I should ask you another question first. Eagle Road is along the front of where the bottom of this picture is?

[fol. 636] A. Yes. There are the stables. You can see the little houses on either side——

The Court: What will this mean on the notes.

Mr. Gray: So far as I am concerned, it doesn't make any difference.

Q. The Gulph Road runs down what would be the right hand side of your picture and the entrance to the grounds is from the Gulph Road?

A. The Gulph Road runs back here.

Q. And it turns around and comes down there on the other side of your property. What is the name of that road?

A. King of Prussia.

Q. Do you know, Mrs. Dorrance, as to the length or depth of the house, the main house, itself?

A. I have no idea, Mr. Gray.

Q. Your house at Cinnaminson, you told me, is heated in the winter time, or rather you answered Mr. Hannum's question.

A. Always.

Q. It is hardly necessary to ask you if your house in Radnor is heated in winter time. Is your house in Cinnaminson heated by hot water or steam, or in what way?

A. It has a coal furnace.

Q. Is it hot air heat?

A. No, sir, it has radiators.

Q. Therefore, it is either steam or hot water, but you don't know which?

A. I think it is vapor, as a matter of fact.

Q. Where do you get your coal for the house at Cinnaminson?

[fol. 637] Mr. Hannum: What difference does it make.

A. It is ordered through the purchasing department of the Campbell Soup Company.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. So you had nothing to do with it?

A. I have nothing to do with that.

Q. Or whether Dr. Dorrance during his life time paid them for it, you don't know?

A. I know perfectly well that he did pay them.

Q. That was charged against him, as his brother, Arthur, said, and then he paid those bills?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you any knowledge as to the quantity of coal that has been used during any one or all of the winters in the Cinnaminson house since 1925?

Mr. Hannum: I object.

The Court: The objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

A. I haven't the least idea.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. You haven't the least idea. Where did you get your coal that is used for the heating of the house at Woodcrest, at Radnor, Pennsylvania?

A. We used oil.

Q. Where did you get your oil?

A. I don't know. That is also ordered through the purchasing department of the Joseph Campbell Company.

Q. Of the Campbell Soup Company.

[fol. 638] A. Of the Campbell Soup Company.

Q. And I suppose your answer would have to be, with respect to that, you haven't any idea with respect to the cost of it?

A. I haven't the least idea.

Q. I think you have already told me that the telephone bills for Cinnaminson are paid through the bills of the corporation, the Campbell Soup Company, in Camden, that is correct?

By Mr. Hannum: I object to that. I don't think Mrs. Dorrance said that.

The Court: I think she answered once; but go ahead.

A. I don't know, but I am sure it is charged against us.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. But you didn't pay them?

A. I signed a great many checks that Miss Brinton made out for me and she will show you those—that is that and this is the other and I signed them.

Q. Do you pay the telephone bills for the house at Cinnaminson?

A. I probably do, the same way that I do at Woodcrest. Shall I ask Miss Brinton. She is here.

Q. No, possibly your counsel will see fit to put her on. Your answer is that you don't know whether you paid the telephone bills up there or whether they are paid by the company?

A. I am sure that I paid for them, but don't know whether I make the check out to the Campbell Company or whether I paid the check to—— [fol. 639] Q. Do you know what your telephone bills have amounted to there since 1925, either giving them to me by the month or the year?

A. I haven't the least idea.

Q. Now, you have a telephone in the house at Woodcrest, at Radnor?

A. I have, two: one for the servants and one for our end of the house.

Q. Two separately numbered telephones?

A. Yes.

Q. How about the number of extensions?

A. A great many extensions: the gardener; the greenhouse, and the chauffeur's house.

Q. Do you know how many?

A. I just said the gardener's house, the garage, and the chauffeur's house.

Q. Do you have any intercommunicating system there?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you personally pay the bills for that?

A. I paid—by check.

Q. You signed the check?

A. Yes.

Q. Directly to the telephone company?

A. I think so.

Q. You don't know?

A. I am not positive.

Q. Do you know what your bills amount to there?

A. I haven't any idea. I imagine——

Q. Do you know anything about how the bills for telephone service furnished to you at Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania, compared with the bills for telephone service furnished to you at Cinnaminson, New Jersey?

[fol. 640] A. I think that the ones at Cinnaminson would be about one hundred less.

Q. What you mean is 1/100th——

A. 1/100th of what they are at Woodcrest.

Q. In other words, that for every dollar of your telephone bills for Cinnaminson during the past five years or five years from 1925 to 1930, your bills at Radnor would amount to $100?

A. I hope they don't amount to that much. You mean by the month.

Q. Take it either by the month or the year, your bills at Radnor are one hundred times as much as your bills at Cinnaminson, that is what you mean.

The Court: That is what she said.

A. Mr. Gray, with sixteen servants and other people living around——

Q. You don't have to argue it, I want the fact, to know the fact.

The Court: Explain it.

A. I was just about to say that with sixteen servants and a number of children and their friends and people living around in different houses, they are enormous. There is no way of checking up on them.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. That is your explanation and your answer?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, Mrs. Dorrance, did you pay the gas and electric bills for the house at Cinnaminson since 1925?

A. Either Dr. Dorrance's money or since his death from my income that they are paid through. Dr. Dorrance paid [fol.641] all of the bills until his death. They all went through his office, even my little personal bills.

Q. So that the gas and electric bills for Cinnaminson prior to his death in September, 1930, and since 1925, were paid by him either directly or through the Campbell Soup Company, that is correct?

A. I think so.

Q. Now, since 1925, do you know who paid the gas and electric bills in connection with Woodcrest at Radnor?

A. Why, it was through his secretary who made out the checks and Dr. Dorrance signed them.

Q. Dr. Dorrance paid them personally?

A. I imagine so.

Q. Have you any knowledge as to the amount of the gas and electric light bills, either separately or give them together in combination, that were incurred in connection with the property at Cinnaminson between 1925 and 1930?

A. I have no idea, Mr. Gray.

Q. Have you any knowledge of the amount of the gas or electric bills that were incurred in connection with the property at Woodcrest, at Radnor, between 1925 and 1930?

A. I only know that they were enormous because Dr. Dorrance used to say he was going to take all the bulbs out of the servants' quarters or the different rooms in the house because the electric bills were so heavy, and he would usually be very much annoyed about the size of the gas bills. And I know they were very large.

Q. The gas and electric bills were rendered by the same company and on the same bills at Radnor are they not?

[fol. 642] A. I don't know.

Q. I cannot place my knowledge on the record, so I have got to ask you questions. They ran from $250 a month on the average, at Woodcrest, Radnor?

A. I told you that I haven't the least idea. I haven't the slightest idea.

Q. Isn't it a fact, that the greatest electric light and gas bill that you ever had at Cinnaminson since 1925 is seven dollars?

A. I really don't know. I have no idea.

Q. Well, whether you have any knowledge of your gas and electric bills you have knowledge of the purchases that were made for food consumption in the house, that is true?

A. What is that?

Q. Whether you have any knowledge of the gas and electric light bills or not, you have personal knowledge of the bills that were incurred for food purchased for consumption in the house at Radnor, that is true? You have a knowledge of that?

A. Yes.

Q. You did your own marketing?

A. I did until this past year.

Q. You dealt at one time with Mitchell Fletcher?

A. I have never dealt with Mitchell Fletcher except for a very few little fancy groceries.

Q. You dealt with Mitchell Fletcher for a consecutive period of five months when your family bill for groceries averaged over four hundred dollars a month for Radnor?

A. I did not.

Mr. Hannum: I object.

The Court: She has answered.

[fol. 643] Mr. Hannum: What is the importance of this?

The Court: I don't know. I imagine it is important or Mr. Gray wouldn't ask the question.

Mr. Hannum: I object to it.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

A. Mr. Gray, I want to tell you something, a butler that we had who did our marketing—we tried him in doing our marketing for a little while—had a rooted objection to the smaller stores and during his regine of marketing, he may have incurred some bills at Mitchell Fletcher's. I know that he used to like to go there, but they were never—that purchasing was never done by me.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. What year was that you had that Butler?

A. I imagine it was in the winter of 1926-1927.

Q. When did you go to Europe in 1927?

A. When did I go in 1927?

Q. Yes.

A. I went in the spring.

Q. Do you know what month?

A. It was either April or May, we always went in the spring.

Q. Now I ask you whether or not your bill for groceries from Mitchell Fletcher Company, for groceries delivered to your house at Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania, in the month of March, 1927, was not $469.29?

A. It might have been.

[fol. 644] Q. I ask you whether or not your bill for groceries delivered by Mitchell Fletcher Company to your house at Woodcrest, Radnor, in April, 1927, was not $528.30?

A. I have no idea.

Q. It might have been?

A. It might have been.

Q. I ask you whether your bill for groceries delivered by Mitchell Fletcher Company to your house at Woodcrest, Radnor, in May 1927, was not $405?

A. In May? It might have been. I know that is one reason that the Butler and I——

The Court: Never mind.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. I ask you whether or not your bill for groceries delivered by Mitchell Fletcher Company in June, 1927, to Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania, didn't amount to $427.38?

A. I don't know.

Q. It might have been?

A. It might have been.

Q. I ask you whether or not your bill for groceries delivered by Mitchell Fletcher Company to Woodcrest, Radnor, in July, 1927, didn't amount to $332.62?

A. It might have been.

Q. Now, aside from those groceries that were purchased at Mitchell Fletcher Company, ever since 1925, outside of this particular period of time that you say the butler purchased these goods, you have done your own marketing?

A. I have done it with the exception of the time that this man, Bibbie, did the purchasing and at the present time when butler Oloff does it.

[fol. 645] Q. Can you tell me anything about the average of your bill for food that went into the house at Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania, during the period of time since 1925, under your purchasing?

A. Do I have to answer that?

The Court: If you can.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. On the average during those five years, if you can?

A. I would say that would be between four and five hundred dollars a month.

Q. On the average during those five years?

A. I should say so. It is feeding something like twenty some people a day—twenty-five people, practically, with guests.

Q. When you were at Bar Harbor, did you have a bank account?

Mr. Hannum: I object to that. What is the importance of this?

The Court: Objection sustained. I don't see that it makes any difference.

Mr. Gray: The purpose of the question, so that your Honor may understand, the purpose of the question is: if she states that she did have a bank account, to ask her as to whether or not when she left her signature there she didn't give her address as Radnor, Pennsylvania.

The Court: You can ask her if she left her signature there.

[fol. 646] By Mr. Gray:

Q. Did you have a bank account and left your signature at Bar Harbor?

A. I left my signature but I don't think I left my address.

Q. Let me assist you on that——

Mr. Hannum: Let me see that.

Mr. Gray: It is only a letter to me.

Mr. Hannum: Then I object. I object to his cross-examining her from a letter to you. Whatever the paper is from which he is cross-examining her, it is not evidence. I object to it.

Mr. Gray: I have no way of putting my notes in evidence.

The Court: I don't see that it makes much difference. I will overrule your objection, Mr. Hannum, and give you an exception.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Was your local address Mizzentop, Bar Harbor, Maine?

A. For one year.

Q. I am talking about the year, 1928, that is correct. According to you the first year you went to Bar Harbor after you went to Radnor—1926 and 1927 in Jamestown. 1928 in Bar Harbor?

A. Yes.

Q. Was your local address then in Mizzentop, Bar Harbor, Maine?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you not on a card in your handwriting set forth [fol. 647] there, Mrs. Dorrance, your local address, Mizzentop, Bar Harbor, Maine, and then the permanent address, Radnor, Pennsylvania?

Mr. Hannum: I object to that.

The Court: What did you say?

A. I was going to say I might have.

Mr. Hannum: I object to that and ask that it be stricken out.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

By Mr. Gray:

Q. You had an account at Strawbridge and Clothiers in the City of Philadelphia, did you not, a credit account, at Strawbridge and Clothiers in the City of Philadelphia?

The Court: You mean she had individually?

Mr. Gray: Yes.

The Court: How does that bear on the question of this man's residence?

Mr. Gray: Because he wrote a letter to Strawbridge and Clothier.

The Court: Dorrance himself?

Mr. Gray: Authorizing the opening of an account and giving residence at Radnor, Pennsylvania.

The Court: That is alright.

[fol. 648] By Mr. Gray:

Q. You had an account at Strawbridge and Clothier, did you not?

A. We had an account there, and then Dr. Dorrance became annoyed with them about something and he withdrew the account. But I wanted the account opened and he opened it in my name. But he said he would not have anything to do with it.

Q. In other words, the account was originally in his name?

A. I don't know whose name it was in.

Q. But it wasn't in your name?

A. I don't know.

Q. At any rate, as to whose name it was in, the doctor became annoyed?

A. Yes.

Q. And after the doctor became annoyed it was opened in your name?

A. No. It was suspended for a number of years.

Q. It was then suspended and then opened in your name?

A. Yes. When I said I would like to have it there, and he arranged it.

Q. Was there any account at Strawbridge and Clothier, for your information, which apparently was opened in your name in April, 1926—were all of the goods purchased on that account thereafter delivered to Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania?

A. I think so.

Q. And when that account was opened, do you know whether Dr. Dorrance wrote a letter with reference to the opening of the account?

A. No, sir; I don't.

[fol. 694] Mr. Gray: I think we only have three exhibits. I ask that the stenographer mark this paper as Commonwealth's Exhibit 4.

Mr. Hannum: Will you please show that to the Court before showing it to Mrs. Dorrance.

The Court: Well, that is alright. Is this objected to.

Mr. Gray: I am not offering it yet.

The Court: You can ask Mrs. Dorrance about it.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. I ask you whether or not the signature contained upon this paper that is marked Commonwealth's Exhibit 4, is the signature of Mr. John T. Dorrance, your deceased husband?

A. That is quite correct.

The Court: Is this to be offered in evidence now?

Mr. Gray: I cannot offer it yet. It is not my case yet.

The Court: Well, let it rest until you get to your side.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. You had an account with Bonwit Teller?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know when that account was opened?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Was it opened by you?

A. I suppose, so; yes, of course.

Q. Is it not a fact that all of the purchases that were [fol. 650] made at Bonwit Teller's from the time it was opened down—I was going to say to the present time—but I don't care about the present time—down to the date of Dr. Dorrance's death, were delivered to Radnor, at Woodcrest?

A. When was in opened?

Q. It was opened in January, 1928, so far as I can see from these papers?

A. Mr. Gray, I had almost all of the bills sent to Woodcrest, Radnor, because I was there most of the winter. That is when I did most of my purchasing and it would be very ridiculous for me to say "Charge to Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and send to Radnor."

Q. I agree with you?

A. When I was there during the winter months and when I did my purchasing.

Q. I am asking you whether or not all of the goods which were purchased at Bonwit Teller's during the period of time when this account was opened in January, 1928, were not delivered to Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania?

A. I couldn't say.

Q. Did you ever have any of them delivered to Cinnaminson, New Jersey?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know, Mrs. Dorrance, whether they were at any time delivered to Cinnaminson, New Jersey?

A. Packages, of course, I had.

Q. From Bonwit Teller's?

A. I couldn't say. But I have had numerous packages delivered there at Cinnaminson.

Q. Tell me from what store, and what time and what was in the packages aside from groceries locally delivered, were [fol. 651] delivered to Cinnaminson, New Jersey, during the period of time from 1925 to 1930?

A. Wanamaker's store.

Q. Delivered to Cinnaminson?

A. Yes.

Q. When?

A. I couldn't tell you the dates.

Q. What kind of articles?

A. Kitchen utensils; tea-towels, and different articles of clothing were delivered there.

Q. Clothing?

A. Yes. I think so.

Q. Tell me, did you ever have delivered from Wanamaker's store any clothing of any kind to Cinnaminson?

A. I don't know.

Q. Can you name a single thing, and tell me when it was, that Wanamaker ever delivered to Cinnaminson?

A. What do you mean by clothing?

Q. Anything, from 1925 to 1930?

A. Well, I know I bought two vegetables dishes not very long ago.

Q. That is since Dr. Dorrance's death?

A. But I can't remember. How could I remember little fiddling purchases.

Q. It is you that makes the statement, therefore, I am forced to ask you as to the details?

A. I don't know, Mr. Gray.

Q. In other words, you can't give me a single thing that was purchased at Wanamaker's and delivered to Cinnaminson at anytime between 1925 and 1930, can you?

A. I can't think, Mr. Gray.

[fol. 652] Q. You had an account at Bailey, Banks and Biddle?

A. Yes.

Q. And that account was in your name?

A. I imagine so, I don't know.

Q. Aside from the things which you purchased there and had delivered to someone else because they were presents of some kind, all the things which you purchased for yourself or for any member of the family during the period of time between 1925 and 1930 were delivered to Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania, were they not?

Mr. Hannum: I object. This is an account, as I understand it, of Mrs. Dorrance.

Mr. Gray: Correct.

Mr. Hannum: What difference does that make?

Mr. Gray: You offered the agreement as to residence in evidence.

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Do you want the question read?

A. I bought very few things for my children or myself at Bailey, Banks and Biddle, except at Christmas time. As the house is very large and we used to spend Christmas there since Dr. Dorrance purchased it, naturally, the things were sent to Radnor.

Q. The fact is, they were sent there. That is the point I am making.

A. Yes. They were sent there.

Q. Did you have the Christmas card at one time which [fol. 653] you sent out which had on it the house at Radnor, Pennsylvania

A. No, never.

Q. Mrs. Dorrance, you stated that in September of 1930 you came down from Bar Harbor with Dr. Dorrance, is that correct?

A. I did.

Q. On the same train, at the same time?

A. At the same time, in the same train. Same time in the same train.

Q. And he went to Cinnaminson in one car and you went to Cinnaminson in another?

A. I went with one car and he went with Mr. Oliver Willetts who met us at the station.

Q. Did Mr. Willetts drive the car?

A. He drove the car.

Q. Was there anybody else besides Mr. Willetts and Mr. Dorrance in the car that he was in?

A. I don't know whether Peter Oloff was with him or not in the same car.

Q. Did Oloff come down from Bar Harbor with you?

A. He did.

Q. That was on the 14th of September?

A. No, sir. I think it was the 15th. We left the 14th.

Q. That was the 15th. I think you said that after he got to Cinnaminson that Dr. Dorrance, your brother-in-law and the other doctor was sent for, is that right?

A. No, sir. I didn't say that.

Q. Tell me what you did say.

A. I said that my brother-in-law came out and had dinner with us that night.

[fol. 654] Q. By your brother-in-law, you mean Dr. George Dorrance?

A. Yes, Dr. George Dorrance.

Q. Then you said that the next morning Dr. John T. Dorrance had an attack of some kind?

A. He was being shaved and he had an embolism, if you know what that is.

Q. You sent then for what doctor?

A. We telephoned to his brother and then we telephoned to Dr. Ulmer, of Moorestown.

Q. Did they both come there?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. Now that would have been the morning of the 16th of September, 1930?

A. Mr. Gray, we left on Sunday and arrived in Philadelphia on Monday. It was the next morning—it was the following morning that Dr. Dorrance——

Q. It was Tuesday morning?

A. It was Tuesday morning. I think I am correct in saying it was the 16th, but I am not positive.

Q. What date of the week did Dr. Dorrance die?

A. Sunday morning.

Q. And the date that he died was the 21st?

A. The 21st.

Q. Therefore we fix the preceding Sunday as the 14th. Monday is the 15th and Tuesday is the 16th.

A. Yes, I am correct.

Q. Did you leave on Sunday from Bar Harbor?

A. Yes, we left on Sunday.

Q. You got here on Monday.

A. Yes.

Q. The morning of Tuesday, the 16th, Dr. Dorrance was attacked as you have indicated?

A. He was.

[fol. 655] Q. Did you remain at the house all the night of Monday, September 15th?

A. I did.

Q. When did you next leave the house at Cinnaminson after the night of Monday, September 15, 1930.

A. When I attended my husband's funeral.

Q. Not until then?

A. Not until then.

Q. You were there all that week.

A. Absolutely.

Q. Do you mean that you remained there all of that week without going back to Radnor?

A. I never was in Radnor that week.

Q. Did Dr. John T. Dorrance at any time during that week leave to go to his place of business?

A. He did not.

Q. At any time?

A. He was in bed, unconscious.

Q. Since Tuesday the 16th?

A. Yes.

Q. Until his death?

A. Semi-conscious.

Q. Until his death?

A. Until his death, yes.

Q. So that Dr. John T. Dorrance was at no time after his return from Bar Harbor with you on the 15th, that is the arrival here on the 15th of September, 1930, at his place of business in Camden, New Jersey?

A. He was not.

Q. How much money was expended by you and Dr. Dorrance for the purpose of furnishing Woodcrest when you moved into it in 1925?

A. I have no idea, Mr. Gray.

Q. Can you give us any approximation?

[fol. 656] A. I haven't the slightest idea.

Q. You did a great deal of the purchasing?

A. I did a great deal of the selecting. My husband paid the bills.

Q. But you have no idea as to amounts?

A. Not the slightest.

Q. How many of the servants that were with you when you first came to Woodcrest in 1925 are still with you?

Mr. Hannum: I object to that. Haven't we been all over this. What is the importance of this?

The Court: Objection overruled. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Executors.)

A. The house servants do you mean?

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Yes.

A. Two maids, Catherine Piza—two maids and the house man.

Q. That are still with you?
A. Yes.
Q. Are they in Court here?
A. I don't see them. Not to my knowledge.
Q. Have you arranged to have them here?

Mr. Hannum: I object. What difference does it make?
The Court: That objection is sustained. Exception.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

[fol. 657] By Mr. Gray:
Q. One of your children went to school near Woodcrest, or more than one of them, that is so?
A. Two of them.
Q. One of them goes to the Montgomery school?
A. My boy.
Q. That is John T. Dorrance, Jr.?
A. Yes.
Q. You only have one boy?
A. Yes.
Q. When did he enter the Montgomery school?
A. He entered the autumn of 1925.
Q. Did you arrange his entrance or did Dr. Dorrance?
A. I couldn't say. I think it was I.
Q. Did you sign an enrollment card for him?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Did you give an address for the boy and for yourself?
A. I probably gave Radnor as he was going to be out there that winter. But I am not sure.
Q. Do you belong to the Art Alliance?
A. I have been elected to it but I have never been inside of the door.
Q. As a matter of fact, you had been a member of the Art Alliance prior to 1925?
A. I don't remember. I have never been inside of the doors, as I mentioned. I have had no active connection with it.
Q. Can you tell me how long you have been a member, whether you haven't been a member prior to 1925?
A. I haven't any idea.
Q. You have no idea how many years?
[fol. 658] A. No, sir.
Q. I ask you whether it isn't a fact that you were a member of the Art Alliance since prior to 1925 and having given your address at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, whether after 1925, you didn't have your address changed to Radnor, Pennsylvania?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you enter any of your children in the School of Industrial Art in Philadelphia?

A. I think our second daughter took sewing lessons some place and she might have entered herself. But it was when I was abroad one year. I am not sure.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you yourself gave the address when your daughter went to that school, to the school authorities, as Radnor, Pennsylvania?

A. To what school, Mr. Gray?

Q. To the School of Industrial Art at Broad and Pine Streets, Philadelphia?

A. I did not.

Q. Are you connected with the Emergency Aid, Philadelphia?

A. I worked during the war for the tobacco committee.

Q. Is it not a fact prior to 1925 you gave your address at the Emergency Aid as Riverton, New Jersey, and that later on you had that address changed to read at Radnor, Pennsylvania?

A. I know I must have given either Riverton or Cinnaminson, because I had no other home at that time. But I don't remember having changed it. It may be—I might have sent checks from Radnor to it and they may have [fol. 659] changed it. But I don't think I ever wrote and had my address changed. I might have though.

Q. You belong to the Acorn Club of Philadelphia?

A. I do.

Q. When did you join it?

A. I was put up for membership a year ago last spring, I think.

Q. That would be spring of 1930?

A. No, 1929, I must have been put up.

Q. Two years ago last spring?

A. Yes.

Q. This is the fall of 1931?

A. Yes. And I was elected a member last autumn.

Q. What address did you give them at the Acorn Club when you signed your application for membership?

A. I didn't give them any address. The people that proposed me put my name up—must have given my address.

Q. Have you given your address to the Acorn Club or any of its officers?

A. I never have. I paid my dues when I was elected.

Q. I am not questioning that. But do you know whether you gave to them your address as Radnor?

A. I never did.

Q. Do you know the name—you secured the license for the marriage of your daughter, Eleanor, from a Justice of the Peace, in Bryn Mawr, did you not?

A. My son-in-law did.

Q. You had to go there?

A. I signed a paper saying that her father and I knew that she was being married.

[fol. 660] The Court: That is you gave your consent to her marriage?

A. I gave my consent to her marriage.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Can you remember the name of the Justice of the Peace—was it William H. Buckman?

A. I am not sure.

Q. You carry a bank account locally in the neighborhood of your home at Wayne or Radnor?

A. I keep a little money there, for my household bills.

Q. In Wayne?

A. Yes.

Q. What address did you give them?

A. Radnor.

Q. Your name, and the name of the other members of the family appears in the social directory, does it not?

Mr. Hannum: Social what?

Mr. Gray: Social Register.

A. They do.

By Mr. Gray

Q. And the information which is contained in the entries in the social register is obtained or was obtained in this instance from either you or Mr. Dorrance, isn't that so?

A. Mr. Gray when we went there—when we first moved to Woodcrest, my oldest daughter was making her debut and we wanted her address—it is just an address catalogue——

[fol. 661] Q. You mean the social register is——

A. My husband and I wanted an address that her mail would reach her during the social season. Dr. Dorrance wanted to have both our two places listed. So I don't remember how I have given it in. I am sure I gave our winter address that winter of 1925 as Radnor, because I wanted my child to get her mail promptly.

Q. You have seen the social register for that year?

A. Yes.

Q. I ask you whether or not the sole entry with regard to your address in the social register as appears for the year 1926 contains your husband's name and your own, and then Miss Eleanor's, Miss Ethel's, Charlotte K., and presumably your mother's, your mother's, Mrs. Lewis N. Mallin Ckrodt, whether the address given in the social register for that year was not Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania?

Mr. Hannum: I object, unless it is shown Mr. Dorrance gave it, her husband.

The Court Objection overuled. Exception.

A. I don't remember, but I probably did give it because it was for the same reason that I gave it the year before. There is a summer and a winter social register, and I think for those two years we listed in the summer social register at Riverton or Cinnaminson and in the winter, at Radnor.

Q. Isn't is a fact, Mrs. Dorrance, that the only residential listing which you or your husband or any member of your family had in the social register for the years 1926, 1927 and 1928 was Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania?

[fol. 662] A. I am not sure about the last year. I think for the first two years that is so.

Q. Isn't it a fact that in the year 1929, for the first time since 1925, you had added to the entry in the social register, "Phone No. 1, River, Cinnaminson"?

A. "Phone No. 1, Riverton".

Q. "River" is the abbreviation as appears in the Social Register.

A. I think Dr. Dorrance wanted that. The other years he asked them to list the two.

Q. Were you with him when he did that, Mrs. Dorrance?

A. He told me that he did.

Mr. Gray: Then I ask that that statement of the witness, not being responsive to my question, to the effect that Dr. Dorrance asked them to do certain things at a time when she was not there, and he having told her of that and that was her only information, be stricken from the record.

The Court: I refuse to strike it out.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

A. Dr. Dorrance——

The Court: Never mind unless he asks you.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. I ask you whether or not it isn't a fact that the social register shows that in 1925 you were listed at Pomona Farms, Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and that it was not until 1929 that Cinnaminson was mentioned and in the years 1929 and 1930 it was only mentioned as an additional ad- [fol. 663] dress following your main address at Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania.

A. The reason it was listed this way in the later books——

Q. Answer the question first——

A. Will you put the question——

Q. Please answer, and then you can make any explanation you want.

A. It was.

Mr. Hannum: Now you make any explanation you please.

A. Both addresses were always given, but they wouldn't put them in until Dr. Dorrance paid twice for the books. Do you understand what I mean—by giving two subscriptions.

The Court: They were willing to list her in two places. In other words, the more books you bought, the more you got listed in the Social Register.

A. The more times.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Then according to your statement, Dr. Dorrance, having sent to the Social Register both addresses, they became Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania, for publication in 1927, and 1928—1926, 1927 and 1928; is that it?

A. Dr. Dorrance put his preference for the winter months as our residence at Radnor for the reason I gave that he wanted his children to get what invitations they received promptly instead of having them either forwarded, or having to go over there, or having them wait for us until we happened to be at Cinnaminson over night, or stay there.

[fol. 664] Q. Now, it is a fact, is it not, that in the first place, your residence given in 1925 to the Social Register was Cinnaminson, New Jersey, that is right?

A. Yes.

Q. And it is a fact that the residence and only residence given in the social register for 1926, 1927 and 1928 was Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania; that is a fact.

The Court: Address you mean.

A. It was what they published.

Mr. Gray: I said residence.

A. Your name and just the address.

Q. Residence.

A. It just said address.

Q. I didn't say address.

A. It just gave the name with your telephone number and address for the winter months and the summer months.

Q. Then let me put it this way: instead of using the word residence, the only address or addresses that was given in the Social Register for the years 1926, 1927 and 1928 was Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania, that is correct?

A. I believe so. I don't remember.

Q. Mrs. Dorrance, when did you first know about the fact that your husband's estate had had a tax assessment made against it in Delaware County by the State of Pennsylvania and that an appraisement of the estate had been filed?

Mr. Hannum: I object to that. What difference does it make?

[fol. 665] The Court: I sustain the objection.

Mr. Gray: I will state my reason for it.

The Court: What bearing has it?

Mr. Gray: I want to show that the conduct of this good lady and her family with regard to the matter of residence as between Cinnaminson and Woodcrest, Radnor, Pennsylvania, had a decided change after this litigation started. In other words, I am going to show that she went back to Cinnaminson to try to show that Cinnaminson was her home, after this litigation started.

The Court: What difference does it make so far as he is concerned.

Mr. Gray: That is what I am trying to show, because of the fact that it will show that he actually came, as we shall contend, to Woodcrest, Pennsylvania to make this his home; it is where he lived. But for the purpose, which it isn't necessary for me to go into now, but which I think I have made clear in my cross-examination of certain witnesses, he desired to keep his legal home, if he could do so, in the State of New Jersey; that he had no actual home in the State of New Jersey; and that when this lady came into the hands of counsel, who may properly advise—understand and advise what did constitute a legal home, whatever efforts could be made for the purpose of strengthening the thought that Cinnaminson was the legal home of John T. Dorrance during his life time were put into effect.

The Court: Is that all you have to say.

Mr. Gray: Yes.

[fol. 666] The Court: Objection is sustained.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Mr. Gray: Your Honor's ruling will apply to any other questions along the same line.

The Court: That only applies to one question, of course. If you have any others, go ahead.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Since your husband's death, you have taken back some of your servants to Cinnaminson from Radnor?

Mr. Hannum: That is objected to.

The Court: Objection sustained.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Mr. Gray: I am in some doubt in the face of your Honor's ruling. Does your Honor intend to rule that I am to ask no questions concerning things that occurred since her husband's death.

The Court: Anything that she has done?

Mr. Gray: Anything that she may have done in connection with her household since her husband's death.

The Court: If it is her, I will sustain the objection.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

Mr. Gray: In that event, your Honor will give me an exception to your ruling indicating that I am to ask no further questions along that line.

(Bill sealed for the Commonwealth.)

[fols. 667-669] Mr. Hannum: We will withdraw Mrs. Dorrance for the moment.

The Court: Are you through with Mrs. Dorrance?

Mr. Gray: I state right now, I have no objection to counsel calling back any witness.

The Court: Mrs. Dorrance you may take your seat.

Redirect examination.

By Mr. von Moschzisker:

Q. You have already been sworn?

A. Yes.

Q. And you have qualified as a lawyer in the State of New Jersey. Now, Judge, have you with you Chapter 168 of the Laws of New Jersey of 1927, page 325?

A. I have, sir.

Q. What is that Act?

A. That is an Act concerning the domicile of a married woman, approved March 28, 1927, of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey.

Mr. von. Moschzisker: I think that has already been marked, Exhibits D and E of the Executors.

The Witness: No, I think not.

Mr. von Moschzisker: No, I am mistaken about that, strike out that. That is something else we marked as exhibits.

By Mr. von Moschzisker:

Q. Now, Judge, I hand you here certain photostatic copies. What are they?

(The witness examined the papers.)

The Witness: That is a photostatic copy of page 325 of the laws of 1927.

By Mr. von Moschzisker:

[fol. 671] Q. Well, have you the photostatic copy of this one I just called your attention to?

A. At the bottom of that page is a copy of chapter 168 of the Laws of 1927, being an Act concerning the domicile of a married woman, approved March 28, 1927.

Q. Of the Laws of New Jersey?

A. Laws of New Jersey.

Mr. von Moschzisker: Your Honor will recall the testimony given here before, that at the time that agreement was made this Act was in contemplation, and the Act was enacted immediately thereafter.

Will you mark that as the proper exhibit, whatever it may be?

(Photostatic copy of Married Woman's Act of 1927 was marked Exec. Ex. 2, 11-5-31.)

Mr. von Moschzisker: If Your Honor please, I offer that.

Mr. Gray: The Act you have just read?

Mr. von Moschzisker: Yes.

Mr. Gray: I am objecting to it as totally immaterial and irrelevant, sir.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Gray: Exception. I say to counsel I have no objection because it is using a photostatic copy for the record, rather than offering the whole——

The Court: Oh, no; objected to because the evidence is irrelevant.

Mr. Gray: That is all; only on account of the materiality.

[fol. 672] By Mr. von Moschzisker:

Q. Now, Judge, I hand you another photostatic copy of one of the laws of New Jersey. What is that?

(The witness examined the document.)

The Witness: That is a copy of pages 847 and 848 of the Laws of New Jersey of 1918, being the first two pages of chapter 236 of the Laws of New Jersey for the year 1918.

By Mr. von Moschzisker:

Q. Now, the section——

A. Being an Act for the assessment and collection of taxes, revision of 1918.

Q. And section 201 covers what?

A. Section 201 covers the poll tax provided for under chapter 236 of the Laws of New Jersey of 1918.

Q. Now, you testified once before there have been some amendments to that Act. Have you looked it up to find whether any of those amendments affect the poll tax?

A. There are no amendments to section 201 of that Act referring to poll tax.

Q. And these two photostatic pages you have here have that section 201 on them?

A. They do.

Q. You have the book containing the entire law there before you?

A. Yes, sir; chapter 236 extends from page 847 of the Laws of 1918 to page 882, inclusive.

Mr. von Moschzisker: If Your Honor please, the only relevant part here to our inquiry at present is this section [fol. 673] 201, which I will show to Your Honor, and then I offer that.

Mr. Gray: You are only offering 201?

Mr. von Moschzisker: Well, I will have to offer the Act, and call attention to 201 on the record, that part of it, unless you want the whole Act spread on the record.

Recross examination.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Let me ask, Judge Lippincott, whether or not section 201 is affected by any of the later provisions in other sections of this Act.

A. No, sir.

Q. And whether section 202 of this Act is not the, or was not then, at least, the provision in force with regard to the taxation of real and personal property held by any residents of the State of New Jersey at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In other words, it simply contained a provision that, "All property, real and personal, within the jurisdiction of this State, not expressly exempted by this act or excluded from its operation, shall be subject to taxation annually under this act at its true value, and shall be valued by the assessors of the respective taxing districts." That provision was continued in section 202, was it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And, as a matter of fact, under the Act all real estate and all personal property except United States Government bonds and securities, State bonds and securities, and [fol. 674] possibly property held for charitable and religious purposes was subject to tax under that Act?

A. They were subject to tax under that Act excepting as exempted by section 203.

Q. Yes, well, I have in a general way quoted the exemptions in section 203, haven't I?

A. Not——

Q. Not all of them?

A. Not all of them, no.

Q. But, at any rate, as far as the general holdings of an individual resident of the State of New Jersey were concerned, he had to pay tax on all the real estate and all the personal property he owned, except United States and State Bonds and securities, didn't he?

A. Legally, yes; practically, no.

Q. All right, that is, if he had enough influence; that is the practical part of it, isn't it?

A. No.

Redirect examination.

By Mr. von Moschzisker:

Q. What do you mean by "practically, no"?

A. I mean by practically, no, that the assessments in New Jersey under this Act do not practically include stocks and personal estate mentioned in the Act, but the personal estate is not, as a matter of fact, generally included.

Q. Well, I don't just get that, Judge. Why isn't it included practically, you say?

A. It isn't included because the, under the section 202 of the Act the personal property, which includes stocks, is [fol. 675] taxable at the ordinary tax rates of the various municipalities. That tax rate varies from approximately three and a half percent up to, in some cases, as high as six and a half percent, and if the stocks of corporations owned by New Jersey residents were taxed under this Act at their value, market value, the tax upon those stocks would be far more, in many instances, than the income from those stocks, and, therefore, assessors usually assess only the tangible property owned by the tax payer.

Q. Well, now, Judge, when you talk about stocks, do you mean foreign stocks, or do you mean domestic stocks?

A. Foreign stocks. The domestic stocks are exempted by section 203.

Q. In other words, Campbell's Soup Company stock would be exempted so far as Dr. Dorrance is concerned if he was a resident of New Jersey?

A. Yes, sir, because it is taxed,—the property of the Campbell Soup Company is taxed under the New Jersey taxing acts direct.

Mr. Gray: Will you let me cross-examine?

Recross-examination.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. Show me the section under 203, or that part of the section 203 of the Act that exempts the taxes, exempts the corporation stock of corporations organized under the laws of New Jersey from the payment of this personal property tax.

A. If you—Mr. Andrews, if you will give me the Laws of 1927—there was an amendment.

[fol. 676] Q. All right, I will come to that, I don't intend to stop you from telling us about that, but tell me whether or not under the Act of 1918, first, and then we will approach the other Act, there is such an exemption?

A. Mr. Gray, that Act was amended by the law——

Q. I understand it was amended. I will put my question a little bit differently, and we will come to the amendment in a moment, so there will be no misconstruction of the situation. My first question is, is there such an exemption as we have been discussing in the Act of 1918?

A. There is.

Q. Will you show it to me, or read it to me, either one?

A. Section 203, subdivision 5.

Q. Yes, what does it say?

A. The shares of stock of any corporation of this State which by contract with the State is expressly exempted from taxation, and the shares of stock of any corporation of this State the capital or property whereof is made taxable to and against the corporation.

Q. Well, do you mean when it was amended that that was carried into the Act of 1927, or was it changed?

A. There is no change made in that section.

Q. All right, so that the Act of 1918 with reference to the exemption of stock of New Jersey corporations where the property of the corporation itself is within the State and is taxable still remains——

A. Yes.

Q. —as the law in the State of New Jersey today?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. Now, then, that exemption does not apply, however, to the holding of foreign securities, that is to say, [fol. 677] stock in any other corporations than those that are corporations under the laws of the State of New Jersey, is that so?

A. No, sir.

Q. And under the section 202——

Mr. von Moschzisker: You said, "Is that so?"; he said, "No, sir." I think he means "Yes, sir."

The Witness: They are not.

By Mr. Gray:

Q. They are not exempt?

A. They are not exempt.

Q. Yes. Now, under section 202 that I again direct your attention to, I ask you whether or not it is not so that when that property is, as you have indicated, subject to taxation, whether that Act, section 202, does not provide that it shall be valued by the assessors of the respective taxing districts?

A. It provides——

Q. So provides, doesn't it?

A. Shall be subject to taxation.

Q. Yes.

A. And shall be valued by the assessors of the respective taxing districts.

Q. And then it continues to say that "Property omitted by the assessors may be assessed as hereinafter provided," doesn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So there is provision for the assessors to assess such personal property, and a provision for taking care of such personal property as he otherwise may omit from their valuation?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 678] Q. That is right, and of course, Judge, you mean to say when the assessors have upon them a duty of valuing this property, and, of course, they are assessors for the purpose of assessing the tax, they are supposed not only to value it but to assess the tax on it, aren't they?

A. They are.

Q. Yes, and when you say practically, you simply mean that they do not obey the law; that is what you mean, isn't it?

A. They do not obey the law.

Q. That is right, and then there is a provision in that section 202, is there not, to the effect that "All property shall be assessed to the owners thereof with reference to the amount owned on the first day of October in each year, and the persons so assessed for personal property shall be personally liable for the taxes thereon"?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Gray: All right, that is all.

Mr. von Moschzisker: Well, now, I will have these marked and offered in evidence.

Mr. Gray: You are offering the Act?

Mr. von Moschzisker: Yes.

Mr. Gray: I am objecting to it as immaterial and irrelevant to this issue.

The Court: The objection is overruled.

Mr. Gray: Of course, I want to understand this, if my friends on the other side are offering it to show that Dr. Dorrance by being a resident of the State of New Jersey [fol. 679] had to pay a larger tax than he would have to pay had he been a resident of the State of Pennsylvania during his life, and thus show that there was no motive in his declaring that he was a resident of the State of New Jersey notwithstanding the fact that his home was in Radnor, why, then it may be admissible, but I do not suppose you are offering it for that purpose.

Mr. von Moschzisker: We are offering it in connection with the tax bill, the poll tax bill.

Mr. Gray: Well, the objection, then, I won't withdraw.

The Court: In other words, you are offering it for what it is worth.

Mr. von Moschzisker: We are offering it for what it is worth, yes.

(Photostatic copy of pages 847 and 848 of Chapter 236 of the Laws of 1918 of the State of New Jersey was marked Exec. Ex. 3, 11-5-31.)

Mr. von Moschzisker: Then will you mark that?

(Copy of petition of John T. Dorrance for permission to hold the position of officer or director of more than one carrier, and order entered, was marked Exec. Ex. 4, 11-5-31.)

Mr. von Moschzisker: If Your Honor please, this document is from the Interstate Commerce Commission. When one is elected director of more than one railroad, it is called an interlocking directorate, and it has to have permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission and that is certi- [fol. 680] fied under the Act of Congress, and it is simply offered as a declaration as to residence which Dr. Dorrance made when he put in the application for that permission.

Mr. Gray: Well, Your Honor, let me say a word to Judge von Moschzisker off the record.

(Discussion off record.)

Mr. Gray: I must object. Have you offered it?

Mr. von Moschzisker: I now offer it.

Mr. Gray: I object to it, if Your Honor please, and there are several reasons that can be stated to Your Honor. In the first place, it is not important in connection with this issue, by reason of the fact it is a matter that occurred in 1924, and though it is certified by the Secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission as being a true copy of something that is on file, I submit to Your Honor that that does not make it admissible in evidence; and it is also certified as being a true copy of a petition that is on file, alleged to be signed by John T. Dorrance, but there is absolutely no proof that that petition signed by some one is signed by some one in the handwriting of John T. Dorrance. I must object to it.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Gray: Exception.

Mr. von Moschzisker: Does Your Honor desire any argument?

The Court: The objection is overruled.

Mr. von Moschzisker: Will you mark that as an exhibit?

[fol. 681] (Certified extract from the Census of 1930 was marked Exec. Ex. 5, 11-5-31.)

Mr. von Moschzisker: Now, if Your Honor pleases, this is a census of 1930, certified copy, officially certified, showing that the census taker put them down at Cinnaminson, New Jersey. Those other things give the history, where they were born, and so forth.

The Court: All right. It is objected to, Mr. Gray?

Mr. Gray: I haven't heard it offered, sir. I want to be in order.

Mr. von Moschzisker: I now offer the exhibit last marked in evidence.

Mr. Gray: It is objected to, if Your Honor pleases. It appears on its face to be a certification by the Director of the Census, that it is a true copy of an original return from the family of John T. and Ethel M. Dorrance. May I direct your attention to the fact, if Your Honor pleases, such certification does not make it admissible in evidence.

Secondly, this is neither a declaration of John T. Dorrance, nor of any member of his family, but simply a report made by somebody appointed as Census taker who went out and secured certain information and filed it with the Department.

The Court: What do you say to that, Judge?

Mr. von Moschzisker: I think it is an official document, part of the governmental records, a Census which must be taken every ten years under the laws of the United States, and such a record as any statement or fact therein must be assumed to be correct.

[fol. 682] Mr. Gray: I am afraid if my friend still had his position as Chief Justice he would not rule that.

Mr. von Moschzisker: I am not through yet, Mr. Gray. You were told not to stop the witnesses. Now, don't stop the lawyers.

Mr. Gray: All right.

Mr. von Moschzisker: Now, the laws, of course, are known to Your Honor and known to the rest of us, so we don't have to cite the laws.

The Court: I am not sure of that.

Mr. von Moschzisker: Well, we will assume it is known to all the rest of us, I know it is known to Your Honor, and, of course, we know that the law requires a census not only to be taken, but the census taker to ascertain from each citizen as to where his residence is, so when a residence appears upon such a document the assumption of the law is that that is in the nature not only of a record which is correct, but that the information was given by the citizen, and to that extent it is a declaration;——

The Court: I see no presumption that the information was given by the citizen.

Mr. von Moschzisker: —and that the citizen has notice of it and could change it if he desired to, and as there is no change, it stands for what it is worth.

The Court: Well, I know, but I know and you know that census takers do not always get the statements from the people whom they enumerate. I never was asked by a census enumerator where I lived. Whenever they got my residence they came up and got it from somebody else, and as [fol. 683] this does not purport to be and does not show to be a statement of Dr. Dorrance I will exclude it.

[fol. 683] Mr. von Moschzisker: Note an exception to the exclusion.

Mr. Gray: My recollection is that when Mr. Effingham B. Morris was upon the stand there was offered in evidence the records of the Girard Trust Company, and that I agreed with the other side that they might substitute photostatic copies.

Mr. von Moschzisker: That is correct.

Mr. Gray: I believe that there was an objection to their admission in evidence on the record, and that Your Honor ruled against me and granted me an exception. If not, I desire to have the record note an objection to the admission only for that purpose. That is Your Honor's ruling.

The Court: All right, objection overruled.

Mr. Gray: I have no objection to the photostatic copy.

The Court: Objection overruled. I will admit them.

Mr. von Moschzisker: These are simply offered as the photostatic copies referred to by Mr. Gray, to the substitution of whatever was brought here to court at the time when the original exhibits were offered.

Mr. Gray: That is all right.

Mr. von Moschzisker: Mark that.

(Certified copy of non-resident hunting license of the State of Maryland was marked Exec. Ex. 6, 11-51-31.)

[fol. 684] Mr. von Moschzisker: I now offer in evidence Executors' Exhibit Number 6, which is a hunter's license issued to Dr. John T. Dorrance on October 4, 1926, in the State of Maryland, County of Harford, and which shows that Dr. Dorrance then gave his address as Riverton, New Jersey.

Mr. Gray: I must differ with my friend, the Judge, when he says that it shows that the defendant gave his address as Riverton, New Jersey.

Mr. von Moschzisker: I will withdraw that. The license shows Dr. Dorrance's address as Riverton, New Jersey.

Mr. Gray: Correct. This is not a declaration of Dr. Dorrance. It is not an application for a hunter's license.

The Court: Is it a resident's hunter's license, or foreign?

Mr. Gray: A non-resident's state hunting license.

The Court: Non-resident's?

Mr. Gray: Non-resident's state hunter's license.

Mr. von Moschzisker: Issued by Maryland.

Mr. Gray: Issued by Maryland, but, if Your Honor please, this is a declaration by no stretch of the imagination of Dr. Dorrance as to his place of residence. This is a copy of a license issued to him that contains certain information on it. It has no relevancy in this case. It is not competent testimony. I object to it for that reason.

The Court: The objection is sustained.

[fol. 685] Mr. von Moschzisker: Note an exception.

Mark that.

(Certified copy of commission to John T. Dorrance, as member of a commission to investigate the question of compensation for personal injuries or death resulting from operation of motor vehicles, etc., was marked Exec. Ex. A-26 (No. 2).)

Mr. von Moschzisker: If Your Honor please, the paper I now hold in my hand is what we conceive to be a properly certified copy under the Act of Congress of a commission and the papers in connection therewith issued to Dr. Dorrance by the Governor of the State of New Jersey at the time he was appointed on that Commission to revise the laws as to the operation, the compulsory insurance in operation of motors. Mr. Gray made several objections when this was originally offered, some of them being on the substance of things, but, making an exception to his usual rule in this trial for some reason or other, he did object to the form of the certification. Now we have put it in such form as we conceive there will be no objection about it, and we offer this in substitution for the copy we offered before and which Your Honor admitted.

Mr. Gray: I still object. It is not properly certified and exemplified under the law, and I make the same objections as to the substance of the thing itself, that it is not admissible, not relevant, not material to this issue, and not competent testimony.

The Court: The objection is overruled.

Mr. Gray: Exception.

The Court: Exception.

[fol. 686] Mr. von Moschzisker: Now, then, a substitution, mark that the same way.

(Certified copy of record of hunting and fishing license, State of New Jersey, was marked Exec. x. A-38 (No. 2).)

Mr. von Moschzisker: This paper I now hold in my hand is a substitution for Executor's Exhibit A-38, and I think I should call Your Honor's attention to the fact that this is a fisher's license by the State of New Jersey itself.

The Court: Well, what was the other license that you had?

Mr. von Moschzisker: Well, the other was a hunter's license issued by the State of Maryland.

The Court: Oh, I thought it was issued by the State of New Jersey.

Mr. von Moschzisker: No. This one is issued by the State of New Jersey. I assume, I have not looked at that, that is a resident of New Jersey certifying as to his own residence, to a certain extent.

The Court: I will admit that. Any objection?

Mr. Gray: I am making objection to it first because it is not properly certified or exemplified secondly because it is totally immaterial and irrelevant to this issue, and because it is incompetent testimony.

The Court: The objection is overruled.

Mr. Gray: Exception.

Mr. von Moschzisker: Now, these are substitutions.

[fol. 687] The Court: Let me see that other license I excluded.

Mr. Gray: I do not think Your Honor did exclude that, did he?

The Court: Yes, I did. I sustained your objection. I dont know whether that excluded it, or not, I presume it did.

Mr. Gray: It would.

The Court: It was intended to, anyhow.

Mr. Gray. Yes. My memory, as counsel reminded me a little while ago, is not so good.

Mr. von Moschzisker: I can see a distinction, Your Honor, as between the State of Maryland issuing one——

The Court: I thought it was a license issued in New Jersey.

Mr. von Moschzisker: It may be that the State of Maryland certifying would not have the same effect as the State of New Jersey.

The Court: I don't know.

Mr. von Moschzisker: I am satisfied to keep that out. It doesn't make any difference.

The Court: Well, then, I will over-rule the objection and admit that.

Mr. von Moschzisker: You decide to admit it?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. von Moschzisker: His Honor has decided he will admit this in evidence.

Mr. Gray: Your Honor will grant an exception?

[fol. 688] The Court: Yes.

(A copy of Exec. Ex. 6, certified copy of non-resident hunting license of the State of Maryland.)

Mr. von Moschzisker: I will offer these under new numbers to take the place of Exhibits 28-36.

The Court: Weren't they all admitted?

Mr. Gray: They were all admitted. Our friends have been a little afraid they do not comply with the law. They are offering them again in a different way.

The Court: All right.

Mr. von Moschzisker: This is simply to get the certification as we think undoubtedly right.

The Court: If you think I was wrong——

Mr. von Moschzisker: No, we are not convinced Your Honor was wrong, we are trying to save Your Honor the trouble of passing on the question, where you are wrong or right. Well, they are admitted, as I understand, and exception to Mr. Gray.

Mr. Gray: You are offering them. I am objecting to these, if Your Honor pleases. They are certified copies of the record appearing in the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles' office in the State of New Jersey, showing what purport to be applications for motor vehicle licenses. I am objecting to them on the ground that they are not properly certified or exemplified.

I am objecting to them on the ground that there is no identification of the individual who made the application with the J. T. Dorrance in this case.

I am objecting to them on the ground that there is noth- [fols. 689 & 690] ing to show J. T. Dorrance signed these applications.

I am objecting to them on the ground if there was, they are totally immaterial and irrelevant. The testimony is incompetent.

The Court: The objections are all overruled.

Mr. Gray: Exception.

(Certified copies of applications of J. T. Dorrance for auto driver's licenses, dated November 25, 1927, November 15, 1928, and November 25, 1929 were marked Exec. Ex. 7, 11-5-31.)

Appendix to Respondent's Brief

(Abstract of Record)

Following is a transcript (chronologically arranged) of the record in the State Tax Department with page references thereto as filed in this court. (Except the printed record before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, which appears later herein.)

May 6, 1925: Letter from decedent to Continental Storage Warehouses, Philadelphia, stating that he proposes maintaining his home at Cinnaminson, N. J., and will always keep it open (R. 177).

November 14, 1925: Letter from decedent to Henry G. Hershfield, Chairman New Jersey Commission, expressing his willingness to attend any call made for a meeting of the [fol. 694] Commission (R. 178).

December 4, 1925: Letter from decedent to Arthur W. Sewall, President, New England Society of Pennsylvania, stating that his residence at present is in the State of New Jersey, and he proposes to continue the same therein. He assumes he is therefore not eligible to membership in the New England Society of Pennsylvania (R. 179).

January 5, 1926: Letter from decedent to H. W. Bryan, Secretary, Radnor Fire Company of Wayne, Pa., stating that he is maintaining his home and residence in Cinnaminson, N. J., and on that account may not be eligible to membership in that fire company. States that he does not anticipate spending a great deal of time at Radnor (R. 180).

January 11, 1926: Agreement between decedent and his wife (one of the executors) both recited as—

"of the Township of Cinnaminson, County of Burlington, and State of New Jersey."

Recites the purchase by them, on April 22, 1925, of the Radnor residence, and that decedent and his wife—

"are still residents of 'Pomona Farms,' in the Township of Cinnaminson, in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, and still keep their house open at that place."

but are now occupying the Radnor property—

"and intend to occupy the same during a portion of each year."

The parties mutually agree:

1. "That the residence of said John T. Dorrance and Ethel M. Dorrance, his wife, shall continue to be at 'Po- [fol. 695] mona Farms,' in the Township of Cinnaminson, County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, as heretofore, notwithstanding the fact that * * * (they) may occupy during a portion of each year said lands and premises known as 'Woodcrest' * * *" (R. 174).

2. That neither party will change his or her residence from "Pomona Farms," Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, to any other place, or undertake to do so without the written consent of the other.

3. That neither party will vote in any other voting place or election district than that in which said "Pomona Farm," at Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, shall be located without the written consent of the other. The parties being now voters and are registered as such therein.

4. That neither party will file his or her income tax return in any other internal revenue district than that in which said "Pomona Farms" shall be located.

5. That neither party will claim to have any other residence than that at "Pomona Farms" in the Township of Cinnaminson, County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, without the written consent of the other.

6. In case of the death of either party the will of the one so dying shall be offered for probate in the office of the Surrogate of the County of Burlington in the State of New Jersey, without objection by the other as to the jurisdiction of said Surrogate to admit said will to probate, unless prior to the death of the one so dying it shall be mutually agreed between the parties in writing that their [fol. 696] residence shall be changed to some place other than the Township of Cinnaminson, County of Burlington (R. 176).

7. This agreement shall continue in full force and binding effect upon both parties unless changed in writing, signed by the parties (R. 176).

January 15, 1926: Letter from decedent to Francis B. Davis, expressing his view of the importance that the present Legislature (N. J.) should appoint a competent committee with ample funds to employ counsel with broad experience in corporation laws of the various states in order that New Jersey may present suggestions to the Legislature for the repeal of some and the enactment of other laws to avoid losing the incorporations of our New Jersey citizens. He mentions instances where corporations would ordinarily be incorporated in New Jersey, but were incorporated elsewhere on account of New Jersey laws. He assures Mr. Davis that there is nothing selfish in his suggestion, as he is very proud of being a citizen of the State of New Jersey and anxious that our state should lead the other states in the Union (R. 181).

February 3, 1926: Letter from decedent to Thomas D. Chalfant, Assessor of Radnor Township, Pa., acknowledging receipt of "Return of Personal Property," subject to taxation for the year 1926, which was sent to him by the tax collector with a request that he make it out and return it, sworn to, within ten days. Decedent returns the form with his affidavit endorsed thereon showing that he is a resident and voter in Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, and that he intends to continue to vote and reside therein; that he is advised that under these circumstances, not being a resident of Penn- [fol. 697] sylvania, he is not subject to taxation therein upon personal property shown upon the form (R. 182)

September 28, 1926: Letter from decedent to the society editor of the Philadelphia Ledger referring to a published statement therein that decedent's daughter would entertain at "Woodcrest," Radnor, on October 10th, and stating that the statement was not correct as there would be no entertainments on that date "either at 'Woodcrest,' Radnor; or at my home, 'Pomona Farm,' Cinnaminson, N. J." (R. 183).

December 6, 1926: Letter from decedent to Laura Bishop, Burlington, N. J., stating that he is perfectly satisfied with the servants "I now have at my home at Cinnaminson" (R. 183).

January 10, 1927: Letter from decedent to Reverend Richard Gurley, St. Martin's Church, Radnor, Pa., stating that "inasmuch as we are maintaining our residence at Cinnaminson, N. J., and membership in Christ Church, Riverton, N. J., in which church I am Senior Warden, it is not Mrs. Dorrance's or my desire that we or our children be included in the membership of St. Martin's Church, Radnor" (R. 184).

April 1, 1927: Letter from decedent to Thomas A. McCarter expressing a desire to correct the impression contained in Mr. McCarter's letter of March 29, 1927, that decedent is no longer a Jerseyman.

"For twenty years I have maintained a residence in New Jersey, and still do. Our home at Cinnaminson, N. J., is always open, and Mrs. Dorrance, the children, and I get a great deal of pleasure spending a portion of each month there, except when we are in Europe" (R. 185).

[fol. 698] April 4, 1927: Letter from Mr. McCarter to decedent, expressing his pleasure to hear that decedent was still a legal resident of New Jersey (R. 185).

June 8, 1927: Statement by decedent that his residence on his customs' declaration is Cinnaminson, N. J.; that the matter of residence was taken up at the meeting of the directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company that day at which he stated that he was not a resident of Pennsylvania (R. 186).

June 8, 1927: Signed declaration of decedent declaring that he is a resident of Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, and a voter in said township and voted therein at the General Election held in November, 1926; that he has not in any way changed his residence since that time and intends to vote there as a resident of said township at the next general election (R. 186).

November 6, 1927: Letter from decedent to John M. Scott, of Philadelphia, acknowledging a letter of the day before inviting decedent to become a member of the Pennsylvania Society of the Sons of the Revolution. Decedent expresses doubt as to his eligibility therein "as I am a resident of Cinnaminson, Burlington County, New Jersey, and propose to maintain my residence there" (R. 187).

March 15, 1928: Letter from decedent to Owen J. Roberts, of Philadelphia, acknowledging receipt of a letter of a previous date inviting decedent to attend a dinner at Philadelphia to discuss public charity for Pennsylvania and stating,

"I am a resident of the State of New Jersey, and would [fol. 699] consider it quite out of place for me to discuss methods by which residents of Pennsylvania should collect and distribute their charity" (R. 188).

April 27, 1928: Letter from decent to Eldridge R. Johnson, stating that he hastens to correct an impression of Mr. Johnson that decedent is non-resident in the State of New Jersey, stating——(R. 189).

"I am now, and have been a resident of the State of New Jersey continuously since I first voted, and Mrs. Dorrance, our children and I propose to continue to hold our residence in New Jersey, where we maintain a home in which we keep a minimum of four servants throughout the year. Also, we will continue to be more interested in the welfare of our State.

"While at present my family do not go as often as they desire to Cinnaminson, this is due to the illness of my mother and sister, who live there, and our fear that the children might annoy the invalids. This year we expect to spend at least two months at home in Cinnaminson."

May 15, 1928: Last will and testament of decedent (R. 192-228).

Probated in Burlington County, New Jersey, October 2, 1930.

Preamble recites decedent "of the Township of Cinnaminson, in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey" (R. 192).

7. Gives to wife, Ethel M. Dorrance, all his clothing, furnishings, household goods, etc., and "all of the furnishings and furniture and household goods and household effects of every kind and description, namely used by my wife and myself in the house where I now reside in Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, N. J. * * *" (R. 194).

[fol. 700] 8th. Gives to wife all automobiles, horses, wagons, vehicles, etc. (R. 194-195).

9th. Gives to his son his library (R. 195).

10th. Gives to his wife $100,000.

12th. Gives to his executors in trust, $200,000 for the benefit of his mother (R. 196).

13th. Gives to his executors, in trust, $360,000 and directs the income thereof to be paid to his three sisters (R. 196-197).

14th. Gives all the rest, residue and remainder of his estate to his executors, in trust, for purposes therein mentioned. The payment of proceeds to his wife and children in the proportions therein directed, namely, two shares to his wife, two shares to his son and one share to each of his four daughters, payable monthly. This trust to continue for a period not exceeding 16 years, with directions for distribution of principal upon contingencies therein mentioned (R. 197-211).

16th. Appoints his wife, Ethel M. Dorrance, his brothers, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., and Arthur C. Dorrance, and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, executors (R. 211-212).

28th. Directs that if any person entitled to any interest whatever in the estate under the provisions of this will, shall take, or on whose behalf are taken, any proceedings to contest or prevent its probate, such person shall receive [fol. 701] no interest, income, or benefit whatsoever under the will, and any legacy or interest given or bequest to such person by the will is revoked (R. 223).

33rd. Directs that if any of its executors therein named shall fail or refuse to make application to the Surrogate of the County of Burlington, or to the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey for the probate of thi will within thirty days after decedent's death, such executor or executors shall cease to be executors or trustees, and his appointment thereof shall cease and be void and of no effect and he revokes their appointment as executors and trustees (R. 226).

35th. Directs his executors and trustees to appoint "my attorney, William D. Lippincott," as proctor in connection with the settlement of the estate and the administration of the trusts under the will (R. 227-228).

36th. Directs that the provisions for the bequests to his wife made in the will are to be accepted by her in lieu of dower (R. 228).

October 29, 1928: Letter from decedent to William M. Elkins, saying:

"I am legally a resident of New Jersey. My business is located here in New Jersey, and all of my principal interests are centered in this State. I feel that my obligations toward New Jersey charities are at least ten times as great as are my obligations in Pennsylvania—and these latter are very far from being limited to the Welfare Federation." (R. 190.)

September 5, 1929: Letter from decedent to Harrison S. Morris, chairman of Finance Committee, Philadelphia, ad-

[fol. 702] vising him that decedent is a resident of the State of New Jersey (R. 191).

March 20, 1930: Letter from decedent to William D. Lippincott, inquiring whether the law permitting absentee voting in New Jersey is still in effect and stating that decedent and his wife are especially anxious to vote in Cinnaminson Township, the place of their residence, in the coming election and want permission, if possible, for absentee voting (R. 191).

October 1, 1930: (Received August 17, 1931.) Petition signed and sworn to by Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance, and Ephraim Tomlinson, President of Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company to the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, entitled "In the matter of the probate of the last will and testament of John T. Dorrance, deceased, petition for probate and letters testamentary," showing that the signers of that petition are the executors named in the last will and testament of decedent dated May 15, 1928; that he died "at his residence in Cinnaminson Twp., in the County of Burlington, and State of New Jersey, on Sunday, the 21st day of September, A. D. 1930"; that he left him surviving as his heirs at law and next of kin the following persons (R. 157):

[fol. 703]

	Kin	P. O. Address
Ethel M. Dorrance	Widow	Riverton, N. J.
Elinor Dorrance Hill	Daughter	993 Park Ave. New York City
Ethel M. Dorrance, Jr.	"	Riverton, N. J.
Charlotte K. Dorrance, 18 years	"	"
Margaret W. Dorrance, 14 years	"	"
John T. Dorrance, Jr., 11 years	Son	"

The petitioners applied for probate of said will and for letters testamentary thereon (R. 158). Attached to the petition for probate is a certificate dated August 15, 1931, of the Surrogate of Burlington County, N. J., that the foregoing is a true copy of the petition for probate and letters testamentary, filed in the office October 1, 1930 (R. 158).

October 2, 1930: (Received August 17, 1931.) Certificate of the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey,

"That Ethel M. Dorrance, Arthur C. Dorrance, both of Burlington County, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., of Phila. County, Pa. and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, a corporation of the State of New Jersey, the executors named in the last will and testament of John T. Dorrance, late of the County of Burlington, deceased, and that they proved the same before me, and are duly authorized to take upon themselves the administration of the estate of the testator agreeably to said will" (R. 161).

Attached to the foregoing certificate is a certificate of the Surrogate of Burlington County, dated August 15, 1931, that the foregoing is a true copy of letters testamentary dated October 2, 1930, issued to decedent's executors [fol. 704] therein named, recorded in Will Book 61, p. 266, in the office of said Surrogate (R. 162).

May 2, 1931: (Received May 5, 1931) Letter from William D. Lippincott to William D. Kelly, State Supervisor, Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau of New Jersey, stating that as Mr. Kelly has been previously informed, the executors have received from the register of wills of Delaware County, and agent for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for the calculation of the transfer inheritance taxes, a notice and appraisement, a copy of which is enclosed, claiming that decedent was a resident of Radnor Township, Pennsylvania, and claiming taxes due Pennsylvania, amounting to $31,465,200.00, based upon a valuation of $199,999,000.00, which valuation Mr. Lippincott says was fictitious and without foundation save in newspaper reports.

States that the writer is informed that an appeal from that appraisement may be taken within 30 days from the date of the appraiser's report, to the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pa. which is empowered to determine the valuation and liability and that thence and appeal may be taken to the superior or supreme court of Pennsylvania.

States that he annexes to the letter a statement of the facts as to decedent's residence in New Jersey, and expresses his opinion that under those facts there is no doubt whatever that if the question of decedent's domicile were to be decided in New Jersey courts, decedent's domicile must be found to be in Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, under the New Jersey decision, upon that subject (R. 165).

[fol. 705] States that the appeal from the attempted taxation by Pennsylvania is unfortunately to be heard in Pennsylvania courts. States that, without reflecting in any way upon those courts, the prize is a rich one for Pennsylvania to secure, and that the Pennsylvania authorities will not stop at anything in their efforts to secure an adjudication upholding the assessment.

States that decedent had acquired a domicile in New Jersey many years prior to his death, and he intended to retain his domicile in New Jersey up to the time of his decease.

Expresses the opinion that the statement of facts annexed to that letter and the copies of documents and correspondence also annexed, conclusively show decedent's legal residence to be in New Jersey.

States that in view of the large amount of tax involved and that the executors deem it essential that there should be an ultimate right to have the case on the Pennsylvania tax heard on appeal in the United States Court, he suggests that New Jersey intervene and be represented in the Pennsylvania proceedings respecting that assessment.

States that the executors have retained counsel (whose names are given) to take up the active preparation of the case in Pennsylvania. Suggests that Mr. Kelly consult the Attorney General of New Jersey on the question of having New Jersey intervene in the Pennsylvania litigation, so that if there should be an adverse decision in the Pennsylvania courts, the executors may still have recourse to the United States courts for the final determination of the questions involved.

Expresses the willingness of Mr. Norcross and himself to come to Trenton at any time and give such further informa-[fol. 706] tion within their possession as may be desired (R. 167).

May 2, 1931: Accompanying the last mentioned letter of the same date, is a "Statement of facts as to the domicile of Dr. John T. Dorrance, in New Jersey," submitted by Mr. Lippincott with that letter, stating:

Decedent was born at Bristol, Pa., and lived there until he graduated from college. After taking his doctor's degree in Germany in 1897, he entered the employ of a company in Camden, New Jersey, a predecessor of the present

Campbell Soup Company, and resided in Camden, after August, 1906, when he was married. Thereafter he continued to reside in Camden, for a time and then went to live in Philadelphia.

In 1911 decedent and his wife took up their residence on an estate known as Pomona Farms. Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, N. J., where decedent died. They resided there continuously until November, 1925, and voted in Cinnaminson Township and nowhere else after 1911. Decedent rented this property from Campbell Soup Company. Three of their five children were born at their residence at Cinnaminson, one was born in a hospital. Cinnaminson was the domicile of decedent's choice.

In May, 1925, decedent and his wife acquired an estate called "Woodcrest" in Radnor Township, Delaware County, Pa., and later other property adjoining the same, by deeds to them both. Decedent's occupancy at that property began November 18, 1925, but decedent and his wife kept the Cinnaminson house open at all times and maintained servants there, never less than two but most of the time three, in number. The house and the servants were [fol. 707] ready at all times for decedent and his wife to occupy (R. 168). States that Mr. Lippincott has a memorandum taken from a diary of the time spent by decedent at Cinnaminson, but he is quite certain that decedent and his wife spent more time there than is shown by that memorandum. The memorandum shows the diary record for the years 1926-1930; inclusive, as stated on (R. 169-170).

In 1926 and 1927 decedent took a house at Jamestown, Rhode Island, and in 1928, 1929 and 1930, he had a house at Bar Harbor, Maine.

Decedent was senior warden of Christ Church, Riverton, N. J., and retained that office and his membership there until his death. Refers to a letter of January 10, 1927, to the Rector of St. Martin's Church, Radnor, Pa. (R. 169).

Decedent and his wife did not spend as much time at Cinnaminson as they had intended because decedent's sister and mother were there in their last illnesses and both died there.

The intention of decedent to retain his legal residence in New Jersey is evidenced by an agreement, dated January 6, 1926, (copy attached), between decedent and his wife, and by letters written by decedent to various persons (copies attached). The agreement between decedent and his wife (elsewhere abstracted), committed the parties against changing their domicile from New Jersey without notice. Mr. Lippincott states no such notice was ever given by decedent.

Mr. Lippincott states that every document signed by decedent of which he has any knowledge, stated decedent's residence as being in Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, New Jersey. The wills executed by decedent, after he acquired the Radnor property, stated decedent's resi- [fol. 708] dence as the Township of Cinnaminson, County of Burlington, State of New Jersey.

Decedent's application for passport stated the same residence; likewise his application for automobile licenses (R. 171).

Decedent stated to Mr. Lippincott, at the time he purchased the Radnor property, at the time he executed his will, and at many other times during Mr. Lippincott's association with him, after the year 1925, that decedent's legal residence was at Cinnaminson and that he did not intend at any time to acquire a legal residence in Pennsylvania.

During the year preceding decedent's death, his brother Arthur C. Dorrance talked with decedent about acquiring from the Soup Company, a residence site in Cinnaminson Township. Decedent told his brother, at that time, that decedent had made his home at Pomona Farms, Cinnaminson, ever since the property was remodeled in about 1911 and that he intended to continue to make his home there for the rest of his life, regardless of what additional residence he might acquire in Pennsylvania, Maine, or in any other state.

When decedent was elected, on October 13, 1926, a Director of Pennsylvania Railroad Company, he gave his residence and Post Office address as Cinnaminson, New Jersey. All communications from the secretary of that company were sent to decedent's Camden office. His address was never changed. He was elected to that board with the full knowledge that he was a citizen of the State of New Jersey.

Mr. Lippincott was informed by Harry A. Kelleher, an [fol. 709] employee of the Soup Company, who had charge of all applications for decedent's passports, automobile licenses for New Jersey and Pennsylvania during the period of 15 years prior to decedent's death, that decedent always instructed him that his place of residence was Cinnaminson, Burlington County, New Jersey, although on numerous occasions decedent's business address in Camden, was used in applying for automobile licenses.

States that a passport application in March, 1927, for decedent and his wife and another in March, 1929, for decedent, his wife, two daughters and a son, stated their address as Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, New Jersey (R. 173).

Decedent's last letter to Mr. Lippincott, dated March 20, 1930 (copy attached), stated that decedent and his wife were especially anxious to vote in Cinnaminson Township at the coming election and desired the privilege of absentee voting, and decedent seemed greatly disappointed when Mr. Lippincott informed him that such permission could not be obtained. Copies of other letters of decedent are attached.

Decedent and his family spent the greater part of their time at Woodcrest, Radnor Township, Delaware County, Pa. and employed a large number of servants there. The house at Woodcrest was always open, except when the family were away for the summer. The Cinnaminson house was always open (R. 173).

May 13, 1931: Letter from John McCutcheon, Comptroller of the Treasury (N. J.) by the State Supervisor of the Transfer Inheritance Bureau to William D. Lippincott, acknowledging the latter's letter of May 2, 1931, containing [fol. 710] statement of facts with reference to decedent's domicile, and stating as follows (R. 163):

"After a very careful consideration of all available data, including the oral statement submitted by you during your recent appearance, the Department has concluded that the legal domicile of the decedent at the date of his death and for many years prior thereto was Cinnaminson, Burlington County, New Jersey. The completion of the transfer inheritance tax proceeding is being held in abeyance pending the receipt of the additional information called for by letter addressed to the Camden Safe Deposit & Trust Co., under date of April 27, 1931.

"In your letter you refer to the litigation that will result from the attempt of the State of Pennsylvania to levy.

an inheritance tax against the estate of this decedent, based upon the theory that the decedent died a resident of that state, and you suggest that the State of New Jersey intervene. This Department is in sympathy with your theory, but a definite determination cannot be made without further study. The Department will not intervene if action of that kind will unquestionably bind the State of New Jersey by the action of the Pennsylvania courts. A discussion of this feature is advisable. It is, therefore, suggested that you call at the Department on Monday morning next, so that the entire situation may be properly discussed. If this appointment is not satisfactory, it is suggested that you arrange to appear at such time as may be convenient to you."

August 17, 1931: (Received August 17, 1931.) Letter from Frank S. Norcross, Vice-President, Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, to Mr. Kelly, enclosing an amended and corrected return of the assets and liabilities [fol. 711] of decedent for substitution in the place of a former return (R. 128).

August 17, 1931: (Received same day.) Amended and corrected transfer inheritance tax return on decedent's estate on printed form L-3, signed and sworn to on that date by Frank S. Norcross, Vice-President, Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, one of the executors of decedent, stating that decedent died September 21, 1930, leaving a will of which a copy is attached to the return. This return is entitled "In the matter of the estate of John T. Dorrance, late of Burlington County" (New Jersey) and contains certain schedules of property of decedent with the estimated market value thereof including personal property, deductions claimed, beneficiaries' relationship and interest in the estate (R. 129-134).

Said return contains (R. 150) the following recapitulations of the property of the estate:

Recapitulation

Deposits	$4,032,719.69
Stocks	89,191,106.03
Bonds	21,389,796.85
Accounts receivable	65,047.97
Notes receivable—no value—

Life insurance	160,000.00
Miscellaneous	8,235.16
Accrued interest receivable on bank balances	13,456.98
Dividends receivable on stock payable to holders of record prior to date of death of decedent	41,976.80
Accrued interest receivable on bonds	218,124.50
Dividends on life insurance policies	1,054.94
	$115,121,518.92

[fol. 712] and endorsed thereon is the report of District Supervisor and Appraiser, submitted February 16, 1931, of Joseph V. Solan, Principal Inheritance Tax Examiner, as follows:

Value of personal property	$115,121,518.92
Value of real property
Total estate	$115,121,518.92
Debts, expenses, etc.	3,066,118.06
Net amount of estate for distribution	$112,055,400.86

Stamped on the back (R. 156) of that return are the following notations:

"Assessment dated Oct. 16/31. Assessed by Solan."
"Assessment dated Oct. 10/32. Assessed by Solan."

October 17, 1931: Notice of transfer inheritance tax assessment of $4,521,143.90 compromised tax, marked "assessment cancelled" (R. 124).

October 17, 1931: Notice of transfer inheritance tax assessment for $12,247,333.52, marked "assessment cancelled" (R. 126).

November 16, 1931: Letter from Mr. Kelly to Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company (attention of Frank S. Norcross) transmitting assessments of October 17, 1931, on decedent's estate, states that they are tentative only and subject to revision for any reason whatsoever other than the question of domicile. States that the State Tax Department regards the estate as subject to the provision of the

New Jersey Inheritance Tax Act relative to the estate of a resident decedent (R. 123).

[fol. 713] November 16, 1931: Letter from Mr. Kelly to William D. Lippincott acknowledging the latter's letter of November 14, 1931, states that in the litigation before Judge Hannum (Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pa.) there was introduced in evidence a copy of the assessment showing total tax due and payable as of decedent's death, a copy of which was enclosed in that letter. States that there was not introduced in that litigation any data with reference to the tax that might be chargeable against the portions of the estate whose disposition depended upon contingencies. States that that particular feature had not been particularly discussed at that time. States that in order to expedite a definite determination of all features, the State Tax Department on that day forwarded assessments covering the direct tax and the compromise tax to Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Camden, New Jersey, pursuant to instructions contained in affidavits on file. The letter enclosed to Judge Lippincott additional copies of those assessments (R. 122).

November 18, 1931: (Received November 19, 1931.) Letter from William D. Lippincott to Mr. Kelly, acknowledging receipt of Mr. Kelly's letter of November 17, 1931, enclosing the assessments of the latter date for New Jersey transfer inheritance taxes on decedent's estate (R. 121).

December 4, 1931: Petition of the executors verified by Wm. D. Lippincott, addressed to J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner, William D. Kelly, State Supervisor of New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau, alleges:

[fol. 714] 1. That decedent died September 21, 1930, leaving a will in which he appointed petitioners as his executors.

2. Recites application of executors to the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, for probate of said will pursuant to the directions and requirements thereof and that said will was admitted to probate by the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, October 2, 1931, and letters testamentary were issued thereon on that day to petitioners as executors (R. 111).

3. Recites filing by executors on April 6, 1931, with the department of the Comptroller of the Treasury Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau of New Jersey, an inheritance tax return on said estate pursuant to law.

4. Recites that on July 1, 1931, said Tax Commissioner succeeded to the exercise of the powers and duties theretofore exercised by the Comptroller, by virtue of an act approved April 27, 1931, Chapter 303.

5. Recites that among powers and duties devolving upon said Tax Commissioner under that act, was the duty of appraising the estates of decedents and assessing and levying taxes thereon.

6. Recites that on October 17, 1931, the executors, in order to adjust the values of certain assets and the amount of certain liabilities of decedent as of the date of his death, as a result of further investigations made, and further information received, by them, filed with the State Tax Commissioner an amended State Tax Return of said estate (R. 112).

7. Recites that on October 17, 1931, the State Tax Commissioner made an assessment against said estate as the estate of a resident decedent of transfer inheritance taxes [fol. 715] of $12,247,333.52, and on the same day he made an additional assessment on said estate as of a resident decedent of $4,521,143.90 and said assessments were filed on that day in the office of the State Tax Commissioner.

8. Recites that said estate was appraised as a resident decedent, at the value of $111,842,054.58.

9. Recites that on March 26, 1931, the Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pa., claiming decedent to be domiciled in Pennsylvania at his death appointed an appraiser to appraise the estate of decedent in Pennsylvania.

10. Recites that the appraiser claiming to act under the laws of Pennsylvania appraised the entire estate of decedent, as a resident of Pennsylvania, claiming him to be domiciled therein, at $199,900,000.00; that on April 22, 1931, Pennsylvania assessed the estate of decedent, as a resident thereof, for transfer inheritance taxes in the amount of $31,465,200.00, from which assessment the executors have taken an appeal to the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania (R. 113).

11. Recites that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania claims that decedent was domiciled therein at the time of his death and that the appraisement and assessment by that state of transfer inheritance taxes are based on that claim.

12. Recites that said appeal was heard by the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pa., after the filing by the State Tax Department of New Jersey of the two assessments previously made by the State Tax Commissioner, and that a large amount of testimony relating to and bearing upon [fol. 716] the domicile of decedent, at the time of his death, has been taken before the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pa., upon the hearing of that appeal and said appeal is still pending and undetermined before that court.

13. Recites that prior to the assessments made by the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey the executors submitted to the Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau of New Jersey certain evidence as to the domicile of decedent, and of other matters relating to his estate (R. 114).

14. Recites that after filing said assessments by the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey the executors obtained a large amount of information, facts and evidence relating to and bearing upon the domicile of decedent which was not in the possession of the executors at the time of filing said New Jersey asesssment; that the executors are desirous of submitting and presenting such additional information, facts and evidence to the Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau of New Jersey, before any final determination of said assessments is made by its State Tax Commissioner; that the executors believe that said additional information, facts and evidence so obtained by them, after the New Jersey assessments were filed, together with other information, facts and evidence in their possession, not previously submitted or presented, are necessary to be considered by the State Tax Department of New Jersey before final action can properly be taken by that Department respecting the assessment of transfer inheritance taxes upon decedent's estate (R. 114-115).

The executors pray that the New Jersey assessment of October 17, 1931, assessed against decedent's estate, as an [fol. 717] estate of a resident decedent, be opened, set aside and cancelled and for nothing holden, and that the proceedings for said assessments now pending in the State Tax Department of New Jersey, be opened, and that permission be granted to the executors to submit and present to the Transfer Tax Bureau of New Jersey, further and additional information, facts and evidence relating to and bearing upon the domicile of decedent, and other information, facts and testimony relating to and bearing upon his estate.

The petition is signed by William D. Lippincott, proctor for and of counsel with petitioners (executors) (R. 116).

December 12, 1931: Order of State Tax Department Inheritance Tax Bureau reciting the filing of the petition of executors with a summary of the contents thereof (R. 117), and ordering that said assessments of October 17, 1931 (R. 119), be and the same is hereby opened, set aside and cancelled and for nothing holden, and that the proceedings for such assessments be and the same are thereby opened and permission given to the executors to submit and present further and additional information, facts and evidence relating to and bearing upon the domicile of decedent and other information, facts and testimony relating to and bearing upon said estate. Signed J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner (R. 118, 120).

December 12, 1931: Letter from Mr. Kelly to William D. Lippincott stating that the petition of the executors for the cancellation of the tentative assessment theretofore completed and for permission to submit further and additional information, facts and evidence relating to and bear-[fol. 718] ing upon the estate of decedent, has been filed and allowed and that the order to that effect has on that day been signed and entered in the record of the proceedings. Encloses copy of petition and order (R. 109).

STATEMENT OF THE POINTS TO BE RELIED ON AND DESIGNATION OF THE PARTS OF THE RECORD TO BE PRINTED—Filed July 8, 1935

Comes now the appellant in the above-entitled case and states that the points upon which she intends to rely in this Court in this case are as follows:

I. That the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey erred in denying the interlocutory injunction prayed for by the plaintiff.

II. That the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey erred in holding that it was without [fol. 743] jurisdiction to grant the prayer of the Bill of Complaint for interlocutory injunction.

III. That the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey erred in entering the following decree:

"And now, to wit, June 4, 1935, this cause came on to be heard at this term, and was argued by counsel, and upon consideration thereof, it is ordered, adjudged and decreed as follows:

"I. The prayer of the Bill of Complaint for interlocutory injunction be, and is hereby denied for want of jurisdiction to grant such interlocutory injunction."

In Equity

No. 5091

ETHEL M. DORRANCE, GEORGE MORRIS DORRANCE, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the Last Will and Testament of John T. Dorrance, Deceased, Plaintiffs, v.

J. H. THAYER MARTIN, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey; William D. Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey; Frank J. Murray, Comptroller of the State of New Jersey; William H. Albright, State Treasurer of the State of New Jersey; and David T. Wilentz, Attorney General of the State of New Jersey, Defendants

AMENDED BILL OF COMPLAINT—Filed April 10, 1935

To the Honorable the Judges of the said Court:

Plaintiffs, Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the last will and testament of John T. Dorrance, deceased, in this their amended bill of complaint against J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, William D. Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, [fol. 754] of said State, Frank J. Murray, Comptroller of said State, William H. Albright, State Treasurer of said State, and David T. Wilentz, Attorney General of said State, complain and say:

1. Plaintiffs are Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, the executors named in the will of John T. Dorrance, who died at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, on September 21, 1930, and was buried in West Laurel Hill Cemetery, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company is a corporation organized under the laws of New Jersey, with its principal office in the city of Camden, New Jersey. All of the individual plaintiffs are citizens and residents of the United States.

2. Defendants are, respectively, J. H. Thayer Martin, the State Tax Commissioner, William D. Kelly, the State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, Frank J. Murray, the Comptroller, William H. Albright, the State Treasurer, and David T. Wilentz, the Attorney General of the State of New Jersey. All of them are citizens of the United States and residents of the State of New Jersey.

All of the defendants are clothed, under the laws of the State of New Jersey, with duties in the assessment and collection of transfer inheritance taxes.

3. The matter in controversy in this proceeding exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum or value of $3000 and arises under the Constitution of the United States.

4. John T. Dorrance, hereinafter in this bill called "decedent", was born at Bristol, Pennsylvania, on November 11, 1873, and, until he was 23 years of age lived in Pennsylvania except when in attendance at college and [fol. 755] university. At that age he entered the employ of Joseph Campbell Preserve Company, of Camden, New Jersey, and resided in Camden.

5. Decedent was married on August 18, 1906. He and his wife lived in Camden, New Jersey, until the latter part of the year 1907, when they moved to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. They resided in Philadelphia until 1911, when they established their home at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, in a property owned by and leased from Campbell Soup Company, and known as "Pomona Farms".

6. In 1911, decedent was an officer of Campbell Soup Company, of Camden, New Jersey, and in 1915, he became its president. At his death he was the owner of all of the shares of capital stock of that company.

7. Decedent was survived by his wife and by five children, born, respectively, in 1907, 1909, 1911, 1915 and 1919.

8. In April, 1925, decedent purchased a residential property known as "Woodcrest", at Radnor, Delaware County, Pennsylvania, and took title thereto in the name of himself and his wife as tenants by the entireties. The property.

consisted of 119 acres, and the purchase price paid by decedent was $350,000. It was located in the finest residential section in the suburbs of Philadelphia. To prepare the property for occupancy, decedent expended an amount exceeding the purchase price.

9. On November 14, 1925, decedent removed his wearing apparel, his personal effects, his library, and the wearing apparel and other personal effects of his wife and children from Cinnaminson, New Jersey, to "Woodcrest", Radnor, Pennsylvania, and there established his dwelling [fol. 756] place and family home, without any present intention of changing it to any other place.

10. On November 14, 1925, decedent was physically present at his new dwelling place in Radnor, Pennsylvania, with the intention of making it his home and without any present intention of not residing there indefinitely.

11. Decedent was unwilling to pay the Pennsylvania four-mill tax upon his shares of capital stock of Campbell Soup Company, as he was required to do by the Pennsylvania Act of June 17, 1913, P. L. 507, its amendments and supplements. For this reason he desired to retain a "legal residence" in New Jersey, and in an effort to do so, notwithstanding the removal of his family home to Pennsylvania and the absence of any present intention not to reside there indefinitely, he continued to lease from Campbell Soup Company, "Pomona Farms" at Cinnaminson, New Jersey; occasionally, with his wife, he spent a night there; he continued to vote and pay a small personal property tax at Cinnaminson; he retained his membership in the vestry of a church at Riverton, New Jersey; and he made many declarations, including a statement in his will, that he was a resident of the State of New Jersey. Subsequent to decedent's death, tax in an amount exceeding $1,000,000 was paid by decedent's estate to Delaware County, Pennsylvania, for the years 1925 to 1930 inclusive, as required by said Act.

12. After changing his abode to "Woodcrest", decedent spent substantially all of his time there, except when he was at business during the day and when he was in New England on summer vacations or in Europe.

13. Decedent did not spend a night at Cinnaminson between November 14, 1925, and February 12, 1926. During [fol. 757] the entire year 1926, decedent spent only eleven nights at Cinnaminson.

He spent January 10, 1927, and February 10, 1927, at Cinnaminson, and then during the seventeen month period beginning February 11, 1927, and ending July 16, 1928, he did not spend a single night at Cinnaminson. Thereafter, except when his family and all of the "Woodcrest" household servants were in New England on summer vacation, decedent, prior to his fatal illness, spent only eight nights at Cinnaminson. Continuously, from November 14, 1925, to the date of his fatal illness, decedent lived with his family at "Woodcrest".

14. At no time between November 14, 1925, and the date of his fatal illness in September 1930, did decedent and his family ever assemble at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, for any purpose, nor did decedent, at any time during that period reside with his family at Cinnaminson or any other place in New Jersey, or otherwise treat the Cinnaminson residence as his home and the home of his family.

15. During the period between November 14, 1925, and decedent's death, decedent's wife and family attended church at Radnor, his children attended school in Pennsylvania, a daughter was married at Radnor, and all social functions given by decedent and the members of his family, were at "Woodcrest", Radnor, Pennsylvania.

16. During said period, except when he was in Europe or his family was in New England for the summer, decedent spent his week-ends at "Woodcrest" with his family. Thanksgiving day, Christmas day, and all other holidays were celebrated by decedent and his family at "Woodcrest". Whenever decedent went to Europe he left from [fol. 758] and returned to "Woodcrest"; and when decedent's family went to New England for the summer vacation, its luggage was shipped from and returned to Radnor. In the summers of 1926 and 1927, "Woodcrest" was kept open while decedent's family was in New England, and decedent lived at "Woodcrest".

17. On June 30, 1928, decedent purchased additional ground adjoining "Woodcrest", consisting of 8.22 acres, at a cost of $52,500; and on July 27, 1929, another 10 acres at a cost of $60,000.

18. In August 1926, decedent's mother and sister, both of whom were ill, moved into "Pomona Farms", Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and lived there until they died—decedent's sister in the summer of 1928, and his mother early in 1929.

19. Prior to 1925, the cost per annum of operating "Pomona Farms" as the decedent's home, was between $20,000 and $30,000 per annum. After the decedent and his family moved to "Woodcrest", the cost of maintaining "Pomona Farms", even though decedent's mother and sister lived there while ill, became less each year. The expenditures for that purpose for 1927 were $10,344.29; for 1928, $8,373.89; for 1929, $6,459.90; and for the first nine months of 1930, $4,200.17. The cost of operating "Woodcrest" was more than $90,000 per annum for 1926 and 1927, and at the same rate per annum for the years 1928, 1929 and 1930, except in the summer when the household servants were taken to Bar Harbor.

20. Before the occupancy of "Woodcrest", ten servants were employed at "Pomona Farms"; but after November 14, 1925, never more than four. At "Woodcrest", the number of house servants was originally thirteen, but later sixteen; and in addition there were always ten to twelve outside employees.

[fol. 759] 21. In 1930, decedent and his family had been spending their summer vacation at Bar Harbor, Maine. All of the family servants were taken to Bar Harbor, and the family home at Radnor was not occupied during the summer. Decedent left Bar Harbor on September 15, 1930, and went to Cinnaminson, intending to stay there until the servants had arrived at "Woodcrest" and prepared it for occupancy. He suffered a stroke at Cinnaminson and died five days later. At the date of his death he was domiciled in Pennsylvania.

22. At the date of his death, and for some years prior thereto, decedent owned intangible personal property of the value of more than $100,000,000.

23. By his will, decedent required his executors to probate his will in New Jersey or forfeit their rights to serve as executors. Accordingly, the will was probated October

2, 1930, in the office of the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, and letters testamentary thereon were issued to plaintiffs.

24. On April 21, 1931, the Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, made an appraisement against the estate of decedent as a resident of said county, fixing the value of decedent's taxable personal property, including all of his intangible personal property, at $199,990,000, upon which the total transfer inheritance tax due to the Commonwealth was assessed at $31,465,200. Said appraisement was made under authority of the Pennsylvania Acts of June 20, 1919, P. L. 521, May 7, 1927, P. L. 859, and May 16, 1929, P. L. 1782. On May 2, 1931, plaintiffs through their counsel notified defendant Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, State of New Jersey, of the Pennsylvania assessment, and suggested that the State of New Jersey should intervene in the proceedings in Pennsylvania, and be represented therein.

[fol. 760] 25. On May 18, 1931, plaintiffs appealed from the assessment made by the Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, to the Orphans Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, and perfected their appeal by filing their bond in the amount fixed by the Court, conditioned for the payment of any tax which might be found due and payable.

26. On October 19, 1931, the Orphans Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, proceeded to take testimony on the appeal from the assessment made by the Register of Wills of that County, as aforesaid. Among the witnesses who testified, was defendant Kelly. On February 15, 1932, the Orphans Court sustained the appeal and set aside the assessment.

27. From the decision of the Orphans Court of Delaware County, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania took an appeal to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; and the latter court on September 26, 1932, holding that decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania on the date of his death, reversed the Orphans Court of Delaware County and reinstated, in a modified amount, the assessment made by the Register of Wills.

28. Plaintiffs filed a petition in the Supreme Court of the United States for a writ of certiorari to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, which was denied on December 5, 1932, because a federal question was not properly presented to, and was not passed upon by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. Thereafter plaintiffs applied to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania for a re-argument upon which they filed a brief presenting the federal question, and after that court's refusal to reconsider its decision, filed a second petition in the Supreme Court of the United States for a writ of certiorari, which was refused on March 13, 1933.

29. While plaintiffs' petition to the United States Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari was pending, the State [fol. 761] of New Jersey asked leave of that court to intervene, and plaintiffs filed their formal consent to such intervention; but leave was denied. However, leave was granted to the State of New Jersey to file a brief as amicus curiæ; and on November 23, 1932, the Attorney General of New Jersey filed a brief pursuant to the leave granted.

30. On March 27, 1933, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania entered judgment in the aforesaid case in favor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and against the plaintiffs for transfer inheritance tax in the amount of $14,394,698.88, subject to an additional assessment and imposition of tax if and when the final determination of the amount of the Federal estate tax upon decedent's estate should disclose that 80 per centum thereof exceeds $14,394,698.88. The judgment included a tax upon the transfer of all of decedent's intangible personal property.

On March 29, 1933, a like judgment was entered against the plaintiffs in the Orphans Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, which judgment was final and conclusive upon the plaintiffs.

31. Because of said judgment, plaintiffs were compelled to pay to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania transfer inheritance tax in the amount of $14,394,698.88, with interest amounting to $104,278.03. They made payment on March 31, 1933. On the same date they gave their bond to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the amount of $4,000,000, conditioned upon the payment of any additional tax which might become due under the said judgment.

32. On October 17, 1931, the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, purporting to act under authority conferred upon him by the New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, its amendments and supplements, [fol. 762] made an assessment of transfer inheritance tax against decedent's estate in the sum of $12,247,333.52, with an additional assessment in the sum of $4,521,143.90 on account of certain contingent remainders. Said assessment included tax upon the transfer of all of decedent's intangible personal property.

33. Pending the decision of the Orphans Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, the defendant State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey on December 12, 1931, opened the assessments made by him on October 17, 1931, as aforesaid, for the purpose of permitting plaintiffs to submit to him additional information regarding decedent's domicile.

34. On October 10, 1932, after the entire record in the Pennsylvania case, including the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, was offered in evidence before him, without objection on the part of the defendants or any of them, defendant, the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, made an assessment of transfer inheritance tax against the decedent's estate in the amount of $12,247,333.52, with interest at the rate of 10 per cent per annum from September 21, 1931. The Pennsylvania judgment established that decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania at the time of his death. Said assessment included tax upon the transfer of certain of decedent's tangible personal property and upon all of decedent's intangible personal property.

35. On December 9, 1932, plaintiffs appealed from the New Jersey assessment of transfer inheritance tax to the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey; and after hearing the appeal the Ordinary entered a decree in the New Jersey Prerogative Court on May 11, 1934, sustaining the Tax Commissioner's assessment of October 10, 1932. In its decree [fol. 763] the said court refused to give full faith and credit to the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and, upon the same evidence, stated conclusions at variance with those of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

36. From the decree of the Prerogative Court, plaintiffs obtained a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey, which on February 11, 1935, sustained the decree of the Prerogative Court. The action of the Supreme Court is not final, being subject to judicial review by the Court of Errors and Appeals. And the tax which defendants demand cannot be collected until after the institution of an action of debt in the name of the State of New Jersey, or a statutory proceeding in the Prerogative Court of New Jersey.

37. When the defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner, made his assessment of $12,247,333.52 against the plaintiffs, and when the assessment had been sustained by the Prerogative Court, the administrative procedure provided by the New Jersey Inheritance Tax Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, was at an end; but under the Constitution and laws of New Jersey, the Supreme Court of New Jersey on certiorari is authorized to review the facts as well as the law, to take additional testimony and to affirm, reverse or modify the assessment made by the State Tax Commissioner, thus rendering the action of that court administrative and not judicial.

38. Defendants threaten to collect from plaintiffs the transfer inheritance tax assessed against decedent's estate by the defendant State Tax Commissioner. The assessment includes a tax on the intangible personal property of decedent's estate, and is unconstitutional for the reasons set forth in this Bill of Complaint.

[fol. 764] 39. By the New Jersey Act of July 11, 1934, Ch. 249, the State Tax Commissioner was authorized "to adjust and settle transfer inheritance taxes due the State, where the matter is now in litigation and the question of the domicile of decedent is at issue and has been adjudged against the estate of decedent both in this State and in another State, by the acceptance of the principal sum due and the remission of all interest due on such principal sum."

40. On February 13, 1935, plaintiffs by their counsel notified defendant Martin through his counsel, that plaintiffs intend to take an appeal to the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals from the action of the Supreme Court of New Jersey. On February 15, 1935, defendant Martin addressed to plaintiffs a letter, a copy of which marked "Exhibit A" is attached hereto and made a part hereof, notifying them of his intention to refuse any relief in interest charges to decedent's estate, if plaintiffs prosecuted any further, in the courts of New Jersey, litigation contesting the validity of the tax defendants threaten to collect. Thus, an appeal by plaintiffs from the judgment of the Supreme Court of New Jersey to the Court of Errors and Appeals, will cost decedent's estate upwards of $4,000,000, if the assessment against decedent's estate should be sustained. Under the statutes of New Jersey, plaintiffs may take their appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals at any time prior to February 11, 1936. Plaintiffs will take such appeal prior to that date, unless in the meantime this action renders such appeal unnecessary.

41. On April 25, 1933, after the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania had held that decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania, plaintiffs filed before the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, a petition praying him to revoke his [fol. 765] order of October 2, 1930, admitting the will of John T. Dorrance to probate, and granting letters testamentary to plaintiffs. No action has as yet been taken on that petition.

42. On May 12, 1933, defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, filed in the Burlington County Orphans Court, of Burlington County, New Jersey, a petition praying the court to remove plaintiffs as executors and trustees under decedent's will and to appoint in their stead the State Treasurer of New Jersey. No action has as yet been taken on that petition.

43. Because of defendants' threat to collect from decedent's estate, a transfer inheritance tax, as aforesaid, plaintiffs are compelled to maintain a large cash reserve at a low rate of interest, and have been and are being prevented from selling, pledging, transferring, or otherwise utilizing personal property of decedent's estate of the appraised value of more than $81,000,000, as appears more fully by a statement of the following facts:

On July 1, 1933, New Jersey State road bonds belonging to decedent's estate in the amount of $1,665,000, matured. Defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, and defendant Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey, refused to issue waivers to plaintiffs releasing the maturing bonds, unless and until plaintiffs placed in escrow other New Jersey bonds of an equal par value, conditioned upon the payment of inheritance tax by plaintiffs, if such tax be found due and owing. Thereupon plaintiffs placed in escrow other New Jersey bonds of the par value of $1,665,000, appraised at $1,738,360.

On June 26, 1934, in order to avoid, for the time being, the posting of a bond in the amount of upwards of $24,- [fol. 766] 000,000, plaintiffs placed in escrow, conditioned upon the payment of inheritance tax by plaintiffs if such tax be found due and owing, all of the preferred stock of Campbell Soup Company, of the appraised value of $12,-360,000.

Plaintiffs hold, in addition, personal property belonging to decedent's estate of the appraised value of more than $67,000,000, which cannot be sold, pledged, transferred or otherwise utilized unless and until waivers have been issued by the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey and the State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey. Said officers have refused to issue such waivers.

44. Notwithstanding the deposit of collateral, as aforesaid, plaintiffs are confronted by a possible demand by the defendants, that plaintiffs give bond conditioned upon the payment of the transfer inheritance tax claimed by defendants, in an amount exceeding $24,000,000, as required by the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, as amended. It is extremely doubtful whether a bond in this amount could be obtained, but if it could be obtained, plaintiffs would be obliged to pay a premium thereon in a large amount, which would not be recoverable by plaintiffs from defendants or from the State of New Jersey in any court by any process.

45. The threat of defendants to collect from decedent's estate the aforesaid tax of more than $12,000,000 with interest and penalties, renders impossible the proper administration and distribution of decedent's estate.

46. Further prosecution of the litigation between plaintiffs and the defendant Martin in the courts of New Jersey, will also require decedent's estate to pay attorney's fees and other expenses of litigation which will not be re-
[fol. 767] coverable by plaintiffs from the defendants or from the State of New Jersey, should this proceeding be postponed until the determination by the highest court of New Jersey, of the issues involved in said litigation.

47. The New Jersey Inheritance Tax Act of 1909 purports to impose upon all of the property of decedent's estate a lien for the payment of the tax which defendants threaten to collect, thus rendering it impossible for plaintiffs to transfer any of said property free and clear of a claimed encumbrance, unless the plaintiffs post a bond at irreparable damage to decedent's estate, as heretofore set forth. Said claimed lien constitutes a cloud upon the title to all of the property belonging to decedent's estate.

48. Were the plaintiffs to pay the tax which defendants threaten to collect from decedent's estate, it would be the duty of the defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner, forthwith to pay the same into the State Treasury, and the duty of defendant Albright, State Treasurer of the State of New Jersey, thereupon to apply $10,000,000 of said tax to the redemption of bonds issued under authority of the New Jersey Act of September 19, 1934, ch. 255, and the subsequent sanction of the electors of the State of New Jersey.

49. The State of New Jersey has not consented to be sued in the courts of the United States for the recovery of inheritance tax erroneously paid by plaintiffs or illegally collected by defendants.

50. Were plaintiffs to pay the tax which defendants threaten to collect from decedent's estate, even if plaintiffs could obtain a judgment against defendants individually for illegally collecting and receiving said tax, defendants [fol. 768] would be financially unable to respond to such judgment; and defendants' official bonds do not enure to the benefit of plaintiffs and in addition would be grossly inadequate to assure the payment of the amount of the tax claimed, even if plaintiffs could recover upon such bonds.

51. Were the plaintiffs to pay the tax which the defendants threaten to collect, their only recourse thereafter would be an application for refund under Section 15 of the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, which permits (but does not compel) the Comptroller of New Jersey to draw his warrant on the State Treasurer in favor of executors who have "erroneously" paid transfer inheritance tax to the State Tax Commissioner. However, there is no provision made for the payment of interest for the time that the money has been in the State Treasury, there is no appeal from the refusal of the Comptroller to grant a refund, and a warrant would not result in the immediate payment of the refund for the reason that the available balances in the State Treasury would not enable a refund in the amount of the tax which defendants threaten to collect, to be made until after the lapse of a substantial period of time, if at all.

52. Inheritance taxes can be collected upon the transfer of intangible personal property from a decedent only by the State in which the decedent was domiciled at the date of his death; and any collection of such taxes by any other State is a taking of property without due process of law contrary to the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

53. If the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, authorizes defendants to collect transfer inheritance tax upon the transfer of intangible personal property of a [fol. 769] decedent, who prior to his death had established his dwelling place and family home in another state, without any present intention of not residing there indefinitely, it is unconstitutional in that it deprives the plaintiffs of their property without due process of law and denies to the plaintiffs the equal protection of the laws in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

54. If said statute authorizes defendants to collect transfer inheritance tax upon the transfer of intangible personal property of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, under the circumstances heretofore in this bill of complaint set forth, it is unconstitutional in that it deprives plaintiffs of their property without due process of law and denies to them the equal protection of the laws in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United Sates.

55. If said statute be construed as not applying to property of a decedent, who prior to his death had established his dwelling place and family home in another state, without any present intention of not residing there indefinitely, then the threatened collection by the defendants of said inheritance tax unconstitutionally deprives the plaintiffs of their property without due process of law and denies to the plaintiffs the equal protection of the laws in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

56. Plaintiffs are entitled to raise in this Court the question whether the New Jersey Act of April 20, 1909, ch. 228, as interpreted by the defendants, violates the Constitution of the United States.

57. Plaintiffs have a right to have this Court determine the facts necessary to a consideration of the constitutional [fol. 770] questions raised by this bill of complaint.

58. The threatened collection by defendants of transfer inheritance tax upon the intangible personal property of decedent is repugnant to the provisions of Article IV, Section 1 of the Constitution of the United States in that defendants fail to give full faith and credit as required by said Constitution to the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania adjudging decedent to have been domiciled in Pennsylvania on the date of his death.

59. For the reasons heretofore in this bill of complaint set forth, plaintiffs are threatened with irreparable injury unless this court grants equitable relief as prayed.

60. For the reasons heretofore in this bill of complaint set forth, plaintiffs are without an adequate remedy at law.

Wherefore, plaintiffs are in need of equitable relief and pray:

A. That an injunction issue, temporary until hearing and perpetual thereafter, enjoining and restraining the defendants, J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, William D. Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey, Frank J. Murray, Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, William H. Albright, State Treasurer of the State of New Jersey, and David T. Wilentz, Attorney General of the State of New Jersey, and their and each of their deputies, officers, agents, servants and employees, acting under and by virtue of their authority, from in any way collecting or attempting to collect inheritance tax from the plaintiffs on the transfer of decedent's intangible personal property [fol. 771] in the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, now being undertaken, from refusing to issue tax waivers to the plaintiffs covering the intangible personal property of said decedent's estate, and from refusing to release from escrow the personal property belonging to said decedent's estate now held in escrow subject to the control of the defendants or any of them.

B. That such other and further relief be granted as to your Honorable Court shall seem meet.

And the plaintiffs will ever pray, etc.

John Milton, Solicitor for and of Counsel with Plaintiffs. William A. Schnader, 1719 Packard Building, Philadelphia, Pa., of Counsel.

State of New Jersey

State Tax Department

Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau

Trenton, February 15, 1935

Address all communications: c/o Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau.

William D. Lippincott, Esquire, Proctor for the Executors of the Estate of John T. Dorrance, Deceased, 35 North Fourth Street, Camden, N. J.

DEAR SIR:

As you know the New Jersey Prerogative Court by a finad decree dated May 11, 1934, affirmed a transfer inheritance tax assessment on the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, made by the State Tax Commissioner, dated October 10, 1932, amounting to $12,247,333.52, subject to certain modifications. You know also that on February 8, 1935 the New Jersey Supreme Court sustained the decree of the Prerogative Court. The following statements shows the amount of the claim due and payable as of February 15, 1935:

Amount of tax assessment as modified by decree	$12,183,459.96
Interest thereon from Sept. 21, 1931 to Feb. 15, 1935	4,145,713.70
Total amount of tax with interest presently due and payable	$16,329,173.66

[fol. 773] You are undoubtedly also aware of the fact that by the provisions of Chapter 249, Laws of New Jersey 1934, which became effective the 11th day of July 1934, the State Tax Commissioner was authorized to adjust and settle transfer inheritance taxes due this State in certain cases by the acceptance of the principal sum due and the remission of all interest due on such principal sum. You are also undoubtedly aware of the fact that this legislation was intended to permit a settlement of the taxes assessed in this estate.

To date you have made no overtures of settlement to me, but instead have indicated your intention to prosecute the litigation to a finality. In view of this attitude on your part, I deem it only proper to advise you that any further prosecution of the litigation by you will cause me to refuse any relief in interest charges should the litigation finally result in an affirmance of the assessment.

Very respectfully, (Sgd.) J. H. Thayer Martin, J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner.

In Equity

No. 5091

[Title omitted]

ANSWER—Filed April 12, 1935

The joint and several answer of the defendants, J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey; William D. Kelly, State Supervisor, Inheritance Tax Bureau, of the State of New Jersey; Frank J. Murray, Comptroller of the State of New Jersey; William H. Albright, State Treasurer of the State of New Jersey; and David T. Wilentz, Attorney [fol. 779] General of the State of New Jersey.

These defendants, for answer to the bill of complaint, say:

1. Paragraph 1 is admitted; except that defendants, further answering said paragraph, say:

(a) They pray reference to the original or to a certified copy of said will for certainty as to the terms thereof and as to the powers and duties of the executors therein named.

(b) They pray reference to the original or to a certified copy of the petition for probate of said will and the other proceedings relating to the probate thereof for certainty as to the authority of the plaintiffs to act as the executors thereof.

(c) Said will was admitted to probate by the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, and letters testamentary thereon were issued to the plaintiffs, in accordance with the provisions of the statutes and other laws of the State of New Jersey that application for the probate of the will of any person who was resident in this state at his decease, and for letters testamentary thereon, should be made to the surrogate of the county in which the testator resided at the time of his death; the plaintiffs thereupon assumed the burden of the duties of executors of said will, and ever since the letters testamentary thereon were issued to the plaintiffs, and continuously to the present time, they have been and they now are acting as such executors, pursuant to said statutes and other laws.

(d) Said corporate plaintiff is a citizen and resident of the State of New Jersey; said individual plaintiffs are citizens and residents of the State of New Jersey as well as of the United States.

[fol. 780] 2. Paragraph 2 is admitted; except that defendants, further answering said paragraph, say:

(a) The said defendants, and each of them, are citizens of the State of New Jersey as well as of the United States.

(b) Said defendants, and each of them, respectively, are clothed, under the laws of the State of New Jersey, with the following duties in the assessment and collection of transfer inheritance taxes;—

Defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, is the chief officer of the State Tax Department of the State of New Jersey; said Department was established by Chapter 336, page 823, New Jersey Laws of 1931, wherein and whereby the chief officer of said Department, was denominated as the "State Tax Commissioner"; all transfer inheritance taxes imposed by the statutes of the State of New Jersey are to be paid to said defendant as the State Tax Commissioner and deposited with the Treasurer of the State of New Jersey when and as collected, for the use of said state.

Under said statutes it is the duty of said defendant as State Tax Commissioner to fix the amount of the taxes to be imposed at the rates specified in said statutes, upon the clear market value of the property; and to assess and fix the cash value of the estates of decedents and to levy the tax to which the same is liable and to give notice thereof, by mail, to all parties interested therein.

It is also the duty of the State Tax Commissioner, on satisfactory proof rendered to said Commissioner, to certify to the Comptroller of the Treasury the amount of any tax that shall have been paid erroneously to said Commissioner, provided that application for repayment thereof be made within two years from the date of such payment. [fol. 781] It is also the duty of the State Tax Commissioner, when it shall appear to him that any tax which has accrued under the Transfer Inheritance Tax Act has not been paid according to law, to report such fact, in writing, to the register of the Prerogative Court, for further action by said register, and by the ordinary of said Court, as specified in said act.

It is also the duty of the State Tax Commissioner, whenever he shall have reason to believe that any tax is due and unpaid under said act, after the neglect and refusal of the persons or corporations interested in the property and liable to said tax to pay the same, to notify the Attorney General of the State of New Jersey, in writing, of such failure to pay such tax, for further action by the Attorney General, as specified in said act, and to perform various other duties, as set forth in detail in said act.

Defendant, William D. Kelly, is the state supervisor of the Inheritance Tax Bureau of the State Tax Department; this is not a statutory office, and the statutes of the State of New Jersey do not confer upon him any powers or duties respecting the assessment or collection of transfer inheritance taxes. He is an employee of the State Tax Department and performs such duties therein as may be, from time to time, assigned to him by the State Tax Commissioner.

Defendants, Frank J. Murray and William H. Albright, are not charged with any powers or duties respecting the assessment or collection of transfer inheritance taxes.

Defendant, David T. Wilentz, is the Attorney General of the State of New Jersey; under the statutes of said state relating to transfer inheritance taxes, it is the duty of said defendant, when notified, in writing, by the State Tax Commissioner, of any failure to pay such tax, to prosecute the proceedings before the Ordinary for the collection thereof as prescribed in Section 21 of said Act.

[fol. 782] 3. They admit that the matter in controversy exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum or value of $3,000; they deny that the matter in controversy arises under the Constitution of the United States.

4. Paragraph 4 is admitted.

5. Paragraph 5 is denied; except that defendants admit that decedent was married on August 18, 1906, and that he lived with his wife in Camden, New Jersey, until the latter part of the year 1907; they say that he and his wife then temporarily resided with his brother, George Morris

Dorrance, M. D., in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, during certain parts of the year, and from June 1st to October 1st of each year, from the year 1907 to 1911, inclusive, decedent and his wife lived in the City of Atlantic City, New Jersey, and in 1911 they established their permanent home at Cinnaminson, Burlington County, New Jersey, on property known as "Pomona Farms" owned by and leased from Campbell Soup Company, of which decedent, during most of that time, was president and owner of the entire capital stock; that in the year 1896, decedent became domiciled in the State of New Jersey and continued so domiciled in said state until the time of his death; from 1836 until 1911 his domicile was in the County of Camden, and from 1911 until his death his domicile was in the County of Burlington, in said state.

6. Paragraph 6 is admitted.

7. Paragraph 7 is admitted.

8. They have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 8.

9. Paragraph 9 is denied.

10. They admit that on November 14, 1925, decedent was physically present at Radnor, Pennsylvania; they deny that on that date, or at any time thereafter, decedent was [fol. 783] present at his new dwelling place at Radnor, Pennsylvania, with the intention of making the same his home, and without any present intention of not residing there indefinitely.

11. They deny paragraph 11; except that they admit that the decedent continued to lease from Campbell Soup Company, "Pomona Farms" at Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and that he continued to vote and pay personal property taxes at Cinnaminson, New Jersey; that he retained his membership in the vestry of a church at Riverton, New Jersey; that he made many declarations, including statements in his will, that he was a resident of the State of New Jersey; and that subsequent to decedent's death plaintiffs paid personal property taxes in an amount unknown to defendants, to Delaware County, Pennsylvania, for the years 1925 to 1930, inclusive; said statements in his will are as follows:

"I, John T. Dorrance, of the Township of Cinnaminson, in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, being of sound and disposing mind, memory and understanding, do make and publish this, my last will and testament, hereby revoking any and all will or wills heretofore by me at any time made."

"Seventh: I give and bequeath unto my wife, Ethel M. Dorrance, all my clothing, and all of my furniture and furnishings and household goods and household effect of every kind and description whatsoever, including silverware, china and glassware, rugs and pictures which I shall own at the time of my decease, excepting my grandfather's clock above bequeathed and excepting all tapestries; all of the furnishings and furniture and household goods and household effect of every kind and description, now used by my wife and myself in the house where I now reside in Cinnaminson Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, and elsewhere, excepting my grandfather's clock above be- [fol. 784] queathed and excepting all tapestries, being the property of my said wife, Ethel M. Dorrance."

"Thirty-Third: I hereby order and direct that if my said wife, Ethel M. Dorrance, or my said brother, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., or my said brother, Arthur C. Dorrance, or said Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of this, my last will and testament, or any of them shall fail or refuse to make application to the Surrogate of the County of Burlington, or to the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey, for the probate of my last will and testament within thirty days after the date of my decease, then such one or more of my said Executors so failing or refusing to make application to the said Surrogate or to the said Ordinary for the probate of my said last will and testament within thirty days after the date of my decease, shall cease to be such Executor or Executors and Trustee or Trustees, and the appointment in my said last will and testament of such one or more of my said Executors primarily nominated and appointed in and by this, my last will and testament, who shall fail or refuse to make application to the said Surrogate or to the said Ordinary for the probate of my said last will and testament within thirty days after the date of my decease, shall cease and determine and be void and of no effect and as to such of my Executors primarily named in this, my last will and testament, as such Executors, as shall so fail or refuse to make application for the probate of this, my last will and testament, to the said Surrogate or to the said Ordinary within thirty days after my death, I revoke the appointment herein made as Executor or Executors and also as Trustee or Trustees."

12. Paragraph 12 is denied.

13. They have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 13; except that they deny that continuously from November 14, 1925, to the date of his fatal illness, decedent lived with his family at Woodcrest.

[fol. 785] 14. Paragraph 14 is denied.

15. They have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 15.

16. Paragraph 16 is denied.

17. Paragraph 17 is admitted.

18. Paragraph 18 is denied; except that defendants admit that in or about August, 1926, decedent's mother and sister came to live with decedent at his home in "Pomona Farms," Cinnaminson, New Jersey, and lived there until they died—decedent's sister, in the summer of 1928, and his mother, early in 1929.

19. They have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 19.

20. They have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 20.

21. Paragraph 21 is denied; except that defendants admit that in 1930 decedent and his family spent their summer vacation at Bar Harbor, Maine; and that decedent left Bar Harbor on September 15, 1930, and went to Cinnaminson, where he suffered a stroke a few days after arrival and died there five days later.

22. They admit that at the time of his death the decedent owned intangible personal property of the value of more than $100,000,000.00; they have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to whether he owned intangible personal property of said value for some years prior to the date of his death.

23. They admit that by his will, decedent required his executors to probate his will in New Jersey or forfeit their rights to serve as executors; and they say that the said [fol. 786] provision of said will is Section Thirty-Third, quoted in full in paragraph 11 of this answer.

They admit that on October 2, 1930, said will was probated in the office of the Surrogate of Burlington County and that letters testamentary thereon were issued to plaintiffs; and they say that there is annexed hereto and made part hereof a copy of the proceedings before said Surrogate on the probate of said will, including the petition for probate and the affidavit of the executors thereto annexed; the qualifications of the executors, the order for probate and the letters testamentary.

24. Paragraph 24 is denied.

25. Paragraph 25 is admitted; except that they say that the appeal mentioned therein was not from any assessment against the estate of decedent but from an alleged appraisement thereof.

26. Paragraph 26 is admitted; except that they say that the appeal mentioned therein was not from any assessment against the estate of decedent but from an alleged appraisement thereof; and except that they say that the defendant, William D. Kelly, at the request of the attorneys for the plaintiffs, attended as a witness at the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, and identified an exemplified copy of the bill for the assessment of the New Jersey inheritance taxes upon the estate of the decedent, which was presented to said defendant by said attorneys for the purpose of identification by him and was offered by said attorneys as Exhibit "C."

27. Paragraph 27 is admitted; except the defendants say that the judgment of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court was as follows:

"The decree of the court below is reversed and the appraisement, subject to modifications indicated by the Com- [fol. 787] monwealth stipulation as to the value of the estate, is reinstated; the cost to be paid by appellees."

28. Paragraph 28 is admitted; except that defendants, further answering said paragraph, say that the reasons for the refusal of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania for a reargument are set forth in the opinion of that court as follows:

"A general reargument of this case was not granted. Reargument was allowed under Rule 84, solely to permit the appellee-executors formally to bring to the attention of this Court the fact that they had filed an amended petition in the court of first instance suggesting a question or questions under the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. On the appeal to this Court, no reference to the matter was made in the arguments though provision therefor is expressly made in Rule 47. The executors now urge that we pass on those questions, suggested in the court of first instance, and reconsider the appeal on a theory not presented when the case was argued here. The Commonwealth objects to such reconsideration, contending that 'They (the executors) deliberately elected to argue the case as one arising under the law of Pennsylvania.'

At the time that this Court decided the question of fact,—in its judgment, a matter for decision according to the law of Pennsylvania,—it was held, for the reasons stated in the opinion filed, that John T. Dorrance was domiciled in Pennsylvania. As no federal question was involved, or presented by the records or briefs or in the oral argument for consideration in the decision of the basic matter of fact, none was considered or decided and none remains for decision.

No reason appears for modifying the decision originally made.

Justices Schaffer and Drew dissent from this order."

[fol. 788] 29. Paragraph 29 is admitted; except that the defendants, further answering said paragraph, say that said petition and brief were filed at the request, and with the knowledge, consent and approval of the plaintiffs.

30. Paragraph 30 is admitted; except that the defendants, further answering said paragraph, say that none of the defendants, nor the State of New Jersey, nor any officer of said state, was a party to the suit in which said judgments were entered and neither of said judgments was ever sued upon or established in any court of New Jersey or of the United States; and neither of said judgments is binding upon these defendants or upon the State of New Jersey.

31. They admit that plaintiffs paid to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania transfer inheritance tax in the amount of $14,394,698.88, with interest, and that said payment was made on March 31, 1933; they deny that the plaintiffs were compelled to pay the same, because of said judgment or otherwise; they have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to whether on March 31, 1933, plaintiffs gave bond to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the amount of $4,000,000, conditioned upon the payment of any additional tax which might become due under said judgment; they say if any such bond was given, it was given voluntarily by the plaintiffs and not by the compulsion of said judgment.

32. Paragraph 32 is admitted; except that defendants, further answering said paragraph, say that the said assessments were made by the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, as State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, upon proofs and documents submitted on behalf of plaintiffs, including an inheritance tax return and an amended inheritance tax return signed and sworn to by one of the plaintiffs, namely Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, on behalf of [fol. 789] all of the plaintiffs wherein and whereby the plaintiffs alleged and swore that the said decedent was "late of Burlington County"—referring to Burlington County, New Jersey.

33. Paragraph 33 is admitted; except that defendants, further answering said paragraph, say that the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, as State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, opened the said assessments on the petition of the plaintiffs, requesting him so to do.

34. Paragraph 34 is admitted; except that they deny that the Pennsylvania judgment therein mentioned established as against the defendants or against the State of New Jersey that the decedent was domiciled in Pennsylvania at the time of his death.

35. They admit that on December 9, 1932, plaintiffs appealed from the New Jersey assessment of transfer inheritance tax to the Ordinary of the State of New Jersey; and that after hearing the appeal the Ordinary entered a decree in the New Jersey Prerogative Court on May 11, 1934, sustaining the Tax Commissioner's assessment of October 10, 1932, except in certain respects immaterial to the present issues; and therein and thereby said court ordered, adjudged and decreed that the assessment of transfer inheritance taxes, as made by the said Tax Commissioner on October 10, 1932, amounting to $12,247,333.52 upon the transfer of the property of the decedent, as that of a resident decedent, be affirmed; said decree was based upon conclusions and supplemental conclusions of the said Ordinary; copies of said decree, conclusions and supplemental conclusions are annexed hereto and made part hereof.

They deny that in said decree said court refused to give full faith and credit to the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; and they deny that said court upon the [fol. 790] same evidence stated conclusions at variance with those of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

36. Paragraph 36 is admitted; further answering said paragraph they say that copies of the decision of the Supreme Court and of the judgment of said court, are hereto annexed and made part hereof.

37. Paragraph 37 is denied; further answering said paragraph the defendants say that the administrative procedure provided by the New Jersey statutes therein mentioned was at an end at the time the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey completed his assessment of the transfer inheritance tax against the estate of the decedent on October 10, 1932.

38. Paragraph 38 is denied; except that they admit that said assessment includes a tax on the intangible personal property of decedent's estate.

39. Paragraph 39 is admitted.

40. Paragraph 40 is denied.

Paragraph 41 is admitted.

42. Paragraph 42 is admitted.

43. They deny that because of the threat of the defendants to collect from the estate of decedent a transfer inheritance tax, the plaintiffs are compelled to maintain a large cash reserve at a low rate of interest; they deny that by reason thereof the plaintiffs have been and are being prevented from selling, pledging, transferring, or otherwise utilizing personal property of decedent's estate of the appraised value of more than $81,000,000.

They admit the allegations of said paragraph relating to the maturity of New Jersey State Road Bonds and the substitution therefor of other New Jersey bonds. Said [fol. 791] substitution of bonds was made pursuant to an agreement dated November 10, 1933, between the plaintiffs and the defendants' State Tax Commissioner, a copy of which is annexed hereto and made part hereof.

They admit that on June 26, 1934, the plaintiffs placed in escrow all the preferred stock of Campbell Soup Company of the appraised value of $12,360,000, conditioned upon the payment of inheritance tax by the plaintiffs, if such tax be found due and owing; and further answering said allegations they say that said stock was placed in escrow in accordance with and pursuant to an agreement, of which copy is annexed and made part hereof; which said deposit of stock was made (in lieu of giving bond) pursuant to the direction of the New Jersey Supreme Court as a condition precedent to the issuance of a writ of certiorari.

They admit that the plaintiffs held, in addition, personal property belonging to the estate of decedent of the appraised value of more than $67,000,000; they admit that the same cannot be sold, pledged, transferred, or otherwise utilized, unless and until waivers have been issued by the State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey; further answering said allegations they say that if and when the plaintiffs desire to sell, pledge, transfer, or otherwise utilize said personal property they may do so by giving bonds or other security for the payment of the judgment for taxes or by substituting other satisfactory securities; and the only securities which the plaintiffs have given for these taxes or that has been required, pending the litigation, is the deposit of said bonds and stock in escrow under the terms of said agreements; and further answering said allegations they say that the plaintiffs have not requested the State Tax Commissioner to issue waivers on said personal property or any part thereof.

[fol. 792] Further answering said paragraph defendants say that said personal property belongs to a trust fund set up by the decedent's will which trust is now being administered by the plaintiffs as trustees, and is to continue for a period of not exceeding 16 years; that said plaintiffs have no power or authority to sell, pledge, transfer or otherwise utilize said personal property, except at the terms and in the manner prescribed in said will.

44. Paragraph 44 is denied.

45. Paragraph 45 is denied.

46. They have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of paragraph 46; and further answering said paragraph they say that provision is made by the statutes of New Jersey for the deduction of expenses of administration, including attorney's fees.

47. Paragraph 47 is denied.

48. Paragraph 48 is denied; except that they say that said Chapter 255, New Jersey Laws of 1934, insofar as relates to the redemption of the bonds issued under its authority, provides as follows:

"14. To provide funds to meet the interest and principal payment requirements for any bonds issued under this act and so long as any bonds issued hereunder shall be outstanding and unpaid there is hereby appropriated and the Treasurer shall in each year set aside for such purpose, sufficient sums to meet the principal and interest requirements for the next ensuing calendar year from the tax collected under and by virtue of the provisions of an act entitled 'An act imposing taxes upon the sale or delivery of alcoholic beverages and providing for the collection thereof,' approved December fourth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, constituting chapter four hundred thirty-four of the laws of one thousand nine hundred [fol. 793] and thirty-three and the several acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto, and under and by virtue of any revision thereof or act substitutionary thereof after deducting only the expenses of administering said act or acts.

15. In the event of the receipt by the State of moneys from one of the following sources: (1) the moneys received by the State under the final judgment or decree, whether in the original cause or appeal, of any court of competent jurisdiction in any cause now pending for the collection of transfer inheritance taxes due the State from the estate of a decedent adjudged in said cause to have been a resident of this State, which decedent has already been adjudged by the courts of another State to have been a resident of such other State (2) the moneys received in any such cause in the event of the settlement of such litigation by the State Tax Commissioner by the acceptance of the principal sum due and the remission of all interest due on all such principal sum in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled 'An act authorizing the State Tax Commissioner to adjust and settle transfer inheritance taxes due the State, where the matter is now in litigation and the question of the domicile of decedent is at issue,' approved July eleventh, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four, constituting chapter two hundred and forty-nine of the laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four, (3) or an agreed amount to be determined by the Legislature, the Treasurer may apply all or any part of such moneys to the redemption and payment of any bonds (together with interest thereon to date of redemption) theretofore issued and then outstanding under this act.

16. (a) If in any year or at any time funds as hereinabove appropriated necessary to meet interest and principal payments upon outstanding bonds issued under this act be insufficient or are not available, then and in that case there shall be assessed, levied and collected annually in each of the municipalities of the counties of this State a tax on [fol. 794] real and personal property upon which municipal taxes are or shall be assessed, levied and collected, sufficient to meet the interest on all outstanding bonds issued hereunder and on such bonds as it is proposed to issue under this act in the calendar year in which such tax is to be raised and for the payment of bonds falling due in the year following the year for which the tax is levied.

(b) The tax thus imposed shall be assessed levied and collected in the same manner and at the same time as other taxes upon real and personal property are assessed, levied and collected. The governing body of each municipality shall cause to be paid to the county treasurer of the county in which such municipality is located on or before the fifteenth day of December in each year the amount of tax herein directed to be assessed and levied, and the county treasurer shall pay the amount of said tax to the State Treasurer on or before the twentieth day of December in each year."

49. Paragraph 49 is admitted; except that they say that the State of New Jersey, by its statutes and other laws, has provided full, complete and adequate remedy to the plaintiffs for the recovery of inheritance tax erroneously paid by plaintiffs, or illegally collected by defendants. The pertinent parts of said statutes, are as follows:

(Transfer Inheritance Tax Act)

"15. When any amount of said tax shall have been paid erroneously to the State Tax Commissioner, it shall be lawful for the Comptroller of the Treasury on satisfactory proof rendered to State Tax Commissioner of such erroneous payments, and duly certified by him to the Comptroller, to draw his warrant on the State Treasurer, in favor of the executor, administrator, person or persons who have paid any such tax in error, or who may be lawfully entitled to receive the same, for the amount of such tax so paid in error; provided, that all such applications [fol. 795] for the repayment of such tax shall be made within two years from the date of such payment."

(Ch. 303, N. J. P. L. 1931, pp. 749, 762.)

"24. * * * All amounts becoming due under the provisions of this act shall be paid from the same fund provided in the annual appropriation bill for the payment of refunds to estates pursuant to section fifteen, chapter two hundred and twenty-eight, laws of one thousand nine hundred and nine, as amended, and refunds to counties pursuant to chapter two hundred and thirty-eight, laws of one thousand nine hundred and nine. * * *."

(Ch. 140, N. J. P. L., 1932, p. 252-3.)

(Appropriation Act)

"D 17. State Tax Department

* * * * * * *

Inheritance Tax Division

* * * * * * *

'Upon approval of the State Tax Commissioner, the Comptroller of the Treasury is hereby authorized and it shall be his duty to withdraw from the State fund such amounts as shall be required to carry out the provisions of chapter 238, Laws of 1909, and to refund and pay such claims as may be necessary and the State Treasurer shall pay same upon the warrants of said Comptroller, and there is hereby appropriated the amount necessary therefor.' " (Ch. 232, N. J. P. L. 1934, pp. 535, 578, 580.)

The Annual Appropriation Laws of the State of New Jersey, for many years past, have contained the same provision as last above quoted from the Appropriation Act of 1934, and it has been the established practice of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey to include the same provision in each Annual Appropriation Act. All refunds for erroneous or illegal payments of transfer inheritance [fol. 796] taxes are paid out of moneys so appropriated; it has been the established practice of the State Tax Commissioner, and his predecessor in office, in the administration of the Transfer Inheritance Tax Laws of New Jersey, to cause to be made refunds, in accordance with the provisions of the statutes, of the amount of any tax found to have been illegally or erroneously paid; it is the established law of the state that the courts of New Jersey will, in circumstances like the present case, compel a refund of taxes erroneously or illegally paid.

50. Paragraph 50 is denied; further answering said paragraph defendants say that the State of New Jersey has provided full, complete and adequate remedy to the plaintiffs for the recovery of inheritance tax erroneously paid by plaintiffs, or illegally collected by defendants, as set forth in paragraph 49; that said suit is not brought against the defendants individually, but in their representative capacities as officers of the State of New Jersey; the financial resources of said state are ample to pay any refunds of taxes erroneously or illegally paid by the plaintiffs; for the year 1934, the total ratables of real and personal property in said state (exclusive of property taxed by license, gross receipts, or excise taxes in lieu of all other taxes), was in excess of five billion nine hundred million dollars.

51. Paragraph 51 is denied; further answering said paragraph defendants say that the State of New Jersey has provided full, complete and adequate remedy to the plaintiffs for the recovery of inheritance tax erroneously paid by plaintiffs, or illegally collected by defendants, as set forth in paragraphs 49 and 50.

52. Paragraph 52 is admitted.

53. Paragraph 53 is denied.

54. Paragraph 54 is denied.

[fol. 797] 55. Paragraph 55 is denied.

56. Paragraph 56 is denied.

57. Paragraph 57 is denied.

58. Paragraph 58 is denied; further answering said paragraph the defendants say that none of the defendants nor the State of New Jersey, nor any officer of said state, was a party to the suit in which said judgments were entered, and neither of said judgments was ever sued upon or established in any court of New Jersey or of the United States; and neither of said judgments is binding upon these defendants or upon the State of New Jersey.

59. Paragraph 59 is denied; further answering said paragraph the defendants say that plaintiffs are not threatened with irreparable injury, because the plaintiffs may pay the tax, and recover back any amount that may be found to have been illegally or erroneously paid, as set forth in paragraphs 49 and 50; and because the plaintiffs may, at any time within one year from the entry of the judgment in the New Jersey Supreme Court, review the same as a matter of right under the laws and practice of the State of New Jersey, and a stay may be obtained under conditions approved by the court; and from any judgment of the Court of Errors and Appeals, if the same may be adverse to the plaintiffs, they may apply for a review thereof by the Supreme Court of the United States, in accordance with the statutes and practice of that court.

60. Paragraph 60 is denied; further answering said paragraph defendants say that for the reasons stated in paragraph 59 of this answer, plaintiffs are not without adequate remedy at law.

[fol. 798] Further Answering, in lieu of pleas in bar, they say:

First Plea

61. On October 1, 1930, the plaintiffs, as executors under the will of John T. Dorrance, presented their duly verified petition to the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, praying for the probate of said will and setting forth therein, under oath, that said John T. Dorrance departed this life at his residence in Cinnaminson Township, in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, leaving him surviving as his heirs at law and next of kin, certain persons, including his widow and four children, whose post office addresses were Riverton, New Jersey; pursuant to said petition, said will was admitted to probate, and letters testamentary thereon were issued to the plaintiffs, by the order of said surrogate, dated October 2, 1930, which order is still in full force and effect.

Said order admitting said will to probate and granting letters testamentary thereon to the plaintiffs, was an order of a court of competent jurisdiction under the laws of this State, having jurisdiction over the property of said estate and of the plaintiffs and other parties interested therein; said court judicially determined that said decedent, at the time of his death, was domiciled in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey; said order has not been appealed and is conclusive and final as between the parties to this suit, and cannot be collaterally attacked.

Wherefore, by reason of the premises, the issue of law and of fact as to the domicile of said decedent was adjudged and decreed against the plaintiffs.

Second Plea

62. In certain proceedings before the New Jersey Prerogative Court, to-wit, an appeal by the plaintiffs to said court from the assessment of transfer inheritance tax made [fol. 799] by the defendant Martin, as Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, upon the estate of John T. Dorrance entitled "In the Matter of the Appeal of Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the Last Will and Testament of John T. Dorrance, deceased from the Assessment of the Transfer Inheritance Taxes against the Estate of the said John T. Dorrance, deceased," in which appeal the plaintiffs were the appellants and the said defendant Martin, in his official capacity as State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, was respondent (the real party in interest being said State of New Jersey) the same cause of action was alleged by the plaintiffs on said appeal and the same grounds for reversal of said assessment was there urged by the plaintiffs as they now allege in this suit.

Annexed hereto and made part hereof are copies of said petition of appeal and of the answer of said defendant thereto.

The same rights, facts and matters were put in issue by said petition and answer and were adjudicated upon said appeal, or were necessarily involved therein, as are now claimed and alleged by the plaintiffs in this suit.

The said cause of action was between the same parties in interest or those in privity with them as are the parties in interest or those in privity with them in this suit.

Said New Jersey Prerogative Court was a court of competent jurisdiction to hear and determine the alleged cause of action set forth in said appeal, and to hear and determine the rights, facts and matters that were in issue, or necessarily involved, in said appeal.

The conclusions of said court on the merits were filed on February 7, 1934; supplemental conclusions were filed on May 10, 1934; annexed hereto and made part hereof are copies of said conclusions and said supplemental conclu-
[fol. 800] sions; the final decree of said court was entered on May 11, 1934, wherein and whereby it was ordered, adjudged and decreed as follows:

"It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed that respondent in determining the clear market value of the property of the estate of John T. Dorrance, deceased, allow further deductions (including additional counsel fees and executors' commissions), in the amount of $533,784.81, as allowed by the Orphans Court of Burlington County, New Jersey, and

"It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed that the assessment of transfer inheritance taxes as made by respondent on October 10, 1932, amounting to $12,247,333.52 upon the transfer of the property of said John T. Dorrance, deceased, as that of a resident decedent, subject to the above modifications, be and the same in all other respects is hereby affirmed."

Copy of said decree is annexed hereto and made part hereof.

In and by said final decree of said New Jersey Prerogative Court the issues of law and of fact raised by said appeal and now sought to be raised by the plaintiffs in this suit, were adjudged and decreed against the plaintiffs and in favor of the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, and in favor of the State of New Jersey, the real part in interest therein, and the real party in interest in this suit.

Third Plea

63. In certain proceedings before the New Jersey Supreme Court, to-wit, a writ of certiorari allowed by said court, on application of the plaintiffs to review the decree of the New Jersey Prerogative Court affirming (with modifications) the assessment of transfer inheritance tax, made by the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, as State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey upon the es-[fol. 801] tate of John T. Dorrance (the said proceedings being entitled, "Ethel M. Dorrance, George Morris Dorrance, M. D., Arthur C. Dorrance and Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Executors of the Last Will and Testament of John T. Dorrance, Deceased, Prosecutors v. J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commsisioner of the State of New Jersey, Respondent"), in which writ the plaintiffs were the prosecutors and the said defendant Martin, in his official capacity as State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, was respondent (the real party in interest being said State of New Jersey) the same cause of action was alleged by the plaintiffs on said writ and the same grounds for reversal of said assessment and decree were urged there by the plaintiffs as they now allege in this suit; annexed hereto and made part hereof is a copy of the Reasons filed by the plaintiffs as prosecutors of said writ of certiorari.

The same rights, facts and matters were put in issue by the Reasons and other proceedings on said writ of certiorari, and were adjudicated upon said writ, or were necessarily involved therein, as are now claimed and alleged by the plaintiffs in this suit.

The said cause of action was between the same parties in interest, or those in privity with them, as are the parties in interest, or those in privity with them, in this suit.

Said New Jersey Supreme Court was a court of competent jurisdiction, to hear and determine the alleged cause of action, as set forth in said writ, and to hear and determine the rights, facts and matters that were in issue, or necessarily involved, in said writ; the decision of said court was filed on the merits of said alleged cause of action on February 8, 1935; annexed hereto and made part hereof is a copy of said decision; the final judgment of said court [fol. 802] was entered February 11, 1935, affirming the said decree of the Prerogative Court sustaining said assesment (as modified) and dismissing said writ; annexed hereto and made part hereof is a copy of said final judgment.

In and by said final judgment of said New Jersey Supreme Court, the issues of law and of fact raised by said writ, and now sought to be raised by the plaintiffs in this suit, were adjudged against the plaintiffs and in favor of the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, and in favor of the State of New Jersey, the real party in interest therein, and the real party defendant in this suit.

Fourth Plea

64. On October 1, 1930, the plaintiffs, as executors under the will of John T. Dorrance, presented their duly verified petition to the Surrogate of Burlington County, New Jersey, praying for the probate of said will and setting forth therein, under oath, that said John T. Dorrance departed this life at his residence in Cinnaminson Township, in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, leaving him surviving as his heirs at law and next of kin, certain persons, including his widow and four children, whose post office addresses were Riverton, New Jersey; pursuant to said petition, said will was admitted to probate, and letters testamentary thereon were issued to the plaintiffs, by the order of said surrogate, dated October 2, 1930, which order is still in full force and effect.

Upon the issuance of said letters testamentary plaintiffs filed with the said Surrogate of Burlington County a sworn statement and deposition that they would exhibit into the Surrogate's Office of the County of Burlington, at or before the expiration of three calendar months, a true and perfect inventory of all and singular the goods and chattels, rights and credits of said deceased, that have or shall come to their knowledge or possession, or to the possession of any other [fol. 803] person for their use; that they shall comply with the provisions of all federal and state laws concerning inheritance taxes; that they shall well and truly perform their duties as such executors by first paying the debts of the deceased and then the legacies therein specified, so far as the assets of the estate could thereunto extend and render a true and just account, within twelve calendar months or when thereunto lawfully required.

Thereafter, plaintiffs filed with the Surrogate of Burlington County an inventory and appraisal of said estate on or about April 17, 1931; on or about October 15, 1931, plaintiffs filed their petition for first accounting of said estate in the Burlington County Orphans' Court, a court of competent jurisdiction under the laws of the State of New Jersey, and said accounting was allowed by order of said court on November 5, 1931; on or about November 5, 1932, plaintiffs filed their second intermediate accounting of said estate in said Burlington County Orphans' Court, which was allowed by order thereof entered November 25, 1932.

All proceedings for the administration of the estate up to the present time have been had by the plaintiffs before said court of Burlington County and the plaintiffs, under the orders of said court, have partially administered and distributed the said estate and have paid certain legacies given by the will, and have obtained and filed in said court, refunding bonds and releases for such payments, and have made certain payments on account of the trusts set up by said will, and have received large sums of money as allowances for executors commissions and counsel fees..

The estate of said decedent is still in the course of administration by said Orphans' Court of Burlington County; said will has never been offered for probate, and no letters [fol. 804] of administration or testamentary have ever been granted in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or in any other jurisdiction, except said County of Burlington.

On April 6, 1931, a return and on August 17, 1931, an amended and corrected return, were filed by and in behalf of the plaintiffs as required by the statutes of the State of New Jersey and the Regulations of the Tax Department of said state, stating under oath that said John T. Dorrance was late of Burlington County, State of New Jersey; said estate, as shown in said amended and corrected return, consisted entirely of personal property, made up of bank deposits, bonds, stocks, accounts and notes receivable and miscellaneous items amounting to the total sum of One hundred fifteen million, one hundred twenty-one thousand, five hundred eighteen dollars and ninety-two cents; from which deductions were claimed, amounting to Three million, two hundred seventy-nine thousand, four hundred sixty-four dollars and thirty-four cents; the bonds, certificates of stock and other evidence of title to said personal property were then, and still are, located in the State of New Jersey.

Said estate was duly appraised on October 16, 1931, in the net sum of One hundred twelve million, fifty-five thousand, four hundred dollars and eighty-six cents.

Prior to the making of any assessment of taxes, the plaintiffs appeared before the Comptroller of the State of New Jersey and the State Tax Commissioner, respectively, and claimed that the said John T. Dorrance, at the time of his death, was domiciled in the Township of Cinnaminson, County of Burlington and State of New Jersey; and in support of such claim submitted certified copies of the will and the proceedings for probate, and numerous statements, letters and other documents and records; after consideration of such proofs and documents, the comptroller, on May 13, [fol. 805] 1931 found as follows:

"After a careful consideration of all available data, including oral statements submitted by you (referring to the proctor for the plaintiffs) during your recent appearance, the Department has concluded that the legal domicile of the decedent at the date of his death and for many years prior thereto was Cinnaminson, Burlington County, New Jersey"; and thereafter, on October 17, 1931, the State Tax Commissioner served upon the plaintiffs the assessment for inheritance taxes.

On or about December 12, 1931, plaintiffs filed with defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, as State Tax Commissioner, their petition reciting the proceedings in Pennsylvania for the assessment and collection under the laws of that state, of transfer inheritance taxes upon the estate of said John T. Dorrance, then being administered by plaintiffs under the jurisdiction of the Orphans' Court of Burlington County, New Jersey; that plaintiffs had submitted to said defendant and his predecessor certain evidence as to the domicile of said John T. Dorrance at the time of his decease; and that plaintiffs had, since the filing of said assessments, obtained a large amount of information, facts and evidence relating to and bearing upon the domicile of said John T. Dorrance at the time of his decease, which was not in their possession at the time of the filing of said assessments, which they desired to submit and present before the final determination of said assessments, and praying that said assessments of October 17, 1931, be opened and set aside and cancelled and for nothing holden and that the proceedings thereon be opened and permission granted to plaintiffs to submit and present to said defendant further and additional information, facts and evidence relating to and bearing upon the [fol. 806] domicile of said John T. Dorrance at the time of his decease, and other information, facts and testimony relating to and bearing upon the estate of said John T. Dorrance, deceased.

Pursuant to said petition said defendant, on December 12, 1931, ordered that said assessment of October 17, 1931, be opened for the purposes set forth in said petition and in accordance with the prayer thereof.

In making said order said defendant relied upon the representations and good faith of plaintiffs and upon the truth and sincerity of the purposes stated in their petition for such opening and cancelling of said assessments and believed that he could safely grant said petition without injury or prejudice to himself or the State of New Jersey. It was not until plaintiffs, shortly after the date thereof, submitted to said defendant, as proof of their claim of decedent's domicile in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, then for the first time made by them, a copy of the decision and decree of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania made September 26, 1932, that said defendant discovered that the real intent and purpose of the plaintiffs, in petitioning for the opening and cancellation of said assessments, was to postpone the effective date of the levy of taxes thereunder and the collection of said taxes thereunder until after the decision and decree of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania to enable plaintiffs to plead said decree as a bar under the Constitution of the United States to any assessments made by the State of New Jersey under its inheritance tax laws.

Thereupon, on October 10, 1932, said defendant reinstated said assessment and served same upon the plaintiffs.

By withholding and concealing, or remaining silent upon said true intent and purpose of said petition to open and cancel said assessments, plaintiffs fraudulently and de- [fol. 807] signedly misled and deceived said defendant into making said order of December 12, 1931, and fraudulently and designedly induced him to change his position and open and cancel said assessments to the prejudice of the State of New Jersey, and to the profit and advantage of plaintiffs.

Wherefore, by reason of the premises, plaintiffs are estopped from asserting or maintaining that said John T. Dorrance, at the time of his death, was domiciled in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and they are estopped for asserting or maintaining that by reason of the said decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania said John T. Dorrance was, at the time of his death, domiciled in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and they are estopped from asserting or maintaining that the said assessments are erroneous, illegal and void for the reasons alleged in the bill of complaint.

Fifth Plea

65. The Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, was without jurisdiction to make an appraisement as alleged in the bill of complaint, under the laws of Pennsylvania, for transfer inheritance taxes on the estate of said John T. Dorrance, and the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania and the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, were without jurisdiction to hear or determine any proceedings relating there to under the laws of Pennsylvania.

In the contest of said appraisement and in the conduct of the appeal therefrom and from the decree of the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, it was the duty of the plaintiffs, and necessary to the adequate protection of the rights of the plaintiffs and of the other parties interested in said estate for the purpose of obtaining, if necessary, the review of the decree of the Su- [fol. 808] preme Court of Pennsylvania by the Supreme Court of the United States, that the plaintiffs should properly present to said courts of the State of Pennsylvania the claim that the assessment of the transfer inheritance taxes upon said estate violated the rights of the plaintiffs under the Constitution of the United States; the plaintiffs failed and neglected to properly present to said courts of the State of Pennsylvania the said claim, and solely by reason of said failure and neglect, plaintiffs were denied a review of the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in and by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Wherefore, by reason of the premises, the plaintiffs are in laches and are barred and estopped from alleging or maintaining in this suit that the domicile of the said decedent, at the time of his death, was in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and from alleging or maintaining in this suit that the said decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania is binding upon the plaintiffs or upon the defendants or upon this court.

Sixth Plea

66. The conclusions of the New Jersey Prerogative Court adjudging that John T. Dorrance at the time of his death was domiciled in the State of New Jersey, were filed on February 7, 1934; and his supplemental conclusions relating solely to certain claimed deductions, were filed on May 10, 1934, and the decree of said court on said conclusions and supplemental conclusions was filed on May 11, 1934.

Plaintiffs did not, on the filing of said conclusions, nor on the entry of said final decree, or promptly thereafter, apply for injunction to this court; but voluntarily applied to and obtained from the New Jersey Supreme Court a writ of certiorari to review said final decree.

[fol. 809] Wherefore by reason of the premises the plaintiffs are in laches and are now barred from further prosecution of this suit.

Further answering, by way of defense in point of law arising upon the face of the bill of complaint, defendants say:

67. The bill of complaint does not allege a cause of action against the defendants, or against any or either of them.

68. Plaintiffs have an adequate remedy at law under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

69. An injunction, if granted in accordance with the prayer of the bill of complaint, would violate section 265 of the Federal Judicial Code (Sec. 379, Title 28, U. S. Code), in that the same would stay proceedings in the state courts, to-wit, proceedings to collect the taxes due and owing from the plaintiffs to the State of New Jersey; as adjudged and decreed by the final decree of the New Jersey Prerogative Court entered May 11, 1934 in the sum of $12,247,333.52, which said final decree was affirmed by the New Jersey Supreme Court by final judgment entered February 11, 1935.

70. An interlocutory injunction, if granted in accordance with the prayer of the bill of complaint, by this court as constituted by the order of the court entered herein April 2, 1935, is not authorized by Section 266 of the Federal Judicial Code (Section 380, Title 28, U. S. Code) because this suit is not brought to suspend or restrain the enforcement, operation or execution of any statute of the State of New Jersey by restraining the action of any officer of such state in the enforcement or execution of such statute, or in the enforcement or execution of an order made by an administrative board or commission acting under and pursuant to the statutes of said state.

[fol. 810] 71. This court has no jurisdiction of the bill of complaint because:

(a) The suit is brought by citizens of New Jersey as plaintiffs against citizens of New Jersey as defendants;

(b) The suit is in fact a suit against the State of New Jersey.

72. The order of the Surrogate of Burlington County admitting the will of the decedent to probate and granting letters testamentary thereon to the plaintiffs was an order of a court of competent jurisdiction under the laws of this State, having jurisdiction over the property of said estate and of the plaintiffs and other parties interested therein; said court judicially determined that said decedent, at the time of his death, was domiciled in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey; said order has not been appealed and is conclusive and final as between the parties to this suit.

73. In the proceedings before the New Jersey Prerogative Court (mentioned in paragraphs 35, 36 and 37 of the bill of complaint), to wit, an appeal by the plaintiffs to said court from the assessment of transfer inheritance tax made by the defendant, Martin, as Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, upon the estate of John T. Dorrance, in which appeal the plaintiffs were the appellants and the said defendant, Martin, in his official capacity as State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey was respondent (the real party in interest being said State of New Jersey) the same cause of action was alleged by the plaintiffs on said appeal and the same rights, facts and matters were in issue and were adjudicated upon said appeal or were necessarily involved therein as are now claimed and alleged by the plaintiffs in this suit.

The said cause of action was between the same parties in interest, or those in privity with them, as are the parties in interest, or those in privity with them, in this suit.

[fol. 811] Said New Jersey Prerogative Court was a court of competent jurisdiction to hear and determine the alleged cause of action set forth in said appeal, and to hear and determine the rights, facts and matters that were in issue, or necessarily involved, in said appeal.

In and by said final decree of said New Jersey Prerogative Court the issues of law and of fact raised by said appeal and now sought to be raised by the plaintiffs in this suit were adjudged and decreed against the plaintiffs and in favor of the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, and in favor of the State of New Jersey, the real party in interest therein and the real party in interest in this suit.

74. In the proceedings before the Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey (mentioned in paragraph 36 of the bill of complaint) to-wit, a writ of certiorari allowed by said court, on application of the plaintiffs to review the decree of the New Jersey Prerogative Court, affirming (with modification) the assessment of transfer inheritance tax made by the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, as State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, upon the estate of John T. Dorrance, in which writ the plaintiffs were the prosecutors and the said defendant Martin, in his official capacity as State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey, was respondent (the real party in interest being said State of New Jersey) the same cause of action was alleged by the plaintiffs on said writ and the same rights, facts and matters were put in issue and were adjudicated, upon said writ, or were necessarily involved therein, as are now claimed and alleged by the plaintiffs in this suit.

The said cause of action was between the same parties in interest, or those in privity with them, as are the parties in interest, or those in privity with them, in this suit.

[fol. 812] Said New Jersey Supreme Court was a court of competent jurisdiction, to hear and determine the alleged cause of action, as set forth in said writ, and to hear and determine the rights, facts and matters that were in issue or necessarily involved in said writ.

In and by the final judgment of said New Jersey Supreme Court, entered February 11, 1935 (mentioned in paragraph 36 of the bill of complaint) the issues of law and of fact raised by said writ and now sought to be raised by the plaintiffs in this suit, were adjudged against the plaintiffs and in favor of the defendant, J. H. Thayer Martin, and in favor of the State of New Jersey, the real party in interest therein, and the real party defendant in this suit:

75. By virtue of the proceedings for the probate of the will of the decedent and the granting of letters testamentary thereon, and by virtue of the opening of the assessments of transfer inheritance tax on December 12, 1931, at the request of the plaintiffs, as alleged in the bill of complaint, the plaintiffs are estopped from asserting or maintaining that the decedent, at the time of his death, was domiciled in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and from asserting or maintaining that by reason of the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania (as alleged in the bill of complaint) the said decedent at the time of his death was domiciled in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and from asserting or maintaining that the said assessments as made by the defendant Martin, as State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, are erroneous, illegal and void, for the reasons alleged in the bill of complaint.

76. The Register of Wills of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, was without jurisdiction to make an appraisement as alleged in the bill of complaint, under the laws [fol. 813] of Pennsylvania, for transfer inheritance taxes on the estate of the decedent, and the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, New Jersey, and the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, were without jurisdiction to hear and determine any proceedings relating thereto under the laws of Pennsylvania.

In the contest of said appraisement and in the conduct of the appeal therefrom and from the decree of the Orphans' Court of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, as alleged in the bill of complaint, it was the duty of the plaintiffs, and necessary to the adequate protection of the rights of the plaintiffs and of the parties interested in said estate for the purpose of obtaining, if necessary, the review of the decree of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania by the Supreme Court of the United States, that the plaintiffs should properly present to said courts of the State of Pennsylvania the claim that the assessment of the transfer inheritance taxes upon said estate violated the rights of the plaintiffs under the Constitution of the United States; the plaintiffs failed and neglected to properly present to said courts of the State of Pennsylvania the said claim, and solely by reason of said failure and neglect, plaintiffs were denied a review of the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in and by the Supreme Court of the United States.

77. On the filing of the conclusions of the New Jersey Prerogative Court, and on the entry of the final decree therein, as alleged in the bill of complaint, the plaintiffs did not promptly thereafter apply to this court for an injunction, but voluntarily applied to and obtained from the Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey a writ of certiorari to review said final decree.

[fols. 814-887] Wherefore, defendants jointly and severally pray that the complaint be dismissed, with costs.

David T. Wilentz, Attorney General of New Jersey, Solicitor for Defendants. Duane E. Minard, George S. Hobart, Counsel.

AMENDMENT TO ANSWER—Filed April 12, 1935

Defendants amend their joint and several answer as follows:

1. Amend paragraph 36 to read as follows:

36. They admit that from the decree of the Prerogative Court, the plaintiffs obtained a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey, and they admit that on February 11, 1934 said court sustained [fol. 890] said decree of the Prerogative Court; further answering they say that copies of the decision of the Supreme Court and of the judgment of said court sustaining said decree of the Prerogative Court are hereto annexed and made part hereof.

They say that said judgment of the Supreme Court is final, but that the same is subject to judicial review by the Court of Errors and Appeals of the State of New Jersey; further answering they say that under the laws of the State of New Jersey the plaintiffs may have such judicial review by the Court of Errors and Appeals, by an appeal to that court, as a matter of right, within one year after the date of the judgment of said Supreme Court; the plaintiffs have not taken an appeal to said Court of Errors and Appeals.

They admit that said tax cannot be collected until after the institution of an action of debt in the name of the State of New Jersey, or by a statutory proceeding in the Prerogative Court of New Jersey; further answering they say that said statutory proceeding is as follows:

"21. If it shall appear to the State Tax Commissioner that any tax which has accrued under this act has not been paid according to law said Commissioner shall report such fact, in writing, to the register of the Prerogative Court, and said register shall issue a citation citing the persons or corporations interested in the property liable to said tax to appear before the Ordinary on a certain day, not more than three months from the date of such citation, and show cause why such tax should not be paid; the service of such citation and the subsequent proceedings had thereon shall conform to the practice prevailing in the Prerogative Court. Upon the making of any degree the register of the Prerogative Court shall, upon the request of the State Tax Commissioner, furnish one or more copies of said decree, and the same shall be docketed and filed by the clerk of the Supreme Court, or by the county clerk of any county in [fol. 891] this State, upon the request of the State Tax Commissioner, and the same shall have the same effect as a lien by judgment and execution shall issue thereon according to the rules and practice appertaining to other judgments docketed and filed with said respective clerks.

"22. Whenever the State Tax Commissioner shall have reason to believe that any tax is due and unpaid under this act, after the neglect and refusal of the persons or corporations interested in the property and liable to said tax to pay the same, he shall notify the Attorney-General of this State, in writing, of such failure to pay such tax, and the said Attorney-General, when so notified, if he have probable cause to believe that a tax is due and unpaid, shall prosecute the proceeding before the Ordinary of this State, as provided for in section twenty-one of this act, and the State Treasurer shall, on the warrant of the Comptroller, and the certification of the State Tax Commissioner, pay all the expenses of said proceeding."

2. Amend paragraph 37 to read as follows:

37. They deny that when defendant Martin, State Tax Commissioner, made his said assessment, and when the said assessment had been sustained by the said Prerogative Court, the administrative procedure provided by said inheritance tax act was at an end; and they say that the administrative procedure provided by the said inheritance tax act was at an end at the time the State Tax Commissioner of New Jersey had completed his assessment of the tax against the estate of the decedent on October 10, 1932.

They admit that under the Constitution and Laws of New Jersey, the Supreme Court of New Jersey, on certiorari, is authorized to review the facts as well as the law and to take additional testimony.

They admit that on certiorari, said court is authorized to affirm, reverse or modify the assessment made by the State Tax Commissioner; and they say that on the review of the decree of the Prerogative Court sustaining said assessment, [fol. 892] (with modifications), said Supreme Court sustained said decree and said assessment (as modified by said decree), and entered its judgment dismissing the writ of certiorari brought by the plaintiffs to review said decree; further answering they say that said authority of said Supreme Court is one of the judicial powers of said court inherent therein, under the Constitution and Laws of the State of New Jersey, as one of the prerogatives of said court, to supervise the proceedings and to correct the errors of all statutory tribunals.

They deny that the action of said court in entering its said judgment, affirming as aforesaid the decree of said Prerogative Court, was administrative and not judicial; further answering they say that said judgment of said Supreme Court was by a court of competent jurisdiction in a proceeding between the same parties in interest, or their privies, as are the parties in interest, or their privies, in the present case, and that said judgment of said court is res judicata as between the plaintiffs and the defendants in this suit.

3. Amend paragraph 40 to read as follows:

40. They deny paragraph 40; except that they admit that on February 13, 1935, plaintiffs, by their counsel, notified defendant Martin, through his counsel, that plaintiffs intended to take an appeal to the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals from the judgment of the Supreme Court of New Jersey; they further admit that under the statutes of New Jersey, plaintiffs may take their appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals at any time prior to February 11, 1936; they have no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to plaintiffs' allegation that they will take such appeal prior to that date, unless in the meantime this action renders such appeal unnecessary; further answering said paragraph they say that no appeal has been taken by plaintiffs to the Court of Errors and Appeals; that because of the advice of plaintiffs' counsel to defendant Martin, through his counsel, that plaintiffs intended to take an [fols. 893 & 894] appeal to the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals, no action has been taken by these defendants, or otherwise, on behalf of the State of New Jersey, to collect said tax, or to enforce the judgment of the Prerogative Court or of the New Jersey Supreme Court.

STATEMENT OF THE POINTS TO BE RELIED ON AND DESIGNATION OF THE PARTS OF THE RECORD TO BE PRINTED—Filed July 8, 1935

Comes now the appellant in the above-entitled case and states that the points upon which she intends to rely in this Court in this case are as follows:

I. That the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey erred in denying the interlocutory injunction prayed for by the plaintiff:

[fol. 896] II. That the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey erred in holding that it was without jurisdiction to grant the prayer of the Bill of Complaint for interlocutory injunction.

III. That the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey erred in entering the following decree:

"And now, to wit, June 4, 1935, this cause came on to be heard at this term, and was argued by counsel, and upon consideration thereof, it is ordered, adjudged and decreed as follows:

"I. The prayer of the Bill of Complaint for interlocutory injunction be, and is hereby denied for want of jurisdiction to grant such interlocutory injunction."
